INTRODUCTION

Recorded history reveals that every century has produced men and women who are called great because of contributions made during their lifetime which affect society to this very day.

Richard Allen can be called great. Born a slave in 1760, he later bought his freedom, was converted to Christianity, and eventually established the African Methodist Episcopal Church.

He purchased a lot in 1787 on Sixth Street below Pine Street in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, from a Mr. Mark Wilcox. This lot is the oldest parcel of real estate continuously owned by Negroes in the United States. Four church buildings have been erected on this plot of ground.

Widely accepted as the first man of color to foster self-help among his people, Richard Allen was the founder of the Free African Society (1787), and later (1816) of the first Negro church to expand on a national level in the United States.

His vision for the future success of his people made a tremendous impact on outstanding men and women who believed in his precepts and have developed his principles from the beginning of the African Methodist Episcopal Church to the present day.

Because many of these outstanding leaders were members of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, much of the history of the Negro in the United States and in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania is contained in The Christian Recorder, the oldest existing Negro periodical in America, and the only one in the United States that existed before the Civil War. From the beginning of its existence, The Christian Recorder has reflected the thinking of the black man, both learned and unlearned.

In 1836 a resolution was passed by the New York Annual Conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Church to establish a quarterly magazine. The first copy was printed in September, 1841, but was soon discontinued.

In 1848, a newspaper edited by Dr. Martin R. Delaney, of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, was purchased by the African Methodist Episcopal Church and called "The Christian Herald." In 1852 its publication was moved from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia and re-named The Christian Recorder.

The paper has not always been published regularly. There are many time breaks in publication and its size and price have often varied.

Among the archives in the museum at Mother Bethel African Methodist Episcopal Church at Sixth Street below Pine Street in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania are copies of The Christian Recorder which date back to 1854. Following on this microfilm are recorded all of the holdings stored there. Our purpose is to preserve and make available to all the cultural heritage and opinions of a great people.

We are grateful for the counsel, suggestions, and hard work of those who have made major contributions to the completion of this microfilm. Mrs. Nell Irvin Painter for initiating the project; Mr. Peter Parker of the Pennsylvania Historical Society for counsel and guidance; Mrs. Ruby Chappelle Boyd, Vice-Chairman of the Mother Bethel Historical Commission, and Mr. Paul H. Vaughn, Laison Officer to the Historical Commission from the Mother Bethel Board of Trustees, for coordinating the project; Dr. Augustus H. Able III, for arranging the materials; Mr. Arthur Brunson for vigilant guardianship; and most of all, to the American Philosophical Society of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania for providing the funds to make it all possible.

The records of Mother Bethel Church comprise a considerable body of various matter: First, because the Church is an old one; second, because the division of its corporate body into distinct, complementary halves, the secular and the spiritual, i.e., the Trustees as the controllers and managers of the property over against the Corporation and particularly within it, the Stewards and Leaders of the Class system through which the religious dynamism of the Church was promoted.

The Class system which was adopted in American directly from Wesley's masterful plan for the promotion of his Societies in England succeeded here as well as it did abroad. It emphasized lay participation, bound members to each other by frequent meetings in small groups, instructed them in the religious life, gave them fellowship, put them to common tasks and developed leadership. It fueled American Methodism for its great future; and for the African denomination when it emerged, was a particularly apt instrument for its people's development.

in keeping, the Bethel records for Stewards, Leaders and Classes are more numerous than those for the Trustees; and as a kind of appendix to them follow the records of a number of activities from benevolent societies to Sunday School. It must be remarked that the Corporation whose records are listed in this bibliography along with those of the Stewards and Leaders, embraced the entire membership of the Church in good standing, who had paid their annual "dollar money." The Classes were as a matrix within this enveloping body; for the same reason all other non-Trustee records are put together in one group as illustrating the totallty of the membership in action.

As has just been hinted, in view of the diversity of materials, it has seemed reasonable to present the items, not upon a simple chronological thread but to classify related items together under a few different heads, keeping chronology, however, within each group.

The general plan as developed under this rationale, is as follows:

1. Books of general record
2. Minutes of the Trustees
3. Cash books and ledgers (pertaining to the Trustees)
4. Books relating to Leaders and Classes
   Minutes of the Corporation, of the Board of Stewards, of the Official Board, of the Quarterly Conference
5. Special organizations:
   Benevolent Societies
   Trial Books
   Sunday School
   Ushers' Association
   Christian Endeavor
6. Miscellany
   Pictures and objects interesting for their associations
   Visitors' books

1. GENERAL RECORDS

There are three record books, two large and one smaller, of the sort manufactured as official church registers.
The Historical Record (1760 - 1784) of the first volume is especially valuable because of the transcription of Richard Allen's autobiography. Also, the sharp distinction between probationary and full membership enforces the felt seriousness of the religious commitment.
The second volume has a well-kept record of marriages (1890 - 1895) sociologically important because of its notation of employments. Also, under baptisms an entry indicates a Baptist-like option for immersion for those desiring it.
Unfortunately these volumes give the impression at large of expensive books not used fully or consistently.

2. MINUTES OF THE TRUSTEES and CASH BOOKS

The Trustees, managing the property of the Church, receiving and paying out, cannot vie for interest with their Steward counterparts. However, as materials for the kind of sociological-economic studies in vogue today, the Minute books and Treasurer's books have their special value. It must be remarked, from the beginning these books, with small exception, were well-kept in a clean, sometimes finely expressive hand. It is worthy of note that the first receipt book dates from 1832, the year after Bishop Allen's death. The fledgling Church after the passing of its founder stood at the beginning of a new era.

4. BOOKS RELATING TO LEADERS AND CLASSES

Minutes of the Corporation, of the Board of Stewards, of the Official Board, of the Quarterly Conference.

The presence of Class books (i.e., lists of classes, their leaders and members) of dates down to 1901 seem to show that the Class system remained relatively intact at Bethel Church later than in many other churches. In fact, the rise of Christian Endeavor (see Other Activities) after 1902 would seem a substitutionary activity. However, since the conduct of the religious life of the Church remained vested in the active membership, the Minutes of the Stewards, Official Board, Quarterly Meeting and of the Corporation show them functioning as earlier, answering to the same problems, whether the preacher's salary, the Communion wine or money for the indigent.

5. SPECIAL ORGANIZATIONS and ACTIVITIES

The records of these organizations include much socially suggestive material. For example, the minutes of the two early benevolent societies, one, a burial society (men), the other, for insurance money in sickness (women), present striking attempts at self-help through voluntary organization.

The minutes of the two "trial books" show attempts at enforcing the principles of the Dicipline in matters both of sex morality and fair dealing upon those who by membership had professed to accept them. A last trial apparently was held in 1895. None of these records show rancor, and no doctrinal points are raised.

That the Sunday School had its rolls is not surprising; the Catalogue of its library, on the other hand, shows it in a progressive phase.

The rise of Christian Endeavor coincides with the same development on a huge national scale throughout Protestantism in the early part of this century.

Perhaps the best guide to the special organizations of the Church is provided by the Book of Membership: "Classes, Circles, Auxiliaries, Altar Guild, Ushers" Association, etc.", c.1916.

Not to be overlooked is the Assignment of Ministers from Bethel Church for each week, 1839 - 1844, for an impressive indicator of the Church's growth through the whole Delaware Valley from the preaching stations steadily extended over the area.

Certain objects and pictures helping to actualize the life of the Church have seemed worthy of inclusion: such as, Richard Allen's Bible (although broken and disordered) from which he preached, presented to him in 1802 by Thomas Garrett in whose family it had descended, a small 17th Century quarto, and the "love feast" tickets, two of them signed by Richard Allen.

THE CHRISTIAN RECORDER

PRINT

The Christian Recorder, planned as a serial publication for the African Methodist Episcopal Church, began in 1854 to appear under the editorship of the Rev. J.P. Campbell. Even then apparently there was still delay, for the number of July 13 seems to have been the first although designated No. 16. The "every other week" paper of four pages then continued publication until March 4, 1856. Thereafter publication seems to have ceased until 1861 when in January under the editorship of Elisha Weaver, the New Series, Vol. I, began. Now again The Christian Recorder was on the road as a four-page weekly printed on good paper under the continued editorship of the same Elisha Weaver, Vol. I to Vol. VII, 1861 - 1867. During this period the Recorder seems to have been introduced into the South by distribution among the Negro regiments with some success. After the close of the Rebellion, the Recorder began to reflect the reach of the Church's missionary effort into the South and West, an effort so successful that eventually regional Recorders (Southern and Western) and in the end proved too competitive for the original Recorder in Philadelphia.

In connection with these beginnings it is worthy of note that it was the Recorder's first editor, the Rev. J.P. Campbell (one-time minister at Bethel Church and later Bishop of the Philadelpia area) who collected the volumes of the Recorder that now make up the Bethel Church collection. Not only did he retain them, but he went to the trouble of having them bound in the boards that have helped to preserve them. The grandson of Bishop Campbell, the Reverend J. Campbell Beckett, presented the Campbell Collection to Bethel Church; one of three collections of the Recorder known at present to exist; the other two being in the libraries of Drew University, Madison, New Jersey, and Indiana University, Bloomington, Indiana respectively.

In 1868 the editorship of the Recorder passed to Benjamin T. Tanner and remained with him through 1884, Vol. VIII to Vol. XXII, 1868 - 1884. This was a period of growth as might be adduced by the change in 1863 from the four-page weekly to an eight-page one, although this change could not be sustained because of the Recorder's small circulation which never rose above 5000 copies. The Recorder seems consistently to have enjoyed very good fortune in its editors; most of them became bishops, quite properly, one feels. Its rhetoric was always literate, its tone moderate. Outrages from the South were reported in purely factual terms: burnings of churches and parsonages, midnight visitations. Of course sermons were reproduced, but there was excellent reportage from correspondents all over the South and West. Their page of Communications, alas, has been the chief object of the ravishing wrought by so-called scholars upon so many numbers of the Recorder. Also, there are temperate and thoughtful reflections upon Negro problems even yet not finally resolved: for example, whether segregated schools are not best for Negro children because black teachers will understand and help them more than white teachers, particularly those in mixed classes; or again, whether an all-Negro church does not shut off its people from the larger Christian community.

In sum, the virtue of the Recorder lies not in its over religious role but in the picture it provides of the Negro situation over the country; from the tepid friendliness of at least some whites in the West, whether Cheyenne or Santa Fe, to the cry to freed Negroes, "Don't come to Mississippi."

Indeed this warning brings to mind one of the greatest features of the Recorder, the information Wanted page that continued for years, week after week; inquiries about broken families, the enforced separations of parents, children, brothers, sisters, all relationships, all deriving from the Peculiar Institution of the Cotton Kingdom. These inquiries provide small glimpses of thousands of human tragedies and constitute a most impressive indictment of the Old South.

In 1885 the Rev. Benjamin F. Lee became editor of the Recorder and continued in that capacity through 1892, Vol. XXIII to Vol. XXX. In spite of a falling circulation Editor Lee was able to restore the 8-page paper that editor Tanner had been unable to maintain after the departure of his able business manager, H.M. Turner, in 1876. And the 8-page paper was continued by his successor, Dr. H.T. Johnson through all his years. But with Dr. Johnson's accession a curious thing, bibliographically, occurred in 1893: Vol. XXXI (January to May) inexplicably became Vol. XLI on May 4th. And at that point the troublesome phenomenon of volumes beginning at mid-year was set for the future. However the leap of ten volumes (XXXI to XLI) remains to be explained. Upon a reasonable explanation it would seem a bold attempt on the part of new editor Johnson to impose order, once for all, upon the volume series that from the beginning in 1854 followed by the hiatus of 1857 to 1860, through the New Series after 1861 with misnumbering within it (e.g., three volumes No. 9) had known omission and disorder. However the attempt seems to have been less than successful by the loss thereafter of any simple identification between volume and year.

Throughout the Recorder's history the printers' errors are numerous and maddning; increasingly so, not in respect to the text which remains surprisingly regular, but to the numbering of issues, pages and datelines. Accordingly often only the dateline (if one can be found) gives guide to an issue. Further, because the extensive vandalism practiced upon the Recorder most often fell on the first sheet (pages 1 and 2) where possibly only the masthead showed a date, the bibliographical problem has been compounded immeasurably. Still further the increasingly poor quality of the paper during the nineties has made those issues almost impossible to handle.

In conclusion, the solid worth of the Recorder has been impaired from three contributing sources: deteriorating paper, wild printing errors and the depredations of unethical readers, the last most of all. Nevertheless many perfect or almost perfect volumes remain; especially for the earlier decades, like a great monument, the Recorder proved too bulky for the barbarians utterly to destroy.

COULDN'T SPEAK ABOVE A WHISPER.

This was Captain Harding's experience after exposure in a violent storm off the Cape of Good Hope. Inflammation settled in his throat, and for a while it seemed as if he would die of diphtheria. As the Captain never goes to sea without a supply of Pascay Dalvin Pain Killer, he knew just what to do. A dose of it gave immediate relief.

It has now become fashionable in eastern cities to be married as early as 6 o'clock in the morning. This gives the bride's female relatives time to say goodby to her before the evening train goes.

BED RIDDEN AND CURED.

W. E. Hurste of Emporia, Kansas, says that his wife had been sick nearly seven years, and for the last three months bed-ridden. She has been treated by a number of physicians and only grew worse. Her attention was called to Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Favorite Prescription," which she commenced using. In one week she got up, and in three weeks could walk about. Hy druggists.

"Brace up!" whispered the hangman in the pearl hilted whose hempen cravat he was adjusting. "Yes, it's rare opportunity for you to revival," was the grim reply, "because you're a suspender."

The celebrated Vegetable Compound for females which, within a few years has made the name of Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham known in every part of the civilized world, relieves suffering by the safe and sure method of quieting the vital forces and thus regulating the organic functions. It is only by such a method that disease is ever arrested and removed.

Archbishop Whateley, on hearing a lady remark that the Bay of Dublin reminded her of Naples, replied with "Yes, ma'am, only to swim from there is no use, and here there is no Alps."

Were the bankruptcy in a constitution that has been given by disease. If it is the result of fast living, the excessive use of Mercury, injudicious use of Mercury, exposure in miasmatic regions, underlying habits, self-abuse or Scrofulous taint, Dr. Pierce's Pellets will restore you to health, more to be desired than gold.

"Arthur," said a good natured parent to his son, "I did not know till to-day that you had been whipped at school last week." "All papa, but I knew it at the time," was the naive reply.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral possesses far-reaching and powerful healing qualities which its persistent use well den ostrate in any case of colds, coughs, throat or lung troubles, while its soothing and restorative effects are realized at once.

"It is very curious," observed a young lady, "that the more one thinks about anything," said a young man to his landlord, "Why?" she asked. "Because I am afraid it never would settle."

THE BARNES REVIVOR.

We are prepared to receive and fill orders for the Jubilee Gem containing the revival hymns prepared by Rev. G. R. Smith, for use in the churches and Sunday schools of the A. M. E. Church. It is an excellent service, as all who have received a sample copy must admit. It is replete with the best hymns, and the varied talent represented in the several contributions must be a source of gratification to all who are interested in the promotion of a literature of song. We earnestly hope that the 25th day of March, which is Easter Sunday, will be a day of revival in many in all of our churches and Sunday schools. The exceedingly low price, one cent per copy, places it within the reach of all. We are also prepared to fill orders for the Reform song book, a copy of which has been sent out by the Corresponding Secretary of the Sunday School Union. Send in your orders early and we will be prompt to fill them. Price of Easter card, twenty cents per package, or five packages for one dollar. Orders can be sent to Rev. G. R. Smith, 631 Pine street, Philadelphia, Pa., or to Rev. O. S. Smith, Bloomington, Illinois.

THE BAD AND WORTHLESS

are never imitated or counterfeited. This is especially true of a family medicine, and it is possible that Hop Bitters was the parent, best and most valuable family medicine on earth, many imitators sprang up and began to steal the notice to them the people and the people of the country had expressed the marvin of H. B., and in every way trying to induce people to swallo to use their stuff instead, expecting to make money on the credit and good name of H. B. Many others started nostrums put up in bottles, similar in H. B., with variously devised names in which the word "Hop" or "Hops" was used in a way to induce people to believe they were the same as Hop Bitters. All such pretended remedies or cures, no matter what their style or name is, are imitations of and have the word "Hop" or "Hops" in their name or in any way connected with them or their name, are imitations and counterfeits. Beware of them. Touch none of them. Use only Hop Bitters, the best Hop Bitters, with a branch or cluster of green Hops on the white label. Trust nothing else. Druggists and dealers are warned against dealing in imitations or counterfeits.

MADAGASCAR.

The outrage France is contemplating upon Madagascar is one that most materially redound to her lasting disgrace. If England can be censured for what France is so unceremoniously engaged in, we might say in no unmeasured desposition. Republicanism, if it be thoroughly understood, ever is despotism, right intelligible. Witness its constant raids on free speech and free press. Witness its trial of Prince Kropotkine. Witness its appeal to its foreign policy. Witness its subjugation of Tonquin. Its moving attitude toward Tonquin, and last, but not least, its threats against Madagascar. Is it not that it seems best unscrupulously and, for it has already, how war swells off the coast of the East of China's resources, to be asked, why this assault upon a free and independent people, a people most encouraging from the darkness of barbarism into the light of civilization? As well might one ask why Jesus was crucified, except upon the principle of Christianity? As well might you for the kind expression of your sympathy, and wish you life and the favor of God.

THE FACT AND PROMISE OF CHRIST'S RESURRECTION.

Taking it as a fact that Christ really arose from the dead, it is as a recent contributor to the Christian Register has said.

The fact of principal importance in the life of Christ is not his death, nor his death—all die, and thousands have suffered as much as did Christ on the cross—but his resurrection, which is the point of the resurrection and authority of his teachings, and the corner-stone on which the gospel rests. All the apostles founded their teachings and grounded their arguments on that one fact. They all bear witness to it, and preach it from first to last as the great event around which all other teachings revolve.

This is none other than the very teaching of Paul, when he says: "And if Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain, and your faith is vain." Also: "And if Christ be not raised, your faith is vain; ye are yet in your sins. Then they also which have fallen asleep in Christ are perished." The logical deduction of such statements cannot possibly be other than to show the exceptional importance of the resurrection of Christ; so exceptional, indeed, that compared to it, the fact of his life, and even his death, goes, as it were, for nothing. But did Christ really arise? Paul says so: "But now is Christ risen from the dead and become the first fruits of them that slept." What are the evidences of this fact vouchsafed to us in this age of the world? for it is to be remarked that it is one of those facts of Scripture not to be accepted merely on the principle of faith. Rather is it to be lifted up or lowered down to the nature and measure of proof.

The evidences of Christ's resurrection. What are they? We would mention three. The first is the evidence our Christian Sunday or Sabbath day owes its twenty-five cents. Stamps will be received. At the expiration of that time, on the receipt of seventy-five cents more, we will put the name on the record at the usual rate, and the paper for balance of six months, or for $1.75 the balance of the year. No name will be entered on the regular list until something is paid.

Rather is it to be lifted up or lowered down to the nature and measure of proof.

The evidences of Christ's resurrection. What are they? We would mention three. The first is the evidence our Christian Sunday or Sabbath day owes its existence to. That the first disciples, who were Jews, changed the day of their religious service? They had been brought up to keep the seventh day as the Sabbath, in obedience to the command of Moses: "Six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work; but the Seventh is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God." How comes it that they changed from the seventh to the first? And that too, without pretending to any new or abrogate law to that of Moses. Plainly the one reason, and the only reason, is that the change was made in deference to the fact of Christ's resurrection. Before this event, they were wont to meet upon the seventh in common with all their countrymen; after his resurrection, we find them gradually letting the seventh day go, and putting the first day in its place, and Paul, too, as we have said, in deference to the resurrection of the Saviour. The world may well be challenged to give another reason for the change. It cannot be done. Therefore it is that the observance of the first day, instead of the seventh, becomes a strong witness to the fact of Christ's resurrection.

Our second witness is the observance of Easter. Whence comes this day? It could not have been received from the Jews, for they had no such holiday; nor from the Gentiles, of whom the same may likewise be said. Yet we find the early Christians—for Easter is among the oldest, if not itself the oldest of all the holidays of the Church—rigidly observing it. Whence comes it? Manifestly, as it is claimed, out of reference to the resurrection of Christ. As well account for the Fourth of July in any other way than that popularly received, as account for Easter in other than the same way. It is scarcely impossible to find upon what grounds their arguments on that one fact. They all bear witness to it, and preach it from first to last as the great event around which all other teachings revolve.

This is none other than the very teaching of Paul, when he says: "And if Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain, and your faith is vain." Also: "And if Christ be not raised, your faith is vain; ye are yet in your sins. Then they also which have fallen asleep in Christ are perished." How comes it that they changed from the seventh to the first? And that too, without pretending to any new or abrogate law to that of Moses. Plainly the one reason, and the only reason, is that the change was made in deference to the fact of Christ's resurrection. Before this event, they were wont to meet upon the seventh in common with all their countrymen; after his resurrection, we find them gradually letting the seventh day go, and putting the first day in its place, and Paul, too, as we have said, in deference to the resurrection of the Saviour. The world may well be challenged to give another reason for the change. It cannot be done. Therefore it is that the observance of the first day, instead of the seventh, becomes a strong witness to the fact of Christ's resurrection.

Our second witness is the observance of Easter. Whence comes this day? It could not have been received from the Jews, for they had no such holiday; nor from the Gentiles, of whom the same may likewise be said. Yet we find the early Christians—for Easter is among the oldest, if not itself the oldest of all the holidays of the Church—rigidly observing it. Whence comes it? Manifestly, as it is claimed, out of reference to the resurrection of Christ. As well account for the Fourth of July in any other way than that popularly received, as account for Easter in other than the same way. It is scarcely impossible to find upon what grounds their arguments on that one fact. They all bear witness to it, and preach it from first to last as the great event around which all other teachings revolve.

This is none other than the very teaching of Paul, when he says: "And if Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain, and your faith is vain." Also: "And if Christ be not raised, your faith is vain; ye are yet in your sins. Then they also which have fallen asleep in Christ are perished." The logical deduction of such statements cannot possibly be other than to show the exceptional importance of the resurrection of Christ; so exceptional, indeed, that compared to it, the fact of his life, and even his death, goes, as it were, for nothing. But did Christ really arise? Paul says so: "But now is Christ risen from the dead and become the first fruits of them that slept." What are the evidences of this fact vouchsafed to us in this age of the world? for it is to be remarked that it is one of those facts of Scripture not to be accepted merely on the principle of faith. Rather is it to be lifted up or lowered down to the nature and measure of proof.

The evidences of Christ's resurrection. What are they? We would mention three. The first is the evidence our Christian Sunday or Sabbath day owes its existence to. That the first disciples, who were Jews, changed the day of their religious service? They had been brought up to keep the seventh day as the Sabbath, in obedience to the command of Moses: "Six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work; but the Seventh is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God." How comes it that they changed from the seventh to the first? And that too, without pretending to any new or abrogate law to that of Moses. Plainly the one reason, and the only reason, is that the change was made in deference to the fact of Christ's resurrection. Before this event, they were wont to meet upon the seventh in common with all their countrymen; after his resurrection, we find them gradually letting the seventh day go, and putting the first day in its place, and Paul, too, as we have said, in deference to the resurrection of the Saviour. "RACE EDUCATION."

To the April North American Review, President James C. Welling—we may be pardoned for our ignorance of his personnel—contributes an article with the above caption. It is chiefly characterized for what it says, more than for what it teaches. Dislike the recent paper of Prof. Gilliam, with its frank statements and deductions, this abounds in a shadowy philosophy far too dark for average comprehension; and for THE RECORDER to claim more than this, might invite criticism. We confess to not fully comprehending what he wishes to say, but what he really seems to have left unsaid. He talks a deal about "industrialism," and "interdependence," and "differentiation," and the like, but to come out in a full frank way and say exactly what seems to be in his mind, he has not done. He tells the nation it has a bad case on its hand—no bad, indeed, that neither the school house nor the church can hope to remedy it. Concerning the first, his words are: "For the complex purposes of our political problem the training of the common school will not suffice." Concerning the second: "Nor will the training of the church, if added to that of the common school, be entirely equal to the exigencies of our political situation." And yet, strangely enough, he holds out to the nation the hope of finally solving her troubles when the "civic sense that comes from the quickening touch and fostering matrix of free institutions," shall come to the help of the school house, and the church. Of this civic sense, he says, "But this civic sense cannot be 'added'—it must grow, and must grow from a human of intelligence and moral force deep enough and rich enough to sustain and nurture it." If we rightly apprehend President Welling, we should say that scarcely any class of the American people give so much promise of possessing in the near future, even supposing them not to possess it now, the "civic sense," as the colored class. By civic sense, he largely means the same as Jefferson's amor patriæ. Now, to say that this is lifted on him largely belong than to the colored class; and for the reason that, for quite a hundred years the persons composing it have been in all the schools of the church, Wilberforce, Allen, and Paul Quinn, be paid out of the common treasury of the church. Why should they not be? Are they not working for the whole church? Are not the students of Wilberforce the first and oldest to be found in well nigh all the conference? And what is true of Wilberforce, will be true of Allen, at Columbia, S. C., and of Paul Quinn, at Waco, Texas. The graduates of these, as they come forth, are destined to be called into all quarters of the Church. Why, then, should not the whole church general help support and be engaged in this grand work. We say, then, let the forthcoming General Conference put all those teachers on the pay roll of the Church, with the understanding that they remain there till the school become endowed. But remember the penny collection NOW.

WE ARE NOT to be understood as rejoicing in any other than the most pleasant feelings between the several nations and peoples of our common country; and yet in the interest of peace and unity we feel to notice the difference between the experience of a white Northerner who has live in the South and one who has only passed hastily through it. Of all the latter, he finds the last three months to seventy-five in addition."

Rev. G. W. Wilson, (Mt. Holly, N. J.) writes: "Mr. Holly is a circuit, having two churches and one mission, with 350 members. At this place we have no church, but superintendent of what is only which we found to be in debt over one hundred dollars. We have been able through God and the good people to pay off all the debt, and to finish the first floor of the church, and to put the house all indebtedness and all the mortgages and bonds are settled, and the

WE SUPPOSE we must divide the honor of the Children's Choir of Macedonia Church, Camden, between the excellent pastor, Rev. W. H. Toomer, and the excellent leader of the choir, Prof. Hollingsworth. Altogether is striking as a most happy arrangement. The voices of the children were singularly sweet. They were there—which of itself cannot be said of the average modern choir, and they moved at the motion of the leader. The order is that the children's choir have the morning service, the adults in the evening. We think it is a step in the right direction. Why might not other churches consider the propriety of doing the same?

THE FOLLOWING is a section of a law recently proposed in the Arkansas Senate; but which failed. Sector, however, it was offered, and commanded out a little attention, is worthy of note. What would come of the man who would ask for such a section of law in any Northern legislature:

"If any laborer shall, without good excuse, abandon his employer before the expiration of the contract he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction, shall be fined in any sum not less than twenty, nor more than two hundred dollars, and in addition to such fine, shall be liable to such employer for the full amount of such advance, and costs over him, and shall forfeit to his employer all wages, or share of crop or crops, which might become due him from his employer.

OF NO ONE thing do the signs of the times speak more plainly than of the growing restlessness of our people in the South under continued proscription and outrage. He must be blind who does not see in this a cause largely because it is a colored man.—Savannah Echo.

—M. Toussaint-Lagorille, a full blooded negro, once the "Duc de la Grand-Terre" and who went to France as Emperor Soulouque, has left the Island of Paris. He was successful in securing a pension from the French Government by promising to pay the most incredible percentage—according to our account—once going so far as $200 per cent. He had managed to build up for himself a property of some $40,000, thanks to the liberality of which he lived with economy and simplicity. —Rev. Anderson Bailey, D.D., pastor of St. Mary's Church, Trenton, N. J., has been appointed Presiding Elder of the Trenton District, in the place of Rev. Dr. Payne, deceased. Dr. Bailey is the recently appointed President of Paine Institute, Augusta, Ga., the school organized by the Methodist Episcopal Church, in the interest of the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church, and judging from the tenor of the above extract, it is time quite the choice. Dr. Bailey is a man of fine scholarship, and has been for years one of the leading men of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He is a native of Virginia, and is said to be a fine preacher. He has been a member of the Trenton Conference for many years, and in fact it was there that he first began his ministerial career. Mr. Holly is the head of a family of sisters. We have been informed that they are reviving the old paper. We have had twenty additions to the church since we have been here, and others are seeking seriously for mercy."

THE CHURCH AND THE SCHOOL-HOUSE.

BY REV. J. N. DURANT, CHAPLAIN TO ORPHANT CEMETERY, AND EDITOR OF BARBADOES GLOBE, BRIDGETOWN, BARBADOES.

Men of sound practical experience are alive to the necessity of education as an indispensable condition to success in the enterprises of life. There must be very few men now-a-days who would oppose the education of the laboring classes, with a view of making them more efficient workmen, and, essentially and morally, better members of society. This is a consummation devoutly to be wished for by all philanthropists—recognized both in this and other countries. There is no more fallacious and pernicious idea than that ignorance is the mother of devotion and religion; on the contrary, the more intelligent the people, the more they are capable of appreciating the truths of religion, and of realizing the beauty of holiness. Hence the importance of carefully training the young, and of providing them with the means of acquiring such knowledge as will enable them to be useful members of society. This is a duty which devolves upon the Church, and which, in connection with the State, is the only means of securing the end in view. Left to itself, the State would not provide sufficiently for the education of the people, and the Church, if left to itself, would be unable to do so. Hence the necessity of the co-operation of both. Where this co-operation exists, the best results follow. Where it does not exist, the people are left in ignorance, and the Church is crippled in its efforts to do good. Where the State and Church are united, as in England, the people have been educated to a certain extent, but not sufficiently. Where the State and Church are separated, as in the United States, the people have been educated to a certain extent, but not sufficiently. Where the State and Church are united, as in Barbadoes, the people have been educated to a certain extent, but not sufficiently. Where the State and Church are separated, as in the United States, the people have been educated to a certain extent, but not sufficiently.

What a splendid audience did Dr. Tanner have at Bethel Hall last Tuesday. There it was, the whole social world, the Sanhedrim, the others, the rest, the progress of our race, as represented in the city. Dr. Tanner was at his best, and his theme, "The Year 2000 and What of It," was a proof of it. DINNER TO DR. BLYDEN.

BY C.

Mr. Editor:—Dr. Blyden, the gifted and quiet pilgrim, was tendered a dinner by Dr. Blyden, of Liberia, on Thursday afternoon, 15th inst., at his home in Washington, D. C. Those present were Rev. Wm. Hunter, Rev. Messrs. Handy and Grimke, Esq., Dr. Cardozo and many of the elite of the city. Dr. Cardozo was called to preside over the festive board, and introduced the Bishop to most Dr. Blyden. All were present except Bishop Turner, who was to be present, but after the choice things prepared by the hostess were served, he was unable to be present, and sent his regrets. Dr. Blyden, in justice from the guests, Bishop Turner and others, and stated to the guests the object of the dinner, which was to honor Dr. Blyden, for whose benefit the entertainment was intended for our own eyes only, we have been Register and Mrs. Bruce. THEY RAN FOR THE DOCTOR.

Some people are always running for the doctor when the least thing is the matter with themselves or their children. Of course, the doctor likes this, for he gets well paid for it. But there are many occasions when the judicious use of PERRY DAVIS'S PAIN KILLER will do all the doctor can. Mr. H. V. Miller, of Syracuse, N. Y., says he has for twenty years used PAIN KILLER for miscellaneous family sickness: and that it is a valuable that it ought to be kept in every house.

NOTICE.

WASHINGTON, March 8, 1881.

TO THE PASTORS OF THE FIRST EPISCOPAL DISTRICT.

Rev. and Dear Brethren—Because of certain requests coming from two confer-ences in our Episcopal District, I have changed the time and place of two or three conferences. I hope it will not inconvenience you. I hope your reports will be even better than they were last year in every particular.

The New York Conference meets at Elmira, N. Y., June 15th. The annual sermons as announced at last conference.

NOTICE.

The ministers of the Missouri Conference having failed to name the time and place of meeting of the Missouri College, I, therefore, upon the request made by several members of said Conference, do hereby request the members of said College to meet at Jefferson City, Mo., May 9th, 1883.

Respectfully,

T. M. D. WARD.

NOTICE.

We have just received the list of ministerial letters issued in this year's Conference, which are to Darien, Ga., January 24th. We request that from the chairman of the committees on Publishing Department, Rev. W. H. Powell. He desires all the brethren who do not have their paper to drop us a card and tell us where they want it sent, and to whom and where they want it sent the year. He has decided to get a large number of the post-offices. It would save a great deal of trouble if the brethren would write their money to us and get their subscript before going to conference, then they could present their receipts as evidence that they had subscribed, and when conference closes and they should be in session, we should not be worried by asking us to change their paper from one post-office and then there would be no necessity of losing a paper. Why not the brethren observe this?

MANAGER.

There are 21,000 000 widows in India, most of them the victims of child marriages. These startling figures illustrate the need of a system in the zenana demand of the healthy religion.

THE BAD AND WORTHLESS

are never imitated or counterfeited. That is especially true of Hop Bitters, and is positive proof that the remedy enjoyed is of the highest value and merit. Hop Bitters are daily imported by the whole world that Hop Bitters is the purest and most valuable family medicine on earth, and the only one that has power to steal the confidence of which the press and the people of the country had expressed in the merits of Dr. Bull's and every way trying to induce suffering invalids to use their stuff instead, expecting to make money on the credit and good name of H. B. Many others started nostrums put up in similar form to H. B., with variously devised names in which the word "Hop" or "Hops" were used in a way to induce people to believe they were the same as Hop Bitters. All such pretended remedies or cures are counterfeits, and should be shunned as poisons. Hop Bitters is the name on the bottle, and a bunch of green Hops on the white label. Take no other. Druggists and dealers are warned against dealing in imitations or counterfeits.

WORDS FAIL. "Words fail to express my gratitude for what Ayer's Sarsaparilla has done for me," writes RELAY CARTER, of Nashville, Tenn., "for the benefits derived from

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Having been afflicted all my life with Scrofula, my system seemed saturated with it. It came out in blotches, Ulcers, sores, or running sores, all over my body." My Carter states that he was entirely cured by the use of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, and since discontinuing its use, eight months ago, he has had no return of the scrofulous symptoms.

All baneful infections of the blood are promptly removed by this unequalled alterative.

" I wish to express my appreciation of the valuable qualities of

as a cough remedy.

" While with Churchill's army, just before the battle of Vicksburg, I contracted a severe cold, which terminated in a dangerous cough. I found no relief till on our march we came to a country store, where, on asking for some remedy, I was urged to try AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

" I did so, and was rapidly cured. Since then I have kept the PECTORAL constantly by me, for family use, and I have found it to be an invaluable remedy for throat and lung diseases.

Thousands of testimonials certify to the prompt cure of all bronchial and lung affections, by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily.

The house of God was built for all,
Come one, come two, come three, come small;
Come rest your burden at his feet,
And he will make your spirit meet
Great blessings lasting, long and sweet.

Bring in the poor, the blind, the lame,
Allow no prejudice to bar the door,
Teach them the way to heaven's bright gate,
Tell them how holy angels wait
The coming of the lowly poor.

Make no delay, turn back for thee,
Come and receive the mercies free,
Lift up thy voice to God above,
Make thou the earth to know his love,
Tell of his wonderful salvation.

The glorious Church of God may come,
Live with us now; make this your home,
Your spirit will be free and gay,
Heaven's gates will be open to you day.

PHILADELPHIA ABOLITION-ISTS—1776.

No nation on earth has quite the capacity for forgetting its own history in the matter of American people. Where the brooding, sullen Saxon temperament is strongest, they are associated with the free and wide horizons of the new home, as the heavy fleeces of them. Tough nonsentimental characteristics and the capacity for resentment, which Mr. Eyre's friends have deeply stirred the brutal elements in, save in the lowest class, almost totally dispersed the sympathetic and chivalrous points of Jacobitism until the end is reached, and there is nothing left but a string of hands and a taking for granted that all differences are healed and the future is held to mean one purpose and one common progress to the same end, characterizes the American. Another thing in the fear that his adversary's feelings may be wounded he refuses to preserve the records of strife, and almost forgets himself how the quarrel went out or why it began at all.

The capacity for apology increases year by year. In the reaction against the intolerance and bigotry of our fathers, we forget the anxiety whose work they covered or represented. Some one has summed up the American character as a "mush of concession," our free from the sediment of offenders—whether the criminal punishment of the penitentiary, the sentence to just punishment is still in his cell, or the social punishment of ostracism against social law and life—would seem to confirm the verdict. That an emergency found in Pennsylvania a people able men and women ready for it, does not blind us to the fact that the meeting of such emergency could often have been met by a people less prepared for it, and the interest been used in the beginning. The eagerness to avoid offense and the determination to see only the best and favorable in possible stand always in the way of a clear view of differences and future responsibilities of difference. Benjamin Franklin's saying that we are not the most efficient means of developing manhood and forming patriotism is true. The body is formed, but the soul is lacking.

How well Hezekiah kept the bridge,
In the brave days of old,
but the brave day that is but yesterday
Is sunk in shadow and cold.

"PHILADELPHIA ABOLITIONISTS."

To The Continent are we indebted for the beautiful electrotypes of the "Philadelphia Abolitionists," found on first page. We feel sure that we! our readers will appreciate the presentation we make of the men and the women who stood faithful in the days that "tried men's souls," even with a sever trial than that of '76. And equally do we feel assured that they will, with us, feel grateful to The Continent for the use of them. We speak, of course, of The Continent, but in reality we mean Judge Tourgee, for withdraw this honored name and the means of which he is navigated to the things that were—No, we retract this last sentence. Withdraw Judge Tourgee and The Continent will live, and on the principle that the good which men do survives them, which is none other than "the survival of the fittest," the good will still survive in some way. Like his other works, like "The Fool's Errand," and "Bricks without Straw," this weekly magazine has come to stay.

Of Athlon W. Tourgee, it may be said that he is of the elect few whom God raises up from time to time to withstand public opinion and to change it; and not by might nor power, but by the spirit of God which is to them. They are the world's Join the Baptist sent ahead to prepare it for the coming evangel of peace and love. Of the service these men have rendered, it is enough to say that on forward step is possible without them. The abolition of slavery could never have taken place had not literate Beecher Stows written the world's epic Tom's Cabin." This it was that crystallized the words spoken by men like Garrison, and Douglass, Tom and Jerry. This it was that put on the brake when these had screwed the nation up to the right point. And so of the works of Judge Tourgee as they relate to the slavery, but in the crimes against liberty, the crimes of the Ku-Klux, the White League, the Rifle Clubs, and similar orders in general, for the total suppression of the freedmen. It is not too much to say that in the work of their suppression, as well as in that of education in the South, and even the nation, the better way of bringing about peace and amity between the races and the sections, "Fool's Errand" alone did more than all other instrumentalities combined. What "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was to the destruction of slavery, "Fool's Errand" is to the conservation of liberty.

But let none suppose that the "inspiration of the Almighty" which "giveth understanding," and which in these days is such men, has been withdrawn from the Judge; let none suppose that the time for him to say, as did the Baptist, "I must decrease," has come. On the contrary, never were his powers and his opportunities greater than now; and never was he more prepared for their use. Real "Hot Ploughshares," now in his thirty-eighth chapter, and drawing to a close; read what the Judge has wisely to say under the pointed head, "Stigma." His reply to Prof. Gillium, for we accept it as such, is so notable indeed, that we cannot forego presenting it to our next issue.

As it relates to the reading portion of our people, we are free to advise. Be sure and have a full course of the Judge's works (Fords, Howard and Hubbert, 27 Park Place, New York) on your shelves; and let every one have the Continent come weekly to your table.

A CONTINENTAL RACE.

Are we to have a continental race? is really a question most worthy of the Americau mind. The majority of both the present races, the white and the black, say no. And if it were possible to obtain a consensus of the Indian mind, he doubtless would be found on the side of the majority voting against any other continental race than the one represented by himself. As it relates to the majority of the whites, taking their cue from such men as the historian Freeman, they wish for no other and no better destiny than to remain English, having as Mr. Freeman would put it, America for their third home. As it relates to the blacks, the majority of them think much the same way in regard to Africa, wishing for no other, and, we might repeat the word, no better destiny than to remain Africans having America for their second home. Is this majority to avail anything in settling the question of a continental race for the northern half of the western hemisphere—the locality in question? We think not; and for the reason that it is one of those questions not depending upon man for its solution, on more than is the turning of the food we eat into chyle and eventually into blood. Do we eat? Then by a process of digestion, entirely independent of us, the blood is formed and the body is made. And so in regard to the matter of a continental race. By an evolution perfectly independent of us such a race is to be formed upon the American continent. Nor is there any power in the universe that can prevent it, save the power of Omnipotence. And the manifestation of even this power would be altogether in the line of suspending laws which it had hitherto ordained; and which from the foundation of the earth have been in force. By great physical laws continents produced physical life peculiar to themselves. The physical life of Europe is largely unlike that of either Asia or Africa. And as the physical life of these not only differs from each other, but also differs from that of Europe. And this is true, in the physical life what it may, bird or brute. And all will be found in keeping with the physical environments of the continent in question. As a whole, and in the flesh, the blood, and the bones of the body, but food converted into another flesh, and blood, and bone takes its nature from the first state. From European food flows European blood. And the same is true both of African and Asiatic food. It is the climate of the habitable divergence. As soon expect the birds of the air to displace the fishes of the sea, as that the Anglo-Saxon will supplant either European or African blood. Both are physical impossibilities. The bird must needs stay in the air, the fish in the sea. Continental food, and water, and air must need produce continental bodies. And this, whether men will or not. Nature is imperative. Law is autocratic. A continental race is inevitable. And why not? What is there in America that should exempt it from the rule and law of nature? If Asia, and Africa, and Europe, produce races of men peculiar to themselves, why should not America do the same? Who or what is it that threatens to come between; saying it shall not be done? The fact is, physical law is as supreme in the New World as in the Old; and therefore it must produce its new race. To its great behest, both the white race and the black race must bow. No perpetuation of the Saxon is doing good work in breaking down the white race of aspirations. You may depend upon me for any help I can render you and the cause you so manfully advocate.

Very truly yours,

FRED'K DOUGLASS.

From the Hon. Fred. Douglass:
WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 18, 1883.
DEAR DOCTOR TANNER,—

I think of you as lifting on high a standard for our people. I am only afraid that it may be at times too high to be visible to all. Still I would not have you hold it one inch lower. Our country is in the direction of that of the people among whom we are, and THE RECORDER is doing good work in breaking down the walls of separation. You may depend upon me for any help I can render you and the cause you so manfully advocate.

Very truly yours,

FRED'K DOUGLASS.

DR. TANNER, DEAR SIR:—

I appreciate your paper very much and heartily agree with you in your position on the emigration question. I tell your people they must suffer a while here, even more than they have suffered, and develop a robust man that will command respect and secure success anywhere, here or in Africa. Success to you in your work. I am looking for the time when all Methodism shall be one with our regard to section or color.

Yours fraternally,

From Sam'l B. Schiefelin, Esq., New York:

NEW YORK, March 24, 1883.
Rev. B. T. TANNER:

Dear Sir,—Allow me to compliment you and your denomination for the improvement in the columns of the "Christian Recorder." It is ably edited, is well gotten up and deserves success.

Yours truly,

SAML B. SCHIEFELIN.

THE MISSIONARY SECRETARY is making, we trust, what will be the last call, for the erection of a church in Washington. It certainly will be if the brethren respect the pledges they have made. There is one passage of scripture that we would refer to that still of us have never read. It is found in the fifteenth Psalm, fourth verse. The question is asked, "Who shall abide in thy tabernacle? Who shall dwell in thy holy hill?" The third answer is: "He that sweareth to his own hurt and changeth not." Describing such a character, Patrick says, "he is one who has such respect to religion, that whatever he promises by oath he will perform, though he cannot or even see much by keeping his faith." That our promises in God, especially for the cause of missions, may be sacredly and unconsciously the absolute necessity of keeping them should, therefore, be plain. But as we have said, it would seem that many, very many of us have never read the words above quoted. It is to be hoped, however, that this will not be the case to the present instance. But on the contrary, may the brethren of the conferences who vowed to lift a collection for Hayti, on the 19th of December. I found is as well as any one could ask. It is related to me that the church was burned down here, so I found the people. A few of them were still holding on to the A. M. E. Church, worshiping in the old school house on the north side of the city. I also found a nice foundation for a church 60x80 started by the trustee and for the sake I went to work and I collected $113. A word for Young Israel and C. C. U. A. The members of this society gave an entertainment for the church on the 24th of this month and it was a success. They gave to the church $16, which will make $185 that we have collected."

Rev. I. B. Fletcher, (Daytoos, Fla.), writes: "I started from my work on Feb. 15th, and after traveling thirty-five miles across the country in a mule wagon, I reached Enterprise, Fla. There I met the Rev. H. Hawkins at his post preparing for the conference, and being requested, I served his church and congregation on the 18th at three o'clock P. M. The church was crowded and the congregation was very attentive. On the 19th, we left for Sanford, arriving at Sanford. There we met the Rev. S. H. Coleman who with us went to conference and riding down the St. Johns river to the beautiful steamer Jessie, a one hundred and twenty-five miles, we reached Palatka. There we found Rev. Mr. Hayden to the two conference and miles on the railroad, we reached Gainesville. The conference was a good one, to be remembered. Many things could say about this conference, but I will not submit. A white lady said, 'If that man,' speaking of Bishop Wayman, 'says that another word he will have to leave Gainesville and give him the Bishop's place,' for we saw a colored man preach as he does."

NOTES BY THE WAY.

BY BISHOP WAYMAN.

MR. EDITOR:—There are so many things of interest connected with the colored people in the "Land of Flowers" which constrains me to write and makes me feel as though I was a debtor to them that I was in the New York of the South, Jacksonville, Fla., and Savannah, Ga., to the winter like Newport, R. I., does in the summer and the same is true of this house in the city is full of the wealthy people of the North and Northwest. The Rev. Mr. Bonbonn, the administrator that nearly one-third of Jacksonville is colored, and that the A. M. E. church is three African M. E. Churches in the city and the most recent visit to Jacksonville had the pleasure while in the city to visit all these churches and found they are in a good way to do a good work. previous to the meeting of the last conference, the pastor paid off the last debt on the debts of Mount Zion Church, which is the great church of the A. M. E. Church in Jacksonville, and Sunday, March 11th, was jubilee day and it is said the meeting was very large. It was expected.

Monday morning, March 12th, at five o'clock, I left the New York of the South, (Jacksonville) and take the train for Savannah in good time. This city, like others in Florida, is regally inclined to the colored people. The State located the Agricultural College and also the State University at this place commence. There is another railroad to come into the city from Gainesville, which is the present terminus of the railroad. One of the most amazing things that I have seen in the South is the long horse street car that has just been placed on the streets. There is a driver and the driver and he is also a colored man. This beats anything that I have seen in the South. There are also a many colored men that drive the horses or mules on the street cars. The colored doctors are generally white. In this city there are also colored lawyers and many men and women can be found. Savannah is the home of the late Bishop Campbell, also found a nice foundation for a church 60x80 started by the trustee and for the sake I went to work and I collected $113. A word for Young Israel and C. C. U. A. The members of this society gave an entertainment for the church on the 24th of this month and it was a success. I feel like I had lost a brother or sister. That watch was with me through all the important events of my life."

—The death of Postmaster-General Howe leaves in active public life only three men who, with him, occupied seats in the United States Senate when President Lincoln called it together in special session at the outset of the war. They are Senators Anthony and Sherman, of Rhode Island, the worlds States District Judge for New Hampshire. Not more than half a dozen other members of that Senate are living, among them being Mr. Doolittle, of Wisconsin, Mr. Howe's successor, The Vice President, Hannibal Hamlin, and Senator Chandler.

African Methodism, as we have often said, has grown to be a recognized society of one hundred and forty with a school of over a hundred members, of which they nor anyone need be ashamed."

—Rev. Joseph B. Wright, (Marshallville, Ga.), writes: "We have been laying the ground given to me to build a church on with miles from Berlin, Georgia. We also made arrangements to purchase a half acre of land in Marshallville for $25 to build on. I hope when I write to you I can say that we have a church in Marshallville. We exerted ourselves and the people came together and we opened a fair on the 15th of January past, and the Lord blessed our efforts in finances, we having cleared $208.52, which reduce our debt to $196. After the close of the fair we had a few days recess and then opened a series of meetings and called the people to prayer and invited sinners to come to Christ. They responded, came forward to the altar and twenty-two gave their hearts to God and have united with the church. They are still coming."

DON'T STEP ON A ROLLING STONE!

That is what Captain Allen of the Fire Department of Worcester did, and that was how he hurt his ankle so badly. After the doctor set the broken bone, Captain Allen used Pain's Pain's Pain Killer as a liniment. The suffering was soon over, and the Captain was well in a short time. Knowing the accidents to which firemen are constantly subject, Captain Allen advises everybody connected with a Fire Department to keep a bottle of Pain Killer always on hand.

In 1861 a barrel was made at Sleidelberg, in Germany, which was composed of 112 solid beams, 27 feet in length, 16 feet across the ends, and 18 feet through the centre, and contains 800 hogsheads, yet it was once drank out in slight days.

The mind depends for its health very largely on bodily conditions. The gloomy fears, the desponding views, the weariness of soul and many complaints of, would often disappear were the blood made pure and healthy by the far reaching the delicate vessels of the brain. A yer's Sarsaparilla purifies and vitalizes the blood, and thus conduces to health of body and sanity of mind.

Mrs. J. C. HENDERSON, of Cleveland Ohio, writes: "The use of two of Ayer's Pleasant Purgative Pellets' a day, for a few weeks, has entirely cured me of sick-headache, from which I formerly suffered terribly, as often, on an average, as once in ten days." Of all druggists.

We are persuaded that the ancient Hermes with all the subtle art and natural resources of the Alchemists, was a very poor doctor compared with Mrs Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass. Hermes was never able to show all the clever practitioner of the Black Art; but we know there is no humbug in the Pharmaceutical skill of Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

UNION BETHEL A. M. E. CHURCH, WASHINGTON, D. C.

Rev Jas. A. Shorter, Wilberforce, Green Co., Ohio.

MY DEAR SIR AND BISHOP:—This will inform you that our new building is rapidly approaching completion; that is to say, the brick work is done. The roof framing, the sheathing, &c., is all finished. We only need to have the slate put on to complete the roofing in. We need one thousand dollars to get the slate and put it in place. My people here are doing all that any reasonable person could demand and still we are short of one thousand dollars to secure our roof.

This is therefore to ask you, my dear Bishop, in order to my presenting the members of our Church in your district in decade through their pastor, at least two cents each to help us in our efforts to secure our house of worship. You can arrange to have the amount they collect send to you or to us. Hoping, praying and trusting to hear from you by return mail, I am

Yours obediently,
JAS. A. HANDY.

Dear Brethern of the Third Episcopal District:

I think I hear the above appeal and forthwith answer by taking up a collection for the above purposes and forwarding the same to Rev. J. A. Handy, No. 1306 16th street, N. W., Washington, D. C. It is not expected of you all to raise a large collection; do the best you can, and little pennies will be much needed; let not a man of the district fail to send something. Send in March if possible, if not, in April; and I am protested by circumstances that you cannot collect until May, then as early in that month as possible. Speak out, brethren. I want to hear you, and I will speak also.

Your affectionate Bishop,
JAS A. SHORTER.

Wilberforce, Ohio.

NOTICE.

We have just received the list of ministerial subscribers of the Georgia Conference, which met in Darien, Ga., in 1882. We received it from the chairman of the committee on Publishing Department, Rev. W. H. Powell. He desires all the brethren who do not get their paper to drop him a card and tell us where their paper went last year and where they want it sent this year. He has failed to get a large number of the postal cards. We would have a good deal of trouble if the brethren would send their money to us and get their receipt before going to conference, then they could present their receipts as so much money collected and subscribing, when conference closes and they should drop us a card to inform us of any change. Make your remittances to us and then there would be no necessity of losing a paper. We do not the brethren observe this rule.

SKIRT SUPPORTER.

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

IT LEADS ALL.

No other blood purifying medicine is made, or has ever been prepared, which so nearly approaches the ideal standard of excellence and the general public so

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

It leads the list as a truly scientific preparation, and in the power of its cures. Other preparations may be found in the market, but for real, radical, and permanent cures of all diseases originating in impure blood, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best and cheapest. It is the only medicine you can rely upon when all others fail to relieve or cure.

SCROFULA

in its worst forms, yields to the purifying, invigorating influence of this medicine. Even those far gone in consumption, with active disease in the lungs, have been restored to perfect health by its use. Physicians, who have tested its virtues in their practice, use it in their own families, in preference to any other. Druggists, who have sold it for years, know its record for cures, and can point to hundreds of their neighbors who have been restored to health by its use.

CATARRH

is a disease which is rapidly developed by the impurities in the blood. Ayer's Sarsaparilla, by its thorough action on the blood, expels the poisonous germs of Catarrh, and thus cures the disease. Many remarkable cures of this loathsome disease have been effected by this medicine.

are speedily healed when Ayer's Sarsaparilla is taken internally and its wash applied externally. Many severe cases of Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Ringworm, Blotches, Pimples, and Eruptions of the skin have been completely cured by this medicine.

"THE GERMAN ELEMENT IN THE UNITED STATES."

In the April number of Lippincott's Magazine, which, by the way, is not on our exchange list, Mr. E. V. Smalley contributes an article upon the above caption. We could wish that it were universally read by the class of which among us who insist upon an "African destiny" for the colored element in the United States. Were it possible at all to improve this class by a rational display of the forces at work in our country, we might have more hope of seeing them accept what is so palpable to others. Of this, however, we have but little hope. So dominated are they by "feelings" that their death in the wilderness is almost certain. The article referred to, after discussing the German element in our midst, its number and its influence, the writer comes to the question of its destiny, giving us the information that it is one largely discussed by German newspapers and by German clubs. The questions are asked: Will the Teutonic race lose its identity in the New World? and, Will its language become extinct here?

In reaching an answer to these, Mr. Smalley shows how determined were the German immigrants of thirty and forty years ago, not only to preserve their identity and language, but to Germanize new Germany is the far West. He says:

It was hoped that one or two of the Western States would be almost wholly peopled by German settlers, that German colleges and universities would spring up, German newspapers be established, a German literature developed—in a word, that the German race would accomplish there what the English race accomplished in New England two centuries ago.

All this, however, proved a dream; and by the mighty logic of events it has been so completely pushed aside, that not even the Germans themselves, Frederick Kapp being authority for this, or wish for other than a destiny in common with the American people.

What the strong man cannot accomplish, it is folly for the weak man to attempt; and so the wise and the foolish, the educated and the ignorant. If the German cannot preserve his identity and language in the New World, how can the negro hope to? Let it not be said that he is of a different race. Such only spells with race prejudice in the mind, and not even then, as the presentations of to-day show. The fact is, the negro has already entirely lost his language and half fully one-half his identity; and it is entirely too late now to make fight for what remains, even if fight were possible, which we question. One-half our identity gone, we say. Fully. With no white blood flowing in his veins, the negro American, owing to circumstances, and with education, is already so lost his identity that we would wager to distinguish him from his pure African brother in nine cases out of ten. His whole physiognomy has so perceptibly changed by the conditions of his American habitat that he is no more like the Western African than is the Pennsylvania "Dutch," with blood largely pure, like their ancestors of the Fatherland in Germany.

To use the parlance of the street, "the case is up with us." There is naught to do but surrender to an American destiny.

THE CONTRACT.

Scarcely more than a week ago, one of our city Methodist Episcopal Churches —white—refused to accept the minister appointed by the Bishop, and was not only in its opposition as to make it necessary for the appointment to be changed. The incident set us to thinking of what is still a contract between the individual churches of Methodist polity, the preachers of the same, and the Bishops. What is this contract? On the part of the churches they agree that they will "submit to the discipline, doctrine and government of the——Methodist Episcopal Church, and will at all times themselves permit such ministers and preachers belonging to said church to preach and expound God's holy word therein." This is done when at the dedication the keys of the church are surrendered to the officiating ministers in token of the acceptance on the part of the church of the contract referred to. It requires, therefore, no very great effort to see that the Methodist Church, of whatever branch, which refuses to accept the pastor sent, breaks the contract into which it fully and freely entered. Nor let it be said that the contract is fulfilled as long as it agrees to allow a minister or preacher who may belong to said church to officiate, provided he fulfils the requirement of the last portion of the contract, but it would not meet the first requirement. It is promised to submit to the "discipline, doctrine and government" of said church. According to this discipline, the power is given the Bishops to designate the minister who shall go to this church or that, and the church refusing to accept the minister so sent, therefore breaks that portion of the contract.

But what is the contract as it relates to the ministers and preachers of churches under the Methodist form of ecclesiastical government? It is first —consented to at their reception—that they shall employ their time in the ministerial field, conferences shall direct. Again all, if you labor with us in the vineyard of the Lord, it is necessary you should do that part of the work which we advise, at those times and places which we judge most for his glory." And secondly—consented to at their ordination, in the presence of many: Will you be ready cally obey your chief ministers unto whom is committed the charge and government over you, following with a good mind and will their godly admonitions, submitting yourselves to their godly judgments?" Answer: "I will do so, the Lord being my helper."

What is the burden of this part of the contract as it relates to the minister? It is, in brief, that he will respect the appointment of the Bishops and of those whom they shall send. Not because he may wish to go, nor because he may wish not to go, as the case may be, but as he is sent. If not the name on the regular list and send the paper the balance of its months, or for $1.75 the balance of the year. No name will be entered on the regular list until something is paid.

If the German cannot preserve his identity and language in the New World, how can the negro hope to? Let it not be said that he is of a different race. Such only spells with race prejudice in the mind, and not even then, as the presentations of to-day show. The fact is, the negro has already entirely lost his language and half fully one-half his identity; and it is entirely too late now to make fight for what remains, even if fight were possible, which we question. One-half our identity gone, we say. Fully. With no white blood flowing in his veins, the negro American, owing to circumstances, and with education, is already so lost his identity that we would wager to distinguish him from his pure African brother in nine cases out of ten. His whole physiognomy has so perceptibly changed by the conditions of his American habitat that he is no more like the Western African than is the Pennsylvania "Dutch," with blood largely pure, like their ancestors of the Fatherland in Germany.

To use the parlance of the street, "the case is up with us." There is naught to do but surrender to an American destiny.

THE CONTRACT.

Scarcely more than a week ago, one of our city Methodist Episcopal Churches —white—refused to accept the minister appointed by the Bishop, and was not only in its opposition as to make it necessary for the appointment to be changed. The incident set us to thinking of what is still a contract between the individual churches of Methodist polity, the preachers of the same, and the Bishops. What is this contract? On the part of the churches they agree that they will "submit to the discipline, doctrine and government of the——Methodist Episcopal Church, and will at all times themselves permit such ministers and preachers belonging to said church to preach and expound God's holy word therein." This is done when at the dedication the keys of the church are surrendered to the officiating ministers in token of the acceptance on the part of the church of the contract referred to. It requires, therefore, no very great effort to see that the Methodist Church, of whatever branch, which refuses to accept the pastor sent, breaks the contract into which it fully and freely entered. Nor let it be said that the contract is fulfilled as long as it agrees to allow a minister or preacher who may belong to said church to officiate, provided he fulfils the requirement of the last portion of the contract, but it would not meet the first requirement. It is promised to submit to the "discipline, doctrine and government" of said church. According to this discipline, the power is given the Bishops to designate the minister who shall go to this church or that, and the church refusing to accept the minister so sent, therefore breaks that portion of the contract.

But what is the contract as it relates to the ministers and preachers of churches under the Methodist form of ecclesiastical government? It is first —consented to at their reception—that they shall employ their time in the ministerial field, conferences shall direct. Again all, if you labor with us in the vineyard of the Lord, it is necessary you should do that part of the work which we advise, at those times and places which we judge most for his glory." And secondly—consented to at their ordination, in the presence of many: Will you be ready cally obey your chief ministers unto whom is committed the charge and government over you, following with a good mind and will their godly admonitions, submitting yourselves to their godly judgments?" Answer: "I will do so, the Lord being my helper."

What is the burden of this part of the contract as it relates to the minister? It is, in brief, that he will respect the appointment of the Bishops and of those whom they shall send. Not because he may wish to go, nor because he may wish not to go, as the case may be, but as he is sent. If not, he should be pleased to go, because he has been appointed. And as it is with the churches who refuse to accept, so the minister who refuses to go, breaks the contract.

We come lastly to the portion of the contract accepted by the Bishops, as it relates to appointing ministers to serve the churches, the question under discussion. What is it? It is, first, that they [illegible] "faithful" in such appointments. "Will you be faithful?" he is asked at his ordination, "in ordaining, sending, or laying hands upon others?" And the answer is: "I will do so by the help of God." It is scarcely necessary to inquire as to the idea here embraced. It is to be observed, however, that the second, also, as it relates to the Bishops' contract with the churches and ministers. It is that his admonitions shall be such as we shall also be his judgment godly when appointing ministers to their fields of labor. The force of the latter will readily be understood, needs no explanation at our hand. To admonish, therefore, or to appoint in any other than a godly way, is to break the contract.

As we survey this contract, agreed to by the above parties in question, the question arises, Is it not being violated? If so, the one thing noticeable about it is that each has agreed to surrender something. On the part of the churches, they agree to surrender their choice of pastors, permitting to take in the same. On the part of the ministers, they agree to surrender their choice of fields, promising to take in the same. On the part of the Bishops they agree to surrender their godly when appointing ministers to their fields of labor. The force of the latter will readily be understood, needs no explanation at our hand. To admonish, therefore, or to appoint in any other than a godly way, is to break the contract.

MACKEREL AT OUR BOARDING-HOUSE.

Few people who eat salt mackerel stop to think of the adventurous life led by the men engaged in catching the creatures. These men are subject to hard knocks and every kind of exposure. The celebrated fishery house of Jas. G. Torr & Bro., Gloucester, Mass., say: "We have had on board our vessels frequent cases of colds, bruises, sprains, and summer complaints. Our captains say they wouldn't go to sea without PERRY DAVIS'S PAIN KILLER."

Poverty is hard, but debt is horrible; a man might as well have a smoky house and scolding wife, which are said to be the two worst evils of our life.

HUMBUGGED AGAIN.

I saw so much said about the merits of Hop Bitters, and my wife who was always doctoring, and never well, teased me so urgently to get her some, I concluded to be humbugged again; and I am glad I did, for in less than two months' use of the Bitters, my wife was cured, and she has remained so for eighteen months since. I like such humbugging.—H. T., St. Paul.—Pioneer Press.

In this condition I sent for a box of Tutt's Pills, and took one at bed time. Can now lay on either side; no piles; have good appetite, and gaining strength every day. They have brought me out all right."

The Ins and Outs of Oak Hall.

THE INS.

In Oak Hall to-day a stock of Men's and Boys' Clothing that we are proud of.
In mind to-day, especially, Light Overcoats.
In style—correct every one of them.
In price—from $7 to $30.
In quantity—thousands, and hundreds more making.
Indiscreet—you certainly will be, if you buy your Spring Overcoat without knowing what Oak Hall can do.

THE OUTS.

Out of style. Yes, our salesrooms are quite.—The ceilings are low and the rooms very plain, but they do not dwarf the stock. A diamond is none the less brilliant for a plain setting.
Out of the way. An unfashionable thoroughfare is Market street. Yet this does not hinder the progress of our art in tailoring. Look at our clothing.
Out of old stock. Yes, to keep old goods is a lost art in Oak Hall.
Out of patience. You will be soon and so will drop our advertisement. Therefore we stop.

MACKEREL AT OUR BOARDING-HOUSE.

Few people who eat salt mackerel stop to think of the advantages it is led by the men engaged in catching the creatures. These men are subject to hard knocks and very kind of experience. The celebrated fishery house of Jas. G. Tarr & Bro., Gloucester, Mass., say: "We have had on board our vessels frequent cases of colds, bruises, sprains, and summer complaints. Our captains say they wouldn't go to sea without PAIN'T DAVIS'S PAIN KILLER."

Poverty is bad, but debt is horrible; a starved night as well bay- a smoky house and scolding wife, which are said to be the two worst evils of our life.

HUMBUGGED AGAIN.

I saw so much said about the merits of Hop Bitters, and my wife who was always doctoring, and never well, seemed so urgently to put her sense, I concluded to be humbugged again; and I am glad I did, for in less than two months' use of the Bitters, my wife was cured, and she has remained so for eighteen months since. I like such humbugging.—H. T., St. Paul.—Pioneer Press

In this condition I took a box of Tutt's Pills, and took one at bed time. Can now be up and about my office; have good appetite, and going strongth every day. They have brought me out all right."

Remember that your grow older every day; if you have bad habits, they grow older too; and the longer both grow together the harder they are to separate.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.: Dear Sir—For many months I was a great sufferer. Physicians could afford me no relief. In my despair I commenced the use of your "Favorite Prescription." It speedily effected my entire and permanent cure. Yours thankfully, MRS PAUL R. BAXTER, Iowa City, Ia.

THINK OF IT NOW!

Although much is said about the importance of a blood-purifying medicine, it may be questioned that the subject has never received the general prominence it deserves. Think of it now!

Almost every disease has its origin in impure, poisonous blood, the virus. When this develops in Scrofula, Salt-rheum, Erysipelas, or in the form of Rheumatism, or Organic Blockages, the suffering that ensues is terrible. Hence the importance of what the disease, as thousands yearly do, that will thoroughly eradicate this evil from the system.

As self-aspect this without fail as health without pain blood. Cleanse the blood with AYER'S SARSAPARILLA.

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all Druggists; $1; six bottles for $5.

Ayer's Pills.

After the bowels are regulated, one of these Pills, taken each day after dinner, is usually all that is required to complete the cure.

AYER'S PILLS are unsurpassed and purely vegetable—a pleasant, safe cathartic.

We are glad to learn that Rev. Jas. Frisby, who has been quite ill, is getting better.

What a deep regret we learn of the death of Rev. Wm. Accoos, another one of our much beloved and faithful ministers.

Owing to the sudden and severe illness of Mrs. H. C. Brown, the meeting announced from being present at the Wilmington Semi-Bally.

Bethel Church, Rev. J. A. Thompson, pastor, preached at 10:30 A. M., from Daniel 1: 8 subject, a standard sermon. Sunday school met at the usual hour. A very interesting lesson was rendered. Rev. Snell's vocalloo. Evening Rev. C. Pickett, of Marshall, Texas, preached from Job vii, 21.

At Cherry street Baptist Church the pastor officiated both morning and afternoon, preaching in the morning from Psa. xl, 7, "The volume of the book is written of me." In the afternoon he was assisted in the upward march of the Sabbath-school, which was in session at 3 o'clock. The audience at night was on usual large.

At Centre street A. M. E. Church Germantown, Rev. J. H. Hargrove, pastor, Sunday, April 15th, preaching in the A. M. at 11 o'clock, and in the P. M. at 2:30, the Sabbath school reviled a very interesting lesson. Title, "God's Covenant Sealed." Text, "In the morning by Ben. J. Wilson, of Chester City, from the 24th Psalm, 7th. This discourse was well delivered and taken.

At the P. E. Church of the Crucifix, on the 8th inst., Rev. Dr. Boyer preached in the morning, taking for his text St. Matthew 11, 12. And in the evening service the Rev. Mr. Phillips preached from Heb 1, 16. The was the first of a series of sermons to be given "Lenten." The service promises to be a deeply interesting one and those who are entitled to receive the Rev. J. F. Williams, of St. Thomas' Church, will read one of the for his text John 11: 10. "Thou hast kept the good wine until now." Tomorrow (Friday) night Bishop Ozi Powers will administer the rite of confirmation.

Brother Harris was converted at the close of the sermon, which were very solemn. The remains were interred in Glen Olive Cemetery. At 7:30 P. M. Rev. I. FREE WILL OFFERING.—A grand free will offering was tendered to Rev. A. M. B. Church, Rev. Jos. W. Beckett, pastor, on Tuesday evening, March 20th, 1883. It was well attended and the contributions to our esteemed and the contributions to our esteemed pastor were liberal. The location of the church for Reason remained undisturbed until the close of the evening, and added to the occasion. The whole affair was a success, and reflects credit on the pastor and congregation. Many kind sentiments were so complete that the pastor was taken entirely by surprise. Everything went off pleasantly. The was but a slight testimonial of the esteem in which the pastor is held by his congregation. His efforts when he first came to this charge were crowned with success, and financially dead, is going her from a dead level to a living position. The church is now self-supported. He enters upon the second year of his pastorate with the church has been blessed and many souls have been added to the church. Two talents were planted in the soil, and two were planted in the soil, and two were planted in the soil, and two

"HAIL STONES AS BIG AS PUMPKINS."

There is some doubt about the hailstones having been quite so large, but as some people said they were as large as potatoes anyhow, it must have been a very severe storm. A man who sells with many hail-stones will be badly bruised. It is surprising to see how quickly Perry Davis' Pain Killer will relieve the pain, even of the worst bruises.

Agnosticism is often treated with great contempt and severity by us. Strange that we should find the word in the New Testament; and let us not forget the all-gracious Christ can pity it, "who can have compassion on the ignorant" (the agnostics), and upon those that are out of the way."—Waldward.

HUMBUGGED AGAIN.

I saw so much said about the merits of Hop Bitters, that my wife who was always doctoring, and never well, teased me so urgently to get her some, I concluded to be bumbugged again; and I am glad I did, for in less than two months' use of the bitters, my wife was cured, and she best remained so for eighteen months since. I like such humbugging.—H. T., St. Paul.—Pioneer Press.

Any duty neglected prepares us for a new disobedience—any sin committed paves the way for fresh transgressions; each claims done, and temptations repulsed, fit us for new victories in the fight of faith, greater advancements in the heavenly course.

The great value of Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for all diseases of women is demonstrated by every day experience. The writer of this had occasion to step into the principal Pharmacy of a city of 140,000 inhabitants, and on inquiry as to which is the most popular proprietary medicine of the time, was answered, that Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound occupies a most conspicuous place in the front rank of all remedies of this class.—Journal.

When Christians get in earnest, we may be sure they can surprise and amaze the world as much as in the days of Pentecost. They only need to work together, and they can break down any citadel of sin, like intemperance or bribery in politics.

The Vegetable Kingdom furnishes a remedy free from all deleterious effects. Such are Tutt's Pills.

You will not be sorry for hearing before judging, for thinking before speaking, for biting a angry tongue, for stopping the ears of a tale-bearer, for disbelieving most of the ill reports, for being kind to the deformed, for being patient towards everybody, for doing good to all sorts of people, for bearing all wrongs, for speaking evil of no one, for being courteous to all.

If you experience bad taste in mouth, sallow skin, pimples, offensive odor of skin, foul stupid and drowsy, appetite unsteady, sometimes headache or dizziness, you are "bilious," and nothing will arouse your liver to action and strengthen up your system equal to Dr Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." There is seldom a man of glory without a birth-mark in his face but a line of suffering runs parallel with it, and they are found in the closing syllables of the one, and stop not to decipher the worn inscription of the other, get the lesser half of the lesson earth has to give.

is good philosophy, but to do so you must have health. If bilious and constipated, or blood is out of order, see Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets," which are mild, but certain in their operation. Of all druggists.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once, it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, it soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

UNION BETHEL A. M. E. CHURCH } WASHINGTON, D. C.
Rev Jas. A. Shorter, Wilberforce, Green Co., Ohio.

MY DEAR SIR AND BISHOP:—The will inform you that our new building is rapidly approaching completion; that is to say, the brick work is done. The roof framing, the sheathing, &c., is all finished. We only need to taste the slate pot to to complete the roofing in. We need one thousand dollars to get the slate and put it in place. My people here are doing all that any reasonable person could demand and still we are short all of one thousand dollars to secure our roof.

This is therefore to ask you, my dear Bishop, to assist us by requesting the members of our Church in your district to donate through their pastor, at least ten cents each to help us in our efforts to secure our house of worship. You can arrange to have the amount they collect sent to you or to me. Hoping, praying and trusting to hear from you by return mail, I am

Yours obediently,
JAS. A. HAMBY.

Dear Brethren of the Third Episcopal District:

Hark! Hear the above appeal and letter. I hope you will give it full attention for the above purpose and forward the ten cents to Rev. J. A. Handy, No. 1306 16th street, N. W., Washington, D. C. It is not expected of you all to be raised a large collection; do the best you can, and little or much send it immediately, with a man of the district ill to send something. Send in March if possible, if not, in April; and if prevented by circumstances that you can not control until May, then as early in that month as possible. Speak out, brethren. I want to hear from you, and I will speak back to you.

Your affectionate Bishop.

RHEUMATISM. "Eight years ago I had such attack of Rheumatism in my right shoulder as to prevent me from using the arm, or combing my hair. I could not move from the bed, or even turn myself in it, without assistance. I was confined to my room for three months. I have since been at times severely afflicted with Rheumatism, but never to the extent I was at that time. I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla, by the use of two bottles of which I was entirely relieved. I have sold large quantities of your Sarsaparilla, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. Poetry.

SPRING.

BY E. S. GEORGE.

Don't you hear the whisper,
Through the leaves and flowers,
Of the Blue rain drops
That shall change to showers?

Countless busy fingers
Just beneath our feet,
Working, wearing, weaving
All the blooms sweet.

Oh! the cunning workers,
From the dark, here and world,
Wearing cloth of purple,
Scarlet, green and gold.

Wearing in the sunshine,
Through each happy hour,
Into tissue fine,
Into leaf and flower.

Never cloth of shuttle,
All of loom-work wrought,
God's great work to nature
Silent as a thought.

CHRISTIAT THE HELM.

The boldest craft, of all the rest, is that of which

DESERTS OF SHIPBOARD.

There were features of life on the ocean that were certainly tantalizing and ridiculous. We have habit of putting our clothes on a chair as we take them off at night. We followed this custom on ship board. When we got into rough seas we experienced a very great annoyance and trouble in getting dressed in the morning. The ship rolled so at times that it seemed as if we were in a hole. Imagine that you are on board a ship. Things go tumbling about and all mixed up during the night. Your valise is in one corner with its contents every which way, and your clothes are unfortunately left on the sofa when you retired, which has tipped over, and is rolling from one side of your room to the other—coats, breeches, tomb soap, razor, etc., all rolling around after it, trying, let us imagine, to get into the satchel before you awake. But that satchel, like the Irishman's flea, will not stand still. You are awakened suddenly amidst the sound of smashing dishes and glasses. You jump out of bed only to be thrown like a ball from one side to the other and to be made to feel—"woman as I am I too going to be seasick." You look for your slippers and they are not. Shoes, pants, coats, vests, collars, cuffs, and socks, are all piled up in a disordered heap under your berth. You get down on your hands and knees, search after slippers, and socks, and collar, and cuffs, and shoes, and pants, and coat, and vest, and you are pitched by some heavy sea headlong under the berth, and you get your head bumped. You get out from under, cuffs, and socks, etc., followed you when you were pitched under the berth, and you were going to dress there. Enough. You leave your toilet to itself, and the ship, the waves, the darkness and the wind, and the storm-clouds blotted out the stars; the lightning flashed, the thunder rolled, and never the deck sweeping everything before it. Then you are awakened by the cry of "All hands on deck!" and Liverpool. Many sailors had to be put in irons for refusing to obey orders, and imprisonment unless they took to their duties. But the storm did not last long. One man said, "Wiggins ought to be hung."

LIVERPOOL AT LAST.

On Sunday morning, March 11th, we were suddenly aroused by the stoppage of the engine, and found going on as usually for eleven days. Of course, was inquiring if we were near Liverpool. I jumped out of bed, looked out of the port-hole, and saw a pilot boat from the shore of the great English city flashed upon me. We were in the English channel, and in safety. It was New Brighton. The first thing that struck me was the beautiful beach lined with beautiful residences. It was New Brighton. Then I saw the docks. The tide was low tide. The docks are numerous, remarkable and peculiar. They are far into the city, within gates that open and shut with the tide. At flood tide the gates are opened and vessels go into the docks. At ebb tide they are closed so as to keep the ships afloat at the docks. Millions of dollars must have been expended in the construction of the sea walls and the erection of the wharves.

THE STEAMSHIP TURNS OUT THE WORLD.

About nine o'clock a small steamer came to the side of our ship and took us away to the city. We passed through the Custom House and on to our hotel. Then, after brushing up, we went to a Wesleyan Chapel and reverently worshipped God. As we sat in the sanctuary, our mind turned home, to dear friends who bade us good-by in the city of Philadelphia, to the ship, and as we sang and prayed, we felt, "truly this is the house of God." We were not in it a large hall or church, but there was some confusion of ideas on the subject; and hence the necessity of worship.

It is plainly to be seen that the white race-idea which our government set was organized, broad as it is, will not be sufficient for the work of the future. The government has by artificial arrangements brought the people to a common citizenship; by natural laws it will as by abnormal conditions, the people have been largely moulded into a common race. Here on this soil, the one-ness of a marked variety of the human race has been practically of the oneness of the entire species, already practically demonstrated, and it comes, ultimately, the idea which shall perpetuate our government, and bless the progress of mankind a contribution to the world.

Again, the great enlargement of the race-idea was reached when color was made the basis of classification. Several varieties of the human races—inferior and superior, subordinate and dominant, were blended in one great white race, and this composite race established on this continent as a government, resting on the principle that the equality of MAN, but in fact recognizing only the equality of the white man. This distinction, founded upon color, was admirably suited to the beginning of the republic, but nevertheless a contention of a civilization out of which a republican government could grow, it developed the broadest basis for the grouping of mankind that the world had up to that time seen. It became a league, offensive and defensive, against the Red man. And this government to which we sprang up under the dominance of the white race, "we are tazed" were a people. The idea had a very strong foundation. It possessed the elements of a civilization out of which a republican government could grow. It

MARKING INIQUITY.

The figure of speech in the mind of the Psalmist was of the wrong of the wicked. "If thou, Lord, shouldst mark iniquity, O Lord who shall stand?" was that of the Lord keeping tally, as it were, with every sinful thought or word, for both which the children of men in general and His portion of them in particular, should tremble. David says, If God here to do this, who shall stand? The answer plainly is: None. "For there is no man which sinneth not." Therefore, if none good but one, that is God." Woe, then, to the men of this world, if God mark iniquity. And if not, why not? Why mark sin at all? Why keep account of it? If not at some time payment is not to be demanded? This is the very purpose of marking. That the matter may be known. That the exact bill may be sent in. But why send a large bill when it is manifest that not even a smallone can be paid? Why demand pay for the misdoings of a year, when it is impossible to pay for the misdoing of a day? Verily it is as the Psalmist says: Man can stand when God marks iniquity: that is, none can make payment.

The one thing, therefore, to be contended for, is that God forgive. Nor is it when to rest content without a knowledge of this forgiveness. Is this the wrong? Does our conscience so witness that waves of distress roll over us? The needful thing is, not peace, but the Divine forgiveness. Contend for this. He not satisfied if the awakened and outraged conscience, after hearing the frightful witness, lulls away. Who knows but the occasion of the lull may arise from the fact that God, having marked the sin down, proposes to delay exacting payment. But what good is there in that? To delay the punishment is not what is wanted, for the punishment of sin is hell: but rather to escape it. This can only be brought about by obtaining the Divine forgiveness, and this is what we should seek, and more earnestly, too, than we seek peace of mind or anything else. Peace of mind is most desirable, but must be preceded by the Divine love as manifested in the Divine forgiveness, it is to be refused. "If thou, Lord, shouldst mark iniquity, O Lord, who shall stand?"

DIVIDE THE SPOILS

What means the war of words between the "rebels" of the New World and those of the United States portion of it—and the threatened war of arms? Plainly it would seem to be a falling out about the spoils. Empire insists on having not only the lion's share of the prey, but all of it. By the right of discovery—by your moral principle, I do not care to discuss principles of religious liberty to fight for questions of the Jesuits propagandism beside the Catholic Church: the seeds do sell together in peace and harmony, and even the infidel is taken by the hand. I have your philanthropy—the abolition of slavery, the fatherless, the destitute and the outcast are provided for, and even the dumb beast finds a warm friend and defender. In one division, I wish all health and happiness to the American people, and to this portion I do the memorial commemoration of the expression which it has evinced and the promises to eclipse those of all nations gone before.

The second is by General Grant:

We desire to see the Republics of this continent live and strive with us, not by force, but in the race of civilization and in the attainment of prosperity. We, in the common interest, and the flag of a common destiny wave from the Arctic seas to the Antarctic again, whatever different banners the nations may gather around. While at my visit to Mexico, I found a strong feeling of fear of an invasion from the United States. But I told them that the time was past when we took any country on any pretext. I have no invasion from the United States. But I told them that the time was past when we took any country on any pretext. I have no invasion from the United States, unless it was desired by the people of such locations. But the Republics of this continent should always be united in interests and sympathy.

Omaha College, well known as the college which bore the brunt in the anti-slavery struggle, and the first to open the way for the higher education of women, will celebrate its fiftieth anniversary on the fourth of next July. This "Jubilee Celebration," as it is aptly termed, will bring together a host of graduates—they number more than two thousand, among them not a few colored—and many distinguished men, outside from her own alumni, who are the friends of education and reform; for it should be remembered that Oberlin is looked upon as a centre of progression, New School Theology and of earnest Temperance sentiment. It will be, in fact, a kind of review of our national history for the past fifty years, and hence an affair of minimal public interest. It is intended to furnish a few leading newspapers with copies of the Jubilee Notes, in a ten page pamphlet, from which items of general interest may be copied. We expect to keep the readers of the CHRISTIAN RECORDER fairly posted in a celebration that may be said to be of national importance.

England and America have had their joke recently, but in this sense far more than in the sense of the term, the other is actually making a black Ireland of Jamaica. It is so, she may rest assured that as Ireland in the West Indies would be more than an Ireland next door:

The Queen has just made an order in Privy Council providing that any three chief members of the Legislative Council may pass laws in Jamaica without any legislature and ruling the colony without any representative of the people being present.

And yet Judge O'Connor, the law officer of the State Department, is heard to say, "Why, even Jamaica has its legislative body."

We beg brethren who have sent us communications to be a little more patient. We appreciate highly the articles they have sent, and they will soon appear. Those who have not yet received will remember that in both the issues previous to the last, we were deprived of quite one-third our usual space. This was a loss to us, but we shall endeavor to catch up. In the meantime let brethren who have carefully prepared articles send them on.

The Sidereal Messenger for April is at hand. Published by Wm. W. Payne, Director of Carleton College Observatory, Northfield, Minn., it must and more is commanding the attention of the older and more favored Observatories of the East. The illustrations of the present month is the great nebula in the Warner Observatory, Rochester, N. Y.

The Catalogue of Howard University for 1882-83, makes a most excellent showing. With an excellent Board of Trustees, a strong Faculty, and all the departments full, if not crowded, some magnificent work ought to be done, and doubtless is. That a little more money is needed, the Faculty, we think, a matter of regret.

England has sent the sloop of war "Dragon" to Madagascar, while our own government has decided to promote its agent on the Island to the rank of Consul. Exactly what is intended these marks of friendship will have upon the designing French, is yet to be seen.

The harvest is white. Let him who doubts look out upon the field. The grace which assures success abounds. Why then the delay in bringing in the sheaves? As an incentive to work, remember that death is in the land.

We give the People's Advocate a warm shake of the hand upon its new dress. The entire appearance of the paper is exceedingly creditable to the colored press fraternity. May the lively-headed editor live long.

Let those who are in plenty and in power to-day, read the following, and say it to heart: "The needy shall not always be forgotten; the expectations of the poor shall not perish forever."

"Work unto thee," says the prophet Isaiah, "that men may come to thee, knowing, that they may follow after strong drink." That is, woe to them that take their morning "toddy."

Personal.

—Rev. B. W. Timothy, having recently joined the M. E. Church, has been transferred to Missouri.

—Rev. B. W. Arnett, Financial Secretary and Treasurer of the Parent Educational Fund, was in this city on a visit during the past week.

—Prof. Greener delivered an argument before the N. Y. School Board last week in favor of the retention of the colored teachers in the public schools.

—"It is stated," says The People's Advocate, "that Rev. R. H. Cain, D.D., is under serious consideration the idea of going some day to Africa as a missionary."

—Mrs. H. A. Beaudict, a wealthy lady of Pawnucket, R. I., has recently given $10,000 to the Benedict Institute, New York, a school for the gratuitous education of colored men for the ministry and missionary effort.

One of our exchanges says, referring to Jeffries:

He still continues to make money, and if there is a vast deal to be done in the world, he is doing it. Everywhere everywhere, and there is a stepping stone for higher things wherever he places his foot, and he does so often.

It is questionable whether the negro is any more ready to do "menial" work than the "Origin of Species" by Darwin, or if we are to believe what some people say of him. The real truth is, he has at least the average industry of the race, and possibly a little more. As to this giving him a steppingstone for higher things, wherever he has the talent and the push for it, it is to be said that such a thought would have been impossible to other than an American.

A brother in Arkansas writes:

Can a pastor be absent from his charge two months, leaving it in the management of the hands of an exhorter when he has two local preachers? And what is to be done?

Can a pastor be absent two months? Yes, if he is sick in bed and cannot get there. Otherwise the presumption is that a pastor who is absent from his charge for six or eight months, leaving it in the hands of an exhorter when he has two local preachers, is not doing his duty. The Workman seldom ever does. He seldom draws conclusions from the hopeful leasure of negro life, which is constantly given. It is well enough to be conservative, but it is possible to be well enough at times to breathe the air of to-day.

To Mr. Schieffelin, of New York, we are indebted for the next several hundred copies of "Index to the Bible." It also contains "A Harmony of the Gospels," and "Lists and Index of Parables, Miracles and Discourses of our Lord." We hesitate not to say that there is not a preacher in our church, whether he be local or itinerant, but would be the wiser and the better informed by the possession of such a book. Indeed it is necessary to all who make the Bible their study, whether they be in the ministry or out of it. We deem ourselves fortunate in having this most excellent little book at our disposal. Mr. Schieffelin believing that through our Publication Department, it could best be distributed within reach of the ministry of our people.

We have received an Abstract of the Report of the Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church for the year 1882. It is a pamphlet of 16 pages, and we might conclude that the work to Liberia and Africa had been entirely surrendered. By close looking we do, however, find that a very small sum has been set apart for colored teachers in the public schools.

"It is stated," says The People's Advocate, "that Rev. R. Nelson, Ohio, has been appointed Assistant Secretary of the Board of Education, $1,000 having been appropriated. And to do the same by Christian Scandinavia, $15,851. This may possibly be more of our business than it is ours to meddle. We did not forget the Liberia Mission Conference.

Miss Hettie Rogers, (St. Charles, Mo.) writes: "We have been engaged in a series of meetings and have been greatly blessed. The church labored with unabated interest for nine weeks, resulting in the conversion of many souls and precious souls and the accession of seventy-five members to the church. One church and Sabbath school are in good condition, though still struggling. We are now going to engage in arranging matters for a grand camisia, announced for the month of May.

Rev. T. A. Brown, (Paris, Tenn.), referring to the doings of the district meeting, says: "The meetings were unusually full of interest discussed from day to day, such as the "Origin of Species," "One of the best means of inducing sinners to come to Christ," "Most useful to encourage more than once?" "Is it according to Scripture to take infantsinto the church?" From day to day we could hear people in listening to the various committees' reports, as follows: Temperance, Missionance, Sabbath schools, camp-meetings, etc. Many souls were brought to the mercy seat under Bishop Campbell, which drew remarks of sympathy from the brethren.

Mrs. Rosa A. Stewart, (Warrenton, Warren Co., Miss.), writes: "Rev. J. P. Thompson is at work in this place. He is an able and energetic worker and likes to see his brethren work with him. There was no Sunday school here when he came, but he has set all of his new appointments going and I am glad to say that I have been elected Superintendent of the Sabbath school in this place. We have a large number of children in this place and I am very much interested in our Sunday school whatever. One hundred and seven of them attend the day school, and I feel that we can get a large number for our Sunday school, I am certain that we can. Rev. Mr. Thomas is the principal and teachers of the day school have taken a noble part in it, want to see it in its very reference to the "race" will be continued. A journal published in the interest of a class is generally supposed to act on the defensive. This the Workman seldom ever does. It seldom draws conclusions from the hopeful leasure of negro life, which is constantly given. It is well enough to be conservative, but it is equally well enough at times to breathe the air of to-day.

Temperance.

The United States expends annually for intoxicating drinks four hundred times as much as all its churches of all denominations given for Christian work in foreign lands—$500,000,000 against $1,500,000. The total annual contributions of all the churches in the United States for home and foreign missions is $5,000,000. That is less than one dollar-bill for six days

There are 25,000,000 inhabitants in the United States, more than 3,000,000 of whom the it cost to their 4 cent 1 ballots the 7 cent 1 dollar. The "poetical" I have seen such gifting the 1 cent 1 ballots the 7 cent 1 dollar. The "poetical" I have seen such gifting the ploughman or dreyman's place. The most powerful preacher is he that with reverence and the competent pastor is daily expected to fill classes in Florida. Neighbors gentlemen and ladies are frequently in our meetings and all of them speak in the highest terms of relations. At Green Cove Springs, which is the city, I was told that I should find spots on the St. John's river, we have a fine church and most valuable church property that I have seen in Florida. It is a lot of about a half acre with a beautiful grove of trees around it. The bell, is surrounded by a good-sized lawn. The parsonage is also very neat with shrubbery, evergreens and flowers and I feel that this praiseworthy condition chiefly by the wasteful habits of the gentleman from the North who have settled in the city of Green Cove Springs. At my last visit to that place there were four ladies, four colored gentlemen, presented the church with a magnificent set of Communion and Baptismal Service. Rev. Mrs. Mrs. Trees Roberts, Mrs. Rev Brown, Mrs. Rhoden Rev. Mrs. Rhoden and Mrs. Abett P. Trimble. The last named is the wife of Dr. Trimble, of Cincinnati, Ohio. The case containing these sacred utensils is made of fine black walnut. The beautifulness of the "set for service, were all manufactured in New York City.

Fifth. The schools. There are many of these. In Jacksonville are two graded schools, the chief of which is named after Mr. Stanton, the Secretary of War under Lincoln's administration. It is managed by Professor Burroughs and Mrs. Abbott

POPULAR CLERGYMAN UNDER A MULE.

It was in the Yosemite, on a steep and rugged mountain road. The party numbered about a dozen, and the jolliest of all was a well-known divine. Somehow or other his mule stumbled and rolled over and over, the Scottish clinging fast to him. When they came to a stop the mule was on top. Both the Scottish and the mule were badly bruised. One of the party happened to have a bottle of PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER. In a few hours they were ready to proceed on their journey.

"Pa, is it right to call a man born in Poland a Pole?" "Of course, my child." "Well, then, if a man is born in Scotland, is he a Hole?" "Tut, tut! I'll answer no more of your silly questions." Thus was the inquiring mind seabbed.

ONE EXPERIENCE FROM MANY.

I have been sick and miserable so long and had caused my husband so much trouble and expense, as none seemed to know what ailed me, that I was completely disheartened and discouraged. In this frame of mind I got a bottle of Hop Bitters and used them unknown to my family. I soon began to improve and gained so fast that my husband and family thought it strange, and wondered, but when I told them what had helped me, they said, "Hurrah for Hop Bitters," and were very prompt, for they have made mother well and so happy."—The Mother.

Faithful prayer always implies corresponding exertion; and no man can ask honestly and hopefully to be delivered from his sins, unless he has himself firmly determined to do the best he can to keep out of it.

In a letter from Hon. MRS PERT, Louis Grey, Limerick, Ireland, BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES, says, thes referred to:—"Having brought the Bronchial Troches with me from home I came to realde here, I found that after I had given a few doses to those of the children I considered regelem them, the poor people well walk for miles to get a few." For Coughs, Colds and Throat Troubles they have no equal. Sold only in boxes Price 25 cents.

Morality without religion is only a kind of elevated cookery—an endeavor to find our place on a cloudy sea by measuring the sun instead of the stars. Try without any observation of the heavenly bodies.

CONTENTS.

Lydia E. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

SPRING, 1883,

AT

JOHN WANAMAKER'S.

NOTE.—Mr. Wanamaker extends an invitation to every reader of The Christian Recorder to visit his store whether to see or to buy. One of the pleasant things about the store is the fact that one can go all over it either alone or with a guide with perfect freedom and without ever being asked to buy a thing.

Satics of eighteen colors have come at $1.25. Already we had satins at 75 cents and $1 of about the same number of colors. There is something very singular in the colors of this season; and the singularity shows in satins quite as markedly as in anything.

Gros de Suez (Gros de Londres is the very same) is a fine ribbed silk with a heavy rib here and there. The effect is rather of heavy ribs made apart upon a flat surface. One of the new silk fabrics, which seems likely to be a favorite. In the new colors, of course; $1.35.

More of the same, $1.25 black radshane for $1.

We have also a most extensive and varied collection of pongee embroideries; up to $8 a yard.

Next corner circle, south entrance to main building.

Handkerchiefs unless bought with great care and skill, are liable to be half-cotton. Linen ought to mean pure-linen, because cotton mixes with it so invisibly. We never had a particular cotton handkerchief in the store.

Linen lawns ready; all new; and all the designs new, except dots, which can't be new, of course. We stick to small figures, though most merchants will have large figures.

We stick to pure-linen lawns too at 25 to 374 cents, though other sound-style else will sell cotton-and-linen down to 15 cents.

We will not sell mixed cotton and linen except at extraordinary prices. There's a good deal of satisfaction in having things true.

Spring dresses ready-made, of flannel, cloth, miscellaneous dress stuffs and silks, low priced dresses, are ready; down to $6 for the very lowest; and that is very similar to one that was made liked at the same price last year.

Large-plaid cotton-and-wool dress-stuff, such as always cute 50 cents a yard, is here for 36 cents; 40 inches wide; fifteen patterns. The colors and patterns are satisfactory; and there's nothing whatever in the stuff to call for such a price. If we sought to get full value for everything regardless of cost, we should sell this at 50 cents. We don't.

Fourth circle, Thirteenth-street entrance.

Silk—An advertisement ought to say what a salesman ought to say; but a salesman has the advantages of having his hearer before him, and of having his topic chosen for him.

We choose the topic for you, the reader, save nothing about it and we may say what you know already.

Trade here is more of a medium than anybody outside knows. We have need of more varied goods than anybody outside knows. Silks are as various as anything can well be. We try to have every sort that anybody wants.

If you ever want to see Henrietta embroideries at their best, now is the time, and here is the place. We are more than satisfied with the collection that has been gathered.

MANAGER.

A MOST unusual course is to send out a paper with few if any editorials: and yet this is the only course open to us for the next four weeks. So crowded are we with communications, and good ones, too, that we feel constrained to give them, even though the ink in our own bottle dry up. Your regrets this more than we. But, as we have said, it is our only refuge with the space at our command, which is scarcely more than half the paper.

THE FITTEST SURVIVE.

We would wish that we could impress this fact upon our readers; and for the reason that nothing is more true, and among us, especially, nothing is more needed. What is it, you ask, that is giving the triumphs which we believe the future has in reservation for us. Nor is there anything strange in asking the past having dealt so treacherously by us we are only too willing to believe, if only too willing to anticipate the good coming, or as the Dutchman used to sing: "The good time coming, boys, wait a little longer." The prayer of the Psalmist has long been our prayer, "Make us glad according to the days wherein thou least afflicted us, and the years wherein we have seen evil."

But do we know that everything depends upon ourselves? Would that we did. Then are we persuaded that the intelligent and frequent agitation among us of views which only mean death, would be largely shifted. If God is to make us glad according to the days wherein He afflicted us and according to the years wherein He made us to see evil, it can only be by the ready acceptance on our part of those rules of life by the observance of which life and joy are possible. God nowhere has promised to continue the wicked on the earth much less has He promised to make them glad. On the contrary, on almost every page of His word we learn that His anger against the wicked, and of the fact that the wicked shall not live out half their days. The fittest on the earth are good citizens to survive. The righteous are to inherit the earth, and not on the score of grace, but on the score of law. The knowledge of this fact, that its laws shall be kept. It nowhere promises pardon. Its pound of flesh it will have. The soul that sins may be pardoned and saved from the impending death, but the body that sins must die. There is, therefore, no possible hope for abstinence. Heedless abuse of law, in no sense to be rooted out the earth as is the water to run downward. There-fore we say to our people: If you wish to inherit the land you must be fit for it. "The struggle," says Mr. Bruce in his new work, "is not Christ, "for existence, "fertility and the survival of the fittest must give the first triumph in the life of men to the races of the highest morality." If the white people of the country be more moral than we, they must go under. If the coloured people we must go under. If we, on the other hand, be more moral than they, then they must go under. If the moralities be equal, then both will share the same fate.

We call attention to the letter of Rev. E. O. Thayer, of Clark University, Atlanta, Ga., to our readers. To many of them, we mean, who are blessed with a memory, will remember certain philanthropic acts of his in behalf of the colored people of the South. We are glad because you have always been our life-long friend. I trust, sir, that after you have enjoyed the benefits of our climate, that you will return to your spacious duties more realized as to your health. We sincerely hope that you may enjoy long life and be sure returned to heaven."

"THE ILLUSTRATED WORLD" is Philadelphia's latest contribution to the artistic press. A worthy rival of Harper's Weekly, or Frank Leslie's Illustrated, or our own Coolinect, this illustrated bids fair to take its place among the established standard papers of the country. Philadelphians especially have need to be proud of it. It is issued by the publisher of the Golden Days—the bright magazine for boys and girls which, by the way, has failed to put in an appearance for the month—James Elverson. $2.00 a year.

New York, April 7, 1883.

REV B. T. TANNER, D.D., Editor, etc.

Dear Sir.—I see a paragraph in your issue of the 25th ult., in reference to my article on "The New South" in the Independent two weeks ago. I spent several days in Atlanta and was surprised to see what a busy city it was, resembling the North, and I think your friend, Rev. E. O. Thayer, must be the "illiterate" if he has not yet made many friends in that city before this. I certainly was surprised at the "social privileges" that I witnessed, and I am sure that Dr. Thayer makes it a practice to give "dips" at his neighbors or he would not write you in the language quoted. It certainly will not aid in healing the difference between the North and South—especially coming from a clergyman. Respectfully,

HENRY E. BOWEN.

We can but regret that we said in the issue to which Mr. Bowen refers: "We are not to be understood as rejoicing in any other than the most pleasant feelings between the several sections and peoples of our common country." Nor do we. There is danger in it—the danger lest becoming mutually weary at their estrangement, they agree to pool their own differences to our hurt. Great never said a nobler word, than "Let us have peace."

FROM MISSOURI comes the following questions:

1. Number of members having been expelled under the administration of the previous pastor, and rather than acknowledge their wrong they joined another denomination. From the fact of their relation as members of another denomination, have Methodist class-leader any right to ask them to speak in our class meeting?

Our answer is: Beyond all question, such a person has a right to speak in our class meetings. We may say it ought not to be so, but we can better afford to allow such an unwelcome visitor to our class meetings than to speak, that we could afford to break the amity and friendship which should ever exist between sister churches. They are no more our members, but rather members of the church to which they went. It is as a member of this church that we accord them this privilege. And in this we but follow the Divine, who never destroys a principle to correct an incident. God has given us Sunday, nor will he withdraw it because so many abuse it. So, we must not destroy "communion of saints" because some may possibly abuse it.

WITH THE REMARK, "I have very little hope that you will be able to look at the matter dispassionately," Rev. Dr. J. L. Tucker, recently of Jackson, but now of Mobile, Ala., kindly sends us his pamphlet, at our request, of course. We read the Doctor's speech at the time of its delivery, and upon scanning it anew as revised and prepared for the public eye, we are the more persuaded that the Doctor's greatest offence is one of imprudence. He has the temerity to deal in questions manifestly beyond his range, even the moral and religious development of a race. Like the fabled mouse who judged the whole world of waters from that that was in the tub in which he was being bathed, the Doctor judges the whole world of negro morals from the lowest Mississippi stratum of society. And

MOON MADE OF GREEN CHEESE!

That is one of the things we know very little about. So also about the man in the moon; we know hardly any thing of him. But we do know, that if the man in the moon or any other man, partakes too freely of green cheese or any other indigestible article of diet, he will have dyspepsia and bowel troubles. And we know that the way to get rid of such is to take PERRY DAVIS'S PAIN KILLER.

Among the best gifts of Providence to a nation are great and good men, who act as its leaders and guides; who leave their mark upon their age, who give a new direction to affairs; who introduce a course of events which go down from generation to generation, pouring their blessings on mankind.

ONE EXPERIENCE FROM MANY.

I have been sick and miserable so long and had caused my husband so much trouble and expense, no one seemed to know what ailed me, that I was completely disheartened and discouraged. In this frame of mind I got a bottle of Hop Bitters and used them unknown to my family. Soon began to improve and gained so fast that my husband and family thought it strange and unnatural, but when I told them what had helped me, they said, "Hurrah for Hop Bitters! long may they prosper, for they have made mother well and us happy!"—The Mother.

What is more nasty than running sores, ulcers, pimples, boils, scrofula, erysipelas, etc? Now Lindsey's Blood Searcher will drive them all.

A firm faith is the best divinity; a good life is the best philosophy; a clear conscience is the best logic; honesty is the best policy; and temperance the best physic.

D'amond Dyes will color any thing any color and never fail. The easiest and best way to economize. 10 cents, at all Druggists.

The water that has no taste is purest; the air that has no odor is freshest; nine of all the maladies of manner the most generally prevalent is simplicity.

Mr. A. M. Noble, Salem, N. C. writes: "Dr. Benton's Skin Cure cured my children of scaly skin."

Headache banished, no matter what cause, sick or nervous, by Dr. Benson's Celery and Chamomile Pills.

PHILADELPHIA, MAY 10, 1883.

WANTED.

The two hundred thousand Sunday school children of the A. M. E. Church to join in the Great Jubilee on Children's Day, the second Sun. 10th, 1883, and make a collection for the support of the Connectional Sunday School Union. The committee making the programme and arranging for the first concert, the opening address need number wanted to Rev. Theodore Gould, 631 Pine St., Philadelphia, Pa., or to Rev. C. S. Smith, Bloomington, Ill.

By order of Bishop H. A. Payne, Pres.

Bishop W. F. Dickerson,
Episcopal Superintendent.

A most unusual course is to send out a paper with but few if any editorials: and yet this is the only course open to us for the next four weeks. So crowded are we with communications, and good ones, too, that we feel constrained to give them, even though the ink in our own bottle dry up. Your turn is next time, we hope, but, we have said, it is our only refuge with the space at our command, which is scarcely more than half the paper.

THE CHILDREN'S DAY.

We must squeeze in a word in regard to Children's Day. It is but pure cant to say that the children are the hope of the church, and yet as pure as it is, not every minister nor every member of our church believes it. There are those who think we can afford to let the children and the Sunday school go, if only we can minister to the old ones. Poor policy, this; and will be more and more apt to be discovered. The fact is, we cannot afford to lose either class. Both must be looked after. To the end, therefore, that the children be cared for, the forthcoming Children's Day be made a grand success. Let every school be in the field.

Four sheets were recently sold in the public streets of Bangor, only a few yards from the British Legation. European visitors were naturally shocked at the disorder that have been wondering ever since that such a public shame could be tolerated within two miles of Europe.—New York Tribune.

This serves us to picture the shame of the leagues from the shores of our own free country, in the Island of Cuba, the traffic proceeding in going on daily. It is not about time the citizens of this country were calling themselves to do something toward aiding and forcing the abolition of the traffic? We feel justified in the remember that for freedom in this country, we owe much to the brave men and women of color and their white fellow-workers in our behalf. An active organized anti-slavery sentiment in this country, could, in a very short time, make it very uncomfortable for the slave holders of the Antilles. Brothers, what do you say about it? Time, together with the beautiful Anthem ought not, much longer, to fan the fires of slavery.—The Indianapolis Leader.

More than this, Brother Leader. Men who claim to be the American Congress are the so-called corners of these slaves, and live in style upon their unrequited labor. It is not only time for the colored people to petition, but for the people of the government to call such citizens to account.

In our personal column will be seen a notice of the presence of Rev. C. L. Bradwell in our midst. Brother is sincerely a minister of our church more generally and more favorably known than Brother Bradwell. Among the very first of those who joined our standard upon our advent into Georgia, he has not ceased to do the full work of an African Methodist Episcopal preacher. His services are in the interest of his Church at Madison, Ga., recently burnt to the ground. We are quite sure that a word and a helper could not have been sent. While Brother Bradwell does not expect any very great help from our own churches, as he is conscious of our general poverty and condition, yet he does hope the brethren will make him welcome, and when he preaches for them, that they will help to the extent of paying his board and his traveling expenses.

PIERCE A. HANAFORD's lines of tribute to Lucretia Mott, found upon first page, will be appreciated by all who in any way appreciate the life of that most womanly woman. We count it among the gracious privileges of our life to have seen her and heard her.

FROM THE May Sunday School Record, we have clipped the programme for "Children's Day," Sunday, June 10, 1883. Its general observance cannot do other than tend to the development of our Sunday school work.

TO THE GENTLEMEN of the Investigator Office, Boston, we are indebted for a small pamphlet entitled: "A Roman Catholic Carnival. A Fabulated Account of a Scene at the Deathbed of Thomas Paine."

REV. E. E. MAKELA, A. M., has our thanks for the minutes of the North Indiana Annual Conference (first session held). The membership of the conference is 1138 members.

A NOTE FROM Bishop Tanner says, "My district is blooming, notwithstanding the water has about twenty-four of my ministers housed up, or away to higher lands."

It is not possible that some of the matter in the present issue may be misjudged stale; but we deem it worthy to appear, even though late.

OUR LETTER from Great Britain deals in short, crisp notes of affairs in London, and will, no doubt, prove interesting reading.

Notes on Education.

The first official act of Superintendent Malcolm Mac Vicar, Philadelphia, was to inspect the Girls' Normal School, with which he expressed great satisfaction.

The Board of Trustees of Wellesley College is the attention paid to the physical culture of the young women who are under their charge. A gymnasium is provided, and under the direction of a competent instructor the pupils are all taught the exercises common to gymnasiums.

The ecclesiastic old Canadian, Arnault Huntington, who left $200,000 to be distributed among the public schools of Vermont has done something which will be of little practical value to the schools. Each district will be entitled to the insignificant sum of $10, which will not alleviate the burden of education.

The State of Alabama now supports four normal schools, three of which are white and one colored. Two of the former have colored principals. In Montgomery the public schools have been consolidated, and there are colored and white teachers together. Jacob Green, who has been in charge of the colored schools, is a strong favorite with the masses, and as he is a popular and just man, no fears are entertained at present that his will be overthrown.

Church News.

REV. D. W. Gilfelder, (Madison, Fla.) writes: "I've been here six weeks. Since I have joined the church, thirty have been converted and the meeting still goes on."

REV. S. McDonald, (Centralia, Ill.), writes: "I am glad to say that my charge is doing very well indeed, both spiritually, but not so well financially as I would like."

REV. E. E. Mahlell, (Marshall, Texas) writes: "I have already paid forty dollars on the church, and have two hundred dollars more on the land, and we have until the 1st day in December to pay for same. I have received fifteen members on probation."

REV. K. C. Rhodes, (Archer, Fla.) writes: "Our district conference is at Gainesville district, East Florida Conference, met on the 19th of March at Citra, Marion county. The conference assembled and the spirit of God was greatly felt."

REV. G. M. Holland, (Combahee Circuit, S. C.), writes: "We had a glorious meeting, which resulted in the conversion of mourners, reclaiming backsliders and the addition of seventeen to the church. Thirty-six souls have joined our church, three by experience, two by letter, and thirty-one on probation."

REV. G. W. McDonald, (Helena, Ark.) writes: "Our church is in a prosperous condition. It has cost us between five and six hundred dollars since we came. We are not doing much to our church now, times are very hard here, and money is scarce. Men are working one and two days in a week only."

REV. R. M. Williams, (San Augusto, Texas), writes: "I am proud that I can say the word of God is at this time spreading in this part of the Master's vineyard. Rev. F. Green, presiding elder, is pushing things ahead on the Burk district. Rev. G. A. Adams, the "Little Giant," is wielding the sword on Center and Rancho[illegible] appointments. All we need is more faith and our Zion will be second to none in the world. Pray that the work may go on."

REV. S. H. Coleman, (Sanford, Fla.), writes: "I was reappointed to the Sanford Mission, I arrived on the 11th of March and found my people well. Lent has been raised for my expenses, $2,500. In view of the district conference continuing to 31, March, I converged the Official Board, and the Board of Trustees, organized, and all things being right, and by April 8th, I raised $215.13, and a few were added to the church. It is remarkable to say, the season that I worked up alone last year has been divided into four parts with as many ministers. That you may see the results of one year's hard work!"

THE POOR ALWAYS WITH THE CHURCH.

BY B. F. LEE, D.D., PRESIDENT OF WILBERFORCE UNIVERSITY.

The statements of Rev. T. S. Hamilton in your issue of April 19th, are very embarrassing and humiliating, but doubtless true.

There are two stages in the life of the minister in which he is nearly useless, sadly unpopular, and a third may be added to many instances. First, when he is very young. Second, when he is very old. Third, when he is sick.

To observe the general indifference and unkind criticism exercised towards the youthful minister, and the unreasonable demands upon the old minister tend to make the minister glad when he is not present his duties, and believe that I will be effected. The principles of the Bible, which is the Christian's guide in the world, and they are destined to suffer in the world, and they are destined to suffer whose those who believe in them. The lines of ecclesiastical controversy are as numerous as they are thin. Let a man think yo of Christ? will be the grand test question of the Church, as to the men that are to come. Discipline now holds as the subject of trial for heresy, and sent our preachers together; love for Jesus will then be the constraining power.

Who can fail to read the signs of the times? What mean these great revivals where Christians of all names are gathering nacet and work together for the salvation of souls? What mean the Pan Anglican and the Ecumenical conferences, where they meet together to see how many points of agreement they are holding in them? What means the proposal concerning a pronunciation of the Lord's Prayer to dedicate infants to the Lord? What mean such expressions as "Shibboleth" they look upon it as a concession to infidelity. Bishop Foster is opposed to it, but the majority of Congregationalists are in favor of it.

What means the movement to separate marriage with a deceased wife's sister will not be strongly opposed as unjust and unnecessary. The Chicago Tribune says: "The power of condemnation is a dangerous one, and should not be restored to except in a matter of necessity and, if there be any trouble in getting all the school sites that are needed, the Legislature will be well to know the bill enacted on for a few years to come.

Missionary Items.

The Rhenish Missionary Society reported at the end of 1881, in all its missions, 1,000 stations, 1,000 English Scottish, and China, 60 ordained and 3 lay missionaries, 1,000 native preachers, 1,000 teachers, and 100,000 members of congregations. The churches in the Sandwich Islands, the Dutch East Indies

HE HAD TWO BALLS IN HIS STOMACH.

He put them there because it was the fashion at his boarding-house. They were coddish balls. But the boarders found that putting too many coddish balls in their stomach produced dyspepsia, especially when washed down with salt mackerel and tripe. Consequently they not found that PERRY DAVIS'S PAIN KILLER cured dyspepsia, their boarding house fare would have killed them.

It may not be your lot to command an army, fight battles, or rule a nation, but in the rebellious and warring regions of your own hearts there are many chances for you to show yourselves as heroic, patriotic, and Christian as the noble Prince who found and conquered and died hundreds of years ago.

A good report from New Orleans, G. A. Pickell says: "My habit has been costive all my life. Have used a great many remedies, but never found any that could compare with Tutt's Pills. I believe they will cure any case of chronic constipation. Has sing them to be compounded as scientific principles, I cannot speak too highly of what I am troubled with this dreadful affliction."

"THEIR OCCUPATION GONE."

R. V. PIERCE, M.D., Buffalo, N. Y.: I was attacked with congestion of the lungs, soreness in the liver, severe pain in the joints, a burning fever, and general aching away of the whole system. A very family would give them a trial, nine-tenths of the doctors would, like Othello, find their occupation gone. Your truly,

CAMDEN AND ATLANTIC RAILROAD—ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE COMING SEASON.—Preparations are being made by this Company for a heavy spring and summer season business. New steel rails are being laid and the whole road bed is being brought to the highest standard of excellence. The cars of the Camden and Atlantic Railroad are handsome and comfortable, and those requiring renewals have been greatly improved since last season. The Wood parlor cars, which are attached to all express trains, are luxurious and elegant. The time of express trains between the Delaware and the Atlantic, on the Pine Grove and Vineland branch of this Company, is now one of pleasure and not of fatigue.

It will be of interest to visitors to Atlantic City to know that through trains on this route will run upon a very similar schedule next summer to that of last year, and that trains will continue to leave Vine street and Shackamaxon street ferries as heretofore.

The greater part of the hotels in Atlantic City are now open, and are well filled and frequently crowded, with people of the best society of Philadelphia, New York and other cities, who are seeking health and rest in the invigorating atmosphere of this favorite resort. Oc., See Spr.

UNION BETHEL A. M. E. CHURCH, WASHINGTON, D. C.

Rev. Jas. A. Shorter, Wilberforce, Green Co., Ohio.

MY DEAR SIR AND BISHOP:—This will inform you that our new building is rapidly approaching completion; that is to say, the brick work is done. The roof framing, the sheathing, &c., is all finished. We only need to have the slate put on to complete the roofing in. We need one thousand dollars to get the slate and put it in place. My people here are doing all that any reasonable person could demand and still we are short all of one thousand dollars to secure our roof.

This is therefore to ask you, my dear Bishop, to assist us by requesting the members of our Church in your district to donate through their pastor, at least ten cents each to help us in our efforts to secure our house of worship. You can arrange to have the amount they collect sent in you or to us. Hoping, praying and trusting to hear from you in return mail, I am

Yours obediently,
JAS. A. HANDY.

Dear Brethren of the Third Episcopal District.

Hark! Hear the above appeal and farthereth answer by taking up a collection for the above purpose and forwarding the same to Bet. J. A. Handy, No. 1308 f-h street, N. W., Washington, D. C. It is not expected of you all to raise large collection; do the best you can, and collect as much and it immediately; let not a man of the district fail to send something. Send in March if possible, if not, in April; and if prevented by circumstance that you can not control until May, then as early in that month as possible. Speak out, brethren, speak out, I pray you, and I will speak also.

Your affectionate Bishop,
JAS A. SHORTER.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN Hair Renewer.

Seldom does a popular remedy win such a strong hold upon the public confidence as has HALL'S HAIR RENEWER. It seems to wholly fit has accomplished a complete restoration of color to the hair, and vigorous health to the scalp, after lamentable trial.

Old people like it for its wonderful power to restore to their whitened locks their original color and beauty. Middle-aged people like it because it prevents them from getting bald, keeps dandruff away, and makes the hair grow thick and strong. Young ladies like it as a dressing because it gives the hair a beautiful glossy lustre, and enables them to dress it in whatever form they wish. Thus it is the favorite of all, and it has become so simply because it completely accomplishes no one.

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE FOR THE WHISKERS

MANAGER.

A most unusual course is to send out a paper with few if any editorials: and yet this is the only course open to us for the next four weeks. So crowded are we with communications, and good ones, too, that we feel constrained to give them, even though the ink is our own bottle dry for once. None regret this more than we. But, as we have said, it is our only refuge with the space at our command, which is scarcely more than half the paper.

THE PHILADELPHIA CONFERENCES is now in session, in the doings of which the editor is giving his attention. The issuance of a small Daily Recorder, in addition to the weekly, quite occupies his attentions. He should not, therefore, be surprised if the present issue of the RECORDER fall somewhat below its usual level. However he hopes with the next paper, at most the one after it, to make amends for the two or three weeks past. Any enforced absence of his pen is altogether as unpleasant to him as to the readers; but it could not be avoided. When he will be able to command sufficient space as to meet the wants of his many contributors, any argument will not be necessary.

Says Bishop Brown, substantially, "I you want to take all the 'preach' out of me, just let some man precede me with a prayer at all sized up, and read a hymn by any sort of a way. In short, let me witness a service all mixed up." Nothing is truer than these words; but the thing of which the Bishop complains—how may it be remedied? Only by intelligence and a greater uniformity. So long as so much ignorance is admitted to the ministry, and so long as so much "liberty" is allowed, "every fellow going for himself," as the boy said, it is impossible to have it otherwise. Let the watchword be more uniformity.

THE SUCCESS OF The Globe, New York, is one of the happy auguries of the times, putting a solemn upon all croakers who say that "our people will not support a paper. Ably edited and quite as ably managed, it richly deserves the success which its four editors, its seven printers and its six thousand readers enables it to enlarge. Long live the Globe.

THE FISK JUBILEE SINGERS once again favor Philadelphia with their melodies of ye olden time, sung with such pathos and feeling that scores for their concerts a deservedly high appreciation. Their concerts take place this and to-morrow evenings, and Saturday matinee.

FROM THE May Sunday School Review, we have clipped the programme for "Children's Day," Sunday, June 10, 1883. In general observance cannot be other than tend to the development of our Sunday school work.

IT is possible some of the communications of this issue may have the odor of staleness upon them. But they all read well notwithstanding.

Missionary Items.

The Free and United Presbyterian Churches of Scotland both have Missions in South Africa. In Kaffraria there is a presbytery of each church. These presbyteries, not being able to see any reason for continued separate existence, have voted unanimously to consummate a union in July, if the Churches at home are willing. All the church sessions in both presbyteries were in favor of union, which must enhance the power and influence of Kaffrarian Presbyterianism. Two of the missionaries recently visited the Bonnyvale, a coast tribe who have not been under Christian teaching, and won their attention in quite a novel way. They gathered some children together, and in about an hour taught them to sing very nicely several hymns. They then appointed a meeting for the next morning, when the parents were astonished to hear their children sing. The children prayed very apt and interested scholars. Some of them learned half of the alphabet in one day. An old chief said he had never heard the Gospel preached but once, and that was a long time ago, and at a Wesleyan station on the Bushee River. He only remembered one thing about it, and that was that God would punish the wicked.

The French explorer, Dr. Crevaux, in one of his expeditions to the interior of Guiana, in South America, came upon a tribe of Negroes called the Bonis, who had formerly been slaves, but have been for a long time free and settled in the back country. They had a religion which offered a medley of the features of Christianity derived from the time of their servitude with the primitive fetishism of their native Africa. They believe in a great Gadon, who made men, red apes, and rice, and who has a wife named Maria and a so-called Jesu Kiall. Good men, after death, go to Gadon; bad men to a person named Didibi. They still retain to a tolerably orthodox form the story of Adam and Eve, and believe while their neighboring tribe, the Galibis, are superstitious about killing snakes they have learned to kill them wherever they meet them. With three successions of biblical stories to influence their daily life, they have fetishes of many kinds, to which they make offerings, and the most characteristic African stories and superstitions. The French explorer Crevaux of their religion was much surprised when the Frenchman explained to him that Christians believed in the names which they had received in a degraded form.

On a visit to the Guinea (West African) Missions, of the Basle Society, subjoined are the names and two conferences traveled with Bishop Crowther, who expressed hearty approval of the efforts of the Basle Society to introduce European industries at its stations, and thought that all the boys' schools in Africa ought to have agricultural and industrial classes attached to them: Akropong, Aburi, Abokobi, Christiansborg, Akuse, Anum, Begoro, Odumase, Adeburom, Kyebi, Abetifi, Akem, Kwahu, Abetifi, Akem, Kwahu, Abetifi, Akem, Kwahu

MAN AND NATURE.

Principal Dawson, delivering an admirable course of lectures before the students of the Hartford Theological Seminary, speaking of man's relation to nature, said: "We may regard man in respect to his anatomical relations, his physiological relations, psychological relations, and his higher spiritual nature. Anatomically, man presents the characteristics of the vertebrate mammal, but in a form peculiar to himself and giving him original distinction. Physiologically, man resembles other animals in the possession of the four great functions of nutrition, reproduction, locomotion, power and sensation; yet the balance of the senses in man is such that, physiologically, he excels all other animals in many respects. Psychologically, by which is meant all that belongs to the animal soul as distinct from the higher power, man and the lower animals agree very nearly with one another. Yet there are marked differences: in the whole, man is set very much superior in this respect. Spiritually or pneumatically, man is somewhat higher than all other animals, and this is the power that lies at the foundation of all those new departures that make him self-relating. I am subsumed by Brother Mussell and his official board to say that after the house is put on the ground, they will be able to assume all future responsibility as far as their organization is concerned.

It will truly be a grand day for Africa Methodism, when we can, in the face of all the circumstances which have surrounded us, sum up what we have succeeded in planting and thoroughly equipping a mission church and school in each land.

I have faith in the ministers and members of our church. I believe that the annual conferences meant to pay when they said by resolution that each pastor would take a collection and forward the same to the Corresponding Secretary. I believe we have no brethren, that your pledges are due, and we hope to hear from every church in the connection. "Many hands," you know "make light work."

We have gotten so far that our honor as a church is at stake. We cannot afford to forfeit our obligations. The contractors are waiting to hear from us.

That time may be a general response, and a fleshing up of the whole affair, we must earnestly, and yet most respectfully ask, in the name of the Lord Jesus and our Zion which we profess so greatly to love, that each pastor raise, by some means or other, a collection worthy his congregation, in his known ability, and forward the same to the Corresponding Secretary. Let us

ANCIENT CLASSICS FOR ENGLISH READERS.

This is the title of a unique and really delightful series of books which we take pleasure in especially commending to our ministry, the first volume in the list on "The Commentaries of Cesar," by Anthony Trollope, is just issued. The aim of the series is open to us in the learned English reader the beauties and treasures of classic lore, tell who the writers were, give some connected outline of the story they devoted himself to some of their most striking passages in choice English translation, and illustrate them with the aid of modern scientific knowledge. There are 27 volumes in all, and heretofore they have cost $1.00 each. They are published by "Elzevir Library," in modern binding style, at 15 cents each for paper binding, or 30 cents for cloth binding. "Herodotus," by George C. Swayne; "Cæsar," by Alfred J. Collins; and "Demosthenes," by W. J. Brodribb, are announced for immediate issue, and the other volumes are to follow, one or more each week, until the series is complete. From even these marvelously low prices large discounts are offered to clubs and for prompt orders. John B. Alden, Publisher, 15 Vesey St., New York.

RITES AND CEREMONIES.

There is scarcely a question that the ministry and laity of our church is more earnestly discussing, only in a quiet way, than the one suggested by the heading of the Article, the heading, by the way, of the XXII Article of our Religious Rites and Ceremonies at the present moment occupy the thoughts of our young and our old, our intelligent and our illiterate. The occasion thereof is found in the action of the last General Conference, looking forward to a revival of the Liturgy of the Church. This is the occasion, we say; but the cause lies deeper, even in the development of a truth the seeds of which are found in the authorized deliverances of our highest ecclesiastical authority. We say that the seed referred to, the fruit of which is seen in the quiet consideration among us of responsive reading and Episcopal dressing, is none other than the XXII Article of our Faith. It was mention with the well known fact that Methodism has always been largely liturgical—has always had her rites and ceremonies, in the shape of the ordination of her various orders of ministry, the formal dedication of her churches, together with her forms of service, her baptismal rites, her rites of marriage and of burial.

As we have said, however, the seed of all is found in the XXII Article, which says:

It is not necessary that rites and ceremonies should be all places be the same or exactly alike; for they have been always different, and may be changed according to the diversity of countries, times, and customs of men, so that nothing be ordained against God's word. Whosoever, through his private judgment, willingly and purposely doth openly break the rites and ceremonies of the Church in which he belongs, which are not repugnant to the word of God, and are ordained and approved by common authority, ought to be rebuked openly, that others may fear to do the like, as one that offendeth against the common order of the Church, and wounded the consciences of weak brethren.

Every particular church may ordain, change or abolish rites and ceremonies, so that all things may be done to edification.

A careful reading of this Article will show that the lawful existence of rites and ceremonies in the Christian Church is taken for granted; as well it ought be, for we think that the critics might be challenged to point to the time when such did not exist. This Article, then, of our accepted faith takes it for granted that such have always been in the Church; and proceeds to say that it is not necessary that they should "be the same or exactly alike" in all places. This, then, is Methodist belief and it always was been. Methodism is thoroughly committed both in doctrine and in practice, in tradition and in sympathy, to the use of rites and ceremonies in its worship; nor can this fact be too carefully insisted upon.

But let us look more minutely into this XXII Article, an article, by the way, which we are persuaded, if it have not been overlooked, is sadly misunderstood. According to it the several Conference of the Church has the authority to "ordain and approve" such rites and ceremonies as in its judgment may tend to the glory of God and to the common order of the church. Our General Conference is the "common authority" there alluded to, it being common to all the Episcopal Districts, all the Conferences, all the Churches and all the people, and is therefore qualified to speak authoritatively to all, and so authoritatively, too, that whosoever through his "private judgment willingly and openly disobeys," ought, according to this Article, to be rebuked openly. But we are asked the meaning of the last clause, which says:

"Every particular Church may ordain, change or abolish rites and ceremonies, so that all things may be done to edification."

The plain meaning of the word Church, here, is organization. It is as though it read, "Every particular Church organization may ordain," etc. That it could not mean every individual church is perfectly clear from what is said in the other portion of the Article, as well as from the history of the Articles itself.

Accordingly, then, to our own standard of belief and practice, Methodism from whatever aspect viewed is thoroughly liturgical, and therefore the essayed in the direction of the Wesleyan liturgy is but a natural development of the work already accepted and largely practiced.

"CONSIDER YOUR WAYS."

This is a Scriptural injunction and may be thought to have reference chiefly, if not wholly, to things spiritual. To such a thought, however, we have but an exhibition of the practice altogether too common, of dividing that which God hath joined; even the temporal and the spiritual interest of man. Did we only know it, these interests are verily one and the same. What is really good for the body is good for the soul; for we cannot imagine God as Creator to have ordained a conflict between them. Really this workmanship of His hand, they both are equally the object of his tender solicitation. It is the Psalmist that says, speaking of the saints, "Precious are their blood in his sight."

Hardly, then, can we consider the bowing the above injunction from upon the temporalities of man. God says, "Consider your ways." It might seem strange, but it is none the less true, that this is about the last thing man generally thinks of doing, especially as these ways relate to the revenue of life. The average man never thinks of devoting time to the consideration of the ways of others as these may be supposed to relate to him; but of his own ways he seldom ever thinks. If the Irish were to devote one-half the time they devote to a consideration of the ways of the English, it is not to be doubted that their affairs would infinitely the sooner come around all right. But it seems impossible to get them to do this. They are bent on altogether considering the ways of their enemies, to whom they trace all their miseries. We have nothing to say, one or more each week, until the series is complete. From even these marvelously low prices large discounts are offered to clubs and for prompt orders. John B. Alden, Publisher, 15 Vesey St., New York.

of the white people as these may be supposed to injure them, and take to simply consideration of their own ways —not their own color, but their own ways. Just now we see but two factors to our troubles, our color and the ways of the white people. Out of us can be brought to consider our own ways as having any influence at all. The fact is, the former shape and control the others. Just suppose that the average intelligence among us was as high as among the whites, and the average wealth as great, what would be the result? Would we really know, look at the Jews, the prejudice against whom is quite as great—greater in every country of the world save our own—as it is against us. But the Jew has intelligence. He has money. And such is the power of wealth that these give him that even in Europe, where the very name is held in contempt, he is a power. It is therefore for us to stop so much confidence in our color and the way of the whites, and take to considering our own ways, our general lack of education and our general lack of money.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, May 1st, sent over the country the following:

The Rev. Dr. Burpee, of the General Congregational Church, of Boston is the latest place on the planet to do honor to a woman in ecclesiastical church. Unitarian has the intellectual lead here, and if a man in a hurry for results, he had better stay away.

"If a man is in a hurry for results, he had better stay away." And is it not precisely here that the Methodist Episcopal Church has erred in her advances in the South? In a hurry for results, she has not hesitated to join hands with the very caste she in reality was her most dangerous enemies. We can't reach the white people, unless we do it, her apologists say. Dr. Burpee would say then—we fancy he would do it. But what is that, and leave them to their fate? Precisely. We would sooner meet the fate of one who loses man and is in doubt as to the Divine nature.

ON FIRST page will be found the following communications to which we especially invite attention: "Easter Day," by Mrs. A. E. Wells, rather late, but decidedly too good to pass by; "Pleasant Stories," by Professor Delany, exceedingly readable, is continued; How, Wm. Nesbit treats of the "Liberia Question;" Rev. George Dunlis gives figures, of the New York Conference, from Gallatin, Mo., Rev. P. C. Crews speaks in behalf of the territorial boundary of his conference; Rev. Geo. W. Bailey tells of the "Birthplace of Charlotte;" Rev. M. A. Chavers, of Somerville, Ga., speaks of "Ministerial Support;" and last but not least, Bishop Brown's new book, "Chapters on Real Religion," the literary mun of the Tribune, New York, says:

"The most serious blemish in the materialism which it exposed and asserted to be the last product of scientific thought. Even if it is admitted that every mental state has its origin in some pre-existent living organism, it is not readily conceivable whether from this that all life has been developed from a lifeless past. Answering still further some of the principal forms of man's development are contained in the following comments upon Mr. N.'s book, but still to be accounted for. No science has been able to explain the mysterious connection between living matter and dead matter. No chemistry nor physics has yet discovered how any combination of matter and force of single living cell can be constructed—a cell, for instance, like the power of nutrition, motion, sensation and propagation.

WE HAVE every possible respect for the Globe, New York, but when it tells the world in Goff's Dual Book of Ready References for Advertising, (1883) that it is "the only colored newspaper in the United States which has a national circulation among the colored people," we are made to conclude that it—but did you call it? And it knows it does. In fact the whole advertisement is a picture of the secular and is distributable to all concerned.

WE HAVE received a communication from H. C. C. Astwood, now in this country, in regard to an article sent us by one of our preachers in the Southwest, in which contempt was essayed to be poured upon a brother Baptist minister. While all the care we exercise, such things will now and then slip into our columns. We, of course, regret it, and only pray our brethren when they cannot write in love, please do not write at all, at least not to us.

ONE OF the most promising colored gems of the South, cornering a stone must which occurred in our columns as to the amount of business done during the past year, in a letter to us, said, "Sir I shall expect you to come and our people no good. There is but one way that we can build upon as a people, that is upon truth and merit." When we wish to buy cotton, we shall certainly patronize that firm.

BRETHREN are given to send notices to the Bishops through that the pages of the RECORDER—at least of desiring us to do. We have this to say, that publishing, as we do, the addresses of the Bishops, we trust that those who wish to correspond with them will do it directly. We have authority for saying that such a course is preferred by the Bishops themselves, at least some, and we judge by all.

THE FOLLOWING question comes to us from Louisiana:

DEAR SIR.—Will you oblige me so much as to answer this question. Is it the duty of a financial committee of the annual conference to make a disbursement of the conference money and not make any report to the annual conference?

J. B. WENG.

Rivers Landing, La.

The answer we make is that all disbursements of conference money should be reported to conference.

WE HAVE received the first number of the Mystery, (852 Broadway, N. Y.) a weekly illustrated magazine of useful gastime for young people; dealing in home handicrafts, household affairs, rural occupations, industrial arts, amateur mechanics and experimental science. Such a publication needs but little, if any, second-hand endorsement. Subscription $1.00.

THE ANNIVERSARY exercises of the Dunkegen Normal school, (Dunkegen, Ala.) to which we have been invited, is announced for May 31st, 1883. The dedicatory address is to be delivered by Rev. Dr. Chaney, of Boston. The baccalaureate address will be preached at Columbus, Ga., by Rev. Dr. Duryea, of the Congregational Church, and the annual address in the Methodist Episcopal Church, Columbus, Ga., by Rev. Dr. Haygood, of Emory College, Ga., is also to address the students. We should like to be present, but it is impossible.

THE COLORED WORLD, a new adventure to colored newspaperdom, comes to hand. If it can manage to hold on the way it has commenced, it ought to accomplish much good. But how is it to be done? To the cool-headed, it is looked upon in the same light that a paper called "The White World" would be.

WE CALL the attention of the brethren in Boston and the region round about to the National Prophetic and Holiness Convention, to begin June 9th, at Lake Walden, Concord, Mass., and to last nine days. It is under the management of ministers representing no less than seven denominations.

IT IS TO BE hoped that no preacher of the Iowa Conference will fail to give attention to the call of the Rev. J. W. Malone, president of the Sunday School Convention. And what we say to the Superintendents, we say to the Superintendents.

WE often hear the word lack, and good luck. Would we know the secret of it, turn to Genesis xxxix: 2-5, 21-25. In the Whitefield, Ga., Rev. Mr. Jones' where we read "prosperous men," the term "lackie fellow," is employed.

REV. R. E. PRIMUS, writing from Mexia, says:

Can the church be a decent house of God when its members, or a portion of them, are not fit for decent society?

We should say no, especially if such portion be a large one.

WE FEEL it a duty to our readers to publish the call made by the prominent men of Washington City, with Frederick Douglass at their head, for a National Convention. The reasons for the same are ably stated.

REMEMBER that both Moses (Deut. iv: 27-29) and Isaiah (ix: 18), to say nothing of Jesus, encourage the greatest sinners to return to God.

"While the lamp holds out to burn
The vilest sinner may return."

IT WAS the poet Montgomery who asked:

"O, where shall rest be found,
Rest for the weary soul?"

Wonder if he ever read Pal. 37: 7, and Matthew 11: 28-30?

FIND ELSEWHERE a notice of the death of one Lyman Benjamin, with a brief account of what could be learned of his possessed. Our pastors cannot do better than read it from their pulpits.

AN INVITATION comes to attend the anniversary exercises of Hampton, which it is impossible for us to accept.

—Rev. Joseph Benson, the Uncle Tom of Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin," lived in Dresden, Ontario, on the 5th instant, aged 94. A notable feature of the old gentleman's life was his reverence for the Queen. In our city a few years ago, although persuaded to get on exhibition the beautiful photo of Her Majesty in a frame of gold, the gift of the Queen herself, he would not consent to do so, and our people were possibly offence saying: "Her majesty gave it to me, and do you think I am going to make a show of her?"

Rev. C. O. H. Thomas, (Natchez, Miss.), writes: "Revival of three weeks' progress just closed. Seven baptisms. Whole number of seekers at altar, two hundred; total number received in the year, nine; number of accessions sixty-three; received by certificate, two; total, one hundred and twenty-four."

The Rev. R. B. Brooking, presiding elder of Live Oak District, has been appointed Professor of Natural Science and Botany at Lake City, Fla., formerly taught by Prof. A. P. A new executive commission is created, with power to regulate their general control, institute an entrance examination, and distribute the powers of their various governing bodies. It is thought the bill will be carried.

THE BOTHERED ARMY SURGEONS.

It was in war-times. The Quartermaster of the Fourth New York Artillery was cearly dead with dysentery. The surgeons did their best for him, but at last gave him up. Lieut. Bemus, who is now a well known merchant in Oneida, N. Y., ventured to dose him with PERRY DAVIS'S PAIN KILLER. In a few days the Quartermaster's sufferings were over, and he was on duty as before.

We need to change our standards. Men must be honored in proportion to their virtues, and considered rich by the measure of their integrity. Life is as much wasted that it loses the Divine idea, which is, not the number of a man's days, but the character of his life.

"DRAGGING PAINS."

Dr. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.:
Dear Sir—My wife had suffered with "female weakness" for nearly three years. At times she could hardly move, she had such dragging pains. We often saw your "Favorite Prescription" advertised, but supposed like most patent medicines it did not amount to any thing, but at last concluded to try a bottle, which she did. It made her sick at first, but it began to show its effect to a marked improvement, and two bottles cured her. Yours, etc.,

S. B. WILLIAMS, P. E.

AN APPEAL FOR THE "HAYTIEN MISSION HOUSE.

TO THE BISHOPS, MINISTERS AND MEMBERS OF THE A. M. E. CHURCH:

On behalf of our "Foreign Mission," and especially our work in Hayti, I make this most urgent, and at the same time, consistent appeal.

I have stated from time to time in the columns of the RECORDER that we were making an effort to erect a mission house in Port-au-Prince.

Following the directions of the General Mission Board, as given at the Springfield meeting, I have done as much as the matter receive favorable consideration at the hands of our ministers and laymen.

So wonderfully has the sentiment of our people changed within the last two years, in favor of foreign missions, that every conference with we have met has unanimously adopted resolutions commending the work and pledged its share of the money necessary for the construction of the proposed building.

Now, it is to this particular item that I wish to call the special attention of our bishops and ministers. I hold in hand pledges of annual collections and individual subscriptions, nearly $6000.

If one half of these pledges are paid within the time set adding the amount of cash on hand, we will be able to complete the building, and declare the mission self-sustaining. I am authorized by Brother Monsell and his official board to say that after the house is put on the ground, they will be able to assume all future responsibility so far as their organization is concerned.

We will truly be a grand day for Africa when Methodism, when we can, in the face of all opposition, unfurl our fully matured banner, know that we have succeeded in planting and thoroughly equipping a mission in the darkest island in storage land.

Let us unite in the ministers and members of our church. I believe that the answer to prayer is at hand, to pay when they sold by resolutions that each pastor would take a collection and forward the sums to the Corresponding Secretary. You are hereby notified, brethren, that your pledges are due, and we hope to hear from every church in connection, "every hands," you know "must be light work."

We have gone so far that our honor as a church is at stake. We cannot afford to forfeit our obligations. The conference will look to this for an account. That there may be a general response and a finishing up of the whole affair, we most earnestly, and yes more respectfully ask, in the name of the Lord Jesus and our Zion which we profess so greatly to love, that each pastor raise, by some means or other, a collection worthy his congregation, to be known as the "Foreign Mission Building Fund." and that this collection be raised on or before the last Sunday in May.

Now, brethren, one grand rally for Hayti and the work is done. Quite a number of our pastors have already responded, honorable mention of whom will be made at the proper time. A full and complete list will be published immediately after the May collection.

Please send all funds to my post office in this city.

THINK OF IT NOW!

Although death is still about the house, and a blood purifying medicine, it may be possible that this subject has not been considered? Almost every person has some form of scrofulous taint, more or less developed, which, if not eradicated by the use of a reliable blood purifier, will sooner or later bring on local disease, or perhaps a serious constitutional derangement. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best blood purifier we know of, and we can confidently recommend it to do all that is claimed for it. Having used it in our families for many years, we have no hesitation in saying that it is the most effectual antidote for the impurities of the blood with which we are acquainted. Its use in the spring will prevent much of the suffering which afflicts so many at that season, and the occasional employment of a bottle or two in the following months will keep the system in health.

MANAGER.

THE TAWAWA COURSE.

We devote a goodly portion of the really limited space at our command to the proposed course of study adopted by the Tawawa Theological, Scientific and Literary Association at Wilberforce, Ohio, July 20. We have no idea that the whole programme will be carried out, but we do have an idea that a promising commencement will be made, and this is about as much as could be reasonably expected. The idea is to make Tawawa everything to the colored people that Chautauqua is to the whites. In a word, we believe in crystalizing the differences between the two peoples, for we are free to confess that we see trouble ahead if the breach is not healed; but it is healed, only course open to us. We are unwilling to do nothing. But would we do anything, it must be in the line we have commenced. It is heartily to be wished that the enthusiasm engendered by their first meeting, will be such as to give the enterprise a push in the right direction. It might seem gratuitous to criticise a programme so complete; and yet it were false to Southland a broader range had been taken in the election of the men who are to lead off. The one thing seen to be needful, as we glance at the names, is a wider distribution of the honors, especially is the case where one is called upon to do double duty. We could mention names, but forbear, assured as we are that it was simply an oversight. Again we say, let the first July meeting be a rouser.

TEN MILLIONS FOR OUR SOLDIERS

It will be remembered that in the early days of colored enlistment for the suppression of the rebellion, the pay of those who offered was scarcely more than half offered to the white soldiers of the army. But in the face of so glaring an insult, the colored men of the west middle connecticut Republic flew as one to its tents; and although they received and indifferently treated, their numbers soon mounted up to the score and hundred thousand. And by common consent it is agreed that no better soldiers ever wore the blue, or carried the starry banner. Nor was this matter of pay ever adjusted while the war lasted, and yet whenever they went into battle, at Fort Wagner, at Olustee, or before Petersburgh, they quickened the pulse of Rebel horde, but, on the contrary, if report speak truly, the spirit of fear rested heavily upon the other side. It occurred, however, to the recent Congress to amend so glaring a wrong, and we are told that the sum of ten millions of the pension appropriation have been set aside to meet the just demand of the black soldiers. Referring to this matter, the Southwestern (N. O.) through which the information is received, says, and we heartily second the saying:

We would urge colored soldiers to prepare their claims, and have them sent to Washington for pay. Preachers, teachers and others should spread this welcome news. Ten million dollars is a right sung amount to come at this time, in addition to the $500,000, which now lie in the U. S. Treasury at Washington unclaimed for. The Lord help them to make wise disposition of these millions in securing homes and educating their children. This is tardy justice, but it comes at the time that the people to be benefitted will be better able to appreciate it, and turn it to their material improvement. It comes in the twenty-first year of freedom. Surely the Lord reigns in righteousness.

GREENER AND DOUGLASS.

We respect Professor Greener. We venerate Frederick Douglass. To the one we give the hand. To the other we uncover. Both are our personal friends. Both command our admiration. That they should quarrel is a grief and a danger; for both are leaders; and since the world began, the fact has been demonstrated that when leaders disagree, their followers suffer. In the name, then, of seven millions, we ask these leaders to bottle up their wrath, for the common enemy is present to take advantage of it. Why should they fall out by the way? Surely there is room enough for both. They are not the same men. They do not fill the same niche; nor were they. Douglass is old, experienced and determined not to step aside until the grave rakes room for him. In all this, we rejoice. Greener is young, capable and ambitious. And in this, also, we rejoice. But as Douglass cannot do Greener's work, Greener cannot do Douglass'. And the fact of moment is that the one they represent is one and the work of both. It needs the finishing blows of denunciation that only Douglass can give. It equally needs Greener's polish and breadth. At best Douglass has but a few years more to put in his heavy blows. Let him have a chance to do it. Greener has, we trust, a long life before him. What he fails to say, or do, to-day, he can say or do to-morrow. When, therefore, we demand, we offer the request in behalf of us all, and especially is the case where one is called upon to do double duty.—

CHILDREN'S DAY.

OUTLINE OF PROG—M FOR CHILDREN'S DAY, SUNDAY, JUNE 8TH, 1883.

20. Grand March. Song No. 6, "Shout about, we're coming!"

Suggestions.—That the speakers and essayists be selected at once. 2. Let a live, active committee be appointed to prepare the decorations. 3. Let each school endeavor to raise five cents for every member present. 4. Strive to get every other person present to give the same. 5. Let the school be promptly in meeting, and strick to the programme. 6. Let the exercises close with a grand march; each school headed by the officers and teachers, marching through the aisles of the church until they have finished singing, "Shout about we're coming!" and wherever a school has a banner or banners let them be borne in the procession. 7. Let the amount collected be forwarded at once to the Corresponding Secretary, who will receipt for the same, and publish the entire list in Our Sunday School Union. 8. It is our aim in this money to be retained and reported at the Annual Conference, neither is it to be required as "Missionary Money." 8. The hymns to be used in connection with this programme can be had, free of cost, by applying to the Corresponding Secretary, Rev. C. S. Smith, Bloomington, Illinois.

Invoking the blessings of Almighty God upon our Sunday schools to prepare in the Churches our choice, and to promote the general interests of our Sunday school work, and praying that they may be generally appreciated and sustained, we submit the above, conscious of the purity and honesty of our aims.

Fraternally,
D. A. PAYNE,
President.
W. F. DICKERSON,
Episcopal Superintendent.
C. S. SMITH,
Corresponding Secretary.

P. S.—Send all moneys and address all communications to Rev. C. S. Smith, Bloomington, Illinois.

THE MISSING UNDERSHIRT.

The morning was warm, and he was prudently made a change in his bed-clothing. Our climate is deceptive. Before evening there came up a chilling storm. An attack of sickness followed of course. But Dickey Davis's Pain Killer was used for relief, with the happiest effect. In these summer months of suddenly changing temperature, everybody ought to keep a bottle of this valuable remedy within reach.

The damps of autumn sink into the leaves and prepare them for the necessity of their fall; and thus insensibly does we, as years close around us, detached from our tenacity of life by the gentle pressure of recorded sorrow.—Leader.

AN APPEAL FOR THE "HAYTIEN MISSION HOUSE.

TO THE BISHOPS, MINISTERS AND MEMBERS OF THE A. M. E CHURCH.

—On behalf of our "Foreign Mission" and especially our work in Hayti, I make this most urgent, and at the same time, consistent appeal.

I have stated from time to time in the columns of the RECORDER that we were making an effort to erect a mission house in Port-au-Prince.

Following the directions of the General Mission Board, as given at the Springfield meeting, I have done my utmost to have the matter receive favorable consideration at the hands of our ministers and laymen.

So wonderfully has the sentiment of our people changed within the last two years, in favor of foreign missions, that every conference which we have met has unanimously adopted resolution commending the work and pledged its share of the money necessary for the construction of the proposed building.

Now, it is to this particular item that I wish to call the special attention of our bishops and ministers. I hold in my hand the subscription list with the pledges of annual conferences and individual subscriptions, nearly $5000.

If one half of these pledges are paid within the time set aside for the amount of cash on hand, we will be able to complete the building, and declare the mission self sustaining. I am authorized by Brother Mowell and the official Board to say that after the house is put on the ground, they will be able to assume all financial responsibility so far as their organization is concerned.

It will thus be a permanent fund for African Methodism, when we can, in the place of all the circumstances which have turne mited us, know that we have succeeded in planting and thoroughly equipping a mission church and school in a strategic land.

I have faith in the ministers and members of our church. I believe that the annual conferences present to pay when they meet, will be realized that each pastor would take a collection and forward the same to the Corresponding Secretary. You are hereby notified, brethren, that this collection is to be had, and we hope to hear from every church in the connection. "Many hands," you know, "make light work."

We have gone so far that our honor as a church is at stake. We cannot afford to forfeit our obligations. The discussion we are willing to bear from us. That there may be a general response and a finishing up of the whole affair, is our earnest desire, and we most respectfully ask, in the name of the Lord Jesus and our Zion which we profess to greatly to love, that each pastor raise, by some means or other, a collection worthy his congregation, to be sent to the "Foreign Mission Building Fund" and that this collection be taken on or before the last Sunday in May.

Now, brethren, our grand rally for Hayti and the work is done. Quite a number of our pastors have already responded, honorable mention of whom will be made at the proper time. A full statement of the entire affair will be published immediately after the May collection.

Brethren, speak of this to your people from time to time. Ask each one to contribute at least five cents. Some will give like that much, others will give more, some will give nons, possibly, but let us do our part well.

Praying the blessings of our Heavenly Father upon you, I am your unworthy brother,

JAS M. TOWNSEND, Cor. Sec'ty.

THE HAYTIEN MISSION.

MR. EDITOR:—Allow me through the columns of your valuable paper to make an appeal to the women of our church, in behalf of the Haytien Mission.

The Women's Parent Mite Missionary Society is doing a good work in supplying the Rev. Mr. Revels, sell, at his post in Port-au-Prince; very many of our churches have not organized auxiliary Mite Societies, and are doing well, but there are yet hundreds to be heard from in that direction, therefore, I would urge the women of the A. M. E. Church to Easy, Ready, and Sooth, to arouse, and in every church in the missionary societies be formed at once. I would ask each pastor to give attention to the matter, and each pastor's wife to lead in the matter of organization. The board of managers of the Parent M. E. meet quarterly in the city of Philadelphia. All communications must be sent to the Treasurer, Mrs. M. A. Campbell, 1023 N. Eleventh Street, Philadelphia.

Popularity at home is not always the best test of merit, but our power generally to fine fair that no other medicine has won for itself such a reputation for cures in our own city, state, and vicinity, and among all people, as
Ayer's Sarsaparilla.
The following letter from one of our leading druggists is unsolicited, and should be of interest to every reader:
RHEUMATISM. "Eight years ago, I was laid up with Rheumatism, and for three months could not move from the bed, or even turn without help. I tried several remedies without benefit, and finally took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was entirely cured. I have since sold large quantities of your Sarsaparilla, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. Your other medicines stand high in the estimation of this vicinity wherever we find it to be the best family medicine ever offered to the public. E. F. HARRIS."

Rev Jas. A. Shorter, Wilberforce, Green Co., Ohio.
MY DEAR SIR AND BISHOP:—This will inform you that our new building is rapidly approaching completion; that is to say, the brick work is done. The roof framing, the sheathing, &c., is all finished. We only need to save the slate put on to complete the roofing in. We need one thousand dollars to lay the slate and put it in place. My people here are doing all that any reasonable person could demand and still we are short all of one thousand dollars to secure our roof.
This is therefore to ask you, my dear Bishop, to assist us by requesting the members of our Church in your district to donate through their pastor, at least ten cents each to help us in our effort to secure our house of worship. You can arrange to have the amount then collect sent to ten or to us. Hoping, praying and trusting to hear from you by return mail, I am
Yours obediently,
JAS. A. HANDY.

Dear Brethren of the Third Episcopal District:
Hark! Hear the above appeal and forthwith answer by taking up a collection for the above purpose and forwarding the same to Rev. Jas. A. Handy, No. 1308 16 h street, N. W., Washington, D. C. It is not expected of you to raise a large collection; do the best you can, and little or much send it immediately; this is a very worthy object; fail to send something. Send in March if possible, if not, in April, and if prevented by circumstances that you can not succeed until May, then send it that month as possible. Speak out brethren, want to hear you, and I still speak also.
Your affectionate Bishop,
JAS A. SHORTER.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

From Mobile comes the following:

1. Were baptism has been administered during infancy, is an administrator justified in repeating the same subject in adult age?

2. In municipal law, where the mode of procedure is specified, any departure from the prescribed rules is held to be such a violation of law as makes the administrator liable for false imprisonment; and a judgment of the Peace who tried and condemned, a prisoner on a preliminary trial, where a warrant affidavit, where he has prescribed such affidavit, where himself declared, is liable under the law and his bondsmen suffered judgment of forfeiture.

Does the same rule pertain to ecclesiastical law? If so, can an administrator of our law found to follow the prescribed mode of procedure, even in preliminary trials where the mode of procedure is prescribed?

More importance attaches to this last question than may at first appear. The writer desires to know, as well as may be known, the precise state of the code of rules established by our church, which contemplate what is right and prohibit what is wrong. METH.

ANSWER.

As an answer to the first question of "Meth.," we refer to Discipline, part IV. Under III. Section 2, we find that case shall our ministers rehaptize my person." In the reason of such forbidding clause is found in the fact that Christianity cannot be supposed to make provision naturally leading to backsliding. As well suppose it to recognize provision naturally leading to backsliding. As well suppose it to recognize provision for two conversions as for two baptisms, and for Paul, to make us a cheerful contributor to their temporal or spiritual wants.

But we do not believe that the Declaration of Independence declares them to be; nor that they will ever become equal in this world, and perhaps not in the world to come, for even there "one star differeth from another in glory." We believe that some of these varieties are a question of taste; others a physical organization, in intellectual ability, and in capacity for development, political, social, moral or religious, and that they will so remain until the end of time. Nor does this at all interfere with our belief in the original unity of the human race. Things are in this world as we find them, and our race is incomparably superior to any other, and that our liberal opinions of the Aryan family in India are not local. The people of Tennessee, perhaps not perhaps the whole. As to the Indian we accept, (not giving it a unanimous indorsement), Oliver Wendell Holmes' definition of him: "A few instincts on legs and standing a nominal." As to the Negro we do not know where to place him; perhaps not at the bottom of the list, but certainly not near the top. We believe that fusion of two or more of these races would be an injury in all, and a still greater injury to posterity. We think that the race-line is providential, and that Providence indicates that it should be perpetuated unless a new dispensation should blot it out. It is our opinion that any great intermingling of these races, even without fusion, is a reduction and an evil, though God may bring good out of it, causing the wrath of men to praise him; for any such great intermingling may have its origin in sin. We think that any legislation, preaching, teaching, or action which tends to promote great intermingling, unnecessarily, is unwise and wicked. According to the mind of some this is scarcely true. We are fully persuaded that the only thing needful to constitute the man who does this answer is ignorance. We should be prompt to wash the feet of the meanest man of the meanest race, if necessity required, and we would feel, that in the act there was no letting down of dignity, but rather an enhancement of it, and our heart would be glad if there was benefit from the deed. But laws, being composed our task, we should gradually switch back to "our own." Instinct is uncooperable; and it ought to be. Finally, we believe that the gospel ought to preached to every creature, and that in the last day all distinctions that sin has made will disappear, and that Christ will acknowledge his own, out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation.

Title is our "Confession of Faith." We think that we are orthodox. If we are not so, we should be glad for some one to point out the heresy. T.

The friend who sent us the copy of the Index mentioned above, and from which we quote, is desirous that we should undertake the task of "pointing out the heresy" as the writer of it—"T." (H. H. Tucker, one of the associate editors, we judge), has asked.

Without the least self-confidence or vein glory, is seems to us that the heresy of this article is so patent that a child of the light well be called upon to point it out. The best way, however, to describe the article is not to speak of it as heresy, all, but purely pagan; just such an argument as any Roman, or Greek, or possibly Hellenistic Jew, who had never been saved, would be professed to believe the Christian Scriptures, might have made; that is, if such party possessed ability; for we confess the argument is strong of this article is an honest one, and the fact any of the great ones of ancient Greece or Rome might have congratulated himself and rejoiced that in their age and in the one weak point is that it is both unscriptural and unlscriptural, and therefore to be viewed as coming from one who does not accept the New Testament and the doctrine it teaches in regard to man's relation to man, to say nothing of his relation to God.

It is too often forgotten that until Jesus lived and spoke mankind was all adont in regard to its mutual relations; at least, it may be said to be exactly where this writer of this article is now. That is, it believed in no soul mine, my family, my country, my race. The idea of the universal brotherhood never for once was entertained. The Roman no more thought the Greek his brother than he did the Jew. Christianity alone in the eye of both Roman and Greek, the Jew was the veriest ulieu; and vice versa. And so with unchristian or pagan society all the rest of time. Nor does it one step in the line of knowing more correctly man's relation to man from that which existed at the time of Christ to WHIPPED by Germany, and outwitted by England, France is the sulkiest nation of Europe. How to recover for lost provinces is the all absorbing question of urgency. To hope for any good results in a conflict of arms with any European power is to be sadly disappointed. The next best thing is to waylay some of the weaker powers; and this she has been doing with a vengeance. Tunis she has already been compelled to cede, war is being made upon Annam, the tribes of the Congo, and Madagascar. Of her courses, however, it is not to be denied that it is an offence to the consciences of every civilized nation of the globe. As it relates to the attack upon the people of Madagascar, that can not but have come to the rescue of his vassals, while both England and the United States, if they have not remonstrated against it, recently, have certainly given France to understand that they have no sympathy with the course she is pursuing. And yet in this case France care as long as she is allowed to bag her prey?

REV. CHAS. L. BRADWELL, for a month or more is in the North, in the interest of his church at Atlantic City, has returned home. It is a satisfaction to know that his mission was not an entire failure; but on the contrary, he returns home with a few hundred dollars to assist in the good work of completing his church and school house. It is among the things possible that Brother Bradwell would have remained longer had he not fallen and injured his hip, not severely, to be sure, but enough to make any ordinary person remain indoors. It occurs to us to say that the brethren who were dealed the privilege of helping him and who have promised to do so, need not hesitate about sending it to him at Madison, Ga.

AS EDITOR of the organ of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, we almost covet the pursuasiting of Dr. Buckley, editor of the New York organ of the Methodist Episcopal Church, by which he is enabled to make his paper, The Christian Advocate, perfect so far as it is possible for man to be; and certainly it is second to none in New York, scarcely excepting the Independent. We are even a great deal by the means placed at Dr. Buckley's disposal, give us more space—three full pages at least—and The Recorder will be more a relief credit upon the Church and the race.

THE two events of the last fortnight, in the Old World and in the New, have been the formal opening of the great bridge in New York, and the formal Coronation of the Czar in Moscow. In a sense they may be said to be emblematic of the spirit of the two leading nationalities of the age, the one the spirit of practical utility, the other the glorification of the individual in one and the glorification of the mass in the other. If Europe is satisfied with her Czar, America is satisfied with her bridge together of the peoples of our great cities and the sections of our greater country.

IN THE Sixty-sixth Annual Report on the state of the Asylum for the Relief of Persons deprived of the use of Reason, contributed by the Friends of the city, we are given on page 8, a table showing the cause of insanity in 1063 cases. The most striking is to way, by way of illustration, that 1 was caused by sunstroke; 2 by fever; 3 by ill health, 212; domestic trauble; 122; intemperance, 118; suicide, 89; puerperal, 66; and over-exertion, 54. The colored number, 557 were women and 526 were men. It is pleasant to know that the last year has been one of "average success and prosperity."

BY COMMON consent the laurels are given by the public to the Amphion Singing Society for its delightful way of singing ever heard from any singing association of our city. They equal the best of the German choral societies, balancing the perfect execution of these with the superior melody of their voices. Their recent concert in Wesley Hall has installed them as the favorites of the city, and let them step when they may, they may count on an overflow.

TO THOSE of our brethren who purpose giving a concert or exhibition, we say, send to Rev. G. D. Pike, 56 heade street, New York, and get what is called "Concert Exercise," consisting mainly of pieces and dialogues, with full instructions how to prepare in its make-up, it is just the thing to make the common concert, too often of no profit, really valuable. It may be had free.

BISHOP S. T. JONES, of the Zion A. M. E. Church, is gazetted to deliver the annual address at the Zion Wesley Institute, Salisbury, North Carolina, 5th June, 1883. His subject is: "The Responsibility and Hopefulness of the Negro." We are inclined to think that the typos have doon the Bishop a wrong to that "Irresponsibility" phase of the subject.

TO REV. JOS. E. LEE are we indebted for a copy of the minutes of the Sixth Annual Session of the East Florida Annual Conference. Other than the failure to foot up the statistical table, it is a volume exceedingly creditable to all concerned; showing as does the same, some strides made since the dawn of freedom.

FROM LOUISVILLE, (Ky.,) comes the first number of "Electra," a Hellen Lecter monthly for young people. Edited by Annie E. Wilson and Isabella M. Leyburn, ladies of large experience in editorial and literary work, it should command a large subscription list and all sections of our common country.

ON THE eve of going to press we received the following telegram, which rings out its own sweet music:

ATLANTA, June 4.

REV. DR. B. T. TANNER—Grand Rally at Bethel Church yesterday; collected eleven hundred dollars; Rev. Arnett with me.

W. J. GAINES.

JOHN H. HALLOU, Esq., Professor of Physics, Geography and Mathematics in Cookman Institute, Jacksonville, Florida, puts us under obligations for a catalogue of the school for the year 1882-83.

When you see the Manager's Idlls for June, please do not forget that it takes money to publish THE RECORDER.

Personal.

—Bishop Campbell has returned from the Episcopal visitation of his district. As to health he is looking somewhat perbily.

—Mr. G. W. Blunson, a leading colored citizen of Richmond, Va., has recently elected a member of the Board of Education of that city.

—Mrs. Frederick G. Bruce, Register of the United States Treasury, is one of the wealthiest colored men in the country. His two large plantations in Mississippi worth more than $100,000 to say the least of them.

—The whole country will be pleased to learn that though caught in that fell clutch of the destroyer Grant is considerably jostled. T. Thomas Fortune, of the Globe, escaped. To lose such a man at such a time would be a real loss to the six million whom he so ably represents.

—In Camden, Sunday, June 3rd, we are convinced that the dear people of Macedonia, under the leadership of Rev. W. H. Yeocum, mean business in the matter of building a new church. The site was placed on the table. Surely the people, as well as the pastor and officers, have a mind to work.

—The present Moderator of the Presbytery of Brooklyn is a colored man, the Rev. Amos N. Freeman. There is nothing startling about this unless it be the fact that the brethren have recovered from the old prejudice that all colored men are fools.

—The health of Bishop Dickerson is improving, the tumor is in a private room from the Bishop, he says: "My health is improving, thanks to the Giver of all good." Indeed, he says the whole country recovered illness lost a single Sabbath out of the pulpit. To preach the gospel and do their best. The old mother in Israel is a power for God wherever she is found. Three thousand dollars Dollar Money, Gloriously done! The same measure of success and a pleasant trip to the General Conference of the South. The third district is crowding us, so look out for your laurels.

Within ten years we have lost one thousand members in the District of Columbia, and fifty thousand dollars worth of property. Today we are erecting a church which in point of steeples and spires will be the pride of the denomination, at the capital of the nation, cannot be surpassed. This will be a colossal structure as well as a paragon of architectural grandeur. Dr. Handy has surpassed his previous record in the erection and dumbfounded our enemies, and if he can raise ten thousand dollars between now and the General conference will doubtless be buried to dedicate the spacious edifice. The Secretary has refused definitely to preside over our conference, Mr. Cauldin was about to start for Constantinople at suamions from U. S. Minister Wallace, but the latter died while on his way to Europe to be the subject of formal appeal to the Sultan in behalf of the Berlin Treaty. Political excitement is on the wane, and the intelligent class of white citizens are that the action of the Government in reinstating the colored people may at no distant day prove a blessing to the country. We believe so may all be the financial, educational and moral outlook is increasing gradually with the spring."

Rev. A. Jackson, (Columbus, Ky.), writes: "The meeting of the Hollard Bistrict conference convened in Hurbs Chapel, Hopkins, Ky., May 24th, presiding. The churches are in a very prosperous condition, both spiritually and financially. Many of the charges the membership has been very fair since last conference, and the preachers on the entire sum of the elder's salary at $792 per annum, or twenty cents a quarter for each member. The Sunday School is more prosperous now than ever before in the history of the district. Missions to us numbers and means. The district is already been organized as the Cumberland Presbyterian Church. This mission is organized as the Zion Methodist Church of Cape Palmas and parts adjacent. It extends from Cape Palmas to Monrovia, northwesterly to Monrovia, a distance of about 250 miles. There are, at present, seven stations outside the territory, which are divided into three districts known as the Cape Palmas, the Sinoe and Hasea, and the Monrovia and Cape Mount districts. The Cape Palmas district is furnished with a staff of clerical all lay workers, who preach and teach in the native tongue. There are 12 Liberians and native tribes. The whole number of clergy at work last year, including Bishop Penick, was 14, of whom 12 were Liberians and 2 natives. The lay force consisted of four lay readers, two business agents, five white female teachers, and 10 catechists and teachers. The number of stations were 34, with 8 school houses, and an average total attendance on public worship of 1,036. During the year there were 83 baptisms and 1,000 confirmations. Of communicants there were 567. These statistics the Bishop and High Commissioner regard as affording encouragement. The four bonding schools were attended by 150 scholars, and the nine dayschools by 222 scholars, besides 719 in the Sunday schools. This shows that the prospects of the Mission are far from hopeless. Bishop Penick, however, must cut some years ago in robust health and returns broken down physically, worked arduously and successfully. The committee intend to carry on the mission as vigorously as to the past. The amount to be spent on it for the year ending next September is upward of $21,000.

THE CLOSING APPEAL.

BY REV. T. M. D. WARD, D.D., BISHOP OF THE COLORED EPISCOPAL DISTRICT, A. M. E. CHURCH.

The Fourth District is still to the vanguard. To keep it there, each member should give one dollar for Dollar Money, a corresponding amount for missionary money. And this to love the God of missions will give to the cause of missions. We need five cents from each for the General Conference for contingent money, and five cents from each for the General Conference delegates, and twenty-five cents for our educational work. We should aim to gain Sedalia, the third city in Missouri. This is our last round, let it be brought up with a shout of victory. Let each district conference and pastor report at once and progress may well be am ple.

Resolved, That we cherish with fond remembrance his zeal, energy and devotion applied to the cause of Him who doeth all things well.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of the late Rev. Dr. Christian Recorder.

H. H. LEWIS, Rev. Jos. Chadwick, D. D., Rev. Wm. Bishop, D. D., "My Aide de Camp Dr. Lee," by Rev. D. an Boyle.

Address all orders to Zion Church, Rev. M. H. Roe, pastor, preached at 10:30 A. M., from Romans 8th chapter, 28th verse. Sunday school convened at the usual hour. It was very interesting occasion. The children were present. In the evening the pastor preached through the Senate, was the only thing of the carnular. A formally remained to be accomplished giving Lee actual possession of his seat and pay. Over this the Democrats were filibustering, when the whiskey bribe offered Lee $15,000 to withdraw his claim and permit their bill to come on, which they had reason to expect, would pass. But, no! His would stand for his right and run right, and thus did more good for the colored race cause in his fee moments of legal, but unpaid membership of the House, than possibly he might have done in a long session, for that or any other cause. In fact he is worth preserving, to the praise of a mighty Jehovah, that God has raised up such men to defeat one grand mess of Satan, and by means of a colored man. Such whiskey bribing sticking to a right which he would not exchange for whiskey money.

Missionary Items.

A note from the Methodist Mission Rooms New York says: "We have letters advices from Bulgaria, (April 24th,) we learn that our school building at Lofticha, is finished and occupied by the pupils of the railroad had been arrested and imprisoned. Church News.

S. J. Walker, (Durham, N. C.), writes: "The first hundred dollars deposited in the Bank of Durham, N. C., has been raised by the A. M. E. Church last Sunday by Rev. W. H. Cook, and deposited on Monday. We have a wide awake pastor and congregation."

On a postal sent us, Rev. J. W. Jackson, (Camden, Mo., says: "All faithful Christians and members of societies will say amen to Prof. Keeling's just and manly topic published in THE CHRISTIAN RECORDER, April 19th. Let the brethren arise and lend a hand with the Professor."

Rev. J. H. O. Robinson, (Rolling Fork, Miss.) writes: We have 127 members, which shows an addition of 33 since we last taken charge. Of Sabbath schools, 164 Sunday school pupils, 2 officers and 8 teachers. A lively working spirit. Our children are looking forward to Children's Day in June."

Rev. J. P. Bowles, (Searcy, Ark.), writes: "Since I was appointed here by the hand of the Bishop, I have added a large good number of members and more are still coming. We have a church lot and paid for, roaning 150 feet east and 50 feet north and south—the choice of the town. A part of the lumbers on the ground and we expect to build by the first of July, and on the 16th day of August we expect to lay a corner-stone on which to plant the banner of the A. M. E. Church in this place."

Wait for the U. A. M. E Sabbath School Excursion to Lakeside Park, Thursday, June 28, 1883.

A grand strawberry festival will be given by Bethel Sunday school on the 19th inst., at Liberty Hall, Bainbridge street below Eighth. Good help the Sunday school and strawberry issue.

At Wesley A. M. E. Zion Church, Rev. M. H. Roe, pastor, preached at 10:30 A. m., from Romans 8th chapter, 28th verse. Sunday school convened at the usual hour. It was very interesting occasion. The children were present. In the evening the pastor preached through the Senate, was the only thing of the carnular. A formally remained to be accomplished giving Lee actual possession of his seat and pay. Over this the Democrats were filibustering, when the whiskey bribe offered Lee $15,000 to withdraw his claim and permit their bill to come on, which they had reason to expect, would pass. But, no! His would stand for his right and run right, and thus did more good for the colored race cause in his fee moments of legal, but unpaid membership of the House, than possibly he might have done in a long session, for that or any other cause. In fact he is worth preserving, to the praise of a mighty Jehovah, that God has raised up such men to defeat one grand mess of Satan, and by means of a colored man. Such whiskey bribing sticking to a right which he would not exchange for whiskey money.

Rev. Chas. L. Bradwell, for a month or more is in the North, in the interest of his church at Atlantic City, has returned home. It is a satisfaction to know that his mission was not an entire failure; but on the contrary, he returns home with a few hundred dollars to assist in the good work of completing his church and school house. It is among the things possible that Brother Bradwell would have remained longer had he not fallen and injured his hip, not severely, to be sure, but enough to make any ordinary person remain indoors. It occurs to us to say that the brethren who were dealed the privilege of helping him and who have promised to do so, need not hesitate about sending it to him at Madison, Ga.

As editor of the organ of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, we almost covet the pursuasiting of Dr. Buckley, editor of the New York organ of the Methodist Episcopal Church, by which he is enabled to make his paper, The Christian Advocate, perfect so far as it is possible for man to be; and certainly it is second to none in New York, scarcely excepting the Independent. We are even a great deal by the means placed at Dr. Buckley's disposal, give us more space—three full pages at least—and The Recorder will be more a relief credit upon the Church and the race.

The two events of the last fortnight, in the Old World and in the New, have been the formal opening of the great bridge in New York, and the formal Coronation of the Czar in Moscow. In a sense they may be said to be emblematic of the spirit of the two leading nationalities of the age, the one the spirit of practical utility, the other the glorification of the individual in one and the glorification of the mass in the other. If Europe is satisfied with her Czar, America is satisfied with her bridge together of the peoples of our great cities and the sections of our greater country.

In the Sixty-sixth Annual Report on the state of the Asylum for the Relief of Persons deprived of the use of Reason, contributed by the Friends of the city, we are given on page 8, a table showing the cause of insanity in 1063 cases. The most striking is to way, by way of illustration, that 1 was caused by sunstroke; 2 by fever; 3 by ill health, 212; domestic trauble; 122; intemperance, 118; suicide, 89; puerperal, 66; and over-exertion, 54. The colored number, 557 were women and 526 were men. It is pleasant to know that the last year has been one of "average success and prosperity."

By common consent the laurels are given by the public to the Amphion Singing Society for its delightful way of singing ever heard from any singing association of our city. They equal the best of the German choral societies, balancing the perfect execution of these with the superior melody of their voices. Their recent concert in Wesley Hall has installed them as the favorites of the city, and let them step when they may, they may count on an overflow.

To those of our brethren who purpose giving a concert or exhibition, we say, send to Rev. G. D. Pike, 56 heade street, New York, and get what is called "Concert Exercise," consisting mainly of pieces and dialogues, with full instructions how to prepare in its make-up, it is just the thing to make the common concert, too often of no profit, really valuable. It may be had free.

Bishop S. T. Jones, of the Zion A. M. E. Church, is gazetted to deliver the annual address at the Zion Wesley Institute, Salisbury, North Carolina, 5th June, 1883. His subject is: "The Responsibility and Hopefulness of the Negro." We are inclined to think that the typos have doon the Bishop a wrong to that "Irresponsibility" phase of the subject.

FRANCES WATKINS.

Died on the morning of April 9th 1883, at 115 A. m., in the house of Mr. Texas, Brusher W. M. Haskett, in the full strength of his manhood, Rev. Jacob Lee, a consistent Christian for more than three years, was a member of the Methodist Episcopal A. M. E. Church at Grant, pastor, and was always identified with every movement for the upbuilding of the cause of Christ. Though a very young man, only about seventeen years of age, he was one of the most active members of the church, a member of the Sunday School, a Class Leader, a Local Preacher, and a Trustee. He was always at his post of duty, and was a favorite and beloved by his classmates and many boss of the church, but by all who knew him. He was a young man of whom it was consc ne of his approaching death and that we unite in praying that another such godly young man may be raised up to fill his place as well as well began.

Resolved That we exhibit our heartfelt sympathy to the wife and family and pray that our Heavenly Father will give comfort and guide them.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of the deceased, to the Philadelphia The Christian Recorder, The Oxford Press, The Philadelphia Sunday American, and The New York Observer.

A MALARIAL VICTIM.

THE TRYING EXPERIENCE OF A PROMINENT MINISTER IN THE TROPICS AND AT THE NORTH.

TO THE EDITOR:

The following circumstances, drawn from my personal experience, are so important and easily remarkable that I feel called upon to lay them before you. Their truth can be amply verified:

In 1866 I moved from Canton, in Lawrence county, N. Y., to Florida, which state I intended to make my future residence. I purchased a farm on the banks of the S. John's river and settled down, as I thought for life. The summer following the first winter I was conscious of most peculiar sensations which seemed to be the accompaniment of a siege of climate. I felt a lackitar at the pit of the stomach accompanied by occasional dizziness and nausea. My head ached. My limbs became lame and I had an oppressive sense of weariness. I had a thirst for acids which seemed good for the present moment. My digestion was impaired and did not assimilate. At first I imagined I was the effect of eatate to become fixed upon me, but as the season advanced my troubles increased until I became restless and restless and the physicians whom I consulted told me I was suffering from malarial fever. The spotlessed typhoin of 1867-8 were then prevailing and I knew growing steadily worse. I tothe year 1869 my physicians informed me that my case was absolutely incurable—that I could not survive another season in the south. I determined to return north, but not to the place from which I had come, but to a residence at Upper Sandusky in Crawford Ohio. The change did not seem to effect a cure, and the extreme warm weather of summer completely prostrated me. I gave up all hope. At that time I was seriously ill. How badly, only those who have suffered from malarial disease in tropical regions, I especially as I was a stranger in a strange land, called from labor to reward. Resolved That we render thanks to God for the life of Rev. Edwin B. Bower as an instructor in our premises establishing the doctrine of holiness and that we unite in praying that another such godly man may be raised up to fill his place as well began.

Resolved That we exhibit our heartfelt sympathy to the wife and family and pray that our Heavenly Father will give comfort and guide them.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of the deceased, to the Philadelphia The Christian Recorder, The Oxford Press, The Philadelphia Sunday American, and The New York Observer.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON MEMOIRS.

PHILA., PA., May 14, 1883.

To the Bishops and Conference:

DEAR FATHERS IN GOD, AND BRETHREN.—We, your committee, to whom was sustained the sad and solemn duty of considering the life and decease of our beloved brethren and co-workers in the vineyard of the Lord, whom death has claimed for some from the last session of the Philadelphia Annual Conference, beg leave to submit the following as the result of our labors:

In looking over the roll of our conference we find that five men have fallen, five voices are silent, five gospel trumpets have ceased to sound the warning notes, five watchmen are gathered home, namely, Rev. Henderson Davis, Sr., J. P. B. Kelly, Shadrach Blackson, Ulysses Deans and Wm. Accoe.

Rev. Henderson Davis was born in Alexandria, Va., April, 1805 departed this life January 7th, 1883. Too deep-seated were his views of the Saviour's love to be ever shaken by the instrumentality of his British government, under peculiar circumstances.

A ship load of slaves were being sent to New Orleans for sale, he belonging to that number. During the voyage, the ship encountered a terrible storm off the coast, during which storm they were driven by the fierce gales on the Bahama, a British vessel and taken under the protection of the British government. Its subsequently came to the North and located at Frankford, Pa. Here he married Rev. Mr. Tyler's eldest children, among whom is the Rev. Henderson Davis, one of the prominent members of the New York Annual Conference. His experience and religious views and after having spent some time in the church as a local preacher, he was called home to his Master's reward. He was subsequently licensed to preach, which he did with much success, God owning the same. For nineteen years he was pastor in the local ministry, after which he joined the Itinerant ranks in the New York Annual Conference, where he continued to labor with honor and godly success for seventeen years. His declension was gradual, but he was a man possessing the Holy Ghost and full of zeal, hence he was a powerful preacher and successful pastor. He preached his last sermon in the Bethel Church, Brooklyn, on the 31st day of December, 1882. At the time he remarked to his congregation that he was impressed that he was preaching his last sermon. He was taken ill during the week, and on the seventh day of January, 1883, he departed this life in the full triumph of faith. He was a loving father, a kind husband and a consistent Christian.

Rev. Dr. Eddy.—Rev. Dr. Eddy was born a slave in the State of Virginia, was brought to Pennsylvania by his mother while yet a child. He was converted at the age of twenty-one years, by Rev. Joseph Smith. He joined the A. M. E. Church in Canonsburg, Pa., under the charge of Rev. Daniel Alexander Payne, by whom he was licensed to preach. He was brought into the New York district and recommended him to Bishop Allen, who received him into the New York Conference in 1821 and appointed him to the Columbia Circuit. He remained one year, and was ordained deacon by Bishop Allen at the Pittsburgh Conference in 1822. At the rise of that conference he was ordained by Bishop Allen a member of the New York Conference, where he was ordained elder and was appointed to the New Jersey Circuit, which was comprised of eight churches. From Columbia City to Bethel Church, Philadelphia. He remained there

AFTER THEY WENT FISHING.

They didn't catch many fish, although they had a great deal of leo and got themselves wet all over when the big boy had been sitting on rolled over and dropped them into the water. The biggest catch of the day was the severe cold they caught from not being properly dried when they came out. A summer cold is quite as dangerous as one in winter, but PERRY DAVIS'S PAIN KILLER is the sovereign remedy in case of either.

Happiness depends not so much on means and opportunities as on the capacity of using them. And this depends so much on temper and self control that the probability of happiness in old age is as great, to say the least, as it is in youth.

It seems impossible that a remedy made of such common, simple plants as Hops, Buchu, Mandrake, Dandelion, &c., should make so many and so great cures as Hop Bitters do; but when old and young, rich and poor, laborer and doctor, lawyer and editor, all testify to having been cured by them, you must believe and try them yourself and doubt no longer.

Every path that leads to good is intersected by a thousand that leads to ill.

An honest Quaker writes from Flint, Ala.: "Dr. Tutt Respected Sir—Having taken by pills I find they have proved me good. I am induced to write this card to know how they can be obtained. I don't think I can do without them. They are a great blessing to the sick, and then will surely have by the world. W. H. ELROD.

Much of "the evil of our lot" is the punishment of our misconduct.

TWO THIRDS OF A BOTTLE CURES.

Dr. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.: Dear Sir—I have been using your "Favorite Prescription" for female weakness. Before I had taken it two days I began to feel stronger. I have taken two-thirds of a bottle and believe I am cured. Gratefully, Mrs. H. C. LOVETT, Waterbo, Ill.

Every good habit corrects a bad tendency.

Fur shaggin bowls, torpid liver, indigestion, bad breath, faintness, bad ache, Ayer's Cathartic Pills are the certain remedy. By land or at sea, out on the prairie or in the crowded city, they are the prompt friend of the sad, true purpose, everywhere alike convenient, efficacious and safe.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once, it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty five cents a bottle.

THE HAYTIEN MISSION.

MR. EDITOR:—Allow me through the columns of your valuable paper to make an appeal to the women of our church, in behalf of the Haytien Mission.

The Women's Parent Mite Missionary Society is doing a good work in supporting the Rev. Chas. Moselle, his wife and two children. Every penny of our churches have organized auxiliary Mite Societies, and are doing well; but there are yet 8 added to be heard from in that direction, therefore, I would urge the women of the A. M. E connection, East, West, North, and South, to come to the front and discharge let there be missionary societies formed at once. I would ask each pastor in charge to give attention to the subject, and each pastor's wife to lead off in the matter of organization. The board of managers of the Parent M. M. S. meet quarterly in the city of Philadelphia. All money collected must be sent to the Treasurer, Mrs. A. Cagbell, 1923 N. Eleventh Street, Phila.

As soon as it had been tested and proved by the whole World that it Up Bitters was the purest, best and most valuable family medicine on earth, many imitators sprung up and began to steal the attention which the press and the people of the country had expressed the merits of Hop Bitters. Many of these pretended remedies are put up in whisky, and are a stench in the nostrils of all decent people. Many others started to name them after the name of Hop Bitters, with a bunch or cluster of grapes on them, or some name that their style or name is, and especially those with the word "Hop" or "Hops" in their name or in any way connected with it, are mostly vile stuff, vile imitations or scoundrelly. AN APPEAL FOR THE "HAYTIEN MISSION HOUSE.

TO THE BISHOPS, MINISTERS AND MEMBERS OF THE A. M. E CHURCH.

—On behalf of our "Foreign Mission," and especially our work in Hayti, I make this most urgent, and at the same time touching appeal.

I have stated from time to time in the columns of the RECORDER that we were about to make an effort to erect a mission house in Port-au-Prince.

Following the decision of the General Mission Board, as given at the Pittsburgh meeting, I have now done my utmost to have the matter receive favorable consideration at the hands of our ministers and laymen.

So wonderfully has the sentiment of our people changed within the last two years, in favor of foreign missions, that every conference which we have met has unanimously passed a resolution commending the work and pledged its share of the money necessary for the construction of the proposed building

NOW, in this particular item that I wish to call the special attention of our bishops and ministers. I hold in pledges of conference and individual subscriptions, nearly $8000.

If one half these pledges are paid within the time set adding the amount of cash on hand, we will be able to complete the building, and declare the mission self sustaining. I am authorized by Bishop Payne, who is the official board to say that after the house is put on the premises, they will be able to assume all future responsibility so far as their organization is concerned.

It will then be a great day for Africa Methodism, when we can, in the face of all the opposition we have which have spread our work, know that we have succeeded in not only building the house but equipping a mission church and school to storeign land.

I have left it in the ministers and members of our church. I believe that this appeal will find a conference, and that when they said by resolutions that each pastor would take a collection and forward the same to the Corresponding Secretary. You are hereby notified, brethren, that your duties are due, and we hope to hear from every church in the connection. "Many hands," you know "make light work."

We have gone so far that our honor is at stake. We cannot afford to forfeit our obligations. The ministers are willing to hear from us. That there may be a general response and a finishing up of the whole affair, by the middle of July, yet most respectfully ask, in the name of the Lord Jesus and our church, that each pastor raise, by some means or other, a collection monthly his congregation, to be known as the "Foreign Mission Building Fund." and that the collection be raised on or before the last Sunday in May.

The following are grand rally for Hayti and the work is done. Quite a number of our pastors have already responded, favorable mention of whom will be made at the proper time. A full and complete list will be published immediately after the May collection.

Brethren, speak at this to your pastor in time to time. Ask each one to contribute at least five cents. Some will give that much, others will give more, some will give none, possibly, but we believe that all will you can.

Praying the blessings of our Heavenly Father upon you, I am very truly your brother,

JAS M. TOWNSEND, Cor. Sec'ty.

UNION BETHEL A. M. E. CHURCH, WASHINGTON, D. C.

Rev. Jas A. Shorter, Wilberforce, Green Co., Ohio.

MY DEAR SIR AND BISHOP.—This will inform you that our new building is rapidly approaching completion; that is to say, the brick work is done. The roof framing, the sheathing, &c., is all finished. We only need to have the slate put on to complete the roofing in. We need one thousand dollars to get the slate and put it in place. My people here are doing all that any reasonable person could demand and still we are short all of one thousand dollars to secure our roof.

This is therefore to ask you, my dear Bishop, to assist us by requesting the members of our Church in your district to donate through their pastor, at least ten cents each to help us to our efforts to secure our house of worship. You can arrange to have the amount they collect sent to you or to us. Hoping, praying and trusting to hear from you by return mail, I am

Yours obediently,
JAS. A. HANDY.

Dear Brethren of the Third Episcopal District.

Mark! I fear the above appeal and letter with answer by taking up a collection for the above purpose and forward the same to Rev. J. A. Handy, No. 1308 12th street, N. W. Washington, D. C. It is not expected of you all to raise a large collection; do the best you can, and forward the same at once; immediately; let not a man of the district fail to send something. Send in March if possible, if not, in April; and if prevented by circumstances that you can not conclude until May, then early in that month as possible. Speak out brethren. Speak for God, for you, and I will speak also.

Your affectionate Bishop,
JAS A. SHORTER.

HOW BENEFIT THE RACE.

It is just possible that the desire to "benefit the race" is the one thing generally of all among the several classes of the invisible "our people." It is shared alike by the young and the old, the rich and the poor, the educated and the illiterate. Each feels bound to help the race. How shall we account for a desire so universally shared? How can it take that a chief, if not a leading reason, is found in the fact that the race so sorely needs to be helped. Its wants are everywhere apparent; in the cities and in the South, in the East and in the West, and among almost every class of us. To speak generally, the man of us who has money needs education, and the man who has an education needs money. The man among us who has the courage to commence business often lacks the knowledge necessary to ensure success. Of course, there are many exceptions; but as we have said, we speak generally; and remembering this, we are sure that our statements cannot be controverted. This universal need, therefore, of the race for help, we take, as we say, to be a chief, if not a leading, reason of the fact recognized.

But this is not the only one. Another, we think, may be seen in that the Christian sentiment of "sharing one another's burdens" has taken a stronger hold upon the people generally than is supposed. The fact is, the movement now is a thousand fold more Christian than is believed. The Christian feeling of pity everywhere prevails; nor is it confined from it. Even the man who boasts both of his unbelief and his disbelief of Christian truth, could he only see himself as others see him, would recognize a practical regard for sentiments manifestly Christian that would be, we opine, deeply to his credit, and to his surprise. In this fact we see, then, a second reason for the prevailing sentiment among all our classes to help the race up and to help it on.

But how may this be done—how benefit the race? It must be confessed, we think, that the methods which reason sanctions and revelation commands are not always followed. Each fellow, and we speak with all respect, thinks he must be on his own circuit, or in the pattern from which he would have his forefathers drink the water that he is only too sure will be healing; each must conjure up his own cloud to break in burning rays of the sun. And this he does regardless of the fact that success is not possible, much less probable, if the blind can never be the successful leaders of the blind; and yet we see this thing attempted every day. Here is a young man burning with a zeal to benefit the race. He has nothing; he knows nothing. Throw him into whatever balance you may, financial, scholastic, experimental, and he will be found even more wanting than was the Belshazzar of whom Daniel speaks. And yet this young man looks in taking the race right on his shoulders and bearing it in safety across the floods of its many troubles. That he will not succeed, every body knows, except himself—so, we have rounded off this sentence too quickly. Would that everybody but this did know that success were not to be expected; for then would we hope of some day seeing the last of the cranks. Unfortunately, however, the people themselves, like this very man, are sadly in ignorance as to the correct steps to be taken whereby one may be a real helper to the class with whom he is identified. To an extent to be deplored they seem to act upon the idea that it is only necessary for any Tom, Dick or Harry to get himself called "Professor," or "Rev." and then start out on the high and honorable work of "benefitting the race"! That such a thought is radically wrong, it only remains for us to show.

How may any one benefit the race? Both reason and revelation, reason by a process of illustration and revelation by direct command, give answers to this question; and the answer, as might be expected, is one and the same, for to repeat the word already trite there is only harmony between them.

What does reason, by a process of illustration, give as answer to the query: How may we benefit the race? Let us see. Take as the first illustration it suggests, the State of Pennsylvania, and ask, How may Pennsylvania benefit the nation? Young and lively by developing her own mineral and her own agricultural resources; giving it of her coal, and her iron, and even her oil; giving the product of her broad acres. That is, Pennsylvania can best benefit the nation by developing herself. And the same holds true in regard to every inch of ground of the entire nation and the world. Only can it hope to benefit by developing what it has, be it much or be it little, of great value or value to some extent. And the same holds true of peoples as of individuals. Only by a self-development can they hope to be of benefit to others. Bring out, then, and exhibit the latent treasure of head, and heart, and hand you possess. To speak figuratively, like Pennsylvania, give the world of your coal, and your iron, and your petroleum; and coming from you, they will be more precious than though you prized for golden give. The answer, then, that reason gives to the question, How may we benefit the race? is, develop yourself; that is, put the tree and the coal you have upon the market. Make manifest your own riches. Be rich your self. See to it that you first have, before you undertake to give. Look out first for number one, which in this instance is not the "Number One" of Irish fame, but to you, even a greater, even yourself.

As we have said, revelation heartily agrees with reason, in that it suggests precisely the same method of procedure to him who would be of use to others, to his address to the Elders at Miletus, Paul says, "Take heed, therefore, unto yourselves and all the flock over which the Holy Ghost hath made you overseers," &c. Mark the order. Take heed, first, to yourselves. Begin with self. Develop it. Have an eye on it. And then, secondly, take heed of the flock—and the flock of every man is the work of whatever kind Providence gives to do; but even in that case, first tend to self. In the Book of Luke (xxiv: 47), is recorded the steps the Master would have the Apostles take in the work of Christianizing the world. We read: "And that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name among all nations, beginning at Jerusalem." That is, begin with self, begin with Jerusalem.

With the understanding we have, the way to "benefit the race" is, to so many words, first benefit yourself. Individually show forth what you would like to see in the collectively. Hut do not be crazed about benefitting them, when you have yet to show that you know how to benefit yourself.

THE LETTER which the Rev. D. Barrows, one of the ministers of our Church, sends us from the Indian Territory, is worthy of the widest reading. It is but a reiteration of the facts which have from time to time appeared in the news from Washington; and yet so important are they, that the reiteration is altogether in place. That these Indians should be allowed to defy, not only the laws of the land, but the Constitution itself, is quite too much; that is, supposing them to be a part of the government. If, of course, they possess national independence—and one would really think so, when he hears of the government making treaties with them as with a foe—by their possess national independence, then nothing remains in these 30,000 colored people but to fall upon them at the point of revolution and take their rights. But this is not necessary. The Indian Territory is no "imperium in imperio." On the contrary, it is no more than any other of the Territories, and its people have only to be made to know that they must submit to the Constitution and the laws. And let those 30,000 colored people, through their leader, be the ones to make them know it. It is all folly to have any child's play about this matter; for purely as a matter of fact there has been too much play about this affair any way. Let the leaders of these 30,000 instruct them as to their rights; and then demand the enforcement of national laws. Nor are we unmindful of the fact that these same national laws guarantee certain privileges to the Indian in question. Should it be found that they stand in the way of the fullest possible exercise of American liberty, then let them copy the examples set them by their brothers of the lower Mississippi. Let there be no exodus. It would not take long to empty the territory of its 30,000. As many as that went into Kansas alone, and all the way from the Delta, quite as far as Seattle. There ought not to be much hesitancy in simply crossing the line of the Indian Territory, and entering one of the Territories where the inhabitants are emigrant control. As the matter strikes us, this is by far the better plan. It occurs to us to say that bishop Turner, to whose Episcopal District this Territory lies, could do no better thing than put himself at the head of those thousands and see that they either receive their full rights there, or become to them a Moses and lead them, not to Africa, but to one of the adjoining States or Territories.

It is impossible to read the average account of the average colored college commencement, and not conclude that the "negro question," as we riddle it, is to death. We are quite sure this was the case with the very brief part of the commencement referred to, which we personally were permitted to hear, to wit: the meeting of the Lincoln Alumni in the Lombard street Presbyterian Church, of our city. We were reminded of the nursery ditty:

Bean porridge hot,
Bean porridge cold,
Bean porridge in the pot
Nine days old.

Just change the word "bean," for "Negro," and you will hit it exactly. We are led to ask: Is it not time to give this well-beaten subject rest? We verily think it is. What we need to talk about is, our duties as men, with no more regard to the color of the skin than to any other physical peculiarity. That we are black is no more a fact than that we have two feet or two eyes. Why, then, everlastingly harp upon it? We know it, and the world knows it. Viewed from our standpoint, it is time to relegate it to the rear and henceforth concern ourselves about the common duties of life. We are black; so is some one—not as black mes—but simply as men.

OUR READERS have no idea of the good matter, chiefly editorial, we have to throw away, simply for want of room. "An infant crying in the night,
An infant crying for the light,
And with no language but a cry."

The child was in pain and knew no better than to cry until morning, or until somebody brought him something to relieve his sufferings. Everybody who has the care of a small child should remember that the little fellow's pains and gripes are ever more severe in blue than corresponding pains would be in a big man. Acting on this, it is wise always to have PERRY DAVIS'S PAIN KILLER on hand.

We must choose between the romance of man and the mysteries of God God only reveals Himself through many a veil, but those veils are not falsehoods.

DR. S. B. BRITTAN says: "As a rule physicians do not, by their professional methods, build up the female constitution, while they seldom cure the diseases to which it is always liable in our variable climate and under our imperfect civilization. Special remedies are often required to restore organic vigor, and strengthen the enfeebled powers of womanhood; and for most of these we are indebted to persons outside of the medical profession. Among the best of these remedies I assign a prominent place to Mrs. LYDIA E PINKHAM'S Vegetable Compound."

MANAGER.

WHAT ARE CHILDREN WORTH?

It is David who declares children to be a " heritage of the Lord."

Referring to these words one of the old commentators says: " The Lord loves his children as freely as parents do their estates."

One of the first things usually done in the matter of inheriting estates, is to know the value of them. Until this is ascertained, about everything else must stand in abeyance. Let us, then, inquire as to the worth of the estate God has left us in the person of our children. What is the worth of that boy or that girl which God has been pleased to give? What is the worth of that family of many? It is to be remarked as it relates to the gifts of God in general, that their value is very much, if not altogether, depends upon the use we make of them. That this is to be recognized as a universal principle may be seen when we apply it to Divine gifts or whatever kind. Take in the gift of food, but what but knows that the value of it depends entirely upon the use made of it. Devoted to high purposes, it is by a school well nigh infinite worth; but devoted to purposes mean and ignoble, its value is exceedingly low. And so of the land of the free and of the light of the darkness. It is to be accepted, we say, as a first principle, that the worth of the gifts of God are in exact proportion to the uses made of them. And so with the children he gives: their worth to us, to society and to God is found in a proportion to the use we devote them. Let these uses be high and their value will be great; let them be low, and their value will be little.

How greatly this matter should concern "us," needs no argument. Of all the classes which go to make up our American nation, the colored race is greatest need to look after their children, and for the reason that unlooked after themselves, as Topsy is made to say, they largely "growed." Therefore are largely lacking in that realm which is the result of careful training. The poor Indian, or Hebrew, or Gentile can better afford to let their children simply "grow," than can the colored man; and for the reason that each has something to fall back upon—what the colored boy or girl has not, to wit, a comparatively strong character—a character that was never broken down by a sense of inferiority, which is to be in the "meat and drink" of the negro for the last two or three centuries, and which must necessarily have had its effects upon him.

It is then to be understood that our children are worth precisely what we make them. Do we spend much upon them—time, money, patience? Then much will be given in return. Do we spend little? Then little will be given.

We could ask that from "Adam to Georgia," this truth were not only recognized, but acted upon. To us, especially, it is a matter of life and death. Of little or no value ourselves, is the same to be true of our children? We trust not? On the contrary, the signs of the times point to a time when either in business or in letters, the color of a man's face will have no more consideration than does now the color of his hair or his eyes.

THE MISTAKE OF OUR FRIENDS

That the colored American has friends among the whites we have no wish to deny. On the contrary, we feel more like asking: Why shouldn't he have? What has been his crime that should make such friendship impossible? The most prejudiced and the most critical might be defied to tell why the colored American should not have the fastest friends among the whites: for unless the settled judgment of the world be reversed, the judgment which rewards industry, fidelity, and perseverance with friendship, then, indeed, must the colored American count upon the whites by the thousands. And this literally is the fact. He has friends among the whites by the thousand, and in all sections, the South as well as the North. We could only wish that these friends were not continually making so many blunders in the many offices of kindness they fain would exercise toward us. It is just possible that this is expecting too much of them; and yet the wish that it were otherwise is exceedingly natural.

About the first of these mistakes on the part of our friends is the constant disposition to too largely act upon the idea that "all negroes are alike." Our friends seem not to know that negro character is as diversified as white character: that his tastes are as varied, his attainments as multiferious, and his tendencies as unmercenary as that of his white brother. And yet the fact that he is colored, at once settles the relation he is to sustain to the body social and even to the body ecclesiastical, to say nothing of the body politic, and all this without possibly ever having exchanged a word with him. Against such a course on the part of those who claim to be our friends, we object. The demand we make is that we shall be treated as men and not as black men, nor colored men, but simply as men. We demand to be thrown upon our individual merits. And this we claim especially at the hands of those who profess to be Christians. We demand Christian treatment, such as is learned not from the pulpit nor from the seminary, but from the written Word.

Second only to this is the constant tendency of our friends to talk at us, and not with us. And this is unfortunate, as we are persuaded, is done unconsciously; but it is fast becoming none the less offensive. And the demand we make is that we be approached at men, and as men consulted.

But such demands too often lead to nothing; we have in a kind hearted spirit of these friends, to wit, the disdainful breaking away from us the moment we show any really manly spirit. Even those our friends seem to think that we have no right to any independent thinking.

We could continue this list, but refrain. This we say, in conclusion, to our friends, whose friendship we greatly esteem:

There is no question of the day so fraught with weal or woe as the "Negro question." Compared to it, such questions as Civil Service Reform and the Tariff are as nothing. It is the one question upon which hangs the future of the nation's peace. We are aware that every few years this light, for a time, ceases to be wondered at. Very few saw the significance of the slave trade as it edged its way into existence; and so of slavery itself. The fact is, the average sight is blind to results. This is pre-eminently the case with the phase of the "Negro question," which asks: Cannot the most esteemed and most settle, and, of course, settle right. By reason of our vast numbers, if by nothing else, we proclaim it to be a dynamic to the country's future peace and happiness. Therefore do we ask our friends to help us settle it—a thing they can never do while they allow themselves to be misled by those who have pointed out.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE for June, is an unusually varied number, profusely and beautifully illustrated. The frontispiece, illustrating "Fantasy"—a poem by S. Weir Mitchell—is engraved by T. Johnson Abbey. Colonel Higginson continues his American History series, treating in this number—under the title of "The Land of the Inland Years' War"—the numerous conflicts from 1662 to 1762 between the Colonists and the Indians and French. The new novel, "A Castle in Spain," illustrated by Abbey, promises to be a wholesome and popular farce. It will be to most readers a welcome relief from the tedious psychological studies now so prevalent in the literature of fiction. Mrs. Spofford contributes a short story, "The Mound of Sorrow;" Charles Reade a humorous sketch entitled "Jane;" and "A Working-Girl," a brief but interesting story entitled "An Alcoholic Idea."

Poems are contributed by Annie Fields, Miss A. A. Bassett, S. S. Conant, George E. Montgomery and John B. Tabb. To this varied table of contents is added the always timely and interesting matter in the Editor's Easy Chair, Literary and Historical Records, and Drawer.

ST. NICHOLAS for June is crowded with pictures, and appropriately ushers in the summer with an interesting article, by L. Prang, on the Titusville, Pa., "Fresh Air Fund," through which so many thousands of poor city children have been enabled to taste the pleasures of life in the open country. Humor and pathos are delightfully blended in the account of this noble work lonly marred in its beauty by the unsweet fact that so many colored children are included to it) and the experiences of its beneficiaries vividly illustrated by W. L. Drake, M. Woolf, and Jessie McDermott. The latter also contributes three drawings for a poem on the same subject, by Margaret Johnson, called "A Beautiful Charity."

SEVERAL of the pictorial features of the June Century are of uncommon interest, like the frontispiece portrait of Tennyson after Woolner's bust, and the other full-page pictures in the profusely illustrated paper by Edmund W. Gosse, on "Living English Sculptors;" also Severn's sketch of Keats in his last illness, accompanied by a sonnet by Miss Edith M. Thomas, and a por rait of the artist-friend Severn. Of descriptive interest, beside, are the sixteen or seven-score cuts which overrun it. It's concluding paper in her history of the rule of the Franciscan Missions in California, and the illustrations with George W. Cable's account of the marvelous growth of New Orleans since 1815, under the title, "The Great South Gate."

THE PROGRAMME of the North Ohio Conference Sunday School Institute has been sent us. Exceedingly interesting, it cannot fail to make Delaware, Ohio, where the Institute is to be held the first week in July, a lively city. The officers in charge are: President, Rev. T. H. Jackson, D.D.; 1st Vice President, Rev. M. M. Smith; 2nd Vice President, Mrs. Julia W. Roberts; Secretary, Prof. W. O. Bowie; Corresponding Secretary, Prof. S. B. Norris; Treasurer, Bov. W. H. Coleman; State Lecturer, Rev. P. Tolliver.

LET THE scholars of the Church be up and at it, for sooner than they think, the long talked of, long wished for Magazine will be sent out. Of course, first class scholarly articles will be required. While in the make-up of the first number we cannot follow the rule, "first come first served," we do purpose when two articles are equally meritorious, to give precedence to the one which comes first. Therefore, to your desks, ye scholars of the Church.

THE WHOLE church will sympathize with Brother Taylor, doing work out in the frontiers of Texas. The assault, a most dastardly one, in any civilized community of the world would be avenged by the law. But alas! in Texas, as to other portions of the country, the law itself is in disrepute.

FROM Grenada, Miss., comes the question:

Are the Trustees members of the quarterly conference?

Strange that one can be sent to minister the law should ask so commonplace a question when it is only necessary to turn to the Discipline Section IV. "Composition of the Quarterly Conference."

THE JUNE number of "Our Little Ones," is as beautiful as illustrations can it is pleasant in its rending; and we say this regardless of the thought that it is a publication only intended for children.

WILL THE secretaries of the conferences that have elected their delegates to the General Conference be kind enough to forward us the names of such stooges?

TO BISHOP DICKERSON the editor is indebted for an invitation to attend Allen Commencement. Impossible.

OWING to illness the editor was absent from his desk for four or five days last week.

IN SENDING accounts of Children's Day, make them very, very brief.

Church News.

REV. B. L. Coleman, (Greensboro, Ala.), writes: "I have taken into my household thirty-six souls since I have been converted. We only have two preaching places."

Rev. Robert Chapman, (Boiling Springs, Ala.), writes: "This year I've had a new parsonage and a church; the church will seat about four hundred people. We have three Sunday schools on my work and they are doing splendid."

Rev. J. S Brown, (Graham, N. C.) writes: "Thank God our debt is paid, and we have a church in the line. I have collected a portion of the Dollar Money, and hope with the help of God to raise a dollar for each member by the sitting of the annual conference."

A. L. Woodson, (Helena, Ark.), writes: "I have been sick, and when not sick, but is getting better, has taken in the church on an average of fifty persons, and there never was such an influence among young and old in this Church in the spring of 1880, and received the congregations of Eld-s J. P. Campbell, Wm. Moore, Richard Roberson, and a host of other good and great men who are now gone to their heavenly land; men, too, who were proud of their race and not ashamed of their color or ancestry; men whose religion was broad and liberal enough to comprehend humanity in a portion of it is black.

You further say, "I for one do not feel like casting stones at him because the majority of our thinkers disagree with him on the African question. Our Thinkers, thinkers; did you say thinkers? Possibly you mean Bishop Payne, who prayed for God to spare his life to reach Africa and die, and Rev. T. McCants Stewart, now on his way to Africa, were referred to as opponents of my position. Thinkers! Are they thinkers!!!

I am exceprcssibly pleased to have the endorsement of your able pen on the union question, but when you accuse me of "Bishop Turner fact" you do me injustice and injurious. Yet, they are great thinkers, thinkers, thinkers. Since when did Jupiter Minervas do not leap from the brain of each one. O, for some of the sound-peak where our sage thinkers could sit in peace and think forever.

Before I close this letter, allow me to revert to a paragraph of one of our thinkers' productions in the Age a few days ago. Shades of death, degradation, scandal, infamy and all that is vile and loathsome, listen. Hear it, Erebus, and close and Darkness, for such stuff only suits thy domain.

"No. We are not going to leave this country, nor are we going to retain our present proscribed position in this land. Those who suppose, however, that the remedy for our ills is to be found in a liberal legislation or supreme court decisions, are grossly mistaken. We need a higher and more unatural remedy than these. The true and only remedy is to be found in the use of knives and guns to lose the caste and features of the Africo by the absorption of the Caucasian races."

Gracious! What a solution of the negro problem. Can the man come from there? Can he be a natural man? Let us see, however, how it will stand the test of analysis. Now, to be all more specific, our present proscribed position in society is honorable and repugnant, and there will be no ease or comfort while we remain it, and therefore we must talk with thousands and know wherein it consists. Again, we are not content with our security in this country, as we are not going to leave it, we must all turn white, bleach out by having the white man for a father. Now, if this is not a logical analysis of the position assumed above, I will confess my ignorance and will never essay anything of the kind again. Well, come now and let us start to bleaching. A million of white wives are necessary to commence with, and let the negro start to get them, and he will want to go to Africa or somewhere else before the sun goes down, for such shouting, hanging, lynching, burning and flow of blood has not been witnessed the world began, and such a fuss and bustle as would arise from colored women (as none be in an African emigration). He does say some good things at times. If he is an African monomaniac." Oh, how good you are; I can never forget your kindness. But possibly you do not know that. I have been talking and writing in this same strain for twenty-five years. Ever since I preached upon "The Redemption of Africa and the Means to be Employed," before the Prof. S. B. Norris; Treasurer, Bov. W. Philadelphia Conference in Bethel is a more difficult fast to accomplish than the other. We are therefore left astounded at the presence that we are in a slave times, and the man that advocates it ought to be hung. Now we had just as well open your eyes at once to this abominable doctrine as to wait longer. Every man who advocates the bleaching out of the negro race, is an absolute fool; he is a monster in human flesh. Yet I know of men who incline to these views because of the fact that they are good men at heart, but they are so dwarfed in intellect, so related to the past that the future is to them a mystery, so narrowly, real so little philosophy, so destitute of a knowledge of the scientific operations of nature, have studied so little about the fitness of things, have so little regard for race relations, and man's complex unity, that they have no proper conception of the infernalness of these hateful theories. They do not seem to realize themselves as advocates of the meanest form of lasciviousness, and that they are infusing in our young the damnable doctrine that we are to be ashamed of the devil's laboratory. They are worse than cannibals, more to be dreaded than wild tigers; their tongues are a thousand fold more poisonous than the fangs of a rattlesnake. Compared with the theory of the bleachers, emigration to Africa, to the Saharan desert, to the North Pole, to the middle of the sea, is as Heaven is to hell. Let us be emphatic. They are pirates upon the high seas of life, moral robbers of household happiness, leaders in social abominations. They would thwart the purposes of God to the fullest possible extent. Their principle would have; they p opose to strip the negro of his manhood, and consign the midst of a fearful storm, and turn you loose in the whirlpool of lecherous sea to drown.

The above, though horrid in the extreme, is but a fair form by which we can present the teachings of that class of public vipers. Should any one be in doubt as to the correctness of what I say, I call upon him to read all I care. I am as much offended at Bishop Payne as I am at Bishop Turner. Yes, Rev. sir, will not you have the manliness to withdraw your name from the elevation of their people by standing upon the same with those who are the evil dominant races, who have benefitted and blessed the world. This good-will among men is coming true metal will shine. Difficulties will appear and must appear, but they are stirred by such agency and at the same time so earnest in all the departments of life, and so well have made for education. The resolutions were unanimously adopted and ordered spread on the minutes of the stewards, Brother Scott, that I desired to have a word with him on business. Have been waiting for the opportunity of those who are watching to see how we proceed. Yours truly, Theodore Scott.

As he had company and did not wish to wait, he requested me to wait on him after the close of the service on Sunday, and we would have our conversation. I went about 2:50 p.m. and attended to my business and then dressed in soldier's uniform advanced into the parlor. Said he, "Good-day, sir." I answered, "Good-day, sir." Said he, "Have you not written several books on the subject?"

"Yes, three volumes, and some of them like 'Our Girls,' published by the Sherpers, Boston, and are now out of print, but the best work of my life is 'Facts for the People,' a work on the sciences. Forty years of shirmishing onebe associate with ten years of organized

"To the use of stimulating drinks, soldiers' rations and tobacco, during my life."

Doctor, have you any confidence in the remedy of which we hear so much now-days, 'Warner's Safe Cure?'"

"Yes, I have confidence in medicine, rather than in a ton of corn."

Being pressed for time, the remarkable testimonials of Warner's remedy I will have, and conclude that they are possibly as well established me. The soon mendations of proprietary medicines are not to be relied upon, but are becoming reading in back consider But I see in the columns of the Cincinnati Gazette, the warmest praise of Warner's Safe Cure from Rev. Dr. Hitchcock, President of Marietta College, and Rev. E. Raisey Roberts. Further exercises were resumed and the Presiding Elder gave an eloquent address on Sabbath school work, showing the necessity and power that is in the Sabbath school to mould character. Rev. E. Raisey Roberts, Pastor of Bishop Ward in Tuscaloosa, Ala., on December 7th, 1882, says: "I have used Warner's Safe Cure in my family and parish with the most satisfactory results. I have no hesitation in recommending it to the public as a reliable remedy for kidney troubles."

HIS PAST LIFE, PRESENT PLANS AND WHAT HE HAS TO SAY UPON A SUBJECT THAT ASTONISHED HIM.

[New York Times.]

Nearly forty years ago a young man, of reasonable endowments, began to mould public opinion upon a subject of vital importance. Like all pioneers, he had to encounter the prejudice, the stability and the value of his work soon won public confidence and to day there are few men or women in the United States that has not been influenced by Dr. D. Lewis, (deceased), whose name is to-day a household word. He was a man of rare sagacity that he contemplated the establishment of a large manufacturing city, the fact was not generally appreciated. Mr. Moorer P. B. Sanford was one of the few who saw in the location of such

"THOUGHT THE CHILD WOULD DIE."

This is what the Sisters of the Home for Catholic Children, in Boston, said about a poor little child who was racking itself almost to death with whooping cough. The child was suddenly taken with severe spasms and vomiting, and with frightful pains in the head. The Sisters wrote: "We used PERRY DAVIS'S PAIN-KILLER with the most astonishing results. In a few hours the disease was gone and the child was well."

I can sell any quantity of them as they are the best pill ever made."

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup should be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty five cents a bottle.

The Sherbro question unless vigorously handled now and put down with no unmistakable rigor will bun our ever lasting incubus on the coast and ruin the stile settlement. The Boss has arrived when any sign of weakness will be fatal to the overthrow of all authority in that district, when any hesitation on the part of the Government must result in a stop to the trade and commerce of that important commercial centre, and the desperate local powers must face the question which is to every mouth, in every metropolitan fix the heart of all connected socially, morally, politically and commercially with Sherbro, "what will the government do?"—West African Reporter.

Some years ago, it would have been difficult to persuade any leading man here otherwise than that the British Government was a firm friend and supporter of the Liberian Republic, and had no other wish than the welfare and prosperity under its protection of the Queen. This belief must have been long encouraged by the presence of a British Consul at Monrovia, a branch of the Royal African Corporation, and the constant visits of British men-of-war. But it is now almost have convinced the most rabid Anglo-phobist that the real wish of the English authorities to curtail and absorb Liberian territory, to put difficulties between the aborigines and civilized races, to annoy the government to despise the treaties on every occasion, by extorting large sums for imaginary injuries, or for losses for which our Government is not, and cannot be made by any law, human or divine, responsible; and to prevent trade and thus injure the country in the eyes of the world by alleging that it is disposed to adopt the policy of levying and discouraging commerce.—Liberian Observer.

TWO QUESTIONS

From Jefferson, Ga., comes the following question:

Is it lawful for one minister to leave his charge and cause another minister to charge and teach differently in the matter of the pastor? And what can be done with one that will do such, especially when knowing that the church is split on account of it?

We find it no easy matter to answer our inquirer, and for the reason that both his questions are what might be called many sided. It is not exactly the thing for a minister to leave his charge, even temporarily, as we understand it to be here; but when he goes to engage in the good work of teaching school, who should object? Is he not doing a work that he remembered that even a good thing must be done in a good way. As to the matter of his teaching another pastor's charge and teaching school without his consent, we cannot see the unlawfulness of such a course, save when such teaching is made the occasion to counteract in the case here, of destroying the peace of the church. In such instance we are decidedly of the opinion that the literal pastor is amenable to that clause of the Discipline which forbids one pastor interfering with the work of another. (See Part III., Chap. I., Sec. 3.)

From Ashland City (?) comes the second question:

I wish to know what should be done with local preachers who willfully and openly refuse to fill an appointment given him by the quarterly conference he has a right to do so, and the said local preacher wants pay and the people will not pay him?

In regard to the first query, the written law, as interpreted by the unanimous oral practice of the church, is plain. The written law declares it to be the duty of an elder having the charge, and every charge must have an elder over it, "to take charge of all the elders, deacons, preachers and exhorters in his charge." As we have said, the innumerable custom of our church has been to re-ordain the law as to make it obligatory upon the part of all local preachers and ministers, to take from the hands of their elders, or study for more extensive, such appointments as they have been pleased to give.

A NEW ENGLANDER IN VIRGINIA.

To have a Connecticut New Englander invited to address the alumni of a Virginia college, as was the case with Charles Dudley Warner by the alumni of Roanoke, is one of the most significant signs of the times. Time was when the presence of such a man would scarcely have been tolerated, much less appreciated. But as the old Roman said: "Times change and we change with them." So must we, in the fact stated above, choose.

And yet it is not the presence of this New Englander in the South that is the most noticeable one. New Englanders of a certain class, and with set forms of speech, were always welcome there. But never before did the intellectual South ask with such a free lance as Mr. Warner used invited and feted, as those Southerners know how to do, but never to have considered it the first business to talk plainly to the alumni association of this aristocratic college, telling them that while Virginia ought to be the centre of wealth and power in this country judging from her position she was, according to the census of 1880, the fourteenth, with the life still going toward her. The portion of the speech, however, which most attracted our attention was the following:

Virginia—if the signs that meet the eye are not misleading—has entered upon a transitional period. I do not refer to the change of your system of labor but to the nature of your labor. You have before you the problem of the transformation of an unintelligent laboring class into an industrial class, and of converting the materials you have to work with, it is the most difficult problem any where offered. What is true of Massachusetts and New Jersey and all the old States of the Atlantic seaboard, is true of Virginia; if they are to keep pace with the new and growing West to which your people they must rely more and more on high grades, space-cleaning skilled labor, the higher education of the whole mass, that can wrest wealth from a worn and reluctant soil, and create remunerative industries. The day has gone by for unintelligent and lumpish labor.

It is not only a mistake, as we have said to expect that the planting of industries alone can make a prosperous and happy State—that it can make men and women—but it is true also that the effort will be vain anywhere to build up a worthy industrial life unless it is pervaded and accompanied by a general, liberal and definite education. Not only must there be skilled technical labor, but there must be the thinking and enlightened mind. We make the serious, the fatal mistake of our age, if we imagine that what we most need is the forge, the rolling mill, the cloth, the pin, the shoe factory.

As the school and the college are the purveyors of industries, so they are the only counterfeiters of material and mould tendencies. And the educational title to your previous problem—a problem that presses up from all the North side with the tides of new emigration, but in a somewhat different way—this education must extend to the brains, white and black, for the great peril to your transition time, as to our emigration period, is the dead weight of ignorance; for ignorance is incapacity, ignorance is thriftlessness, ignorance is pretty certainly crime and ignoble living.

PERSONAL OR REPRESENTATIVE.

In a private letter written by a young man to be graduated by Dartmouth College, at the commencement of the present month, to his mother, and which, as it might be expected, was never intended for the public eye, we find the following sentiment: "I am not a delegate, and simply represent J. M. C., but his race." Success on that day will do every colored man that enters Dartmouth a great service. It is a great honor to open to your small twentieth page, pause and wonder how that manuscript looks after it has been on our files one or two years. The editor joins his readers in declaring that you have done well by the cause most dear, in appointed financial agent for the Arkansas and South Arkansas Conference—Rev. Bishop H. M. Turner—Arkansas Mission.

—The Hon. J. Milton Turner, ex-minister to Liberia, has been in the city for a week or two, and has been looking up the records of the Freedmen's Bureau, which he left in Oklahoma in the Indian Territory. The position of Oklahoma secretary for the settlements said to be in the country as can be found on the continent.

—The tomb of Thaddeus Stevens, in Lancaster, Pa., is one of the most neglected and crowded with humble graves. The most unmarked is the huge block of Vermont granite, and about it grow wild roses, woodbines, and daisies—in the rank grass. His old colored housekeeper, and her son occupies a part of it as a family burial lot.

—Rev. C. T. Shaffer, having been voted by his church six weeks' vacation for the year with full pay, left Philadelphia, Monday, 18th, for Wilberforce University, where he will spend a week and take in the pleasures of the annual commencement exercises, after which he will proceed further west, to visit his relatives and many friends. Spending some weeks in recreation, he will return to the city and his labors about the first of August.

—Bishop John M. Brown, D.D., spent a few days in Boston upon his return from the conference, to the bride of the Charles street tragedienne. Wednesday, June 13th, at 10 a.m., the Bishop preached, after which he ordained Rev Henry Buckner to the deacon's and John Richard Carroll to the local Deaconry. He was assisted by Elders Wm. H. Hunter, W. H. Hagood, J. J. Cooper, A. J. Chambers and Joseph Taylor. At the close of service the visiting ministers and congregation retired to the vestry, where refreshments were partaken of and a good time enjoyed.

—The firm of G. W. Gardner & Co., of the Athens (Ga.) Weekly Banner, has received an addition, in the person of Prof. F. E. Spruille, who is said to wield a pen both ready and sensible.

—Rev. G. H. Schaffer, M.D., is able to attend to his pastoral and medical duties again after a three weeks' illness, but Mrs. Schaffer is seriously ill, and much anxiety is felt on that account by her many friends.

—Arcadia Marie, of New Orleans, is probably the richest colored girl in America. His income from real estate amounts to not less than $50,000 per year, besides which he has a large sum of money invested in first-class securities.

—The commencement exercises of that Hon. H. C. C. Astwood, United States Consul to Santo Domingo, who recently returned from his home in New Orleans, is now sick with scarlet fever at the residence of Mr. P. W. Hunging, in Brooklyn, N. Y.

—John H. Alexander, a young colored man, from Oberlin, Ohio, is shortly to knock for admission to West Point. He expects no number one in the examination, but he is a bright-looking dark mulatto, of good features, and a little more than medium stature, exam ons call.

—General W. T. Sherman and the British minister, Mr. West, paid Hampton Institute a visit on June 11th and 12th. The school was assembled to meet them, and General Sherman delivered a very practical address, full of encouragement and his usual good sense.

—Dr. A. A. Whitman, who recently arrived in Washington from the South as A. M. E. Church a few months ago, has returned to the connection and has been appointed financial agent for the Arkansas and South Arkansas Conference—Rev. Bishop H. M. Turner—Arkansas Mission.

—The Hon. J. Church News.

Rev. R. H. Brookens writes hopefully of the Lake Oak (Fla.) District, of which he is presiding elder.

Rev. E. W. Johnson, (Williamsburgh, Fla.) writes: "On the 24th of this month twenty-five were baptized and added to the church."

Rev. G. A. Mills, (Gouldtown, N. J.) writes: "At our grand rally on Sunday, June 10th, we collected in the morning, $15.05; in the evening, $11.50; and in the evening $25.29. Total, $82.82.

Spencer Houston, (New Iberia, La.) writes: "The A. M. E. Church at New Iberia, Rev. R. H. Hunter, pastor, is now erecting a magnificent new church edifice for public worship and the cause of education."

Rev. L. N. Brown, (Selma, N. C.,) writes: "Our church at Smithfield is now completed, and will cost $200 when fully completed. We have added ten members to the church since Conference. We are progressing both spiritually and temporally."

Rev. A. A. Roberson (West Philadelphia) writes: "We are moving on nicely at Mt. Pisgah. We held our first quarterly meeting last Sabbath and had a grand time. We contemplate a rally the first Sabbath in July. Come over and help us."

Rev. H. H. Harris (Tuscaloosa, N. C.): "We have completed and dedicated a church for the connection 24 by 36. We have opened a Sunday school and now my school numbers 72 scholars. I am glad to say we are using the Quarterly with great satisfaction."

Rev. J. S. Woods, (Beloit, Wis.) writes: "We are progressing to build our church which will be the third in Wisconsin. The ladies' sewing circle is doing a good work and the proud face which the pastor's daughter, and his wife is also scarcely able to hide more than two.

THE RETURN OF the Japanese Indemnity money by our government, is exceedingly creditable to our people. The world might well admire. Never before was so large a sum—$785,000.87—of free accord transferred from the treasury of one nation to that of another. It is accepting it as we told that the Minister of Foreign Affairs of Japan expresses the appreciation of his Government at the equity and justice constantly manifested by the United States toward Japan, and alluded with much satisfaction to the present happy relations existing between the people of both countries.

THE CHARLES STREET A. M. E. Church has voted their most worthy pastor, Rev. Dr. J. T. Jenifer, a vacation for a month or more, during which he will visit Wilberforce University, Little Rock, Nashville, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York and Newport. During the summer the church is to be thoroughly renovated, carpeted, and the lighting and heating apparatus are to be overhauled. We learn that this movement are now on foot to clear the church of the remaining $16,000 if possible by General Conference.

IN A COLUMN and a half article the Southwestern answered our brief reply, sixteen lines, to its demand that negro be always applied with an N. The argument it makes is of the old kind, the same we have always seen relied to, that we do not care to give it again. As a matter of fact we are not Africans, and we do not recognize the validity of the term Negro. As well speak of Whites, meaning Europeans and their descendants, and of Yellows, meaning Asiatics and their descendants. If not, why not? We have had enough of the special.

SOME ONE kindly sends us the minutes of the North Georgia Annual Conference. Thanks. North Georgia has a membership of 9,802, who paid $25,084.81 to support their pastors. What readers especial value to this minute is the care with which the sermons of Bishops Newman and Campbell, and Revs. Townsend and Arrett, are given.

IN THE fight for the Rev. James H. Pierce has with the School Board of Burlington for the right of educating his children, he should not be allowed to stand alone. Ours, brethren, is a common cause, and help Brother Pierce in his unequal contest.

IN THE ACCOUNT of the corner-stone said thirty-three years ago in Camden, N. J., to be found first page of this issue, the dimensions of the new church about to be erected are given as 35x70, when it should have been 45x70.

TO THE Conference Book Steward of the New Jersey Conference, Rev. J. H. Bean, we are indebted for a copy of the minutes of the tenth session. The single defect is that no grand totals of the tables of statistics appear.

THE ANSWER Dr. Crummell makes to Dr. Tucker, ex-President, the Publishing Department? Can they all be satisfied? Can we refer the accusers themselves to some of these documents? Then there is the Historical and Literary Association, and the Sabbath and Sunday School Assembly and Theological School, and the Literary Circle, and a formidable array of work to be done by a people who have just come from the chains of slavery. Can the Publishing Department do not count within its commission one millionaire, nor even one who can possibly give ten thousand dollars finely; she could be kept busy for years if needs to be lifted by the mightiest intellects, and most skilled engineers. No great measure is too soon applied to the relief of the people, no effort can be thrown away in seeking to elevate this race. The possibilities do lie greatly in the future, and we need to be up and employed. First, we need direction as to how best to husband our resources properly apply them to the best advantage. It is upon the poverty of the nations. The same is true everywhere, and we cannot secure anything much to learn in that respect men people and church. If our Dollar system can be carried out and made a complete success, we shall be more than able to do all, and more, then what we have marked out upon our freesell board. The fact is plain, that if each member would pay the dollar, the church would be able to meet every demand, and more than fulfill the hopes of every missionary at home and abroad, and fill our ranks with intelligent, educated teachers and ministers. The General Conference appropriated four hundred and eighty thousand dollars out of the suitated income for the ensuing four years. That was about one hundred and twenty a year. These appropriations covered every demand which the church could possibly have made during the last year, for every department. But the fact is not recognized in the minds of the General Conference, and the result is that all appropriations made have not been met. Think then how we are to position on the part of some of the brethren in utterly disregarding the law making their collections for the general departments, which has been a drawback to the whole. This results from two causes: first, a want of proper legislation in the direction of our ministry, a want of a love for the connection and a disregard for its rules. This can be remedied only by a more rigid examination of candidates for the ministry who are to be received into the connection, young men in our schools in African Methodism. We must require every candidate to pass through a Methodist school before he can be received and apply the law and the duties of a minister.

Second, There must be a more rigid enforcement of the law in relation to the collection of funds. Many of our best people are perfectly willing to pay when they have been properly informed by the preacher in charge. Where there is neglect, and in some cases do not speak to the people, the business can be so easily slurred over. The spirit of enterprise has been held and has not been allowed to have undergone a mighty change within the last three years. Progress, progress and accumulation is the word of the day, and everywhere there is a marked change for the better.

Paul Quinn College had her commencement on June 12th. Her prospects were never brighter than now. Students move on apace in their efforts to secure a thorough education, and the financial budget is not as full as we could wish, but the institution can be said to be well-sustaining at no distant day. With a good corps of students, and 20 acres of good land under proper cultivation and economical administration, Paul Quinn will soon stand almost as a monument of what may be done by proper management. We have now the foundations in attendance, of varying grades of scholarship and training. We hope to open next fall with a much larger attendance than now. With an additional building, the Bishop and Board will be able to accommodate one hundred and sixty students.

Standing upon the verge of departure for Africa, and looking far over the blue waters that wash the land of our fathers, we hasten to prepare our departure that we may be permitted to return home the duties of life trying to make others happy. We hope now to go to Africa; with this hope we labor night and day. We ask the Church to aid us by its prayers and by their love and to aid us in establishing our schools in Africa, send missionaries to us that we do not delayed in our departure. We have been informed that the Financial Board has appropriated one thousand dollars to meet the expenses for our trip. It so, we shall be prepared to leave by the last of June for Europe, then down the coast, with the Lord's blessing, to Liberia, Africa. We rest anchor and wait for the day.

INDEPENDENT ORDER OF GOOD TEMPLARS.

The annual session of the R. W. G. L. of the World of the above Order was held last week at Medina, N. Y., under the presidency of Mr. Joseph Malins, R. W. S. T. (England). There was a large attendance of representatives, including those of the Grand Lodges of England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales, Isle of Man, Sweden, India, Cape Colony, Newfoundland, New South, Massachusetts, Florida, Tennessee, Virginia, South Australia and the Bahamas. The reports of the officers showed an increase of members each year since the last bi-annual session in Ireland in 1881, the present number of members under the R. W. G. L. of the World being 277,000. The eighty thousand dollars out of the suitated income for the ensuing four years. That was about one hundred and twenty a year. These appropriations covered every demand which the church could possibly have made during the last year, for every department. But the fact is not recognized in the minds of the General Conference, and the result is that all appropriations made have not been met. Many of our best people are perfectly willing to pay when they have been properly informed by the preacher in charge. Where there is neglect, and in some cases do not speak to the people, the business can be so easily slurred over. The spirit of enterprise has been held and has not been allowed to have undergone a mighty change within the last three years. Progress, progress and accumulation is the word of the day, and everywhere there is a marked change for the better.

Paul Quinn College had her commencement on June 12th. Her prospects were never brighter than now. Students move on apace in their efforts to secure a thorough education, and the financial budget is not as full as we could wish, but the institution can be said to be well-sustaining at no distant day. With a good corps of students, and 20 acres of good land under proper cultivation and economical administration, Paul Quinn will soon stand almost as a monument of what may be done by proper management. We have now the foundations in attendance, of varying grades of scholarship and training. We hope to open next fall with a much larger attendance than now. With an additional building, the Bishop and Board will be able to accommodate one hundred and sixty students.

Standing upon the verge of departure for Africa, and looking far over the blue waters that wash the land of our fathers, we hasten to prepare our departure that we may be permitted to return home the duties of life trying to make others happy. We hope now to go to Africa; with this hope we labor night and day. We ask the Church to aid us by its prayers and by their love and to aid us in establishing our schools in Africa, send missionaries to us that we do not delayed in our departure. We have been informed that the Financial Board has appropriated one thousand dollars to meet the expenses for our trip. It so, we shall be prepared to leave by the last of June for Europe, then down the coast, with the Lord's blessing, to Liberia, Africa. We rest anchor and wait for the day.

INDEPENDENT ORDER OF GOOD TEMPLARS.

The annual session of the R. W. G. L. of the World of the above Order was held last week at Medina, N. Y., under the presidency of Mr. Joseph Malins, R. W. S. T. (England). There was a large attendance of representatives, including those of the Grand Lodges of England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales, Isle of Man, Sweden, India, Cape Colony, Newfoundland, New South, Massachusetts, Florida, Tennessee, Virginia, South Australia and the Bahamas. The reports of the officers showed an increase of members each year since the last bi-annual

Notes on Education

A bill which has just passed the Michigan Legislature requires all teachers in that state to pass an examination in physiology and hygiene, with particular reference to the effects of alcoholic drinks, stimulants and narcotics upon the human system.

The Sawyer College of Languages will be held at Eighteenth and Green street, Mass., from July 9 to August 17. This is an experiment in the way of teaching languages by what is called the Hamen-Sawyer method, which is warmly recommended by many well-known educators.

There are three flourishing colleges in the city of Winnipeg, Manitoba. St. Boniface, St. John's and Manitoba. They are united under the corporate name of the University of Manitoba. The principle of the university is that each college shall do its own teaching and have full control of its internal affairs, but the university shall fix its entrance, conduct its own examinations, and confer degrees for courses in theology, law, medicine, engineering, etc.

—General W. T. Sherman and the British minister, Mr. West, paid Hampton Institute a visit on June 11th and 12th. The school was assembled to meet them, and General Sherman delivered a very practical address, full of encouragement and his usual good sense.

The position of Oklahoma secretary for the settlements said to be in the country as can be found on the continent.

—The tomb of Thaddeus Stevens, in Lancaster, Pa., is one of the most neglected and crowded with humble graves. The most unmarked is the huge block of Vermont granite, and about it grow wild roses, woodbines, and daisies—in the rank grass. His old colored housekeeper, and her son occupies a part of it as a family burial lot.

—Rev. C. T. Shaffer, having been voted by his church six weeks' vacation for the year with full pay, left Philadelphia, Monday, 18th, for Wilberforce University, where he will spend a week and take in the pleasures of the annual commencement exercises, after which he will proceed further west, to visit his relatives and many friends. Spending some weeks in recreation, he will return to the city and his labors about the first of August.

—Bishop John M. Brown, D.D., spent a few days in Boston upon his return from the conference, to the bride of the Charles street tragedienne. Wednesday, June 13th, at 10 a.m., the Bishop preached, after which he ordained Rev Henry Buckner to the deacon's and John Richard Carroll to the local Deaconry. He was assisted by Elders Wm. H. Hunter, W. H. Hagood, J. J. Cooper, A. J. Chambers and Joseph Taylor. At the close of service the visiting ministers and congregation retired to the vestry, where refreshments were partaken of and a good time enjoyed.

Our Exchanges.

The Arkansas Commissioners for the Louisville Southern Exposition are expected to arrive in the city during the week. Department in good shape, and the people throughout the state are responding generously. Go on with the good work, we want every county, town, cross-roads and neighborhood represented in the state represented. Every old "granddaddy" who can raise a big potato, beet or cucumber, and every old "mammy" who can knit a pair of socks, or anything of the kind send it on according to the Exposition.—Arkansas Mentor.

Before long our people, as well as all others interested, will real-ize that the assertion made by the Review that there are no true white republicans in Georgia stands as a truth. The recent threats and statements made upon the life of Captain Brisbane by one of these bloody-backs, pandering lawyer-bilags, B. A. Durrett, speaks for itself, and will be regarded as a fearful blot on a man having so demeaned himself? No! And yet the snake of the party will be open to them, and their craven votes bring out to its conventions.—Weekly Review.

The colored people of Atlanta own a half million in real estate, and is the only city in the south that can show as good showing, but not as good as which is. If the thousands that are annually spent for whiskey were invested in real estate, were put to real estate, the colored people would control a large amount above mentioned. We wish our people were economical with their money, and would cease to spend so much whiskey and tobacco and invest it in real estate. Every people who will read this article and ponder over it, and who do not understand it. They are regarding hearing the day and ordinary without appoint the next. The reason why we have not the celestial malady which had fastened itself upon us. Now, to consult a physician is nothing; that probably I had taken a cold which would soon pass away. Then I would try a few prayers, by fasting on probation and 72 hours beseeching God for relief. The colored population largely predominates in the South of this city. Hence, we are greatly pained to find so extreme reluction both as to religious and intellectual facilities, competition and sin in its multifarious forms showed. Is there not a cause? Is the standard of morality and truth among the people of God to draw the line more closely as to the observer of the Sabbath and heed the whole truth? Have refused, and expect to continue it, to equally corporations? The ranges of multiple encyclopedic, like chemistry; its answer should result in actual practice. We believe we are living, preaching, flooding the public schools and institutions of learning in our midst, because small multitudes, of all sexes and ages, emanating from the halls of professional present, twenty years hence, our Zion to hear the word of God. The church, if not now, is fast coming prepare to meet the demands of this advancing age. Let the educational industry emanating from these source.

There are to-day, at the very least, twenty thousand boys in the public school alone; for every student there are two who are not. Public schools for the ministry, judging the future by the past and present, twenty years hence, our questions of doctrine, its authority and belief must be restated, readjusted, and also applied in new forms among all denominations of the land. For the year of grace, 2000, how many thoroughly educated ministers will be the A. M. E. Church need to "contain or the faith which was once delivered unto the saints"?

At our annual rate of increase, both as to population and intelligence, how many will she need? I cannot bring myself to believe that it is too early to begin the great question. I sincerely believe that the partition of prejudices, which now separates the Methodists of the various tribes of the globe, will be abolished twenty years hence; and that all the divided nations of the earth will solve the aspiration she is "a debtor both to the Greeks and to the barbarians; both to the wise and to the unwise, for there is no respect of persons with God, and the creed, "for the same Lord over all is rich unto all that call upon him." Then will be the time for the church; if true to her calling—will prepare to meet the demands of this advancing age. The organs of education must be thoroughly instilled in the breast of the whole body, leaving its proclivities well equipped to find its affinity to unison with the philosophy of the times.

From the united testimony of the highest authorities in the land, the feeling of distrust pervades their minds in reference to the coming standard bearers of African Methodism. Unless honorable subscribe has been and are still resorted to by them, to keep our pocket books opened, but only for the present demands of the church, and the general welfare of the country. The results hitherto achieved by them in that direction are of a gratifying character, and to renew wed exertions, and to encourage the hope that the future will be crowned with success. Zion will afford the material necessary to aid her coming generations of salvation in the proper direction, a perusal of one of the most interesting pages to the history of Methodism.

GOING TO AFRICA.

BY J. W. L. BOUNDREE.

Mr. Editor:—The colonted articles on the negro emigration question, which appeared in the valuable columns of your instructive journal at intervals during the last few months, have been to me a dear humble subscriber a lack of interest. The communications have served to interest in me that I pray you to allow me to express my sentiments in the valuable columns of your paper, think it advisable for us to emigrate to Africa en masse. Firstly, because we are identified with them if we wished to do so. We could not speak of them as strangers, would speak ours. This of course would hinder that association which is necessary for the social, and the improvement of any people. Second, it would be a saving of time, and to some extent on account of our intellectual and moral condition. We do not consider the condition because others have done so, but because I am deeply impressed with the fatal results that will follow if we do not emigrate en masse; of course the African should come to us, or any other people should crowd in on any land that they may occupy, and we should first send them the gospel of Jesus Christ. Let our young men of learning, their A. B.'s, their D.D.'s, &c., go to African and preach the gospel to the heathen. Let them go in the spirit of learning, and not of self-conceited; learn the Bible, and not of self-conceited; learn the Bible, and not of self-conceited; learn the Bible

THE "LIVING SKELETON."

The man who was known as the "Living Skeleton," died and was embalmed after having been exhibited at cheap museums. He is said to have weighed 45 pounds when he died, having been reduced to this dreadful state of emaciation by long continued dyspepsia. In his case dyspepsia meant more or less process, for it kept him thin. People who want to keep themselves so thin by dyspepsia as to exhibit for "Living Skeleton" cases, can put to take PERRY DAVIS'S PAIN KILLER, for it drives dyspepsia out.

The Reptiliana, in their ancient sculptures, used to picture "Impossibility" by the figure of a man walking upon the stars; but we know one who did so walk. While, therefore, it is, humanly speaking, impossible, it illustrates the Bible saying: "The things which are impossible with men, are possible with God."

The substances composing Dr. Tutt's Liver Pills are derived from the Vegetable Kingdom, and are particularly designed to act with gentleness and thoroughness upon the Stomach, Bowels, Liver and General Circulation. They produce one or two easy passages a day, without any purging or griping. They contain no drastic elements.

Christian living and Christian character without Christ are an impossibility—with Christ, they have been made a reality, before which the world has ever fitted the homage of its admiration and respect.—Examiner.

Ladies of all ages who suffer from loss of appetite; from imperfect digestion, low spirits and nervous debility may have life and health renewed and indefinitely extended by the use of Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies for all complaints incident to the female constitution. We have only a little faith in Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, but we are assured that her medicines are at once most agreeable and efficacious.

I love to think of my little children whom God has called to Himself, as away at school—at the best school in the universe, under the best teachers, learning the best things in the best possible manner.—Dr. Pond.

When the blood moves sluggishly in the veins because it is loaded with impurities, an alterative is needed, as this condition of the vital fluid cannot last long without serious results. There is nothing better than Ayer's Sarsaparilla to purify the blood and impart energy to the system.

In studying the word of God, digest it under these two heads: either as removing some obstruction that keep God and thee asunder, or as supplying some meeting power to bring God and thee together.—Cecil.

God writes the Gospel, not in the Bible alone, but on trees and flowers, on the clouds and stars.—Luther.

A good Russian clergyman of Bergen, N. Y., also a temperance man, suffered with a kidney trouble, urinalgia and chronic diabetes almost to blindness, for two years after he was told that Hop Bitters would cure him, because he was afraid of and prejudiced against "Bitters." Since his cure he owns none but Hop Bitters.

If you would learn self mastery, begin by thinking yourself to the one Great Master.—Lobdell.

"Men must work and women weep,
So runs the world away!"

But they need not weep so much if they use Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription," which cures all the painful maladies peculiar to women. Sold by druggists.

List all acts of amusements to the utmost limit of conscience from which they flow.—Helpharian.

From Magnolia, Ark., Mr. T. J. Grimes, writes: "Samaritan Nervine cured my son's fits."

The grief that swells the Christian's heart, is the seed of a new beauty budding into flower.

"Dr. Benson's Skin Cure has driven away all my symptoms," says Ida C. Young, Hamilton, Ills.

It is better to meet danger than to wait for it. He that is on a lee shore, and foresees a hurricane, stands out to sea and encounters a storm to avoid shipwreck.

Headache—sick, nervous, neuralgic, removed by Dr. Benson's Celery and Chamomile Pills.

A letter from Cairo announces that Mr. Wiseman had arrived in that city the first of January. Between the lake Moucumbe and Nyanouve, he passed through the territory of a tribe of dwarf negroes. From lake Tanganyika to Zanzibar, his journey was made without great difficulty, owing to the aid given to Mirambo.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

From Marshall, Texas, comes the following:

What steps must a pastor take when he cannot get his officers together to hold an official board meeting, and a trustee meeting?

For an answer we refer our queriest to Section IV., page 110 of Discipline, which says. * * * the quarterly "conference shall examine the moral, religious and official character of each member." A member who fails to meet the Official Board is derelict to his official duty, and we think that inquiries in such may be marked. If, however, such member be a class leader, the readier way would be to remove him at once, as an "unfit leader." If he be also a brilliant trustees, it is to be said that as these are not members of the quarterly conference, the method suggested cannot be made to reach. The real state of the case is that no phase of our Church demands as much and as careful legislation as that which relates to the Trustees. Exactly the course to be pursued towards members of a Trustee Board who refuse to meet, is not clear to us.

From Madison, Miss., comes this query:

Where a visiting minister comes around to see the good people that he once served as pastor and many of them request him to baptize their children in preference to the pastor or presiding elder, has that visiting minister the right to baptize their children or not?

It is hard to advise in regard to the amenities of the ministerial life; and for the reason that such life takes such things as common sense, a gentlemanly bearing and the spirit of Christ as matter for granted. When any of these or all of them, as sometimes happens, are lacking, what then? We are thinking of writing to de with a man who has no common sense, who has not a spark of the gentleman in him? especially what are you going to do with the man when the "great work of educating six millions of people could be wisely and safely devoted upon the colored race of this country.

Why this "exceeding great joy?" Why anxiously wait the time when the "great work of educating six millions of people could be wisely and safely devoted upon the colored race of this country?" Does the Doctor believe that Germans should educate Germans, that Irish should educate Irish? If not, why believe that Americans should educate colored Americans? We are right sure that to this he represents a no colored American, however able or cultured. What then, we ask is only for a fair chance to teach in the schools of the land, whether they be patronized by white or colored. We think that in view of the fact that they have no hope of such a chance in the schools patronized by the whites, they NEWARD it in the schools patronized by the colored. And for this our friends, not our enemies, criticise us.

Coming to that portion of the Doctor's communication which relates to Messrs. Brown and Stewart, we dissent in toto from his position, as we are perfectly certain do nineteen of every twenty of the people. Father Ryan's "Sword and Pen," "Poems of Sentiment and Nature," "Boys' Rights," an amusing dissertation, showing many of the errors of the present day practiced toward the small boy by his best friends, by Alfred L. Cropper; "Voices from the Raleigh Jail," showing strong power of imagination, and displaying a very effective manner, by Selina Hall, (class of '79). The next paper was prepared and read by J. W. Cromwell (of the class of '74), the editor and proprietor of the People's Advocate, Washington, D. C., whose subject was the "Outlook from Educational, Material, Literary and Political Standpoints." We forbear comment on this valuable document, as our readers will have the pleasure of seeing the same in our columns. "Fixed Aims," a fine essay, with the Valedictory, by Mary P. Minton, closed this part of the programme. The announcement of prizes was then made by Josiah W. Leeds, of the Board of Managers, as follows: Mathematical, Alfred L. Cropper, $15; Classical, John E. Gumby; $10; English, William H. Polk, $10; diligence and good conduct, James A. Warfield, $10; English, Mary P. Minton, $15; Mathematical, Rilla G. Stewart, $10; Classical, Lillie A. Clower, $15; diligence and good conduct, Marcellus Dickerson, $10.

After an address to the graduating class by the Hon. Daniel Fanny Jackson Coppin, she presented each with the diploma of the Institute. The following composed the class of '83: Evalina Augustus, Mailen Baptiste, Lillie A. Clower, Alfred L. Cropper, Marcellus Dickerson, Cora B. Durham, Mary F. Minton, Mary P. Potter, Katie E. Reed, Ellen G. Shepard and Janie B. Shepard.

It is hardly necessary to add that the Institute for Colored Youth stands fully abreast with the higher educational schools of our country. The Faculty is at present composed of the following able instructors: Fanny Jackson Coppin, Principal; Fraxella Campbell, Principal of the Female Department; Edward A. Bouchet, Teacher of Natural and Physical Science; Joseph E. Hill, John H. Anderson, Charlotte Bassett and Isadora Kennedy, teachers of English studies,

OUR FRIENDS: DR. CRAIGHEAD.

The attitude of our friends, not our enemies, is fast becoming one of the most important considerations of the hour. This is especially true of the Negro. In the past, is generally known. Concerning it we nor any of us have occasion to complain. And for the reason that our friends stood by us, even as we might say the Lord stood by Paul when he spent that notable night in the deep. But times have changed. The feeling may be said to have come. The question of moment now is: What is the attitude of our friends, the majority of them, we mean? We regret to say that it is not what we could wish, and for the reason that it is much the same as it used to be. This is no sense meets the demand of the situation. It is not sufficient for the day. When Paul was in the deep with a mustering sea he needs, and a more mistaken one than he it was enough that the Lord stood by him. But when day dawn appeared and it was seen in view of the entire environment that the Lord's grace is "according to our day and generation"—who can say, we say, that the Lord's attitude was not changed—that his standing by Paul meant more than simply giving him heart to stand up against the threatening waves? We could see wish it were with the grace of our friends: that, like the Lord's, it was according to our day. But it is not. It is a grace that largely refuses to grow, offering much the same ministrations to us, and in much the same way, that it offered when we were in the deep. It seems not to know the force of the old maxim that when times change, men must change with them; it seems not to know that the prevailing grace proffered a man when a slave, is in no sense the grace to offer him when a freeman, especially such a freeman as our institutions produce.

The occasion of these remarks is the remarkable communication from Prof. Craighead, Dean of the Theological Department of Howard University, found upon first page. Of course, nothing we say will prevent Professor Lane from making a reply; but the moment is one when a hard time of it. They are placed in a corner called the negro corner, have their recesses at different times, and are not allowed to recite with the other pupils. This is shameful.

The above is clipped from the Indianapolis Colored World. Will our wideawake contemporary allow us to say that we have three children going to these mixed schools, and instead of having a hard time of it, neither we nor they could wish for better treatment.

THE REV. DR. W. D. JOHNSON has at last consented to give the public, in pamphlet form, the memorable speech he made before the General Conference of the M. E. Church, South, in 1878. Why the Doctor should have delayed so long is a query but it is one of those offensive good enough to keep. We congratulate the Church upon its appearance, and modestly suggest that the brilliant orator would have it bound in a sufficiently handsome form as to make it suitable for any parlor's table.

HAD THE EDITOR accepted all the invitations he received to attend Conventions, etc., he would have required a fuller purse and considerably more health and strength than he possessed. But how hopeful is such a fact! Like autumn leaves these invitations fell upon his table, from the East and the West, from the North and the South. That the harvest will be it needs no prophet to tell.

HOW STRANGELY do some of our contributors talk about Africa as being a nation, or of making a nation of Africa. Africa is a continent, just as Europe and Asia are continents, and each of these is possesses not one nation but scores of them. To talk, then, of the African nation is to talk in such unintelligently as well as to talk of making Africa a nation.

J. W. CROMWELL, Esq., the most excellent editor of the People's Advocate, Washington, D. C., called in our city to honor his Alma Mater, Institute for Colored Youth, upon the occasion of the recent Commencement, stepped in-to our sanctum. We hope to be able to present the first instalment of the able paper he read upon that occasion in our next issue.

REV. JOHN B. ADDY has our thanks for the proceedings of the Brookhaven (Miss.) District Conference and Sunday School Convention. The following were the statistics reported: Schools, 18; scholars, 1,773; teachers, 62; officers, 35; amount collected to date, $74.20; books in library, 1192; missionary societies, 3; Child's Recorders taken, 50.

MOUNT MORIAH (Uniata, Miss.)—Our church and Sabbath-school are prospering and more encouragement than ever before. The Rev. Mr. Hall is our pastor.

Rev. R. Seabrook, (Archer, Fla.) writes: We made a report of the work of the exercises during our Sabbath School at Mt. Olivet, which was highly spoken of by Mr. L. Reed, superintendent. The proceedings were grand.

Rev. J. Scholes, (Lansing, Mich.) writes: "I have succeeded in working up a good congregation and have raised on the church property, which is now worth $1,500. We have finished the chapel at the rear and have a nice basement room, 21 by 42 feet, and have got the large room, plastered, and window fix."

Rev. T. A. Clark, (Harrisburgh, Ill.) writes: "We are gathering up our contributions for Bishop Turner, to carry out to be taken by all my conference. Children's Day being observed, quite an interest was manifested by both old and young. The church was beautifully decked with flowers."

Rev. O. A. McGhee, (Eaton, Ohio) writes: "Sunday, June 10th, we celebrated our Children's Day. It was a feast in the history of our church, and it was a grand day with our little folks. The children sang 'Hold the Fort,' and marched through the aisles of the church and responded to the call of the pastor with two dollars for Sunday School Union, which was forwarded.

Rev. H. J. Levy, (Sandusky, O.) writes: "Our church and Sabbath school rendered the programme as given for Children's Day and formed a part of the two hundred thousand Sunday school of the South managed by the A. M. E. Church. We desire to know how many children of the Church mentioned in THE RECORDER wanted to join in the great jubilee. Our church is not at least to some in the connection, yet a lively interest was shown on Sunday. The collection was quite satisfactory of Sabbath school. Collection promptly forwarded to Rev. J. F. Brown.

Rev. J. F. Brown, (Putnam Co. circuit) writes: "I visited last year I framed in a church of 19 by 24 feet in Mt. Pleasant, Putnam Co., and the assistance of the people, I have succeeded in finishing the church, and have it dedicated the first of September. I have built a school house 20 by 24 feet in Mt. Pleasant. The Sunday school is taught by Miss Mattie Hoyt, Miss Ella Hoyt and Miss Ella Hoyt, all of Mt. Pleasant. The school is at once. The rally on the third Sunday in May was a success. I collected $6.45 for our colleges in Atlanta, Ga. There are two Sabbath schools on this circuit. The number of youths has increased this year 44, making a total of 149. Our people would gladly hear a sermon or two on the subject of education, and are trying to have their children educated."

THE SAVANNAH ECHO is to be congratulated upon presenting its readers with translations from the German, made by a colored gentleman of culture.

REFERRING to the hymn written by Rev. Dr. F. H. Hedge for the Unitarian Festival, the editor of the Christian Register says:

The Dr. Hedge drunken of the fountains of perpetual youth? The Hedge whose English was "rely lingering, and his address as brilliant as the poem was beautiful.

The second stanza of the hymn is as follows:

A tyrant God, and Hell's sheath,
No more beland our earthly thee,
The heavens are wide; and room is there
For every soul that upward strives.

We are minded to say of the last two lines, that if heaven is "wide," and has "room" for "every soul that upward strives," how about the souls that do not strive upward?

Notes on Education.

The buildings of Iowa College, which, destroyed by fire about a year ago, is to be immediately rebuilt, and will probably be ready for occupancy when the college opens in September.

The last Legislature of Illinois passed an excellent compulsory law, and now Chicago is confronted with the problem of how to enforce it. The chief difficulty is that the present school accommodations are entirely inadequate for all the children of school age.

The Rev. Dr. J. Walter Wayland, the well-known American Missionary, who has been so long connected with the establishment of the Cawnpore Memorial School in India, is, years ago, has returned to that country to take charge of the Centennial Boy's School at Lucknow. The school is now nearly ready for occupancy, and will accommodate a large number of pupils. Dr. Wayland is

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

From Marshall, Texas, comes the following:

What steps must a pastor take when he cannot get his officers together to hold an official board meeting, and a trustee meeting?

For an answer we refer our query to Section IV., page 144 of the Discipline, which says: " * * * the quarterly conference shall examine the moral, religious and official character of its members. A member who fails to meet the Official Board is derelict to his official duty, and so when that question is asked may be marked. If, however, the pastor finds the same evidence of neglect way would be to remove him at once, as an "improper leader." As it relates to trustees, it is to be said that a like case of not members of the quarterly conference, the method suggested cannot be made to reach. The real state of the case is that no phase of our Church demands as much and as careful legislation as that which relates to the trustees. Exactly the course to be pursued towards members of a Trustee Board who refuse to meet, is not clear to us.

The same querist asks also the following:

What is the best manner to receive members will not come to church, only when the presiding elder comes to hold his quarterly conference?

In such a case the thing to be done, we think, is to work hard during the week in the performance of pastoral duty, and when Sunday comes strive equally hard to make the meetings as interesting as when the presiding elder is present.

From Madison, Miss., comes this query:

When a visiting minister comes around to see the good people that he once served as pastor and they of them request him to baptize their children in preference to the pastor or presiding elder, has the visiting minister the right to baptize the children or not?

It is hard to advise in regard to the amenities of the ministerial life; and for the reason that such like matters and things as common sense, a gentlemanly bearing and the spirit of Christianity for granted. When any of these or all of them, as sometimes happens are lacking, what then? What are we going to do with a man who has to commit suicide, who has not a spark of a gentleman in him? especially what are you going to do with a minister who is utterly destitute of the spirit of Christ? We confess we cannot tell.

Approaching more directly the question asked, we say that if the people really prefer that visiting brother to baptize their children, it were as well, possibly, to let him do it.

INSTITUTE COMMENCEMENT.

THE TWENTY EIGHTH Annual Commencement of the Institute for Colored Youth, that monument of Quaker liberality, founded through the generosity of a member of the Society of Friends in 1837, was celebrated on Tuesday, June 26th, at the Association Hall. A large and appreciative audience filled the room and listened with the closest attention to the exercises, which were pleasantly opened with the Salutatory address of Lulu, by Ella G. Shepard. Then followed quite an instructive essay, " Excelsum videri," by Lillie A. Chower; " Education of the Ballot," by Hannah Jones (class of '78), a well prepared and thoughtful paper, " Boys' Rights," an amusing dissertation, showing many of the errors of the present day practiced toward the small boy by his best friends, by Alfred L. Cropper; " Voices from the Raleigh Jail," showing strong power of imagination, and delivered in a very effective manner, by Selina Hall (class of '79). The next paper was prepared and read by J. W. Cromwell (of the class of '61), the editor and proprietor of the People's Advocate, Washington, D. C., whose subject was the " Outlook from Educational, Material, Literary and Political Standpoints." The attitude of our friends, not our enemies, is fast becoming one of the most important considerations of the hour. What that attitude has been in the past, is generally known. Not complaining if we nor any of us have occasion to complain; and for the reason that our friends stood by us, even as we might say the Lord stood by Paul when his life and work at the common duty of advancing in their acceptation of the truths of Christian brotherhood and manhood.

WE FEEL like saying to our readers, examine the present issue, first page especially, with more than usual care, as we feel sure it will pay. To use a war phrase with the best of peaceable intentions, however—Dr. Craighead is there in force

POISONED WATER TO DRINK.

When 4th died in the river, forty miles above the water-works, many people were alarmed lest the 4th element of the water might be raised all the way down. Happily there was nothing but what could be remedied by the use of something that everybody could procure at a few minutes notice. This little "something" was FERRY DAVIS'S PAIN KILLER.

To work on and hope on in the face of seemingly unsurmountable obstacles requires a kind of heroism, soul born in us, that but few possess, but that is, after all, the kind of heroism that wins life's greatest battles. Strong in hope, forward in spirit, with high and noble aims, given these, we may be sure of a measurable degree of success if we carry out our determination in the teeth of every form of opposition. Cling to truth, live to duty, and they will carry you through every storm and bear you safely over every temptation sea.—Ide Ordorion.

I am the Pastor of the Baptist Church here, and an educated physician, I am not in practice, but am my sole family physician, and advise to many church dances. Over a year ago I recommended your Hop Bitters to my invalid wife, who had been under the medical treatment of Albany's best physicians several years. She has become thoroughly cured of her various complicated diseases by their use. We both recommend them to our friends, many of whom have also been cured of their various ailments by them.

MANAGER.

"AFRICAN SOLDIERS AND CIVILIZATION."

Under the above caption, Gen. J. W. Phelps delivers his soul in a way that at once earns for him the credit of being the most valuable friend of all who have delivered their souls in regard to the Six Million. What he says, may be seen below.

The colonization of Kansas with negroes from the South-West has not proved as advantageous as was anticipated. Many of them have returned to the place from which they emigrated. This fact ought to be a lesson to our African soldiers some thought with regard to their own future. While they are engaged in service upon the frontiers, the good lands of the country are being taken up; and not many years hence will be largely settled for negro occupation time those of Kansas have proved to be. What is to be the young African to do after his term of service has been completed? Where shall he go? Where can he find lands to suit him? He ought to decide as to what his future course is to be; whether he will be a farmer, a mechanic, a day laborer, or what other calling.

If eligible to me that no other country opens up a wider or higher future for our African soldiers than this. The only question to be considered is how these soldiers are being discharged from service, and can go back to their father-land and become established in homes. This would be the most practicable if a proper plan could be adopted for carrying it out. The Colonization Society could have sent to every soldier, at the cessation of twenty-five acres of land. If now the Government would retain half, or a third pay during his five years' term of service, and deliver it to him on his return to Liberia, he could thus be enabled to begin a plantation of coffee-and sugar and cotton, and himself in the way of acquiring an early competence.

The burdens of this is that the government shall enlist in its defence, its colored as well as its white citizens. As to the former, it shall "contribute half of his pay during his five years' term of service and deliver it to him on his arrival in Liberia." In this case he is not a knave'r or is he both? With all the charity we can command, and all we think the occasion calls for, we are inclined to believe that he is both. The fact that he is both fool and knave. Expatriation the reward of gallant service! Well may the shuddering negro race reprobate another such suggestion on the part of a military commander. Pagan Rome rewarded the men who made up her legions with citizenship. Christian England bestows riches and honor. It remains for a general in the American army to recommend expatriation. And yet the men of the Colonization Society so far endorse the recommendation as to publish it in the July number of their Repository—that Society of which a host of our Bishops are willing to appear as Vice-Presidents.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

From Texas we have received a request to answer the following questions:

1st. Has a Bishop the right to transfer a minister without giving him charges, and the timely notice as provided by law beyond his (the minister's) endorsement thereon?

In the seventh answer to the question. What are the duties of a Presiding Bishop? we find the following: "Provided also That no preacher shall be removed without his consent, from the bounds of his district, without at least three months' notice prior to which the Bishop shall desire his removal."

The one uncertain word in this provision, is the word, "District." If by it we are to understand an Episcopal District, then it is clear that the Bishops are not prohibited, at least by this law, from transferring the ministers from one of the conferences going to make up their Districts, to another without my such provision. But does the "District" of this provision refer to the Episcopal Districts of the Church? We think not, and for the reasons, 1) The provision calls it "a bishop district," that is the district of the preacher. As a matter of fact, the only district of a preacher is the conference to which he belongs. The Bishops have their Districts. Preachers their conferences. 2) The certificate given is not from one District to mother, but from one conference to another, as may be readily seen. With this understanding, the law is perfectly plain that a notice of three months must be given. Of course, it must be borne in mind, as we have said, that if the word "District," in the provision alluded to, means one of the Episcopal Districts, then is the Bishop not bound to give the three months notice in sending men from one of his conference to another. But we are persuaded that a liberal construction of the words will not justify any such meaning. One of the points upon which the forthcoming General Conference should throw light, is this very word.

2d. Is a Bishop the right to transfer a minister from his district, without his asking for a transfer; but by merely announcing at the close of conference that such a one is hereby transferred, and is being ordained at the same time that there was nothing in that minister's official, moral or religious standing detrimental to his pastoral or public influence by which the church would suffer were he ordained?

We can clearly of the opinion that both the letter and the spirit of our present Discipline give the Bishops such authority. But while clearly possessing the authority, respect would seem to require that in all cases where it was at all possible, information of such intention to transfer should be given.

3d. Now, if the facts be as stated, a minister in duty bound to accept the circumstance, and take the appointment in the other conference to which he is, by this mode of transferring, sent?

Beyond all question, obedience to that that is lawfully done, is the duty of all preachers. And it should ever be remembered that in the history of the General Conference, the Bishops decide all questions of law, and such decision becomes a law until the General Conference shall speak.

OUR EMPLOYMENT.

In making calculations as to the future status of the American colored man, there is no question upon which our enemies, both white and black, whilst of America, are so blind of finance, as to calculate as upon the question of our employment. To hear these talk, the wholesale millions of us of to-day and Prof. Bruce's two hundred million more, are doomed to the very lowest pursuits of industrial life. With one voice they proclaim us to be the hewers of wood and drawers of water" for all time to come.

Never were a class of would-be thinkers more prone to be disappointed as to this, as any one may see who really cares to look. The facts, instead of the negro of a hundred years hence being common place, will be found the very reverse. Like men with those who by reason of birth and a thorough comprehension of social and civic life, in spirit and in letter, are best prepared to rule and to govern. As it is with the native American white, even so is it destined to be with the native American black. Few, if any, white native Americans, male or female, are servants; and for the reason, that they are not so constituted as against it. Unless it can be shown that the American black is lacking this genius, it necessarily follows that it will be the same with him. That the American black people of this country are being taken up, and not raised, as these lands are being settled for negro occupation time those of Kansas have proved to be. What is to be the young African to do after his term of service has been completed? Where shall he go? Where can he find lands to suit him? He ought to decide as to what his future course is to be; whether he will be a farmer, a mechanic, a day laborer, or what other calling.

MISS GRACE G. WATERMAN, formerly of Mt. Holly, but now of Lake City, Florida, is North and called at the office. That one reason may know somewhat of Miss Waterman and the most excellent work she is doing to Florida, we simply make record of what the Macagar said upon introducing us to the lady: "Dr. Tanner," said he "if all our preachers of the consecration worked for the Publishing Department of the Church as Sister Waterman has done, I would feel like standing upon a steeple and proclaiming our consequent success to the world." Leaving the office on our way to our own desk, Mr. Watkins, the shipping clerk, said: "I have long been desiring to see Miss Waterman. We have sent her so many packages, as she does business with the department to the amount of hundreds every year." As we ponder upon the goodly work which this little lady has done, and is doing, we think that character is everything. While scores and hundreds of great big men are floating about the North almost dying to save the race, yet absolutely doing nothing, here is this little woman of less than a hundred pounds, has gone forth with the spirit of an apostle and done a work that even a Xavier would applaud. How soon do you expect to return ? we asked. "About the first of September," she said, "as I have to attend Chautauqua, being a graduate of the class of '83." From our heart we say, God bless Miss Waterman.

WE ARE SORRY we cannot rise and second the People's Advocate's motion to have Frederick Douglass and the white Faculty of Howard resign and make room for the honored Prof. Douglass with "a white and black Faculty." Such a movement like Prof. Reason, Rev. Dr. Reeve, Rev. Dr. Crummell, Rev. Mr. Grimke, Prof. Greener, Prof. Bouchet, R. B. Elliot, Rev. Dr. McCants Stewart, &c. &c. No more than the whites must we insist on drawing the color-line, which is not drawn in the Faculty of the Howard. The only trip policy is to rub it out. If President Patton says the present geovration of colored men can't, let them show him and demonstrate that they can. Then will he admit of any doubt. I declare I will believe that the Faculty of Howard University, as the administrative the church has prospered financially and connectionally, and among the intensive Sunday worshipers have been many prominent citizens.

THE PRESENCE in our city last week, of Joseph Maline, of Birmingham, England, bold and honor of the U. S. C. T. of the World, in company with the genial H. J. Osborn and lady, of Bristol, England, editor of the True Templar, and friends who ministered to us when abroad, was highly appreciated by Good Templars generally. The pleasure of meeting them under our own roof, if but for an hour, was highly enjoyed.

BISHOP CAIN has our thanks for the Fort Worth Gazette's account of the Examination exercises of Paul Quinn College, elsewhere to be found. With the Conference, Allen, and Paul Quinn at work, and two or three others projected, who will say that the A. M. E. Church is not alive to the necessity of educating the people?

GEORGE W. CABLE will conclude in the July Century his series of illustrated papers descriptive of the Creoles and their Cheoses. "The Dance of Calinda in New Orleans" is the title of the paper, which deals with the sufferings of the Creoles from the Mississippi's overflow and from yellow fever and cholera.

LEE & SHEPARD have concluded to give the public another edition of the life and public services of Major Delecy. As the Major himself has acquired a large interest in it, and engages in publishing it, it is to be hoped that the edition will soon be disposed of.

FROM THE pages of the Tribune we clip the account elsewhere given of the struggle now going on in Hayti. As a Church, we are especially interested in the safety of our missionary and his family, now in Port-au-Prince. May a kind Providence preserve them.

IT SEEMS impossible for us us to get any news of Wilberforce Commencement. Paul Quinn, in Texas; Allen, in South Carolina, reported to the Church weeks ago. How about Wilberforce?

—John H. Alexander, colored, has passed an excellent examination, and been admitted to the Military Academy at West Point.

—John G. Brown, of Wilberforce, is one of the most active young men of the country, has just been appointed mail agent of the Pan Handle route.

—Professor Paul Haupt, of Gottingen, who has been invited to fill the chair of Semitic languages at Johns Hopkins University, is only thirty years old, and has already risen to enviable prominence among German philologists.

—Frederick Douglass sent the following as his tribute to Mr. Beecher upon the occasion of the celebration of his 70th anniversary:—"In the house of country, liberty, justice and humanity the man has spoken better, brighter and braver words than he."

Register Bruce sent the following to the Beecher banquet: "Proud he has been manly, cober and cheerful in his judgment, earnest and honest in his effort, reverent and hopeful in his spirit, he stands to-day among the strongest and truest of the people."

—Miss Consuella Clark, daughter of Peter H. Clark, Esq., of Cincinnati, has been appointed resident physician to the Homeopathic Hospital. But one woman before her had ever received the appointment. Miss Clark is a bright scholar, an earnest, energetic little lady, and is destined to make her mark in the world.

—When James T. Rapier, the well-known colored man of Alabama, who died last week, was told a few years ago by a stalwart who sought his removal from office, "Why, it is reported that you don't represent the colored race in your section," he replied: "No sir: I do not, at present. I represent the possibilities of the colored race fifty years hence."

—The venerable Bishop Peck, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, not long ago gave all his property to the Syracuse University, reserving to dispose of it when during his own life. "I have a little ambition," he said, "to die without anything, for I am going to where I shall have infinite riches of a kind that will suit me better than any of these material things."

—Mr. William E. Matthews, the popular colored broker of Washington, is a native of Maryland, and received his capacity for financial business. After serving the Government about ten years as a teller, he handled with success the accumulated a few thousand dollars, with which he commenced business as a broker two years ago. His business now amounts to $75,000, and his daily profits from loans, discounts and mortgages average about $20. His banker will take his notes very readily to the amount of $10,000. Mr. Matthews is a shrewd and safe business man, and he can command probably more capital than any other colored man in the country.—The Key West News.

—Bethel A. M. E. Church has, by decree of Bishop J. M. Brown, taken from our midst the talented Christian pastor, Rev. W. H. Griffin, and appointed to fill the unexpired term of Rev. T. McCants Stewart, who was latest open to the call of Liberia, as a professor in Monrovia. From last accounts he was with Rev. H. M. Rowe instructing in Hebrew. It is also said to say that there never has been a man in Bethel pulpit, and elected by the Bishop D. A. Payne, that has had the ability as a theologian to expound the truth as has Rev. Griffith. He is also a worker he has hardly had an equal in Bethel since I came here. Since his life visited more of the sick, performed more parish work than the two pastors before him. He is loved by the people. He is in his 56th year, and has done 26 years of ministerial work as an itinerant, 20 years in the West Indies and the balance in this country. He is a native of Nevis and Europe. Our hearts were sad when we heard the news, but like a true soldier of the cross, we must say he was called to his new home in the capital city. The funeral of Rev. Griffith was the theme of the Richmond Industrial Herald.

—The following is an exact translation of the letter addressed by the Sultan of Shoa to Menelik-Kader made his final treaty of peace with France: "Grace to God only.

Let it be known to all, that Menelik-Kader made his final treaty of peace with France: "Grace to God only.

Let it be known to all, that Menelik-Kader made his final treaty of peace with France: "Grace to God only.

Last night the talented and eloquent Rev. Dr. Derrick, of the latest Methodist Church, delivered his farewell sermon. The administration

GREATEST DISCOVERY SINCE 1492.

For coughs, colds, sore throat, bronchitis, and consumption in its early stages, nothing equals Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." It is also a great blood-purifier and strengthrestorer or tonic, and for liver complaint and costive conditions of the bowels it has no equal. Sold by druggists.

A polite man, truly: The scene is laid in a railway carriage, whern seven passengers are smoking furiously. The nigbth passenger, courteously: "I beg your pardon, gentlemen, bnt I do bope that my not somking doesn't' inconvenience you."

The secret of health is the power to eat, digest, and assimilate a proper quanity of wbulesome food. This can nevar be the case while impuritice exist in the system. The blood must be purified; it is thn vital principle, ramifying throngh every part of the body. Dr. Tntt's Liver Pills expel all impurities and vitalize the whole system.

If yon are a woman and want both health and beanty, remember that all superficial efforts to increase your personal charms are vain Freshness and beauty accompany Aesilla, and to secnre this Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkbam's remedies for all female weaknesses offer the surest means of renovation. The highest intelligence loses its luster when it must find expression throngh a billous complexion. Good for either sex.

"I don't want no rubbish, no fine sentiment, if yon please," said the widow who was asked what klod of an epitaph she desired for her late husband's tombstone. "Let it be short and simple, something like this: 'William Johnson, aged 75 years. The good die yoong.'"

SCIPIO, N. Y., Dec., 1, 1879.

I am the Pastor of the Baptist Church here, and an educated physician. I am not in practice, but am my sole family physician, and advise in many chronic cases. Over a year ago I recommended your Hop Bitters to my invalid wife, who has been under medical treatment of Albany's best physicians several years. She has become thoroughly cured of her various complicated diseases by their use. We both recommend them to our friends, many of whom have also been cured of their various ailments by them.

REV. E. R. WARREN.

An old colored preacher in Atlanta, Ga., was lecturing a youth of his fold about the sin of dancing, when the latter protested that the Bible plainly said, "There is a time to dance." "Yes, dar am a time to dance," said the dark divine, "and it's when a boy gets a whipping for going to a ball."

Ayer's Pills possess the positive virtues of some of the best known medicinal plants, prepared and combined with scientific skill—rejecting the crude and drastic portions, and retaining only the active principle—the part which cures and does not harm. If you are sick try them.

The Detroit Free Press: "A woman placed four pounds of cold meat and eight slices of bread before a tramp. At the end of twenty minutes what was left?" People who answer, "The plate," are wrong, because the tramp walked off with the plate as soon as the woman's back was turned.

Young, middle aged, or old men, suffering from nervous debility or kindred affections, should address, with two stamps, for large treatise, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

Bridegroom (to his little sister-in-law at the breakfast): "Well, Julie, you've got a new brother now—(enfant terrible); Yes: and ma said the other day, to pa, she didn't think he was much account, only it looked like Lottie's last chance," [Great clatter of knives, forks and spoons.]

Have you Heart Disease in any form? if so use Dr. Graves' Heart Regulator; 30 years have proved it a sure remedy for organic or sympathetic Heart Disease. $1. per bottle at druggists.

"No," said a Philadelphia philanthropist, "I cared nothing about the swindle; I only sued the man he an act of obarity. There are 65,600 lawyers in the United States, and not work enough for half of them.

"Ringworm all over daughter's body, cured by Dr. Benson's Skin Cure." Mrs. Merriam, Blue Hill, Mass.

Elderly philanthropist to small boy, who is vainly striving to pull a door bell above his reach—"Let me help you, my little man" (Pulls the bell.) Small boy—"Now you had butter run, or we'll both get a licking."

Brain worry kills many thousands every year. Dr. Benson's Celery and Chamomile Pills the remedy.

An exchange tells of "a young lady losing the sole of her slipper while enjoying the intoxicating whirl of the waltz." Of what profit was it to her if she had gained the whole whirl if she thereby lost her sole.

Samaritan Nervine relieves the brain of morbid fancies. It's a pure family medicine.

"It is a duty," says Mr. Ruskin, "to be nice looking." We find it not only a duty, but a downright pleasure.

"Samaritan Nervine cured me of St. Vitus Dance," said T. J. Osborn, Richmond, Va.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

A HOME DRUGGIST TESTIFIES.

Popularity at home is not always the best test of merit, but we point proudly to the fact that no other medicine has won for itself such universal approbation in its own city, state, and country, and among all people, as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

The following letter from one of our best-known Massachusetts Druggists should be of interest to every sufferer:—

RHEUMATISM. "Eight years ago I had an attack of Rheumatism, so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILLA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public. E. F. HARRIS."
River St., Buckland, Mass., May 13, 1882.

SALT RHEUM. GEORGE ANDREWS, overseer in the Lowell Carpet Corporation, was for over twenty years before his removal to Lowell afflicted with Salt Rheum in its worst form. Its ulcerations actually covered more than half the surface of his body and limbs. He was entirely cured by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. See certificate in Ayer's Almanac for 1883.

GREATEST DISCOVERY SINCE 1492.

For coughs, colds, sore throat, bronchitis, and consumption in its early stages, nothing equals Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." It is also a great blood-purifier and strengthener or tonic, and for liver complaint and coative conditions of the bowels it has no equal. Sold by druggists.

A polite man, irnin: The scene is laid in a railway carriage, where seven passengers are smoking furiously. The eighth passenger, courteously: "I beg your pardon, gentlemen, but I do hope that my not smoking doesn't inconvenience you."

The secret of health is the power to eat, digest, and assimilate a proper quantity of wholesome food. This can never be the case while impurities exist in the system. The Blood must be purified; it is the vital principle, remedying through every part of the body. Dr. Tutt's Liver Pills expel all impurities and vitalize the whole system.

If you are a woman and want both health and beauty, remember that all superficial efforts to increase your personal charms are vain. Freshness and beauty depend on health and to secure this Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies for all female weaknesses are the surest means of renovation. The tightest intelligence loses its luster when it comes to expression through a bilious complexion. Good for either sex.

"I don't want no rubbish, no fine sentiment, if you please," said the widow when she selected this kind of an epitaph she desired for her late husband's tombstone: "Let it be short and simple, something like this: 'William Johnson, aged 75 years. The good die young.'"

SCIENCE, N. Y., Dec., 1, 1879.

I am the Pastor of the Baptist Church here, and an educated physician. I am not in practice, but am with my family a physician, and advise in many chronic cases. Over a year ago I recommended your Compound to my brother's wife, who has been under medical treatment of Albany's best physicians over two years. She has become thoroughly cured of her various complicated ailments, by the use of Warner's safe cure. We both recommend them to our friends, many of whom have also been cured of the most various ailments by them.

REV. E. H. WARREN.

An old colored preacher in Atlanta, Ga., was addressing a parish of his folks about the sin of dancing, when the latter protested that the Bible plainly said, "De re is a time to dance." "Yes, dar am a time to dance," said the dark divine, "an' dat time is when de boy gets a whipping for going to a ball."

Ayer's Pills possess the positive virtues of some of the best known medicinal plants, prepared and combined with scientific skill—not by cling the crude and drastic portions, and retaining only the active principle—the part which cures and does not harm. If you are sick try them.

The Detroit Free Press: "A woman placed four packages of cold meat and eight slices of bread before a tramp. At the end of twenty minutes what was left?" People who answer, "The plate," are wrong, because the tramp ate the plate. Then he ate the table and the woman's back was turned.

Bridegroom to his little sister-in-law at the breakfast): "Well, Julie, how do you like your brother-in-law tenfold terrible? Yes; and ma said the other day, to pa, she didn't like the idea of so much as one; only it looked like Lottie's last chance." [Great clatter of knives, forks and spoons.]

Have you Heart Disease in any form? If so use Dr. Graves' Heart Regulator, 30 years have proved it a sure remedy for nervous or sympathetic Heart Disease. $1. per bottle at druggists.

"No," said a Philadelphia philanthropist, "I cared nothing about the swindled; I only said the more a man is of charity There are 65,000 lawyers in the United States, and not work enough for half of them.

"Ringworm all over daughter's body, cured by Dr. Benson's Skin Cure." Mrs Merriam, Bine Hill, Mass.

Elderly phlebotomist to small boy, who is visibly smarting to pull a devil ball away from his head: "Keep still, you, my little man!" "Pull the ball, I shall live." "Now, you had better run home or we'll look out sticking."

Brain worry kills many thousands every year. Dr. Benson's Celery and Chamomile Pills the remedy.

Are exchanges dead young ladies who marry dead men? Not always. Only in the intoxicating whirl of the waltz? Oh, what pools we have lost in the sad, grand time while we were thereby lost her note.

Jerusalem Nervine relieves the brain of mental business. It's a pure luxury medicine.

"It is a duty," says Mr. Rockin. "to be nice looking." When that duty is a duty, that is downright pleasure.

"Will you marry me?" said Vitus Dance," said F. D. Gobeln, Richmond, Va.

Advice to Mothers.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once, it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. Popularity at home is not always the best criterion of merit abroad, but when a druggist has been selling a medicine for years, and commands universal confidence in its efficacy, his opinion is worth considering; and when all prefer

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

The following letter from one of our well-known Massachusetts druggists should be of interest to every reader:

RHEUMATISM. "Eight years ago I was taken with Rheumatism, so severe that I could not move. Was confined to my bed three weeks, without help. I tried several remedies, but got no relief until I used Ayer's Sarsaparilla. By the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. Have not had Rheumatism since. I have sold large quantities of your Sarsaparilla, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The cures attributed to it are truly remarkable. Many that have been given up by physicians have been cured by it."—Chas. A. Clowry, Druggist, Silver St., Auckland, Maine, May 13, 1882.

SALT RHEUM. "I have used your Sarsaparilla in my family for the cure of Salt Rheum, and was for over twenty years before his removal to Lowell afflicted with Salt Rheum in the worst form. Its operations seemed to be almost miraculous. Its effects were truly wonderful. Its use has not been confined to my family, but has been extensively introduced into this community, where its virtues are well known. See certificate in Ayer's Almanac."—Chas. C. Clowry, Lowell, Mass., May 13, 1882.

THE BEAUTIFUL GREEN MELON.

A beautiful thing it was, and right green was young Mr. Green, who went down the cellar about midnight and ate nearly half of it. The next day young Mr. Green said he didn't want any breakfast, and he thought he would not go to the store. He wished he hadn't seen that watermelon. By the prompt administration of Fenny Davis's Pain Killer young Mr. Green's internal economy was reduced to a state of peace and comfort.

A convention where there is a dead lock is the most tiresome place in world, particularly when the balloting is going on. The other nighdone man yawned fearfully. His neighbor said: "It is fearful tiresome, isn't it?" "It is awful!" "Let's slide out." "I can't. I am one of the nominees."

Chas. F. Goer, Norwich, Conn., writes, Feb. 11, 1878: "I have several times in the past few months sent to you for one or two boxes of your Pills. All who have used them express the greatest satisfaction at their beneficial effects. Send me four boxes." I trust by putting them in our store they will soon be used as not only by our customers, but by the community generally."

Lawyers are very critical. Once a young lawyer, upon being informed of an unkindness between a young lady and gentleman, inquired whether the gentleman was "over or the lower?" So an attorney in Dublin won a challenge to meet him "in the four acre, by the same more or less."

The late Dr. Bethune asked a morose and miserly man how he was getting along. The man replied: "What business is that of yours?" Said the Doctor: "Oh sir, I am one of those who take an interest in the meanest of God's creatures."

Young and middle-aged men, suffering from nervous debility and kindred affections, as loss of memory and hypochondria, should inclose three stamps for Dr. Kay VII. of Pavilion's Discovery Dime Series of pamphlets. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

An elderly resident of Newtown was approached by an agent for a patent medicine. "I guess I won't get one," said the elderly resident, quite frankly added: "I know I never could learn to ride one of the peak things."

When the organs of secretion become clogged with the poison of a cold or other cause, the inflammatory material should be removed and healthy action restored. Ayer's Pills accomplish the work quickly, safely and surely. Much serious sickness and suffering might be prevented by promptly correcting such derangements as which often develop into settled disease.

"Never put off till to-morrow what you can do to-day," said an advising mother to her little son. "Well, then, Mamma, I want a piece of pie to-day, that is in the cupboard," was the reply.

No opiates or drastic cathartics are to be found in that peerless remedy, Somnilen Nervine.

Rounder. Cob., Mine. N. E. Wilder, writes: Samaritan Nervine cured me of epilepsy."

Don't despise a woman because she can't write rattle or bang pictures. If you want to discover your true worth point, just carry a 6x4 mattress down stairs, grinding organ.

There is hardly an adult person living but is sometimes troubled with kidney difficulty, which is the most prolific and dangerous cause of all diseases. There is no sort of need to have any form of kidney or urinary trouble if Hop Bitters is taken occasionally.

Do you get sore holiday is your office? asked a retained dvine of a cheery-looking worker in secular walks. "Oh! yes; we get a day to get buried on."

Lydia E Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done thousands of women more good than the medicine of many doctors.

This is the beginning of o new novel: She was at one time a son so prodigal that all the world was glad to welcome her home.

Dr. Graves' Heart Regulator cures all forms of Heart Disease, nervousness and sleeplessness.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth; it relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, one the little cherub wakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other cances. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

What those have done say one may do. MANAGER.

RESOLUTIONS.

WHEREAS, Thousands of dollars are due to the Publishing Department of the A. M. E. Church, from its many patrons, and

WHEREAS, many of the accounts (aggregating these thousands of dollars) have been standing for more than one year, notwithstanding the parties have been notified again and again. This is unbusiness like, and tends to embarrass and cripple the Department, and if allowed to continue will break it down; and

WHEREAS, Many of the debtors among our ministers have been transferred and their addresses thus changed, and many of our patrons among the laity likewise changing their places of residence, making it thus difficult for the Manager to reach them direct, therefore

Resolved, That the Manager be hereby directed to prepare a complete list of the debtors and amounts for each Episcopal District and present the lists so made out to the several Bishops in their next annual meeting, and we most respectfully ask that they exert their influence and co-operation in collecting these bills in their several districts to the end that the efforts being put forth to pay off the debts of the Concern may prove effectual.

Resolved further, That the Manager be and is hereby instructed to make one more special effort to secure a settlement upon the part of the debtors of the Concern, to which end he is also instructed to forward the circular letter prepared by the Board to each debtor, that a statement may be had, and he should said debtors fail or refuse to make a settlement with the Concern, then other and necessary means shall be used.

AGENTS WANTED.

Will our pastors who are not supplying the RECORDER to their people, please do so by sending one for a sample to be sent weekly? If it is too much trouble to you, encourage some young man or boy, or, what is quite as good, a young lady whom you could recommend. Many of those who are now acting as agents are ladies. Let every one take hold of this. Send for sample sheaves. It may have been the young preacher's fault that you were not. Try. Joseph Parker call "Fire." It may be that the Ritual was to blame. Ah! that is it. The Ritual wearied me; it sapped my spiritual energy so to us. We do not like the Ritual. We have seen its operations and observed and felt its effects in several churches. There is more "Eve" wherever it is not. It is "a cumbersome machine" that priest and people both seem to work without much thought and less feeling. I hope the Ritual never will be introduced into the African M. E. Church. If the eyes of Bishop Wm. W. Dereicl, D.D., could read these lines, let him not think that we have backslidden. Oh, no; we stand by our "unhyo ritualistic brethren" as he counseled it to Albany, and as I had the privilege of doing in Bethel, New York. We are opposed to the Ritual as we were in the State, to the Ritual. We remember having said to a member of the committee on the Ritual for the A. M. E. Church, at Cape May and in other places, that we did not want the Ritual in the A. M. E. Zion Church simply molested. We want a simple service in accord with the simplicity of our Methodism. If we are asked to do anything for the sake of a service, with slight additions and changes, as Elder Derrick confects in the Book of Worship, we are ready for serving. But we must pause for the present. We have not at hand our observations, both in the Bishop Payne and the Bishop Campbell could manage a preach for a service, but the Ritual change certainly could not do it and get along well.

Back of the pulpit and within the altar the name of God is written in characters in memoriam of Pioneers of Methodism. On the right, as you look upon the audience, is a tablet to the memory of Rev. Richard Allen, the founder of the A. M. E. Church. Next comes a tablet in memoriam of Dr. Coke, Bishop of Methodism. A tablet to Benson comes next.

Then on the left and highest, facing the brethren, is a tablet to Asbury, the sweet singer of Methodism. On this tablet is an open hymn book, and, oh, does not that open book look inviting! We shall never forget him. But if it were possible for the coming ages to forget the singer, they could never forget the hymns.

Next comes a tablet in memoriam of Thomas Coke, first Bishop of the M. E. Church of America, and companion of Wesley in 1784. Conspicuous on this tablet is the figure of an African-American—a Negro [but please spell it with a capital N]. Under the figure are the words:

"Ethiopia shall soon stretch forth her hands unto God." The figure of an Indian is also there. On the right, on the east, come Adam Clarke, the learned Commentator. In memoriam are also processed me as I turned and stood in the yard of the chapel at the graves of Wesley and Fletcher. Both are of each life—"The path (we tread) leads but to the grave." Oh, how full of faith and treasures is heaven. Blessed is that man who says that his life is the service of God and humanity, striving daily to conform the inner man to the highest moral and intellectual ideal.

We turn now to the service. We shall not say much. We did not much enjoy it. It may have been our fault. It may have been the effect of empty benches. It may have been the young preacher's fault that we were. Dr. Joseph Parker call "Fire." It may be that the Ritual was to blame. Ah! that is it. To Dyspeptics.

The most common signs of Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, are an oppression at the stomach, nausea, flatulency, water-brash, heartburn, vomiting, loss of appetite, and constipation. Dyspeptic patients suffer unusual miseries, bodily and mental. They should stimulate the digestion, and assure regular daily action of the bowels, by the use of moderate doses of

Ayer's Pills.

After the bowels are regulated, one of these Pills, taken each day after dinner, is usually all that is required to complete the cure.

AYER'S PILLS are sugar-coated and purely vegetable—a pleasant, entirely safe, and unfailing medicine for the cure of all disorders of the stomach and bowels. They are the best of all purgatives for family use.

MANAGER.

HOW TO UTILIZE TIME.

The excuse oftenest given to conference committees sent to examine candidates for admission, as well as examine those who are in their first mad second and even third year of "how they have time." That they really think so, is scarcely to be questioned; and yet in the vast majority of cases they are mistaken; at least the occasion of this seeming want of time arises from not knowing how to utilize the twenty-four hours which go to make up the day. As life is to us it may be supposed, very few people know how much time there is in a day. It was one of the laconic sayings of Greeley that few men know how much bad there is in ten acres. As we have said, this is precisely the case in regard to twenty-four hours. Not many lie a hundred knows how much time there is in them.

A good way to impress one, of the amount of time which he does not use, is to have him live it and so be able to speak of every passed hour. Equally so, a good way to impress one with the amount of time there is in twenty-four hours is to insist that he shall be able to speak or give account of every hour, as say nothing of every minute. In the case of either the load or the time he who is compelled to answer will find himself surprised at the extent of both.

To say nothing of twenty-four hours a minute is a long time. If you doubt it, make the experiment of holding your face in a bucket of water while you count sixty seconds!

"How is it," asks the chairman of the committee mentioned above, "how is it that, having the books furnished you, you should such a poor examination in them?"

"I didn't have time to study them," is the answer given in the cases out of ten. It requires but little thought to show the emptiness of all such pleas, and yet in the majority of instances they are simply made.

Twenty-four hours! Let us make such a division of it as it is supposed a minister should make.

We allow first, eight hours for sleeping. This is at least two hours more than the average minister takes; though it is not a minute more than he should take if he would keep himself in trim; and we beg those "who have ears to hear, let them hear." GREELEY thought not to count on SLEEP OF EVERY TWENTY-FOUR.

The remaining number of hours will be sixteen. Of these, allow six for pastoral work, visiting, both the well and the sick, burying the dead, &c. Of course, half of this time will not be required to three charges out of the whole connection—the grade of charges we mean, to which the younger of our ministry is uniformly sent.

We allow three hours for eating—one hour for each meal. Here, too, our allowances is of the most liberal sort, for the fact is usually that of us all we usually have half enough to enjoy us a full hour. Yet we make the allowance and still have seven hours remain.

What in the world will we do with these seven hours? We have had sleep, we have eaten, we have attended to the spiritual duties of our position, and yet we have seven hours over.

The point we make is, that of the seven hours, three, at least, should be given to hard study, and then we allow four hours to be frittered away, twenty minutes here, and twenty there, and the like.

It is perfectly clear that three hours out of every twenty-four should be devoted to HARD study. We emphasize the word hard, and for the simple reason we do not call dreamily gazing on a book while the make of the sweetchum is mysteriously encircling us—we do not call this study. NOTHING is worth anything, or is language more expressive than polite; killing time. Hard study is what the mass of God men do not least three hours every day—the study that was in the mind of Paul when he wrote: "Study to show thyself approved."

WORK? We say the first thing in the morning—after you bathe and breakfast. At so other time during the day will the mind be as strong and as clear.

Young brethren, and old brethren, too, we have abundant time for study. It is mainly for this that the church supports us. If we are not to know more than our congregations, how are we to teach them? And if we are not to teach them, pray tell us for what do we draw our weekly allowance?

THAT BIG N.

Says the Philadelphia Sunday Times, July 15:

The Negro Press Convention at St. Louis not only engaged in the discussion of many topics of general interest to their race, but it also settled by a sensible way a philological question. It was decided that negro should in spelled with a big N. This is right, as it is all so common sense. There has been danger for some years that the negro race in this country would all die out. Colored people have still remained in great numbers and occasionally a person of African descent might be found, but no negroes. This convention of intelligent members of the race has seen fit to protect against this foolishness. The Negro is a distinct race of mankind, while African may mean something or anybody from an Egyptian to a Nubian, or a native of the Guinea Coast or a Zulu. The word "colored" is still more at sea. It doesn't mean anything at all, every race being considered a colored one except the Caucasian. Not only is Negro a distinctive name, but it is spelled as Americans do city other, and gives the people bearing it an opportunity to make their own fixed place in the world. The St. Louis convention showed sense in this as in many other respects.

Persons at all versed in ecclesiastical history know that in the early days of the church, the fourth century, it was altered from "name" to circumference upon the merits simply of a single letter in a word, which the opposing parties would accept as descriptive of the nature of Christ.

Persons at all versed in political history know that upon more than one occasion appropriate letters have in some great measure been defeated by the failure to insert so small thing as a comma.

The moral is: Results are not to be measured by the size of things.

Whether the men of purely African descent, if any such can be found, to say nothing of those whose descent is mixed, are to employ a big N in writing themselves Negroes may seem a question of the smallest possible importance and yet we fancy we see in it nothing less than the head of the camel destined to drag the whole body in, to the hurt if not to the destruction of the building. With this conviction, therefore, we take exception both in the action of the Colored Press Convention in St. Louis, as well as to the above comment of the Sunday Times. Both, to us, are unwise, and therefore hurtful. The descendant of Africa in America is not the less a descendant of the European in America that is, he is to be lost. And the field to perpetuate him, whether carried on by whites or blacks, is simply the fight against fate. Like the European, the African is to go under; and that whether he be called African, negro, or Colored. Separate and apart from the fact that he is to take his stand side by side with the descendant of white Europeans, and be called by the name wherewith they are called, he is doomed. One step more and this will be accomplished. This step is already been taken. At first he was an African; so recognized by himself and by all. Less than a century ago, every organization was formed had to be called "African." Pass up Fifth street in our city, and let your eyes fall on the tablet of St. Thomas, Protestant Episcopal Church, and if your vision be keen enough to see through the "whiting" the present generation of colored worshippers have placed over it, you will see that the word "First African Church." So was it, also, with our own organization, "The African Methodist Episcopal Church," and so with the African M. E. Zion Church." But the fact that we were not Africans became so universally conceded, that of its own weight the word fell into disuse; one is it ever heard, save when one of the old organizations is mentioned. Not being "African," nor yet recognized as African by the people, and we among them, fell upon the word "negro," saying substantially that as you have no country but the United States, and as you are to be of it after your color, negroes. But the cognomen was never very generally, much less kindly, used, for even as the old designation "colored" was applied, indicating two things, a softening down of the baroque phrase "negro," as well as a recognition of the fact that we were really in a state of transition, the conclusion of which will only be seen when in common with the other peoples of the country we be recognized as built by ourselves and others as Americans.

The project, then, to resuscitate the dead silence of the word "negro," only in a new lease of life, but to so far as is possible, crown it with glory and immortality, is to be resented; and for the reason that our name is to be bound generous, if indeed it is to remain united. No power on earth can keep our country united if one part is to remain permanently white, and the other part to remain permanently black, with the color-line, both in letter and in spirit, in force; for to hold no power in mind or heart but one part free and the other part slave, An irrepressible conflict is bound to result in the former case as in the latter. Therefore do we denounce the effort made both by white men and black men to keep the people apart. We care nothing about the zeal of either the whites or the blacks. Our care is on the future. We plead for amity and friendship, a sine that is as inconsistent with every idea of education as is a state of war inconsistent with every idea of peace. In order, therefore, to crystallize the present unsettling of things, one book while the make of the sweetchum is mysteriously encircling us—we do not call this study. NOTHING is worth anything, or is language more expressive than polite; killing time. Hard study is what the mass of God men do not least three hours every day—the study that was in the mind of Paul when he wrote: "Study to show thyself approved."

From Barbadoes we receive the Agricultural Reporter. In its issue of June 23d, we find a letter written to the editor by a gentleman signing himself J. H. Shannon. From it we clip the following:

The editor of the Globe is playing the hypocrite; he is writing against his own convictions, against the views and opinion he has always enunciated, and he is doing an from base and mercenary motives—for money. I do not wrong him in the saying that he knows I only repeat what he himself wrote to a friend in America, who published the letter, a copy of which came into my hands.

We have reason to believe that the editor of the Globe conferred in the none other than Rev. J. N. Durant, whom we have the honor to personally know and the good sense to esteem; and the "friend in America" mentioned, none other than ourselves. Now, we should like Mr. Shannon to substantiate a charge as grave as that of colonization of our country for the task of making conclusions or opinions take their place. We deny that the editor of the Globe ever intimated any such thing in his letter to me; which I stated it. Nor would our opinion of the man based upon our knowledge of him allow us to believe any such. When in Barbadoes we were much higher; and we still ever believe the one mistake of his life was to leave it. But devotion in the very people for whom he is now charged with betraying, led him to cast behind him proffered positions both of emolument and honor; and we say that still, more than ever, must him now if he choose to accept them.

IN THE JULY Unitarian Review the Rev. James C. Hicky has an article entitled, "The Religious Genesis of the Race." Referring to the black or African, he says: "The Negro is a child of the sun, and the red or American Indian, he says:

"They have occupied climates as favorable for civilization as the latter (the negro race not excepted), BUT THEY HAVE NEVES DEVELOPED ANY HIGH CIVILIZATION."

As we read this article, we were about ready to believe that the only scholarship necessary to constitute one a contributor to this Review, was of the kind possessed by the writer of the "Negro Sandpiebis." If such scholarship only THINK, neither the quality nor the accuracy of the thinking will interfere with its acceptance. For Mr. Hinky to say that the black or African race never developed any high civilization, is to construct the plainest teachings of history. Did not Africa develop her civilization from peoples to the far South? And did not Greece receive her civilization from Egypt, and Rome from Greece? As, however, it relates to Egypt, the black or African race, according to Mr. Hicky, has no lot nor part in it. It is the white race, and in this sense, the white or Mediterranean (race) with its three great branches—the Hamites, the Semites and Aryans. Then the Hamites, the Semites and Aryans. That is to say, the black or negro race is not Hamites, that is, did not descend from Ham.

THE BARK Monrovia sailed from New York for Liberia at 9.30 A. M., Monday, July 16th, with 400 tons of general merchandise on board. The Rev. Andrew Cartwright, the Liberian missionary, had charge of the party, and he was accompanied by his daughter. Other passengers were the Rev. Dr. Hillary J. Moore, a graduate of Dartmouth College, and wife, of Monrovia, Liberia, who has recently been showing how little he knew of political economy, the Rev. D. W. Fraser, a graduate of Harvard University, who goes out as a Presbyterian missionary; Mrs. J. E. Davis, of the Bolton High School, who will teach in the Liberian College, and Mr. Peterfield, the steward of the bark. The question will present itself, where are the thousands which our friend Mr. Morris, the colonizationist, and others of country generally, say are panting to go to Africa? Why allow this vessel to go out almost empty?

BUT remembered we have no objection to those going to Africa who wish; but we certainly object to seeing the best people of the country put in a false light.

IF WE COULD only make our white fellow-citizens and fellow Christians believe that our black will not rub off, and get them to approach us a little nearer, we should be willing to risk the trouble of debating many questions long since settled. Who that knows aught of the history of Ethiopia, Nubia, Coptic Church, and of such schools as Wilberforce and Allen and Paul Quinn, would commit the blunder Rev. George Leonard Pennell commits in the writing of the school at Tuskegee, said:

But the conduct of the school, its teaching and daily management thus far is wholly in the hands of colored people. I do not know that this is to be a permanent characteristic of the school. As it grows and enlarges its industrial features, white teachers may be taken from another race. But the school is now and will be conducted. It is the black man's attempt to do for himself. As such, it is intensely interesting. Its success or failure will of test the colored man's capacity for self-government. It will show whether he can not only take education, but give it; not only learn, but teach; lead, as well as follow.

THE LONDON Methodist Recorder of July 6th date, referring to the examination of those offering themselves for the ranks of the Wesleyan ministry, says:

One great difficulty will arise from our present troubles—there will be a great cure in the selection of candidates for the ministry. Examinations will be a stricter, and a keener scrutiny will be directed to the fitness of the men who offer themselves. We need at this time highly-trained, well-disciplined, and hard-working preachers—who will be able wherever they are placed to influence public opinion and to command confidence by the strength of their character, the soundness of their accuracy of their knowledge, and the success of their Christian work. Very much will depend on the way in which the examination committees have discharged their high responsibility, so that the Conference will only accept good preachers, later students, and those who are filled with the spirit of the evangelist.

TO a letter the same may be said of our Church, that our present troubles results from the looseness with which candidates for the ministry are examined and passed.

SAYS THE CHIVALRIC Southwestern in regard to color-line churches and schools:

The supreme crisis has come. Any man who supposes that the church can divide the second time on Mason and Dixon's line, is simply blind to the events which are now transpiring. It may be true that there are members of our church in the North who are still so completely under that form of civilization that was symbolized in that cargo of slaves that was landed in Virginia about two hundred and sixty years ago as to believe that the church can "reasonably faithful in her teachings and solidistinguish" to the doctrine of Christian brotherhood," and at the same time erect churches and schools from which our colored members are excluded; but there is not a colored member of any church in all the South who does not see that it involves a palpable contradiction, nor is there one who does not look upon the erection of churches or schools from which they are excluded merely because of their color as an insult to their essential manhood.

WE READ with no little pleasure the following, which occurred in the letter we printed last week from Bishop Wayman:

As our Secretary, Bishop Dickerson, will have placed before the doings of our meeting, I shall say no more in this connection.

We have often wished, as have doubtless our readers, that the Church might be informed of the business accomplished at the annual meetings of our Bishops. We publish a letter from this issue from the Rev. C. S. Smith, not because it commends itself to our judgment, for we have before stated our belief that representation which presents our Bishops to the public in the light of gourmands, but rather because it is well that the members of the Church should know how one well very accomplished.

OUR DEAR FRIEND, Dr. Rust, puts us under obligation for the Fifteenth Annual Report of the Freedmen's Aid Society. Should the only blue book papers is the following: "In accordance with the INSTRUCTIONS OF THE GENERAL CONFERENCE, the Society has decided to establish two institutions of a high grade for our WHITE members—one in the Southwest at Little Rock, Ark., and the other at or near Chattanooga, Tenn., for the East." We will give the floor to our able concrete, The Southwestern, to make comment.

WE HAVE received a letter from Cincinnati in which its really excellent pastor, the Rev. Dr. Levy, is highly detailed, but in such a jocose, finny way, that we find it impossible to use it. Brethren, when you write for the paper, don't consume time and space in idle jokes. The burden of this letter is that the dear people of Allen Temple are reconciling the efforts of their pastor, and the indications are that ere he leaves, the long standing debt of $5000 will have been paid.

THE A. M. E. CHURCH has become sufficiently strong and influential as to attract the attention of stragglers and wanderers. Such we find ourselves often to say before, let every man now entering our ranks be required to give an account of his standing. If he have not a clear and a straight record, let him remain where he is. And should he have such a record and be admitted, let him not be placed in office, unless he has grown up, as those of home have had to do.

REV. A. L. STANFORD, a note of whose death we published a fortnight since, departed this life May 13th, after two weeks of the most painful suffering. We have been favored with a letter addressed to Rev. Josiah Eddy, in which Dr. Stanford's death is referred to as a real calamity to the community in which he lived.

THE BISHOPS are making a flattering appeal in behalf of the Parsons Fund for Church, of which the whole Church from time to time has been informed by the Rev. Dr. Townsend, the Corresponding Secretary. In the hands of this special and the object for which it is made, it is scarcely to be doubted that the means will be forthcoming.

DR. C. H. MARSHALL, of Vicksburgh, sends us a revised copy of the work he is doing in that city. We are pleased to announce that the Manger has made arrangements whereby it may be obtained at the Publishing House. Fuller notice will be given.

IN ANSWER to a card of inquiry we are informed that Rev. Jesse Lawson Payne, who was severely injured by a window sash, as we learn, falling upon him, is getting much better, and hopes within the next ten days to be out.

"THE PANSY," published by Lathrop & Co., Boston, takes a high rank among all young people for beauty of illustration and acceptability of reading matter.

ONCE MORE do we call the attention of the Secretary of the Treasury to the fact that (D. V.) in Jan. 1884, the first issue of the Quarterly will take place.

OUR SKETCHES in Georgia can do no wiser thing than ponder over the words of Dr. W. J. Gaines.

Personal.

—Prof. Scarborough attended the Oberlin Jubilee.

—Prof. J. P. Sampson was in our city last week, and called.

—Dr. W. J. Gaines is expected in this region before the hot weather is over.

—Bishop J. A. Shorter has been spending a few days in Washington, D. C.

—Dr. John T. Turner has returned to Washington from an extended trip South and West.

—Rev. G. T. Shaffer has returned looking decidedly the better for his season of comparative rest.

—Bishop Dickerson has been spending a few days in New York, enjoying the hospitality of many admiring friends.

—Rev. Dr. Steward, one of our presiding elders, is unusually ill, is on confinement in Chicago. It is the work of Mr. R. H. Park.

—Pere Hyacinthe Loyson and wife will visit this country in about a month and will remain nearly all the fall and winter.

—Cleveland has two colored lady teachers in her mixed schools in the person of Miss Mary W. Trapp and Miss Clora Bass.

—Miss Hortensa Parker, a colored lady from Ohio, was valedictorian of the graduating class of Mt. Holyoke Seminary, Mass.

—The largest colored landowner in the United States is a Carolinian of the name of Dr. W. H. George. He owns a tract of land running through three counties.

—The Hon. Frederick Douglass is at Bar Harbor, and will presently visit Toledo, Ohio, seeking relief in the cool and the nervous troubles which have lately annoyed him.

—Julia F. Scott and Wm. H. Marshall graduated from the Harrisburg (Pa.) High School with high honors, being the first colored graduates. One of them stood No. 1 in a class of 36.

—Dr. Jenifer has returned to Boston, having passed through our city two week. Owing to the, Dr's. universal popularity, we have an idea that his reception was pretty well filled in by work.

—Rev. Peter C. Lawrence, of the A. M. E. Church, began the study of astronomy at Charleston in 1850, and by experimenting upon an English and an American work, produced and calculated tables on solar and lunar astronomy and applied them to the eclipses that were visible to Charleston in 1869 and 1878. He is now engaged, we believe, in a new part of Babylonia.

He is now engaged, we believe, in a new part of Babylonia. In most ancient times, copper was doubtless regarded as square with the sides of the two thousand four points of the compass; but astronomy, the child of fate, and of a strong determination being felt, the cardinal points were shifted till each one was a true square. Mr. Bertin adds that these facts confirm the difference to orientations between the Egyptian and Babylonian monuments. As it is well known that the Egyptian temples were always constructed upon scriptural authorities and astronomical observations, and that they then useful in the criticism of biblical chronology as well as in pointing out solar and lunar eclipses. Rev. R. F. Hurley (Clarksville, Texas) writes: "I am filling out my second year on this charge. Dedicated a fine church in Sherman, Texas, in February, 1882, since which time we have paid off $1,000 of the debt. Have a good parsonage, and a membership of 200. Did not report before, as I was not satisfied with the work done. Have had a good year, and feel encouraged. Have 50 probationers, and expect to receive them into the church in a few weeks. Have a good Sunday-school, and a good Epworth League

"ISAW A VERY UGLY CHOST."

A charming young lady of Brooklyn was relating some of the troubles she had had in the night. The ghost which walked into her room looked something like a lobster and something like a scale-crow. She remembered that she had enjoyed a good supper of lobster salad. Where naked howl was that she was able to be out of bed in the morning, she remarked that she always kept a bottle of PERRY DAVIS'S PAIN KILLER in her room, and that two teaspoonfuls dose of the most efficient remedy had driven the ghost away.

They were enjoying a bath. "You should see the back row," said the president of the First National of Throckmorton, Indiana. "You should see the back row. Dark hair, fairly filled with beautiful flowers, all fine house-plants and all doing well." "I shouldn't think," said his friend, the chronicler, "that it would be a very good place for floriculture." "Oh! yes," replied the president; "they do splendidly. You see, there's so much falling down in all the time that"—But the auditor missed the rest of it, for a Nantucket crab had got judgment on his foot and he was busy trying to get ashore before it foreclosed.

When the fountains of life are corrupted and embittered by suffering; when the functions of womanhood are strictly normal, woman life is like music, with no discord so far be celeste sensibilities and break the vital and organic harmony. But many who suffer from vital and functional disorders have found immediate relief and a permanent cure by using MRS. LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S Vegetable Compound.

What's the use—what on earth, we say, is the use of talking about art culture in San Francisco, when it is a open secret that a certain rich mining man recently went to Florence for a report of the Venus de Milo, and, when the statue was delivered, actually sent the Central Pacific Railroad Company bills for making a cast of art used, what is more, recovered large damages.

Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers which prevail in miasmatic districts through the summer and autumn are invariably accompanied by derangements of the stomach and liver. There is always a weakness of the stomach, and torpor of the bowels. DR. TUTT'S LIVER PILLS are peculiarly adapted to such cases.

A vigilant sentinel is posted at the door of a picture gallery with strict orders if the customary discretion is not slight-hour happens long and is promptly hatted. "There, sir! You must leave your cane at the door!" "But, sir, I—I haven't got any cane." "Then go back and get one!" was the answer allowed to pass in late notice he leaves his cane at the door. Offers le ordre!"

There is hardly an adult person living but is sometimes troubled with kidney difficulty, which is the most prolific and dangerous cause of all diseases. There is no sort of need to have any form of kidney or urinary trouble if Hop Bitters is taken occasionally.

Dean Swift was once dining with a family in which the servants rendered it of the number of comforts in which the maiden prefer "that" should been the rightful property of her ancestors. The Dean heard the tedious and oft-told tale to the end, then declared that the possession of all that sort of misunderstanding by saying: "Madam, will you kindly hand me another piece of de-dumpling?"

Do not waste your money, and risk inflicting your hair by purchasing useless trash from peddlers, but buy something that has a record—a remedy that everybody knows is reliable. Hall's Hair Renewer will invigorate, strengthen, and beautify the hair, restore it when faded or turned gray, and render it soft, silken and lustrous.

"Still alive, Uncle Reuben, I see," "Yes, alive and well, sir. Have been ill number years, but—still alive." "How do you account for it?" "Why, sah, I'se one of dose notice dat when I run de bottle out of March, I lib tru de whole year."

"It quiets the passions, and ultimately cures them." A state encomium on Seven-dees Perrine.

Mr. Oliver Myers, of Ironton, O., says: "Somerdan Nervine cured me of general debility."

Curran was once asked how a member of Parliament had spoken. The answer was: "His speech was a long parenthesis." "Why," said he, "that you knew that a parenthesis is a passage which may be omitted from beginning to end without any loss of meaning?"

"From the worst stages of Heart Disease, I consider myself cured by the use of Dr. Graves' Heart Regulator.—Rev. M. Tyler, Tilton, N. H." 30 years have proved that Heart Regulator's cures remedy. Sold by druggis s at $1 per bottle.

WHAT OFFERS HAVE DONE.

A minister got an $8.50 Bible for four subscribers; another got a Worcester Unabridged Dictionary, price $10.00 for eight yearly subscribers; a boy twelve years old got a bicycle worth $7.50 for seven subscribers; another got Fox's Book of Martyrs, price $1.00 for one subscriber, and so on. What those have done any one may do. MANAGER.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

RESOLUTIONS.

WHEREAS, Thousands of dollars are due to the Publishing Department of the A. M. E. Church, from the ministers, and

WHEREAS, many of the accounts (aggregating these thousands of dollars) have been standing for more than one year, notwithstanding the parties have been notified again and again. This is unbusiness like, and tends to embarrass and cripple the Department, and it allowed to continue will break it down, and

WHEREAS, Many of the debtors among our ministers have been transferred and their addresses thus changed and many of our patrons are using the basest likewise changing their places of residence, making them difficult for the Manager to reach them direct; therefore

Resolved, That the Manager be hereby directed to prepare a complete list of the debtors and amounts for each Episcopal District and present the same to be made out to the several Bishops in their next session, asking, and we do hereby respectfully ask that they exert their influence and co-operation to collect from those bills in their several districts, to the end that the efforts being put forth to pay off the debts of the Connexional may prove effectual.

Resolved further, That the Manager be and is hereby instructed to make the same effort to secure a settlement upon the part of the debtors of the Concern, to which end he is instructed to forward the circular letter prepared by the Board to each debtor, that a short way may be had. And should said debtors fail or refuse to make settlement with the Concern, then other and stronger means shall be employed.

Done by authority of the Trustees Board of the Publication Department of the A. M. E. Church, in their regular monthly meeting, June 12th, 1882.

THE METHODIST QUARTERLY REVIEW.

The Methodist Quarterly for July comes to hand with an exceedingly interesting table of contents. Rev. W. V. Kelley, of Brooklyn, makes the most valuable part of the late Dr. Daniel's whose chief glory rests upon his tact in so managing Dickerson College as to satisfy the prejudices of the South. The second article from his pen, however, is of the sinlest kind.

Dr. Abel Stevens sends from Paris a critical review of what Mr. Simonin, a French savant, had to say before the Paris Geographical Society upon the calculation Prof. Tucker, of Harvard University, made upwards of fifty years ago, upon the population of Africa. He says he expected "we'll" are made to figure in it; but not to the extent the facts warrant. To say that we will only number fifty-two millions in 1964 is to have an increase at a rate decidedly too slow to know we have lived in the past. Rev. Dr. J. O. A. Clark, of Savannah Wesley Memorial Church fame, speaks of the "Results of the First Methodist Ecumenical Conference," the passing notice is given to the "colored brethren" and how they declared their indebtedness to the M. E. Church South. Dr. Wise dilates upon "Christ and Culture," the Tractarian Movement," drawing his material almost entirely from Canon Mosley's "Reminiscences" and from what Mr. Froude has written of the great stir in England fifty years ago. The remaining papers are "The Wesleyan Condition of Church membership—Its Modification," by Rev. J. F. Chaffee, A. M., Detroit; "Missionary Methods," by Dr. Curry; and "Popular and Puritan Sabbaths," by Rev. Orsi Moor, Syracuse, N. Y. In reviewing the Quarterly's great sermon, the venerable editor has occasion to say:

Dr. Abbey evidently completely repudiates the excuse of some Southerners from aiding the Negro schools on the ground that "others illustrated them," by these others they should be cared for." He repudiates it, reasoning from the Negro's superiority to the "red-headed war" that emancipated him. His views and the above catalogue of arrearages constrain from a more overwhelming amount if Dr. Sayes would call the South to pay nothing of the North, and has been despised of his wages, and left poor as poverty itself. In few are entitled to any amount of disinterested money, with an overwhelming amount of interest for payment delayed? After all the South will or even can do, she is left in bankruptcy and repudiation of dues to these terrible colored creditors.

THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH IN LIBERIA.

The oldest missionary work of the Methodist Episcopal Church is that of Liberia, West Africa. Established more than fifty years ago, in 1833, it is a matter of fact, it is to be said that it has ever been as a thorn in the flesh to the mother church. Not that the people to whom Christian ministration was presented were lower or more clued to paganism than others to whom the same ministration was made. Not that their efforts are to receive the word to be credited to any lack of zeal on the part of those into whose hands the practical working of the work was committed. These they severally, and we are inclined to believe them, that their drawback has been brought about first by the refusal of the Bishops to give them the necessary counsel and help. "In fifty years," they say in the circular which they have recently sent forth to the churches of the Liberia Conference, and which we have seen in print—"in fifty years we have had the visitations of only two white Bishops of our church who deigned to come and look after us." Likewise do they see a further occasion of their failure in the steamman they have received at the hands of the Board in New York; of proud.

which mention is also made in the circular referred to above.

We say we are inclined to accept what they say to be true, especially for the reason that the attention of others has been called to the same glaring neglect. Only recently Dr. Thobarn to the India witness said (it is a lengthy quotation but we give it):

"More eloquence has been wasted over Liberia than any foreign field, but there has been an utter want of promptness in dealing with administrative difficulties, and freedom in facing physical dangers on that coast. In the course of thirty years two Bishops have been sent out flying visits to the coast, and a great flourish of trumpets has been made over the fact. A very few missionaries have been sent out of late years, but nothing commensurate with the magnitude of the work has been attempted. The management has been bad, and the only effort made to improve the mission among the colonists has been to cut down their appropriations. In striking contrast with this Liberian work we may notice the University mission in Africa. In twenty-one years the mission has buried twenty-three laborers, and yet has never for a moment relaxed its efforts. Its work has gone forward and now decided success bids fair to reward its toil. The American Methodists have yet to learn some very solemn lessons about their missionary duty. They have yet to learn that it will cost both life and treasure to rescue our world from the grasp of satan. They have made martyr of Melville B. Cox, but this death, so far from rousing them to Christ-like devotion, really created a panic which has made men shrink from Africa as from the death itself. The slave trader, the gold digger and the merchant have all gone bravely to malarial coasts where the Church will not, or at least has not, sent missionaries. If ever a church needed a mighty arousing to a sense of her imperative duty, the Methodist Episcopal Church is that body."

As those of our readers may remember, the RECORDER has said substantially the same thing a hundred times, but repetent is the fact.

That the Liberians themselves should at last wake up and ask in regard to their religious future. What is to be done? is no matter of surprise. On the contrary, the surprise is that they have not awakened sooner. However, it is better late than never. What they have said our readers may learn by perusing the report from the Liberia Observer of May 24th, entitled: "Circular suggesting Independence," and to be found up, on another page. After telling in order the story of their grievance, they invite the churches of the conference to consider the propriety of coming to an understanding with the mother church by means of which their ecclesiastical independence could be secured. They, make, however, no mention of the Rich, or Asbury, or Whatcoat, or Coke, or Tib, for the post to which the government has assigned him.

THE TRUE line of measurement for men is, not their smartness, but their integrity. What have they done? is always the question to be asked. What is their character? Is their record for life a honorable living? Or does it consist in jumping from pillar to post. Here today and gone to-morrow. We know of quite a few men to whom the General Conferences of our Church are more to be thanked, than in refusing to foist into the Episcopal Chair, or any other chair Conference, and which are now in print—"in fifty years we have had the visitations of only two white Bishops of our church who deigned to come and look after us." Likewise do they see a further occasion of their failure in the steamman they have received at the hands of the Board in New York; of proud.

THE MASTERY, of which we have had occasion to speak, offers to young people fourteen cash prizes, amounting to one hundred and fifty dollars, for the best fourteen pen and ink sketches that may be submitted, illustrating any of the International Lessons of the current quarter, reserving only the right to purchase the successful drawings at market rates, the payment thereof to be in addition to the prizes. Rev. Charles S. Robinson, D.D., of New York, has consented to act as judge of the competing drawings. We scarcely need say the object of this offer is to encourage among young people the study and practice of the useful art of free hand drawing with pen and ink.

OF COURSE the wild adventure by which Captain Webb lost his life is to be condemned. But the difference between what he did and what the most civilized and Christian nations of the earth are annually doing in fitting up vessels to reach the North Pole, is not so great as might appear. It is said, what would be the profit had he succeeded? In proportion, quite as much as when a vessel succeeds in reaching the Northern pole. Both but exemplify that thirst of man for conquest which, like any other passion, may be abused. And yet the abuse of it can far better be endured than to suppose the race bereft of it.

THE AMERICAN Sunday School Union offers a premium of $1000 for the best book written for the Society upon the "Obligations and Advantages of the Day of Rest." The officers say, "the book must be popular in character, of a 'high order of merit,' and consist of not less than 60,000 nor more than 100,000 words. The treatise may be descriptive, narrative, expository or didactic. The obligations of the Sabbath may be based upon Divine precept and upon Scriptural grounds, and its advantages urged upon physical, economical, spiritual or other considerations. Each author may also suggest an appropriate title for his work.

THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW for the month of August presents its readers the following table of contents:

"Moral Instruction in the Public Schools," by the Rt. Rev. S. Heber Newton, D.D.; the Rev. Francis L. Patton, D.D., LL.D.; "Making Bread Dear," by Henry D. Lloyd; "Woman in Politics," by William A. Hammond, M.D.; "Henry George's Social Fallacies," by Francis A. Walker; "Crude Methods of Legislation," by Simon Sterne; "The Management of Illness of the Rich," by Charles F. Wingate; "Science and Prayer," by Caluuba Anderson, S. T. D., President of the University of Chicago; Thaddeus B. Wakeman.

FEW MEN have handled more words with the enemies of our race than have we, and yet we have never arrived at the conclusion that not a little of it was mere waste of time, and for the reason that no words will change the opinion the fire can scarcely be put out. The majority of white people say with a recent writer in the American Missionary, "The present religious condition of the colored people is the result of their condition before the war." Hence the first desire of the white people is to keep the colored man—we could wish that they could be brought to consider their own past history as well as their present attitude in almost every country on the globe.

REFERRING to our remarks in reference to Dr. Patton resigning the presidency of Howard University, New York, concludes by saying, "Ideallism is good, but practical 'hard pan' is the best thing to build upon."

Nothing is truer. To us, however, the hardest "pan" of all is common sense—an article, by the way, which our New York contributor has seldom to step over hand; and yet in adjusting the relation between the whites and the blacks so ounce of it is worth more than a ton of theoretic unwisely served up on such occasions.

A BROTHER writes us from Missouri: "If one is in regular subscriber to any paper, and owes nothing, is he not accountable to us for notice sometimes?" Also the following: "Is it obligatory upon any one to continue his subscription for a paper to whom columns he has no access?

Well the dear brother who asks these questions has kind enough to step into the first newspaper office he comes to, and ask these questions; and will he be equally kind enough to inform us of the answer he receives?

IF THERE ever was a time when colored ministers generally could play the politician and not apply for it, that time has passed. Few indeed are the services we hold now in which may not be seen one or more whites. In the majority of cases, these have come to spy out the land. Not with any idea, however, of taking it, but of reporting to the great waiting world "how the land lies." Let us see to it that we show them that it lies level.

WHATEVER may be said of ex-Governor Swan, recently deceased, this we remember of him with pleasure, that when Maryland had voted to abolish slavery, although the result was democratic, yet did Governor Swan declare the measure carried and issued a proclamation to the effect that Maryland was free.

IN THE death of Celeswayo we lively exhibited one of these strange properties that not even those "who have the vital of the Lord" can see through.

RUSSIA is desirous of knowing the treatment other people give the Jew. To this end, it has made up a Commission of Inquiry, the results of which are to visit England, France and Germany, and learn the Jews' real status, civil and political. We could with the Jews in their own country, will are given to vying the Democratic ticket and in other way showing themselves generally ready to second any effort that looks to the continued ostracism of the colored man—we could wish that they could be brought to consider their own past history as well as their present attitude in almost every country on the globe.

MISERIES OF MOSQUITO TIME.

They bite at night with great delight, and put most people in a nervous fright. Their ribs they stick with poisonous prick in children's flesh and make them sick. On tossing wing the insects sing, before lessening their wicked sting. Various complaints of cruel pain, and would rather not be bitten again. The pain to stop, apply one drop of Pond's Extract. Pond's Extract Killeth from the drug-gist's shop.

At the close of prayer-meeting in a Connecticut church, a deacon rose to notice that a church business meeting would immediately be held, and he hoped he would be glad if all the brethren would remain and attend it. All of a sudden it occurred to him that perhaps the ladies who were present would not desire to go home without their customary male escort. So, in a nervous and flustering way, he announced, "There is no objection to the female brethren remaining." The "female brethren" and the male brethren, too, heartily joined in a titter of laughter at the expense of the embarrassed deacon.

JOSH BILL NAS HEARD FROM.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 11, 1880.

Dear Editors—I am here trying to breathe in all the salt air of the ocean and having been a sufferer for more than a year with a kidney trouble, I was induced to mix Hop Bitters with the sea gale, and have found the mixture a glorious result. • • • I have been greatly helped by the Bitters, and am not afraid to say so.

Yours without a struggle,

Rev. Arthur Mursell, of England, says that his father was one of the most impassioned and powerful salesmen preachers he ever heard. He was also a powerful mesmeric. On one occasion, after working in up with a splendid passage of reproof and an improving sequence, he tried to close the sentence with the text, "Mercy and truth are met together; righteousness and peace have kissed each other." But the words escaped his recollection. He only said "Mercy and truth are met together; and—and—and he had two other sentiments have kissed each other."

S. T. Williams, a prominent druggist of Salisbury, Md., wrote, Jan. 25 1878: "Send me one dozen Tutt's Pills. I find if they prove what you claim for them I will order more." Feb. 19, he writes: "Send me two dozen more of Tutt's Liver Pills, by return mail. They are doing wonders here."

Sir Fletcher Nutton, whose want of courtesy was conspicuous, began his pleading before Lord Mansfield on some question of memorial right, to say, "My Lord, I may illustrate the point in an instant in my own person. I myself have two ribs less than others." "We all know it, Sir Fletcher," the judge interposed, with one of his blandest smiles.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN

Hair Renewer.

Seldom does a popular remedy win such a strong hold on the confidence of the people as HALL'S HAIR RENEWER. The reason to which it has attained such universal restoration of color to one hair, and vigorous promotion of its growth, are unanswerable.

Gray hairs restore the wonderful power to restore to their whitening locks their original color and beauty. Nothing could prove this to be more truly than the following:

Mrs. Ann Eliza Brown, of Nashua, N. H., says: "Before using your Hair Renewer my hair was all gray, and coming out very fast. Now it is restored to its natural color, and has stopped coming out." Mrs. Brown is sixty-two years of age.

Mrs. Sarah Ann Hamlin, of Bangor, Me., says: "Your Hair Renewer has restored the gray hair of my husband to its natural color, and has stopped its falling out."

Mrs. Mary Ann Hall, of Lowell, Mass., says: "Your Hair Renewer has restored the gray hair of my husband to its natural color, and has stopped its falling out."

THE LIBERIAN PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

Exceedingly interesting is the last Message of the President of the Republic of Liberia to the Second session of the eighteenth legislature, December 5th, 1882. The subjects treated, after a brief reference to the agricultural prosperity of the country, are its foreign relations, finances, educational, judiciary and postal departments. Under the first of these heads, their information is given that declarations of former years have conferred upon the head of the Liberian government by King Alphonso, of Spain, Emanuel Gomez Blasco, of Venezuela, S. A., and President Grevy, of Paris, in finances, in view of the fact that the government is rousing behind, the President urges, the salary, the necessity of the passage of an act requiring the payment of all custom dues in gold or silver, as well as the retrenchment in the expenditure of the recent on the salaries of all officials. The educational condition of the country also demands the attention. We read of what our old teacher, Prof. M. H. Freeman, is doing, with pleasure. The resignation of one of the oldest judges in the country, Hon. Beverly A. Yates, occasioned by ill health, gives the President an opportunity to call for the enactment of a law by which the servants of the country will be retired and protected temporarily from duty, while traveling abroad for their health. The experience in new of special service is also called for. Reference is made to an enterprise on foot looking to connecting by railroad with the different points of the Republic more closely together, as well as connecting it with the great outside world. As to the native population, President Gardner happily says:

The importance of establishing our friendly intercourse with the powerful tribes in the interior is not to be underestimated when too much of our attention. So important as I regard our relations with these our brethren, and so much depends on the seeking the vast aboriginal population into the fold of the blessings and advantages of civilization and Christian government, thus giving strength and permanency to the republic, I can only say that I have made all in my power to effect the object of the Legislature in its desire to establish friendly relations with them, and to bring them under the mollifying influence of our laws and religion. The great work of Liberia at present is our home. And the sooner the best sons of discerning sorry, and others and others ourselves to the task of elevating our homes and building up the country the better.

Such talk as this has the right ring about it. Liberia cannot learn lessons that their great work is at home, and not neither in the United States nor the West Indies. Now and then will go back both these, men of learning and means, to help on this home work; but to expect to make Liberia strong by immigration is a phantasy that cannot be too soon driven away.

MINISTERIAL DIGNITY

It is the general thought that of all ministers, Methodists are the lightest, and have the least appearance of ministerial dignity. The Episcopal rector, the Presbyterian minister, and even the Baptist pastor, generally all carry about them a superior air, and so far as it relates to gentlemanly and dignified demeanor. In many parts and among many classes he is regarded much in the light of a sans culotte among the men of his class. Being party of the first part, we could scarcely be expected to decide impartially this question. This, however, we know that the simple thought of such a fact existing, should spur up all the men of our "clan" to make impossible its continuance.

That the minister of whatever name should be a dignified personage, and uniformly is, is universally believed. Why it should be, is not he? If the minister of an earthly sovereign, with earthly interests only at stake, is expected to bear himself loftily, how much more the minister of the King of Heaven with eternal interests in his hands. The real trouble is, as few ministers look upon themselves in this light. We know of no evil which our Protestant faith has developed that equals in extent that which degrades the ministry from its high and lofty attitude and essays to put it, in all things, on a level with the people. The ministry that is not higher than this, is simply no ministry at all; and the sooner it is discarded the better. And yet this is the very thought held by the majority of Protestants.

That the position we have assigned them is the correct one, it is only necessary to consult the Bible, the very authority Protestants profess to accept, and only to accept. The voice of the Old Testament to the priests, is, as indicative of their high standing: "And all the people shall be in the courts of the house of the Lord. But let none come into the house of the Lord, save the priests, the ministers of the Lord, for they are holy." While its voice to the people is: "For the priest's lips should keep knowledge and they (the people) should seek to learn at his mouth."

Nor is there the least lack of harmony between this voice and the voice of the New Testament. See the New Testament in all Christian pastors: "He that heareth you heareth me; and he that despiseth you despiseth me; and he that despiseth me despiseth him that sent me." While to the people it says: "Obey them that have the rule over you, and submit yourself." We are not ignorant of the fact that all these texts and more of a similar tone, have been quoted to the hurt of Christianity, but the construction we will put upon them, and logically, too, we think—in no way affects the liberty of the people, but on the contrary makes their respect for them the reasonable service that they can obey such injunctions if the ministry that exacts them be undignified, and world and mean, and low.

That there is a certain lack of tone among us, is not to be denied. Too much seeming egotism on the one hand, too much seeming levity on the other. A certain lack of getting down to business. As a church, the day of our childhood has passed. We have attained unto manhood, and it is well, we who have to shape its interests, should say, "When I was a child, I spoke as a child, I understood as a child; but when I became a man I put away childish things." As the first was true of us, so let the second be. Give the church an intelligent, dignified, gentlemanly minister, and her conquest of the future is assured, whether it relates to whites or blacks.

RESULTS OF CHILDREN'S DAY.

We scarcely know which to congratulate most, the Sunday schools of the church, which have made awake leaders, or the energy of the Corresponding Secretary, Rev. C. S. Smith. The Sunday School Union may be said to have been born again, and the Annual May Council of the Bishops in August, 1883, in considerably less than a year from that time, $2,089.76 in hard cash was paid to the Secretary of the Union. The salacy, reflecting children of the church, spurred on by the noble fathers and mothers of the future, all alike obeyed the venerable senior and post-bishop in his Centennial hymn, and brought "Their dimes and quarters,

and laid them at the feet of the Secretary.

Two thousand dollars in cash in ten months! Two hundred dollars a month! No such amount was ever so raised and so paid to any one man, not even one of the Bishops for any general cause whatsoever since the church began—never if our memory be not at fault. The nearest was the amount raised by Bishop Payne for the effort to get the Church in possession of Wilberforce College, which it yet owns as a reminder of its liberality. And what an effort that was, we, who were in the Church then, and the men gave their lives, men better to die, like Bishop Shorter, and the venerable Bishop Brown, and scores hundreds; and not once, but twice and thrice was that Bishop Payne gave not only his money, but nearly his life. And when the church really found herself in possession of such acres and such buildings, one part of joy went up to God. And yet, as we have said, that effort scarcely equalled the sum of the year's work of the energetic Secretary. We are prepared to believe that he is proud, even for it. In nine cases out of ten, it is insincerely used.

THE READING of Miss Mary Harper at the residence of Wm. Still, Esq., on the evening of July 31st, was, as a correspondent elsewhere says, of the nature of a pleasant surprise. Of course the daughter of Mrs. P. E. W. Harper was expected to show at least some ability as a reader of verses.

But once over the nervousness natural to an age and experience, her recitations proved to be most interesting and promising. She has no defects of voice, as to manners or to voice, but what training can surmount, and while she may never be a Siddons or a Rachel, yet may those who listen to her always depend upon being pleased.

ELSEWHERE will be found the advertisement for the sale of "A Catechism on the Mode of Baptism," by the Rev. W. H. Leigh, of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The object of the writer is to show that according both to the teaching and the example of the New Testament baptism consists in applying the water to the candidate instead of applying the candidate to the water, as he has been used at the beginning, if Mr. Logan desires the ignoring of a white man, he can gratify himself easily and at no more expense than the railroad fare from St. Paul to any other point in the state or adjoining Dakota.

In reply, the New Carrier, a colored paper of Greenville, S. C., says:

We guarantee if Mr. Logan will come to any one of the Southern States and murder a colored man, any way in cold blood or in a fair fight, before the Court and swear that he killed him in self-defense, he wont be hurt. There are plenty similar cases.

We all know which to believe.

IN OUR LAST issue we said that it would seem that Mr. Fortune, of the Globe, never dealt in common sense. We retract, after reading the following, and take pleasure in thirding the motion:

Speaking of press associations, the People's Advocate says: "There is a national one impossible at this time, and suggests that "the press of New England, the Middle States, Maryland, the District of Columbia, Virginia and West Virginia, could form such an institution, form one among themselves," and that the conditions be made known to other sections. We second the motion and suggest that the press of New England, the Middle States, Maryland, the District of Columbia and the Virginias meet the Philadelphia, and Philadelphia, where Dr. Tanner and the CHRISTIAN RECORDER dwell and bees their being.

WHO HAS not heard of the phrase, "Out-Herding Herod?" The meaning is: to have more zeal for a cause than those who have a better reason. We are reminded of this when we read the average effusion of the average newly fledged preacher, especially if he be a minister, and still more especially if he have lately rome over to the denomination. To hear him talk one would conclude that there is not a Bishop or Elder or Deacon in the whole Church, that cares for the interests of the race, when he talks about the "race!" This is the staring offense pulled. To believe what he says, is to believe he is ready to die for it. In nine cases out of ten, it is insincerely used.

—The Georgia House of Representatives recently annexed D. B. Proctor, a white representative from Camden county, and seated Anthony Wilcox, colored, in his place, by a vote of 87 to 51. Mr. Wilcox has been in two previous Legislatures.

Church News.

Rev. J. H. Nixon (Selma, Ala.) writes: "I have just erected the Second A. M. E. Church 'Star of the East' in Selma. All the work was done this year."

Rev. D. W. Gilliliod (Madison, Fla.) writes: "Third quarter just closed. A good feeling still exists. The times are hard, but we are coming. We raised $5.00 children's day."

Rev. J. T. Wilson (Murray, Ky.): "I have succeeded in establishing a tolerably good Sabbath school at this place, and the people are much interested. However advance the surroundings."

Rev. S. A. Williams (Orlando, Fla.) writes: "The Sabbath collection for the quarter for church purposes, $45.70. From this, Rev. Edling says that we are not the children of the dead, but of the living."

Rev. W. P. Crawford (Clarksdale, Miss.) writes: "I have received four members into the church, and baptized four children. Since I came here I closed the Sabbath school in a dull state, but I think I am doing well. Our Sunday school will be opened."

Rev. B. W. Wiley (Enterprise, Fla.) writes: "I am glad to say we are having what one of her pastors is carrying on a procracted meeting for three weeks, and eight have confessed Christ and 26 have joined the church. The meeting proclaimed and our meeting still goes on."

Rev. E. W. Jackson (Turkey Scratch Mission, Ark.) writes: "I have had a prosperous condition so far; this is my second year on Turkey Scratch Mission. Wayman at this place. I am pleased to speak to the public that I have had 37 added to the church during the year. Look out for dollar money at the conference."

Rev. I. Jarvis (Oxford, Pa.) writes: "I reached here on the 30th of June. I found the church in a dilapidated state. We had our first quarterly meeting last Sabbath the 22d. Elder Hood was with us from Chester. We have a good house burn out all day and our collections were good. We expect to lay the corner stone for the church we are now at work and God be glorified."

Rev. W. A. Hollon (Colleton, S. C.) writes: "We have two churches, 220 paying members. Since March 1st we have raised $766.92, and for building purposes $1,000. Our second church cost $370.27, and we have a parsonage worth $600. Our new church has a flourishing Sunday school of 163 scholars and fifteen active working officers and teachers. Our new church lumber is upon the ground."

Rev. A. C. Garrison (Gouldtown, N. J.) writes: "Things are moving on prosperously, the second quarter conference is the spiritual outlook; the tide seems to be flowing in, we are in the midst of the net for a draught we believe, through Christ, who is our meetings are held, in Kobe, in Biogo, and in Yokohama, where the revival began some months ago among the foreign seamen, a wonderful interest is reported. The Rev. Charles Bishop (Methodist) of Tokio writes: "We are in the midst of interesting revival meetings. Our church work in Tokio. This year promises to be the long awaited year of ingathering." Rev. Schlesinger writes: "I am delighted to earnest than some of our young men are in the field. At the schools in Yokohama in Tokio and Yokohama have had a wonderful awakening during the last few weeks."

In the Methodist Church in Nagasaki some twenty-five have been converted. Services are held daily. Of the students in Osaka, Mr. Curtis (of the American Board), writes: "It is a revival in the truest sense of the word. The meetings began spontaneously, without any effort to get up an interest, but from a general desire to unite together in prayer for the Holy Spirit's presence and blessing. When they began we missionaries felt that we were greatly ready for work. Our Annual Meeting; we were away on that account more than a week in Kioto, and we found on our return that the work of grace was still living more than ever. The people of Macon, for whom I cherish the warmest affection, overruled my objection and judgment, and I went to Macon in obligations to walk worthy of my own high calling and my strict respect. The Lord bless them! The Lord help me! Dear indeed to my heart is the church which I have known in Macon, Georgia."

Personal.

DEBUT OF MISS MARY HARPER.

Miss Mary, daughter of the distinguished poet, Mrs. Frances E. W. Harper, made her first appearance as a reader in an interesting recital at the residence of Wm. Still, Esq., author of "The Underground Rail Road," on Tuesday evening, July 31st, and recited some eight or ten pieces, "Bingen on the Rhine" at once a week when the turn came to assert herself in church. The meetings are held from eight to ten o'clock P. M. and are almost as preaching, the exercises consisting of prayer and conference. There has been a wonderful change in the character of prayers. The brevity, directness and earnestness are very marked, and there are seldom any pauses. No soon-er does one sit down, indeed, than another is on his feet. The leader has to be on the alert to avoid the scene of confusion. Every effort is made by every member of the church to bring some one to the meeting. Sometimes the whole evening is spent in singing and praying for some one who is present. Many have been converted in the house and dancing in the street, or other amusements, and have come to the meeting and found Christ in their own room. These lights are all good. The church has been greatly revived. The lights of our own would answer our purpose better. We are laboring for a diversity of denominations, and we are anxious to see that accomplished. We are in the wire pulling business and should be handed. There is none to help; no one to give us five or ten thousand dollars, or so many acres of ground, but, thank God, we have all the money we need. Our people will not give as they should. Many of them are poor, but they have the means to help,

FRIGHT IN THE FARM HOUSE!

Family all taken sick at night. Unusual symptoms. Seemed like poisoning. What could it be? What had they eaten? Was it arsenic in the soup? Was it strychnine in the coffee? Was it rats' bane in the pie? None of these. The cistern had not been cleaned for a long time. The family always all began drinking impure water. They smelled bad, only that they took Parmy Davis's Pain Killer. Family well. Farm-house happy. Everybody pleased.

One of the Seventh Regiment gurads who was on duty at the Peekskill encampment one night, was approached by a short and stout man in uniform, who walked with his hands placed on the bats of his stomach. "Who goes there?" called the sentinal, presenting his musket." "I am the bard of the stout man, said, in a mournful tone. "Well, have you got the countersign?" the guard inquired. "No," said the stout man, sadly, "but I had not dey pride. Please let me pass till I go by der hospital tent."

JOSH BILLINGS HEARD FROM.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 11, 1880.

Dear Bitters—I am here trying to breathe in all the salt air of the ocean, and having been a sufferer for more than a year with a disease of the liver, was induced to mix Hop Bitters with the sea gale, and have found the doctors glorious remedy. I was told that I was going to dissect, said, as I wanted to tell you something, from both of my life, I could remember what it was," "perhaps," said sam, as he tightened his belt a hole or so, "if you was a doctor sak me how I kep body an soul together on de wersely, I'm not gettin'."

Life is rendered miserable when the digestive organs are impaired. Food becomes repulsive; the body emaciated; the mind depressed, and melancholy will brood over you. Your daughter plays, I suppose?" Mrs De Fonte: "Yes, she has learned to play the violin; but she plays beautifully on the bandolin. You know she was two whole months at the Paris Observatory."

The vigor of all diseases arises from the blood. Swaim's Panacea cures all blood diseases.

Dr. J. A. Palmore, of Utley, Ind., truly remarks: "Samaritan Nervine cures epilepsy."

"I've never saw the play," said a stage carpenter in an actor. "Watch on for my entrance and I'll be there," he said the actor, "why? I haven't done nothin' wrong, have I?" "Oh, no, you merely put in a set where you should have plac-ka-tas-ee."

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty five cents a bottle.

MANAGER.

NO TWO GOVERNMENTS NOR TWO RACES.

In Professor Draper's "History of the Civil War," he shows to the satisfaction of most that the very topography of our country is against anything like the peaceful and profitable existence of two or more independent governments within the present limits of the Republic. Supposing the people inhabiting the great Middle of the Continent to set up for themselves, his argument is: "Were the States of the Mississippi Valley to organize by themselves, what would be their relations to their chief commercial markets: they would be wedged in between two great powers on the east and on the west, and would look with their own but one outlet to the sea, the mouth of the Mississippi."

Supposing the South to set up government for itself, as it indeed attempted to do, the Professor says substantially, "Were the South to secede, it would not only injure its relations to its own domestic markets, but it would provoke endless struggles with the West about the control of the Mississippi—a consideration which powerfully influenced the West in the Civil War."

And supposing that either the States of either the two great sections of our country to secede, he argues: "Were the Atlantic or the Pacific States to essay to separate from the Union, choosing respectively the Alleghanies and the Rocky mountains as their natural boundaries, they would thereby not only impair their chief interior commercial resources in the valley of the Mississippi, but they would render themselves liable to the continual hostile regardless of the latter, hedged in, if not crushed in, between them."

To even an average mind, while the fact is not beyond criticism, the general truth of the philosophy is clear. Beyond all question, the geography of our country is against disunion. The East needs the West, while the great Middle needs both. As to North and South, there are many governments existing on the continent, as right hand and left. The full power and efficiency of each depend upon the other.

What is true of the geography of the country, is likewise true of the peoples of the country. As there is no room for two or more governments within our limits, but for one only, even so there is no room for two or more races, but for one only. The one is the enemy of the other: one government, one race; and both purely American. The Bishops of '76, discarding all theories of forms of government which Europe and the world presented, despotic, monarchial, and even republican, struck out for themselves, and engendered a system entirely novel in many of its methods, a government purely American, the like to which the world has never before seen.

And so it is destined to be with the race habitating it. It, too, is to be purely American, and not, as many suppose, European, much less African. America has no more need of a purely European people than it has of a purely European form of government. All together the pre of Europe, it will have no need to depend upon it for anything. If indeed we except its emigrants. As to our government, the question has already been settled, even though it had to be in blood. As to the question of our race, it is already in process of settlement. Fortunately for all concerned, its settlement does not depend upon officers, nor even the generation immediately succeeding. Were it otherwise, then indeed would the very earth tremble; a fact even better known to Providence than to us. Upon the men of these times devolved the responsibility of settling one of the two great continental questions. It is not in keeping with the "eternal fitness of things," that they should settle another. To the men, therefore, of to-morrow—the to-morrow of a century—will this question present itself, but in a way that will at once command their respect and assent, as that these are great laws governing men in the selection of their friends. Men choose the circles for which they have affinity," said the Rev. Dr. Arthur G. Haygood recently—"seek the companionships they prefer, and find the places that are suited to them."

Because this is so, the peaceful settlement of this second and only remaining continental question is assured. One government, one race.

NATIONAL EDUCATIONAL ASSEMBLY.

It is to be doubted whether any such meeting as was the second annual of the above-named Assembly, which took place only a few days since at Ocean Grove, was ever held within the limits of the Republic. Indeed, we may rest assured there never was such; and for the reason that the time for the discussion of the problems whom and which there received the attention of not a few of the first minds of the land, had not yet come. What these subjects were the splendid programme prepared by the Rev. J.C. Hartzell, both the presiding and inspiring genius of the Association, tells us. Lasting four days, the time and the last were devoted to the discussion of questions relating to the education of the illiterate masses, black and white. It is true that the Rev. Dr. Haygood's name was the one read by Hon. John Eaton, United States Commissioner of Education, and the address of all was the one made by Judge J. W. Tourgee. Of the first, so full of information was it that it is to be questioned whether any other man in the United States could have prepared it than the wide-awake Commissioner himself. Like a glowing panorama was the educational condition of the whole world made to pass before the audience. The second, the speech of Judge Tourgee, was received to be listened to and delivered. With an eloquence mostly characterized by convictions of the strongest possible kind, for quite an hour he held the listening audience entranced. Not that there was any general "hurrahing," for both the matter and manner of the Judge were altogether too solemn. It was the solemnity of understood before them giving the information of what must surely come, if South ern illiteracy both black and white, be not stamped out and stamped out speedily.

By common consent the day of all was the second, devoted to the "Negro in America." The discussion proper of this question took place in the morning. The following was the programme as announced, Dr. R. R. Hoag, presiding, and Rev. Wm. H. Ward, D.D, Editor Independent, New York.

Discussion, by Rev. J. C. Price, Salisbury, North Carolina.

A paper, "The Color Line, What is it, and What It threatens? By Rev. B. T. Tanner, D.D., Editor CHRISTIAN RECORDER, Philadelphia.

An address by Bishop J. P. Campbell, D.D., of Philadelphia.

For the first time, we think, in the history of our country, was the assimilation of the heterogeneous peoples of our country openly discussed and advocated; and the remarkable feature was not only the boldness of this advocacy, but the unanimity of it by the thousands who heard. When told by Rev. Dr. J. W. Hapaillot, of Boston, that the black sea of six millions was destined to lose itself in the white sea of forty-three millions, if not greeted with applause, he was heard with singular patience and upon more than one occasion after after an address overdowning with the most ultra radicalism, he was roundly applauded; and chiefly by the men of the platform—the men who shape public opinion. It was that the oratory of Bishop Campbell and Rev. J. C. Price captivated the house is only to say what everybody will suspect.

"The American Indian Problem" was the subject for the third day's discussion. Rev. Dr. Crosby presided in the morning, and Bishop Gilbert Haven in the afternoon, and we might just as well dovetail the remark in here as anywhere else, that while the great Middle needs both, the North and South, there are many governments existing on the continent, as right hand and left. The full power and efficiency of each depend upon the other.

What is true of the geography of the country, is likewise true of the peoples of the country. As there is no room for two or more governments within our limits, but for one only, even so there is no room for two or more races, but for one only. The one is the enemy of the other: one government, one race; and both purely American. The Bishops of '76, discarding all theories of forms of government which Europe and the world presented, despotic, monarchial, and even republican, struck out for themselves, and engendered a system entirely novel in many of its methods, a government purely American, the like to which the world has never before seen.

And so it is destined to be with the race habitating it. It, too, is to be purely American, and not, as many suppose, European, much less African. America has no more need of a purely European people than it has of a purely European form of government. All together the pre of Europe, it will have no need to depend upon it for anything. It is pleasant to know that the entire proceedings of this assembly are to appear in book form and are to be sold for the small price of one dollar. Every man in the land should have a copy. Long live the Assembly. Long live the men who shared in it. And long live its able promoter, Dr. J. C. Hartzell.

THE WHITE planters of South Carolina have recently had what in Indian parlance, might be called a pow-wow, on the agricultural condition of their State. Among many rash things said, with a few sensible ones, was that the State would be benefitted if two hundred thousand negroes could pick themselves up and be off. This was from the lips of Senator Butler, of Hamburgh renown. The cooler-headed men of the State, however, do not see it, and the News and Courier takes occasion to read Mr. Butler a lecture after the following manner:

It is little less than trifling with a great economic question to say that we can spare two hundred thousand of negro laborers without pointing out some way by which their places could be supplied without delay. It would be a blistered thing for the State if we could exchange this number of colored people for an equal number of thrifty and intelligent white agricultural laborers, but it would the State a better immi gration than any, so long as there are ready to extend more flattering inducements in white settlers than have ever been offered in this land. The introduction of 200,000 white laborers would largely depend upon the "intelligent labor of the negro.

And again:

But is negro labor a failure? Impossible! It does not appear so in many respects, to the demands of an age of advanced agricultural development, when left to itself it fails far short of what more intelligent labor might accomplish. It spoils all this, however, there has never been within the limits of the South a crop of negroes that the present or the immediate past. Has ever been a time when they refused into our agriculture. We make large crops than ever before. We have more cotton to sell and more breadstuffs to eat. We have no labor strikes, and wherever there is an intelligent employer of labor the returns of the soil are large and the prosperity of the plantation assured. We could last with delight the coming of good white immigrants, but as we have not them, and as the existing labor of our own interests by insisting that the negro must go.

It requires but little effort to see that the trouble of these South Carolinians is not the negro's incidence, but their own. Unless the black majority can be in somehow reduced, Butler's successor is bound to be of their number, and no one knows it better than he; hence the outcry. But the negro is going to stick.

THE WEST AFRICAN REPORTER in an editorial in its issue of 23d June, refers to the recent British annexation of territory purely Liberian, as has been abundantly shown in the Memorandum of Mr. Blyden's book, that is made especially to our government. In view of the fact that the matter has been, in a measure, submitted to arbitrators, or the proposition made so to do, the Reporter says:

As the subject is still under discussion between the two governments, we would say that perhaps it is premature to point out principles which in dealing in it at this stage, is not to be overlooked, but in view of the fact that in no case, to our knowledge, where territory has been ceded to a power between the British Government and any other nation, has the latter refused to arbitration, been in favor of the former; these cases are those where the protectorate of a government with regard to the extent of its territorial possessions, no such correspondence is given to say other power to assist it in the establishment of order, or to have taken advantage of, the question of the right of ownership of the land between the Mesna river and Cape Palmas is known and accused, be settled by arbitration; but it should be remembered that the governments of Washington and St. James, in the settlement of the Alaska boundary and our and other governments on lands adjacent to Liberia, have, as a matter of policy, sufficient reasons to hold such mode of decision as unnecessary, and that the matter in question would be better off, in its diplomatic relations with its neighbors, if it shrinks from placing before the civilized power government its disputes; the award on the arbitration of the Behring Sea Island, is a large equivalent of money on it by the imperial and Colonial Governments simply for the privilege of worship to the Government of Sierra Leone, that such an award, although it may not affect the British Empire, may affect most materially the progress of this colony.

THE HON. JOHN R. LYNCH, of the famous "Shoo String District," Mississippi, from contact in the House on last Monday, stopping at the Continental. The Sooth has produced but few men who are his equals. Beginning life as a slave, he has risen from the lowest round of the ladder—for what can be lower than the condition to which the slaves of the South were reduced—he has succeeded in attaining to a social and equitable heights. Only by cutting up his district could they defeat his election to Congress, and accordingly, however, for his enemies, he is made of the material that cannot be squelched.

WE HAD purposed in our last issue to notice the death to Philadelphia, August 1st, of the aged mother-in-law of Rev. Dr. Alexander Wayman, sister Lovina J. Harris, at the advanced age of eighty-five. A Christian for more than a full half century, it is pleasant to know that she was spared to see the fruits she became a consummation. This is the keynote to all human progress—the Christian century. Whether it be in general benevolent, mercantile or mechanical enterprises, whether of the one or three the same principle holds good.

The funeral of the aged Christian was largely attended by her daughter, Miss Amelia M. Harris, and other relatives and friends from the sea-side. In the politics of "My Maryland," the Doctor is a real power; while socially his family adorns the highest circles.

REV. JOHN C. BROCK, of Smyrna station (Delaware) sends us a letter with a little monthly publication called "Church Jottings." The number for July was full of interest. Such efforts as these are exceedingly creditable to all concerned.

Lincoln was elected President I made him three pairs more glasses. I was present when the Lincoln family pretty well, and I straightened Bob's eyes for him after he was a little boy. —"Willing Workers" is the name of a society of the young ladies and girls of interest in Kansas City. A couple of months ago Mrs. Dora Turner, one of the most zealous and consistent Christian workers of the Church, conceived the idea of the society, and the society would be to the A. M. E. Church there, as well as to the community, what this mual result, intellectually and morally, to the members. Her idea was subsequently crystallized into the organization above referred to, with some of the most intelligent and best young people of the city as members. They meet every Friday evening, discuss matters of moment on the current issues of the day, read essays, selections, etc., and have a social. The proceeds of these sociables are added to the church fund.

"I ATE SOME SOFTSHELL CRABS."

This is what Captain Hodgden said when speaking of an unpleasant experience he had on board ship, near Washington. He added: "The bad effects of which I soon felt." Then he went on to say that he had a severe pain followed by a terrible attack of dysentery. Those wicked crabs would have been the death of him, but for the fact that he always carried PAIN KILLER on board his vessel. Have PERRY DAVIS'S PAIN KILLER at hand by day and by night for sure relief.

WHEREAS, many of the accounts (aggregating these thousands of dollars) have been standing for more than one year, notwithstanding their parties have been notified again and again. This is unbusinesslike, and tends to embarrass and cripple the Department, and if allowed to continue will break it down, and

WHEREAS, Many of the debtors among our ministers have been transferred and their addresses thus changed from many of our patrons among the utterly likewise changing their places of residence, making these difficult for the Manager to find them direct; therefore

Resolved, That the Manager be hereby directed to prepare a complete list of the debtors and ernonia for each Episcopal District and present the list so made out to the several Bishops in their next annual meeting, and we most respectfully ask that they exert their influence and co-operation in collecting these bills in their several districts to the end that the efforts being put forth to pay off the debts of the Concern may prove effectual.

Resolved further, That the Manager be and is hereby instructed to make no more special effort to secure a settlement upon the part of the debtors to the Concern, to which end he is instructed to forward to them, if you live in England you couldn't marry aunt Fanny when mother dies." Great scholarship at the family at the precocity of the child.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

FROM TEXAS comes the following question, with the word, "By answering the above, you will confer a great favor on many readers of our church paper."

1. What is the best method for conducting Official Boards?

ANSWER: The first step toward having what might be regarded as successful Official Boards is to stick to the very letter of the Discipline in making them up. An Official Board is composed of "all the class-leaders, stewards and exhorters, and the preacher in charge, who shall be chairman." In these days when the Discipline says, they shall be 1) ORDER for our synod judgment: 2) they shall be elected to God; 3) and must be able, if to be appointed, to read the word of God. Of stewards, the Discipline says: "Let them be men of solid piety, who both know and love the Methodist doctrines and discipline, and of long standing and approved abilities to transact the temporal business." And lastly, of the class-leaders it says: "The Official Board exhorters, the Discipline describes these as men enjoying the confidence of the church, and as suitable to touch in the public congregation and prayer meetings. With a Board composed of such men, the one thing necessary to success is to follow the Disciplinary method as laid down on page 111 of the present edition.

2. If a pastor is so very unpopular with his congregation as to be unable to collect the pastor's dues, has a schoolteacher the right for him to use the church under any other pastorate?

ANSWER: This is a difficult question to answer, and for the reason that in each case there are factors to be considered which should third party can comprehend at properly estimate. This we know, however: that using a church is poor business. We have known several instances where preachers have used the churches they but poorly served—for it is only to such cases when the thing becomes at all necessary—but every such instance they took upon themselves a burden they were never after able to throw off.

3. Does the law of our church provide for the ministers to vote for their salary?

ANSWER: Both in letter and in spirit Methodism in general and in particular has opposed it all such procedure, and it is only when churches and pastors conclude that they are wiser than the Disciplines that the thing becomes possible. The Discipline says what shall be done. To many pastors and churches, however, this is not satisfactory, and laying the law of the church upon the shelf, they proceed to make an arrangement independent of it. It is only in cases where this is done that the parties suing can ever hope to win any cases. And even then to win is to lose.

MANIFESTLY the heart of the Episcopacy is the South, with here and there an exception, is more easily right than is the head. They strongly remind one of the man who, given sight of one eye, saw men as trees. Notwithstanding the fact that the negro's manhood is clearly admitted, yet somehow when it comes to give, practical recognition to the same, there is a strange going astray. In view, however, of all the facts in the case, they are about as far advanced as could be expected. The one fact of all they have most need to learn is, as Dr. Haygood says, that all negroes are no more alike than are all white men. What they propose doing may suit a class of our people, just as it would suit a poor class of whites who are just about as much in need of it as are those who are to be benefited by it. The following resolution, passed by the conference, is hopeful that order may yet come out of the chaos which manifestly surrounds them:

Whereas, It has come to the knowledge of this conference that a meeting of our colored brethren in the ministry of this church has been called to meet in September next to "discuss the object of their meeting in—their own—to agree upon some plan whereby they may be relieved from the embarrassment they may be under vigorously and intelligently prosecuted under the supervision of the general conference, therefore be it

Resolved, That this Conference hereby expresses their utmost disapproval of the proposed conference of our brethren in September next.

That we give assurance of sympathy with our brethren in the object of their meeting, and express our conviction that such a conference as proposed by them will lead to a divided and desirable result.

That we appoint a committee of six, who shall confer with our colored brethren, and if they see fit, appoint brethren in September next, to prepare such plans as the subject of a despotic government, less as the subject of a despotic government, and upon which they will be willing to be placed for him and to render abject obedience.

WHAT GALTON says in his "Inquiries into Human Faculty and its Development," may not be exactly safe in the hands of the dominant race of Christendom, finished as it is with the conquests of quite a thousand years; but to us who are just beginning, instead of being dangerous, we are not sure but it may be accepted with real profit. Said the great thinker, referring to man:

He knows how puny he is, but he does not recognize his great possibilities as the future lord of earth at this particular time the help of which lies not in the age of circumstances. He ought therefore to be less subdued than he is actually instructed to be, and to rise to a higher conception of his own nature. He has to form to the order of events, and that his exertions are needed. He should look upon himself more as a foreman, with power of shaping the course of future humanity, and less as the subject of a despotic government, which he has learned to revere too implicitly. Upon such a basis as this, with a sufficient account of it he was arrested, fervently moralized, and finally instructed as to his duties. The general impression was that he was a harmless enthusiast in number makes it very hard for him to do much harm, and that during our meeting we had very good order all the time. I have been informed by members of other churches in the town that we have had the best meetings and more solid work effected than has been here for years."

—Rev. G. H. Clower, P. E. (Memphis, Tenn.): "All is well with the Bishop and the members of the West Tennessee Annual Conference that the Memphis Disaster did not affect the session of the conference year than it ever has. We are doing well, and know what we are doing for our church."

—Rev. W. E. Adams (Columbia Circuit, South Carolina Conference): "The Lord has blessed us spiritually, financially, intellectually and otherwise. We have had a glorious revival of religion, which resulted in 35 converts and 55 precious souls reclaimed. Glory! We are now preparing to build a church."

—Rev. W. M. Johnson (Way Cross, Ga): "Our missionary society met Sunday, July 16. We opened by singing, after which Rev. A. Johnson took for his text Mark 16, 15. Collection. Our Sunday school is only a mission school, with 32 scholars. Our prospects are praise. We are going on to perfection."

—Rev. J. H. Morgan (Woodbury, N. J.): "At our grand rally, on August 12, we realized $100 from the sale of 811½. We were disappointed in having no help, by the Presiding Elder, but Lord was with us. We propose paying $100 on the principal by Sept. 1st. We are financially happy at present. The children in the Sabbath-school brought in over $20."

—Rev. T. B. Davis (Crystal Springs, Miss.): "There are four colored churches in this little town: ours being the smallest in number makes it very hard for us. We are trying, however, to keep that during our meeting we had very good congregations all the time. I have been informed by members of other churches in the town that we have had the best meetings and more solid work effected than has been here for years."

—Rev. A. A. Roberson (Mt. Pisgah, West Virginia Conference): "Our Trustees' day is the fourth Sunday, our Stewards' day the third Sabbath. Our school goes to Lake-side Park on the 30th of this month. We have been to see the Lord's table but twice in October, and our quarterly meeting will be held the third Sabbath in September. Our church camp will begin September 15th and continue until the 24th. All are invited."

—James J. Evans (Grange, N. Rue, speak to that man, Paul, and we heard him. There are now joyously feeding upon the good things that were long since set on the our worthy pastor, Rev. Littleton Stargis. On Sunday, July 29, we had a grand rally. Our pastor was with us. Our collection was $57.79. The Rev. J. Derricks, of Newark, were with us."

Mrs. Ex-Consul Fiso answers the question where was the Emmaus of Luke's Gospel by identifying it with certain ruins in the Valley of Urim, to the south of Bethlehem. Starting with the other Sabbath day journey of Luke xxiv, 13, is the right one, she concludes that the "village" or "hamlet" was Urim, while the "castle" or "hall humanity" to be "tried and tempted" in the school of the prophets others have received. Suppose Bishop Payne to exhibit the same feeling in regard to the Metropolitan Church for which he is presiding, as he is pleased for Wilberforce when the Church had, as Brother Smith says, not a tenth of its present membership, and with no more success, what a difference years not be prepared to hear. But Bishop Payne fully takes in the position, and keeps frail humanity under.

JUSTIN H. MCCARTHY has recently given the world an "Outline of Irish History." Its substantial worth is conceded by all who have read it. And yet such is the bias of Mr. McCarthy's pen against the English, to make good his point, he fails to notice the Land Act, the Arrears Act and the Church Disestablishment Act, all designed by the present Liberal leaders of England to atone in some way for the iniquity of the past. It is impossible to notice this and not call to mind a similar dispedition on the part of the colored people of the country, in their relations towards the whites—a measurable unwillingness to give them credit for whatever good they have done. While all this is the line of history, the Emmanuels, Emmanuels, Lalor, in 1861, in company with Mr. Cyril Graham, excavations were made in the adjoining field, when two Corinthian capitals, with portions of a cornice, had been recently dug up; and presto! only a few feet below the surface a bath was discovered, lined with purest white marble, four feet long, by three and a-half wide, by three and three-quarters deep, provided with a step or a seat for the convenience of the bather, and all in perfect preservation. IT WOULD seem that the present English rule in Egypt is in no sense in the interest of religious freedom. Mohammed, a young moslem Mohammed, Effendi Hlabeeh, by name, becoming convinced of the truthfulness of Christianity, made a profession of the same. On account of it he was arrested, terribly maltreated, and finally sent to the city of slavery. What is singularly offensive to the matter is, that before the eyes of the whole English rule, the freedom of conscience allowed his subjects was the boast of the present Khedive.

REV. A. GRANT, who rooks with Rev. W. H. Carson and a few others as a leader of the best class of the Methodist west work of our Church, has been North. Visiting our city he looked in upon the publication headquarters. We know of no man whose future promises more for the common cause. He is at present "holding the fort" at Austin, Texas, but expects to travel on Sunday when I help it, and there does not seem to be any reasonable excuse for it now."

IT KEEPS one busy recording the many sensible thoughts—sensible, we mean, for a man of his record—Rev. Dr. Haygood is saying. His last is a genuine revelation; and not to the white men of the South only, but to those of the North, as well. Says this Southerner,

All negroes are not alike, there being as much difference between the educated negroes as between the grades of the whites." This is the one remaining lesson for the nation to learn; and this once accomplished, and the intermingling of the races will have indeed been settled.

THE EDUCATION OF THE MASSES.

THE SCHOOL AND COLLEGE—SECOND DAY'S PROCEEDINGS—THE NEGRO IN THE SCHOOL—WORK ON THE OIL OR "LIBE." BY DR. TANNER.

OCEAN GROVE, (N. J.), Aug. 16—The discussion in the proceedings of the National Educational Association was strongly marked to-day by the introduction of the negro question. The trains yesterday and to-day brought hundreds of prominent educators from all parts of the country, and the hotels are rapidly filling up. Among the latest arrivals were Bishop Gaines, of Georgia, and Bishop Wayman, of Philadelphia, both colored men. The morning session was held in the Auditorium, and was largely attended. Dr. Bunsell, of Philadelphia, presided over the meeting. The first paper was read by Professor S. B. Durrell, of Peekskill, on Free Schools, of New York, on the Dead Sea, bits of Roman tiles, mosaics of colored and gilt glass, sandwich white stones of glass, bits of thin glass vessels, the basis of a brass lock, and several implements. Faded copper coins, an iron hinge, a rusty knife, etc. The resemblance to Roman baths was complete, and the style and magnificence indicated the Herod Antipas, perhaps of King Herod himself. Not that there were any bot tiles or hypocausts, but the floors were mosaic, but merely in the general sense of a fountain and bathing, where an abundance of water was used, and there could meet to artificial conveniences for washing. Dr. Conder, writing from Emmaus of our Lord's first walk with his two followers after his resurrection will strike every one as very natural, native there can be no question; but it is only recently that it has been made historic evidence that the spot bore this name during the first century of the Christian Era.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE CHRISTIAN RECORDER:

In your editorial on the "Results of Children's Day," issue of CHRISTIAN RECORDER August 9, 1883, you do us an injustice in your comparison of the "good" we do "Our Line; What is it, and What Does it Through?" by the A. M. E. Church and "designing schemes." They were never intended to apply to the "men who have grown rich by the Church," as you look upon the Bishops, but to the "men who have been raised from obscurity to affluence and honor, and held the same of the faithful few, there still remains the "dollar" in the hand of the Church to be sold under the sheriff's hammer to pay the debt. Odium will go down to that city. $115 ORGANS FOR ONLY $57.

Many persons are buying Beatty's Organs as an investment. After owning one a short time they would not sell them for more than the original cost. The limited time offers that are being made by Beatty, the great organ builder, of Washington, New Jersey, to introduce them in order to have certain new styles introduced. The price being so low it leaves no profit to the manufacturer on the first sale, but further sales at the regular price pay for all. Beatty is so confident that the demand for his famous instruments during the coming fall and winter months will be great, that he will be unable to make any profit to himself, and has decided to run a day when his seat in Sabbath school was vacant. Upon inquiry we learned that he was a very busy man, a Sabbath boy, many friends gathered around his bedside to bear him late. On one occasion when his parents and little brothers gathered around his bed, he said, "Father, mother, and all of you which all the wicked fall, but he shielded me from the pit. I cannot fall into it, but I may be hurt. Then may Jesus who prayed this morning that the Lord will keep them from falling, be with me, for if he is not I am afraid I shall fall." To make this a special limited time offer to introduce said dollars, that the insertat 5 6 our paper, and that we may be blessed. And this irrespective of race or color, and we extend a cordial invitation to all to be present on the occasion.

No authority exists, however, to compel an acceptance of the principles and regulations governing these matters, and men may withdraw from the body if they like. Even ominous and despote repression would be powerless to hinder and practise it in their own life as they allow their subjects to practise it in theirs. The only instance of compulsion or non-association made compulsory. Ordinarily, Christians and ministers of the same way bring success to this the area set more apart, and that there is not only consumpla's as the education of negroes, but also a misfortune to labor in that direct field, a sentiment endorsed with the word of life, but the fact that the equipments of the negro are the same great work. Before this appeal to the Christian world has fun or the dollars in the hands of Dr. Handy. We else will lend a helping hand. be be given. Correspondence is desired with associate with equals, provided they be of the same race or color. The individual question is not, Are they white? This country, forneatly, contains one race, and that is the white. Christianity does the homillitiate aspects of assisting colored men snubbed by white men. Bishop Payne is the ablest and best listened admirably to the proceedings were especially interesting. The first speaker was Dr. Ward, of New York, who spoke the ambulcium of the negro race. He was followed by Dr. Tanner, in the career of our Church that has so paralyzed and confounded the Church. How you will place on our use of the terms "nobody," "no account," "designing schemes." Obituary.

In memoriam of William Franklin Johnson, who died August 18th, 1883, at school. "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven." Two years ago, when Christ was on earth, mothers brought their little ones to him to be blessed; the disciples rebuked them. Christ seeing this, spoke to the disciples in the words as above. Although these words have been handed down to us ages, and like the Bible, are the same of the faithful few, there still remains the "dollar" in the hand of the Church to be sold under the sheriff's hammer to pay the debt. Odium will go down to that city. I beg pardon for the liberty I took in the Second District will endeavor to get $1,000 from every member on the second or third Sunday of August, and send the collection thus raised immediately to Rev. James A. Handy, 1308 16th street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

This is also to say, let every man who will not obey this order resign at once, for he will be left by his place as a man who will obey.

Yours, Sincerely, PASTOR.

Note well.—Send the sum raised by Post Office Order.

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM.

From a recent edition of the New York Tribune we clip the following:

Postmaster Hathaway, of Jersey City, had a vacant clerkship to fill, and on one day he received one hundred applications. One applicant who successfully passed the Civil Service examination was Rudy was examined as to his habits, former employment, and the Postmaster finally decided upon a colored man, over thirty years of age, who has been for a number of years a school teacher, and before that had been employed in government service. It is hardly likely that under the ordinary political appointments this man would have obtained the place. It is a fact of some interest that the examination recently conducted in Washington was a considerable number of colored men, among the applicants for the degree of "eligible."

We have no idea that the promoters of Civil Service Reform in the management of the government had any idea that its introduction would be greatly to the advantage of the colored people, but it is, and for the reason that prejudice is largely disarmed and the man in question has for once a fair chance. And this is the man of whom the country may take and has asked of the nation. With a fair chance, we are perfectly willing to take what comes. But to rule us out as incompetent without giving us a fair chance, what we are not willing patiently to endure. Such fair trial the Civil Service assures, and wherever it has been tried we, as the excerpt of the Tribune above shows, have no reason to complain of the result. We are seen to be fully able to public our own cause.

Indeed, with the law regulating Civil Service Reform rigidly and impartially carried out, we have every reason to believe that within a very few years the one-eighth of our legitimate share according to numbers of all the government appointments will be ours; and not by favor, either, but by merit. And if that portion of the law which relates to promotion be executed with similar rigidity and impartiality, we will fill even more than our eighth the offices of the lands; for, as a rule, as can well be seen, the class of white men with whom we will engage in contest will be considered to be our equals. Civil Service is to us the small or opening edge of the tool. If we are enabled to get a footing, and this it will not do us any thing as a trial and if we fail to keep up, we are willing to drop behind. But we are not going to. The only fear we have is that Civil Service will be abandoned; which may God and the people forbid. With it firmly established, and our future is altogether secure.

"SILVER WEDDINGS."

Within the last month or so there have been two notable silver weddings among us. Indeed we might say three, if by counting our own we be not deemed guilty of egotism —; those of the Rev. Dr. J. H. A. Johnson, editor of the African Methodist Presiding Elder to the Baltimore Annual Conference, and delegate elect to the General Conference May, 1884; and of the Rev. Dr. B. W. Arnett, Financial Secretary of the A. M. E. Church, and historiographer of the Ohio Annual Conference.

Nor have these been the only weddings of the kind that have been celebrated among us recently, only a few of which come to our mind at the present; to wit the "Silver Weddings" of Rev. John Turner, in St. Louis, Mo., the Rev. Amos Wilson, in Germantown, Pa., and the Rev. Thos. Gould, Business Manager; and the "Tin" wedding of the present Bishop Dickerson, when Elder of Shiloh Tabernacle, New York.

Is it asked: What significance, if any, is to be attached to this "revival" of the social "art" among us? To some it has only the appearance of greed; the desire to take what is given. We confess that is an exceedingly low view of the matter and whether entertained by the giver or receiver is to be most heartily condemned. To us, however, it has a significance altogether loftier and subtler. To us it is but another evidence of the fact that the colored American is on the sure road to a normal development, or unity as a section of the one state to another. As in the past, this is but one more evidence of his purpose to take in, to all its height, and depth, and length and breadth, the customs and manners of his white brethren. Day by day we see the African or alien element in his life and character becoming less and less apparent, and this will until it all shall have gone and he will stand forth a full-fledged men of the West and not of the South, nor of the East, thereby clearly lost with nearly everything that originally pertained to him as an alien African, his name, his language, his religion—he may be said to have already passed through the losing era of his career, and to have come out simply to the era of gain, for the gain of that has been in exact proportion to the ratio of that—but what he has really reached in the end of that which is to him a new genesis; and all that has hitherto been strange is henceforth to be normal and original.

And so in keeping with the demands of society we have begun the observance of "Silver Weddings." Our wish is that it may become general.

There is no such thing as blending two civilizations. Scripture declares as much as twenty times when it says: "We cannot serve God and mammon." It was really this that brought about the irrepressible conflict between the North and the South. The civilizations of the two sections were different, and all effort by compromise to harmonize them, failed. And so it is to be with us. We are neither to be Africanized nor Europeanized as we have said, in all its length and breadth and height and depth. The social phase of it, in its finer aspect at least, calls for silver weddings. We would be glad to respond; and even more heartily than any other class of American citizen, and for the reason, we have more to gain by strengthening the home line than any. As pure Africans home life did not mean much to us. In Africa itself, it meant polygamy; in servitude, it meant more and more of the same. In new civilization which Providence has brought to us, the strengthening of home is everything. Home is the rock upon which we build. Let that be loose, and the whole fabric is endangered, for it is impossible for Christian society to endure when all are not pure and true to the marriage vow. We have been parents, now let us be fathers and mothers; let us have homes of purity and industry—such as the works of David lead us to infer was in his mind when he wrote: "Lo, children are a heritage of the Lord" &c. As arrows are in the hand of a mighty man, so are children of the youth. Happy is the man that hath his quiver full of them; they shall not be ashamed, but they shall speak with the enemies in the gate."

A DECISION has recently been rendered by Judge Mills, in the Police Court of Jacksonville City to the effect that the colored people have the same rights cases of the Rev. George H. Smith, of Norwich, Conn., against James W. Bell, proprietor of a restaurant on Pennsylvania avenue. The ground of complaint was that Bell had denied the accommodations of his restaurant to the plaintiff on account of his color, and he was brought to trial under the criminal provisions of the act of March 1st, 1875. The Court held that under the common law innkeeper is bound to take in and receive all travelers who may offer, and that by the act of March 1, 1875, it is made a misdemeanor to discriminate against a traveler on account of race and color. A restaurant keeper, the judge declares, has the right to establish certain regulations as to hours for meals, and to decline to receive persons or seats for customers; but such hours and seats must be the same for all, or if any discrimination be made, it must be made upon some principle or for some reason that the law recognizes as just and reasonable and not on account of color, race or previous condition of servitude. All guests of an inn or restaurant must be given equal privileges, and the places designated for them must be accessible to all respectable persons at a uniform rate of charge. From these principles it followed that the defendant in discriminating against the complainant, Smith, on account of his race and color, was guilty of a misdemeanor and incurred the penalty prescribed by the second section of the Civil Rights act of 1875. Judgment was entered accordingly.

This case is in some respects a novel one, either in the law or in attempt to enforce the penalty under the second section of the Civil Rights act, which makes a violation of the law a misdemeanor, and it is the first effort made to enforce the criminal provisions of the law in a territory where the Congress of the United States has exclusive and absolute legislative jurisdiction.

On the principle that from "Zion go-eth the law," this decision ought to bring about somewhat of a change in the treatment usually meted out to the colored traveler in portions of the South, as well as in portions of the North.

BOYS' FOLKS harbor the idea that to be an American, you must be white. The real fact is that white is alien to the American continent, if we possibly except the peoples of the Arctic regions; and even these are not white in the sense that is commonly understood. Among the millions found upon the continent of the United States and the early English, and Scotch, and English, and French, and Dutch navigators, not a white face was among them. All were colored. Both white and black, that is, dusky alien colors. We demand made, therefore, that we shall change color before being recognized as Americans, is purely supercreatory. We have as much right, and really a little more, to demand that the whites shall change their color. As a matter of fact, we more nearly possess the continental color than they. What that color is is seen in the face of the dark-browed Sioux, with others of the aboriginal tribes. It is seen in the Indians of Mexico. There is therefore no occasion for us to be greatly concerned about our color. It is as much American as is the color of the whites. But neither is permanent. Both are to be softened down or up, and brought nearer the color which the physical conditions of the continent bring about. The tribes of men who have been for generation after generation impressed by these conditions, are seen to be, as we have said, neither white nor black. Unless we imagine these physical laws to be abrogated, the same result must inevitably come to the peoples who in the future are for generation after generation to dwell under their influence.

THE A. M. E. CHURCH at Westown, Chester County, is perhaps the oldest Church in the connection, being built nine years before (1807) the organization in 1816. It now forms a portion of the Thornbury circuit, presided over by Rev. R. J. M. Long. On Sunday, Aug. 26th, it was our good fortune to worship, in company with Rev. A. A. Robinson, with the good people of this ancient structure. The day was delightful and had not that "annual quarterly" meeting of the "Unionite" drawn almost everybody and his neighbor to Wilmington, there would doubtless have been a crowd to strengthen the hands of the pastor in his efforts to pay the last hundred dollars on repairs recently done. As it was, however, the attendance was good, and the pastor had reached the note of warning against all who by running away had refused "to come to the help of the Lord against the mighty." The morning preaching and afternoon, yielded forty dollars in cash. The elder is doing a most excellent work on the circuit, having already formed an association of the fifteen and more local preachers, requiring them to regularly meet for the purpose of being examined in their studies as well as receiving their appointments at the next session. A union of the four Sunday schools has been effected with the best results. Altogether things are blooming.

UPWARDS of twenty years ago we heard Bishop Payne object to a report which was brought into conference by the Finance Committee, saying the Secretary $5.00, and the sexton of the church $7.00. "The idea," said the Bishop, "of paying the labor of the hands more than the labor of the brain!" It is needless to say that that report had to be reinvoked and amended. This incident of twenty years ago and more came to our mind when in a mood we were considering the poor pay usually given among us to brain work. The fact is very few among us appreciate the difference between manual work and brain work. The thought of paying more for this last than is paid for the first is neither entertained. It is this that prevents anything like a successful lecture taking place in even our best churches; seldom can the people be brought out. If it, however, to be hoped that we are practically growing out of this condition, and that very speedily crowds may be found not only willing to hear a lecture, but pay for it. Talking about lectures, reminds us of the fact that Bishop Turner is to hold forth in the California Conference. The Bishop was never on the coast before, and we whisper into the ears of the brethren: Do not allow him to leave without delivering the course of lectures he has so carefully prepared.

THE SCHOLARS of Christendom for the last month or more have been pricking their ears over a supposed discovery of certain portions of the book of Ecclesiasticus, written by Jesus, the son of Sirach, written eight hundred years before Christ. Brought in light by one Mr. Shapira, a converted Jew of Jerusalem, who dwelt in Bulgaria, for a time. It was supposed that a genuine "find" of untold value had been made, especially as Mr. Shapira held the manuscript to be worth a thousand pounds. But as was feared by a few of the most keen witted the "find" turns out to be worthless. Dr. Neubauer, of Oxford, England as the very best authorities, both here pronounced against it; the latter liking it to the Moabite stone discovery which proved a Jew said for a handsome price a few years since and which upon investigation has been found to be a forgery of the boldest kind.

NOT can often tell by a minister's sermon the last book that he has read. And when he tells from his sermon where he has spent it, it is very difficult to keep the mountains or the broad ocean or the beautiful lake out of the discourse. There is gospel example for such preaching. The little blossomed and the sparrows in nature and the sun shone in the sermons of Jesus. It is not to be wondered, when the last book a minister has read is open before him.

WE commend to the tending spirits of many of our churches—those, we mean, who by their influence can bring to the church on a certain occasion, quantity of drought—we commend the above to their careful reading. If the average sermon you hear in our churches needs one thing more than another, that one thing is variety. But variety is impossible when the pastor is kept at his post all the year-round; and rest allowed the day of recreation in the woods or by the sea side.

THE OCEAN GROVE session of the National Educational Assembly at its close passed the following resolution, offered by the Hon. John Eaton, LL.D., U.S. Commissioner of Education. Nothing could have given us more pleasure than to have voted aye, as its presentation.

Resolved, That, profoundly impressed as we are with the necessity for the education of every child of every race in our land, we feel that Christian influence should have its full weight in that education, as we have always urged this series of great and inspiring meetings of the National Education, formerly at Ocean Grove do most heartily thank the Rev. J. C. Hartzell, D. D., for organizing them, and for undertaking and carrying out the plan of establishing here a platform on which all christian and general race issues and expressions may be discussed, and express itself in favor of the great measures now lead for the removal of illiteracy among all classes, that we may forever be out peoples, having one country, where all may serve God according to the dictates of their own consciences.

SUNDAY, August 19th, found us in Princeton, in company with the Rev. W. J. Cooper, P. E. The pastor, Rev. E. W. Taylor, was conducting a day's service in the woods. But the threatening rain so discouraged the brethren that the day can scarcely be said to have been a success. Two sermons were preached in the afternoon. That of the President Elder was decidedly effective, and though the congregation was small, yet it is to be hoped that some good seeds were sown. At five o'clock we spoke briefly from the words: "Stir up thyself and awake," &c. (Pet. 36: 22). Brother Cooper preached again in the church at 8 o'clock. The attendance was quite full and the attention all that could be wished. We noticed that by a change by the pastor, the choir, led by Sister Taylor, was brought up close to the pulpit.

A FRIEND in Washington City sends us the Republican of 23d August date, in which is given a more than two column account of a camp-meeting held by Rev. J. W. Cargill, at Camp Ground. That the account is highly colored, is plainly to be seen; as well as is also to be seen the fact that there was great noise. And yet what are we to think or do about it? Personally, if we had our way, we would have no camp-meetings, but, fortunately or unfortunately, we have not. It is, however, to be confessed, that it is a question with two sides; and we suppose that as well as to the efforts to put the last hundred dollars on repairs recently done. As it was, however, the attendance was good, and the pastor had reached the note of warning against all who by running away had refused "to come to the help of the Lord against the mighty." The morning preaching and afternoon, yielded forty dollars in cash. WE WANT to build in the fall. Our people are coming to the front. We will have our Dollar Money all clear of the moneys of the conference. Our work is in good condition, also our Sunday schools."

REV. T. N. Geddis (Greenwich, Conn.): "There was a large attendance at the laying of the corner stone of Little Bethel Church Sunday, August 12. Bishop Brown made an address which was listened to with much interest. Rev. Mr. Morgan will complete his work delivered an address. Among those on the platform were the Rev. M. We paid rent for the first year of my appointment, the second year we bought a house and lot for $4,000, and the third year we were burned out, so we changed locations and got nearer the heart of the city, bought a lot much cheaper, laid a foundation of stone, and when I left, for the conference in 1882 I left $545 feet of lumber on the ground for building a new church. Rev. J. Base, of Kalamazoo, did not know this, else he would have spoken of it in his report and skill of the pastor now in charge."

THE OBERLIN JUBILEE.

BY REV. MATTHEW ANDERSON.

THE ADMISSION OF COLORED STUDENTS AND ITS RESULTS.

We said in our last that there were those at Oberlin, as Father Shepherd, and a few others, who were ready to receive and adopt the proposition of admitting colored students as soon as prepared; while a little left for the people when presented was not decided with the severe struggle, as we will attempt to show.

Mr. Shepherd, when New York on his way to Oberlin, had visited Cincinnati, secured the co-operation of several abolitionists there to the Oberlin enterprise. Among these were Author and Lewis Tappan. These gentlemen were ready to give their influence and to subscribe besides ten thousand dollars toward the support of the college, provided that students be received irrespective of color; also Rev. Asa Mahan, Prof. John Morgan, Rev. Charles G. Finny, were willing to be connected with the institution as professors on the same condition. Mr. Mahan had been a trustee of Lane Seminary and pastor of the Sixth Street Presbyterian Church, both of which he resigned in 1834 on account of the persecuting students was passed. Prof. Morgan had also been connected with Lane Seminary, but was discharged because of his anti-slavery sentiments and sympathy with the persecuted students. Rev. Charles G. Finney was pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, and was a distinguished pulpit orator and revivalist. Mr. Shepherd, on the advice of Lewis Tappan and their friends, employed Mr. Mahan to accept the presidency of Oberlin College, then purely a theological institution, but afterwards New Testament literature and exegesis, and Mr. Finney the chair of theology. Accordingly, Mr. Shepherd wrote the trustees of Oberlin, under date Dec. 19, 1834, urging the employment of Rev. Asa Mahan as President, and Rev. Charles G. Finney as professor of theology. He also wrote, "I desire you at the next meeting of the board to act favorably on the passage of the following resolution, to wit, Resolved, That students be received into the college without distinction of color. This should be passed before it is known to the public generally, or it will be in doing right." The people of Oberlin had always been antislavery; they were in favor of colonization, formally made them so; but the subject of admitting colored students to the institution they had not considered and were unprepared to receive. The trustees declined to act on the subject; intensely excited over the subject; meetings and sermons got up and considered strongly, who were ultraways read to forward every good cause and "clamored to the top of their voices" against the admission of colored students. Long ladies who had come to Oberlin from New England because of its deep religious sentiments declared that if colored students were admitted to equal privileges in the institution they would return to their homes if they had to "wade Lake Erie" to accomplish it. The trustees were appealed to to reject the proposition of the subject, to which they replied that a meeting would be held their first meeting in regard to the proposition in Elyria, a few miles from Oberlin. This meeting was held on the 2d of January, 1835. The proposition was lost. A record of the action reads thus: WHEREAS, the subject of admitting colored persons as members of the Oberlin Collegiate Institute has been received from Rev. J. J. Shepherd, expressing a wish that the Board of Trustees would take action upon the subject, and whereas the Board of Trustees have not been instructed by the constituency of the Institute to act upon the subject, therefore, Resolved, That the Board does not feel prepared, till they have received further instructions on the subject, to make any decision in relation to the admission of colored persons as members of the Institute. Resolved, That the Board will persons in regard to the admission of colored persons as members of the Institute, and that the decision should be on the same ground in this respect to the admission of students in the other departments of the Institution." At the same meeting of the Board, Messrs. Richmond and Fitch, who had been appointed, according to the wish of Mr. Shepherd, although the proposition was lost, they were not to accept had been rejected. On learning of this action, Mr. Shepherd was greatly disappointed, and at once wrote a touching but earnest remonstrancy letter to the Board of Trustees, and in which he showed the weakness of their action, in not yielding to admit colored students into the Institution on account of their color, and that he compelled to separate himself from them if their action was final. He gave a number of reasons why they should receive colored students into the Institution and among them that the Institution should be Christian augument could not then, and much less now, in the light of the present, be refused to be admitted. Any argument without being impressed with the goodness of the man, and that he was far in advance of his day and generation. That the reader may have the facts, we will quote that portion of his letter which referred directly to the subject in question. Asking the question whether it was not expedient that the colored people be educated as speedily as possible? he answered: "Most certainly, for, 1st, they are destined to be the missionaries and teachers for the land of their fathers, and for their unhappy brethren, perishing brethren of our country." 2nd. Their education seems highly essential, if not indispensable to the commencement of the salvation of their colored brethren. 3d. Their minds are more rapidly developed if taught with whites, hitherto far more favored than if educated separately. 4th. The amount of labor performed by the white man's hand requires that the colored person be employed, and that without delay, for their elevation. 5th. They can no where enjoy needed education upon terms so favorable to our institution, or others established for whites. 6th. God made them of one blood with us; they are our fellows. 7th. They are our neighbors, and whatever we would they should do unto us, we must do unto them or become guilty before God. 8th. Those we propose to receive are the little ones in Christ; we must take heed how we offend one of these little ones. 9th. The objection to associating with them, for the purpose of doing them good is the very objection of the Pharisees against our Saviour's eating and drinking with the publicans and sinners. 10th. Intermarriages with the whites is not asked and need not be feared. 11th. None of you will be compelled to receive them into your families unless, like Christ, the love of God constrain you to do it. 12th. Those who desire to receive and educate them have little or no right to do it that Christ had to eat with publicans and sinners. 13th. Colored youth have as much right to the privileges of the whites. 14th. They will doubtless be received in all such institutions by and by, and why should beloved Oberlin wait to do justice and show mercy till all others have done it? Why hesitate to lead in the cause of humanity sent of God? 15th. Colored persons can be educated through fear that God will be dishonored if they are received. 16th. Otherwise it may be with you, brethren, I know that it was only the pride of my wicked heart that caused me to reject them while I did. 17th. If we refuse to do them justice and show them mercy, the Lord Jesus Christ, the Judge, will refuse us. 18th. The men and money which would be given for their education cannot be obtained if we neglect our duty. 19th. Should the colored people and ten thousand dollars are subscribed upon condition that Rev. C. G. Finny be connected with the theology to accept the tuition, and he will not unless the youth are received into the college. 20th. Should Mr. Mahan, or Professor Morgan serve unless this condition is complied with; and should they not, the loss of the presidency of their still slavery sentiments. 21st. They would have rendered a prejudice to prevent justice in this case you will in another. 20th Such injustice would be a stain on the character of the church. The opinion over these ten thousand. He absolutely protested against the enlargement of the Oberlin College on the principle that the people of Jesus Christ be rejected because they differ from us in color. "I have pondered this matter with much prayer, and believe that if the injured brother of the human race, subsequently, when Finney, Mahan and Morgan with eight professorships and ten thousand dollars are left to be educated in some other institution." This question of expediency is constantly raised, and it is because of this fact that Oberlin, notwithstanding the support of the world, is behind many of the institutions of learning in the country in the matter of questions of right and justice to the negro. In some important features in her constitution she is behind the age. Of this we may instance the fact that of a president of the college was not recently called upon to represent the college at the recent jubilee. But of this more in the future. We will now take up the thread of the narrative. The action of the trustees was not to the liking of the students, and they manifested their displeasure in the usual way, by leaving the institution. Some of the students went to the country to give effect to its devotion. Abolitionists at the east of Oberlin became terms which include the devotion and the abides of religion. We are apt to fancy, however, that a Republic, that it is immortal, but there have been other republics that have passed away. The last 3rd, she was sitting up in a rocking chair; she looked up and said, "What is Republic?" Dr. Webster replied, "It is almost down to the earth." Oh, the Lord Republic!" Dr. Webster, "Republic!" she said, "is naturally divided into two parts—the devotional and the ethical. The ethical is the state, the devotional the church and too little morality. We should have the support of the state to the church to give effect to its devotion. Righteousness is not to be compromised with." Dr. Webster then said, "Mrs. Webster, you are about to enter the Celestial Republic." She responded in the morning; there were then present comprehension and harmony in that Church."

The following resolution was offered by the Rev. J. O. Harsell, D.D., and seconded:

"Resolved, That it is the duty of the American Nation to wipe out the dark and damning stain of slavery from her escutcheon, and to this end we urge upon the Government a speedy and full pardon of President Hayes prohibiting the importation of Mormons from Europe."

THE BISHOP'S ANNUAL SERMON.

An extended address was made by the Rev. B. F. Walden, LL.D., of Cincinnati, on the Bible and the Bible. He spoke of the fact that there are now more Chinese than Indians in the United States, and that the Bible is one of the serious race problems of this country. The Bible is among the more popular books of the day, and is the best agencies by which the voter is fitted to do his duty as a citizen. In summing up the claims of the Bible upon demanding solution, Dr. Walden said: (1) The foreign population of the country has been increased, and for the most part is ignorant of the Bible. (2)

NOTORIOUS OFFENDER ARRESTED

The Chief of Police in Hartford has arrested and effectually brought to a stand-still that old offender, "Cramps." NOTICE

To Sabbath Schools.

Will the pastors and officers of the Sabbath schools see to it that their schools settle up with us for their supplies for the present quarter, as well as for the Child's Recorder? Some of our largest schools are due from ten to fifteen dollars. We do not like to sue, but sue it is a hard month on us. Help, help, is what the Book Room must be paid or the mill must stop grinding.

Dr. Newman's Recollections, price eighty cents, or one of our cloth hymn books, price ninety cents. (2) Any person sending us two new yearly subscribers, with four dollars, we will send them one Bible Dictionary, containing five hundred and thirty-four pages, and one of the large Cruden's Concordance of the Bible, price $1.25, or one Pilgrim's Progress, or one Potter's Clothing Demonstrated by Reordinary trial are given in the Disciples, Part III. Chapter I. Section II. page 167 of the present edition. Local preachers can only be employed, "for want of traveling preachers." If these last may be had, it is unlawful to employ the former.

From Quitman, Georgia, we are asked:

Are there any Methers in our church? Is there any law for having Methers in the church? The way of having Methers in the church is causing some trouble here. Is there any custom or law to establish Methers in our churches?

Answer: The brother refers to a custom of which we have heard, but of which personally we know nothing to do, of settling certain women in the church for certain work and calling them "mothers." The only order of class of women recognized by the Discipline is the class or order known as Stewardesses, of which mention is made in Discipline, Part V. Chapter IV. Section I. Question 6. Answer 2. Other than these neither the law nor the general custom of our church know anything about. That the question should at all give trouble, only indicates that the law of the church is not sufficiently studied and therefore not sufficiently known.

BISHOP PAYNE'S LETTER.

The letter which we elsewhere print from Bishop Payne is altogether worthy of his head and heart; and yet we wish to say a few words in reply. And first, we do not deny the interest right of every citizen to allude "to the difficulties which he had to encounter in the boring success." But we think the vexatious things must agree with us when we make the less agitations employed, the better. Epithets breed epithets, and the result is the development of what Paul characterizes as the "works of the flesh," "hatred, variance, emulations, wrath, strife," &c. Unhappily for us, in the use of strong language we have in the past set a example to the young men of the Church, for many of whom we have offended by applying such epithets as those used by the Rev. C. S. Smith, to "the fossilized," we are willing that the files of the RECORDER shall testify.

The weakness of the senior's letter, if we may be pardoned for the use of the term) is when he compares the like of S. Smith and the work he is doing as the acting Secretary of the proposed Sunday School Union, to the like of and to the work he has done. The Church well know how appreciative the Bishop is of talent and of talented men, and yet without the least disparagement to Brother Smith, it is to be said that he is not Bishop Payne, and as to the Sunday School work, while it promises to be of immense value to the Church, it never proposes to marshall the rising generation, it can do no more than to assist the parent and pastor when competent to the work of the Sunday. And what is said of the Bishop's estimate of Brother Smith and his work, is equally to be said of his estimate of those associated with opposing this new branch of the Church. The cases are by no means similar. No one knows better than Bishop Payne that the exercising of the functions of the General Department of it set on foot as has been this one. As to the legality of the new Sunday School Union, that it should be found to do so, is at least the worth of the precedence it sets, and the refusal to heartily work for it, is nothing strange—nothing "like unto slaves" "silly trickery" and "designing schemes,"—at least we should be very sorry to believe such of them. And then had Brother Smith only pursued his work with a unity of the spirit suggested in the Bishop's advice to him—"study to show yourself approved unto God"—even these men would have been silenced. But instead thereof, like John with the cry of "Lo, Elias" we see my zeal for the Lord," he seemed to drive, if not repudiate, at least with such rapidity that few could keep pace with him.

Bishop Payne has had a few of the men who let their hands be forced by him or rallied upon to recognize a Department nowhere mentioned in the Discipline, to which all were pledged to conform, as well as to subscribe for a periodical whose mentioned, or recognized, or ordered, in the Book of Discipline, we have yet to learn. Of the Sunday Schools taken especial pains to say is his own individual property—despite such facts as the many schools in few of these men would have fallen into line, but as they have manifested a tithe of the spirit of the advice alluded to above, and found in the Discipline a law unto them. But he did not, and because he did not, many of them were sufficiently bad of themselves became worse.

Bishop Payne is our senior in every sense of the word. As he says, he does understand the Church and the "elijun" the meantime, a thousand full homes than we did ever see the inside of a Sunday School, and yet he would not, we hope, upon a second consideration, shall decide as to who her it was prudent or not for Brother Smith to bound the men who failed to help on "silly trickery" and "designing schemes."

Under the circumstances, the Bishop's letter is very temperate.

With no wish to provoke an unseemly controversy, we really hope the Bishop, despite his senior work, will find time to decide.

WHY ROTATE!

Judging from indications, a question of first moment for the next General Conference will be the rotation of the Bishops. For the best interests of the country and more, the church has long labored into Districts, over which an intelligent Bishop has presided for the term of four years, sometimes for a less term of eight; and in one instance we think (not sure) for as many as twelve. In this instance only will the people have been watching the workings of a system and now think little is bazarded in the statement that they have about made up their mind it is full time to change. That the last General Conference would have done so had not three new Bishops been elected, his whose hands it was thought best to give some regular work to the end that they might be, as it were, tested, can scarcely be questioned. Nor has anything been done to induce a change in their mind, on the contrary, the result has been to confirm the opinion that the "set time" has come. As it relates to the new Bishops, it is to be said that they have shown themselves to be quite the peers of the old; while the disadvantages of the old system have not in the least disparaged, but here and there have really been aggravated.

Why Rotate?

We answer, first, for the reason that it is Wesleyan. Wesley himself travelled through, into a portion of his work, but the whole of it, as have done every Wesleyan President since his day—except, of course, the foreign work, which ever calls for some special arrangement.

We answer, secondly, for the reason that it is Methodistic. Wesleyanism in England, Methodism in America, is heretic to the rotation of their chief officers they are one and the same. Not since the days of Asbury has a single Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, but has been required to travel through the length and breadth of the church. While the idea of allowing them to cut the Church up into Districts or the General Conference doing it itself has been thought of, it has never arisen to the dignity of a discussion. And what is true of the Methodist Episcopal Church, is equally true of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Since its secession in 1845, while here and there it may be thought to have been rather close to the line of the old landmarks, especially in its practical abolition of the Class Room and the system of Probation, yet has it never entertained the thought of dividing the church.

Why, then, of the Methodist bodies of the land; episcopal or non-episcopal, white or colored, the A. M. E. Church alone is the solitary exception.

We answer, because that the Bishops should rotate not only for the reason that it is both Wesleyan and Methodistic, but in that it may appear, that the Discipline of our Church requires, for according to one of its fundamental laws, not even a General Conference can make a change or alter any part or rule of our government, save to do away with Episcopacy, or destroy the PLAN of our Itinerant General Superintendency. What plan that was we know, for aside from what the history of Methodism teaches, it is described in this very Article of Restriction, the plan of our itinerant GENERAL superintendency. The superintendency given the Church by the District system is by no means general, but special and limited. Confined to its to the point of declaring war upon the more rebellions of the two.

OF THE Count de Chambord, the uncrowned Henri V. of France, who has just died at Frohsdorf, it has been said: "he doubtless felt that he could not make an energetic ruler of men, and might have been a model father and prince of reunwa than become a decrowned one fooled with the ridicule of Europe.

Of the wisdom of this remark, whether it be true of the late prince or not, there can be no question. How often we develop somewhat on the score of self-dependence. There is no doubt of his disposition to beg among us, and this is especially true of a certain class of our ladies' educated young men. They seem never to weary of being dependent upon their white friends. This is derogatory to the race. It is enough that these white friends have educated the class of young men whom we have in our mind. To continue to long as beggars at their door is too much.

SAYS THE EDITOR of the New Orleans Southwestern Christian Advocate, under the head of "Sectionalism," in reference to the fact that the danger is real, will quickly be a dead one when a laugh, but enough may be remembered to be of use.

A PEOPLE'S tendency to morality can never be fairly tested until they become rich, elevated and honored. Until then, they have little if anything to lose by immorality, but keeping their morality is nothing to lose, to wealth, to position, or social standing, there is little if any incentive to good and honorable; for the truth that "virtue is its own reward," can only be appreciated by the virtuous. Money, position, social standing are as so many props to a man, keeping him not only up, but keeping him steady. Without these, he is liable to waver and fall at any time. The difference to him will just be nothing at all. But let him know that if he be guilty of this or that sin, he may have to surrender what he has gained, and the logical result is he will look well to his way. Apply this rule generally to the people of our country, and if the morality among the whites be no better than it is among us, it only proves them to be inherently a deal more sickous than we are. But without comparing the relative virtue of the two classes, let us see to it that we come into possession, and as speedily as possible, of all the props which go to strengthen morality—come into possession of riches, position and social standing.

THE AVERAGE colored minister has great need to read the papers. They bring to him many a piece of news that otherwise he would never hear; especially as it relates to his religion and the religion of his people. The fact is, the colored preacher is about the only professional man, judging from what the public say, who is bringing somewhat of contempt upon the race. The colored doctor, and the colored teacher, and the colored lawyer, and the colored business man may all be said to be doing well, at least they so manage their affairs as to escape the shafts of ridicule which is too easily public delight to hurl. But the colored preacher gets it on all sides and what is worse for us, by reason of the fact that he does not sufficiently read he is largely unconscious of it and is therefore in no condition to call a halt. Scarcely a paper comes to us, especially at this time of the year when camp meetings are in vogue, but has something to say of colored people's preachers. We do wish our people generally would read, read, read, and see what the world is saying about us and then shape our lives accordingly.

WHERE THE Rev. Washington Gladden declares his purpose to take a war on colored churches, he should remember that colored churches have as much right to exist and are as much a necessity as white churches. Let him not forget that the only people who are doing any good work for the Master among the colored people are the colored preachers and the colored

HIS FIRST DAY AT SARATOGA.

Saratoga was a new idea to him. It was as full to us from spring to spring and take a drink of the water of each. N. two of the springs tasted alike. There are a dozen forty springs at Saratoga. After tasting nearly half of these, he began to form a queer feeling inside him. After spending most of the day in this way, he went to bed. It seemed as if all the water works of the lower regions were raising a riot within him. After several days of agony he thought of PERRY DAVIS'S PAIN KILLER. It gave him relief and comfort, and charmed him to sleep.

Peas was much hoped how a pompous physician at Bath, who told his constantly that he had a mind to get his luck in two pieces, but he had so many irons in the fire he really did not well what to do. "Take my advice, doctor," said Fools, "and put your pens where your irons are."

AMERICAN TRIUMPH AT AMSTERDAM.

The Mason & Hamlin Organ and Piano Company have just received the following cable despatch from Mr. C. C. Mueller, their agent at Holland, now representing them at the World's Exhibition at Amsterdam: "Received highest Honor the very highest award." The Mason & Hamlin cabinet organs were placed in competition with all exhibitors with a large number from the leading makers in Europe and America, and this award is but a confirmation of their unbroken series of triumphs at all the great international exhibitions for the last 16 years. Mason & Hamlin have received 11 first prizes and a decoration at Paris 1867; Vienna, 1873; Philadelphia, 1876; Paris, 1878; Melbourne, 1880, and the American, 1880. — Boston Journal.

"Where is the other shiner?" said the Secretary of the Board of Trade as he took in the No. 2 on the block of the London "combine," responded the gallant captain, and they signed the contract. "Ah, yes; goes to Brighton Lozenges," said Ned, as he hastily snatched for a whale.

MOTHERS DON'T KNOW.—How many children are punished for being sneezin, willful, and indifferent to instructions or reasons, simply because they are out of health. An intelligent lady said a child of his kind. "I wish there should know that if they would give their little ones moderate doses of Hop Bitters for awhile it would be all a parent could desire.

A butcher notices a lawyer's office sign, "No asks, "when a dog does any damage, is not his owner responsible?" "Certainly not," was the reply; "but when your dog has just carried off a magnificent leg of mutton from your shop, you owe me two dollars." "Nothing could be more just," replied the lawyer, and, forthwith, that is exactly the purport of the constitution I have just written for you."

I, W. Tibbetts, Dacula, Minn., says: "I am using Tutt's Pills and am having better health this spring than I have had in thirty years. I have suffered much with dyspepsia, but your pills have restored me. I feel like a new man. Go on with your good work and may God bless you, which I know He will do."

A greenhorn went to a menagerie to examine the wild beasts. Several gentlemen expressed the opinion that the monkeys were the most like human beings. He on with your good work and may God bless you, which I know He will do."

WHAT WILL IT DO?

Brown's Iron Bitters! Good for what? Well, see what it has done. To begin with dyspepsia. It has cured some of the worst cases.

Then chills and fever. Who wants to shake with cold and burn with heat, when a bottle or two of Brown's Iron Bitters will drive the source of the mischief away?

How about rheumatism? It cured Mr. Bradshaw, of Baltimore, and hundreds of others.

Those dreadful nervous troubles. Mr. Berlin, of Washington, the well known Patent attorney, was entirely relieved by Brown's Iron Bitters.

The ailments of the kidneys.—Brown's Iron Bitters cured Mr. Montague, of Christiansburg, Va., and an army of other sufferers.

Debility and languor. The Rev. J. Marshall West, Ellicott City, Md., is one of the many clergymen restored by Brown's Iron Bitters.

And as with serrigo, malaria, liver complaint, and kidney troubles, Brown Bitters is the Great Family Medicine.

WHAT is sauce of a man in his eloquence, should always be received with allowance. Only unfair men resort to this method. A man's record in his absence ought to be his defence.

PARENTAL RESPONSIBILITY

We could wish that all who are parents, as well as all who are not, fully appreciate might be brought to properly consider the responsibilities of such a relation to humanity. Verily would there be, we are sure, a better class of children, a better class of parents and teachers, and better class of men and women. There is a school organization for the two races in Georgia, which has for its object the giving to it's colored people of their schools the best preparation and privileges which are in demand for the white, including colored teachers, and making such a wise discrimination in the distribution of school funds as will secure to the colored people the numerical parity to adopt all necessary measures to perfect the plan as best for all concerned."

THE PULPIT TREASURY for September comes to our table with stores of knowledge for pastors and others. There is no lack of ability displayed in the selection and in the preparation of the excellent monthly. The allotment of space to contributors from all the evangelical denominations is very well in this paper and the Treasury ought to be regarded to see to it that that still is kept up. We know of those who hold some note by the world to people, even though they are collected from the Methodist connection to which they can have no living interest. The truth is that the condition as to denominational distribution of the colored race to the land of their fathers is absurd and vicious. It is interesting as a bit of pretty sentiment, but has no more practical value than the scheme to transport the white bear to Palestine, whether for good or ill the negro is here to stay.

THE MEN in charge of Paine Institute, the school projected by the last General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South for the education of colored preachers and teachers are crying lustily for help. The indications are that the whole project will fall through. The best of their best men have sense enough to see, and the courage to say that should this be the issue, the church will be disgraced. The Christianity which is not sufficiently strong to stop building and murder is not strong enough to educate and uplift.

TO THE REV. I. P. ALDRIDGE are we indebted for a copy of the journal of the two Sunday School Conventions of the Morganton District, North Carolina Conference. Much valuable evidence could be found of the vital step taken by our people since freedom. The statement, however, made on page 55, that the membership of the A. M. E. Church are 1,000 colored, needs to be corrected. To put our white membership at 500, is but low estimate, while the number who attend our services counts up to thousands.

WE COMMEND the following utterance of the Southwestern to that class of our white fellow citizens who desire to apologize for their own sins in refusing to grant the colored man the amenities of Christian society saying he does not wish it, but prefers to be by himself:

WHAT the Rev. S. H. Jefferson, editor of the Journal of Enterprise says, will receive the hearty endorsement of every well wisher of the Church. "Let it be known," says he, "for all time to come that the A. M. E. Church is not a political machine and that we will never surrender its control to wire pullers. This thing must stop."

WE HAVE received the minutes of the Second Annual Session of the North Missouri Conference Sunday School and Ministerial Convention. Attended by the leading men of the Conference in company with the leading Sunday school workers, no little good was accomplished.

ONE OF OUR Methodist exchanges prints a note from a brother complaining of the incorrectness of the minutes of his conference. He winds up by asking, "When will the age of reading notices come?" Don't know. Judging from the way complaints come, it is far away yet.

REV. J. M. CARGILL writes us as follows of the camp meeting he has had, and of which the Washington Republican gave what we saw to be a highly colored description of it:

The other white people say that we had the best meeting they ever attended. They say that publication was a shame.

ON THE EVE of going to press, we received the following:

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 9, 1883.

DR. B. T. TANNER,—Dear Sir:—Bishop is improving very slowly but continues very weak. Yours Truly,

MARY L. BROWN.

THE COLORED CITIZEN of Baltimore, Isaac Myers, editor-chief, publishes a band. It gives evidence of the ability one is led to expect. That it may live, ought to be the wish of all who have the interest of the people at heart.

TO THOSE of our readers who wish to subscribe for a good colored paper published in the South, we heartily commend to them the Weekly Record, published at Athens, Ga.

THE SECOND number of the Fisk Herald, published by the Literary Societies of Fisk University, comes to hand as bright and as breezy as we could wish.

THE SEPTEMBER Vick is a model of beauty, and to any one interested in the culture of flowers, a model of usefulness also.

Personal.

—Lawyer Ballard, of Tallahassee, Fla., is North, with his son and daughter.

—Senator Bruce is in Ohio, where it is proposed to have him remain for a week or more.

—"Brecher is a man of genius—Spurgeon is a man of God," said Dr. Guthrie, was a man in London pot it, according to Prof. Park.

—Bishop Turner, of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, is preparing a "Revised Hymn Book" for the use of his denomination.—The Christian Advocate.

REV. J. R. Harris of Zion Presbyterian Church, Atlanta, Ga., on a visit North, called. He reports the Christian work generally of the Gate City to be prospering.

—When the Rev. Robert Collyer preached at Hickey, England, this summer, he was able to point to the church yard piles as the work of the very hands when he was a toiler at the forge.

—Rev. J. A. M. Johns, we are pleased to know, has withdrawn his suit against the Trenton St. Zion A. M. E. Church. Now let the church be equally considerate, and second the pastor in his efforts to equitably adjust the difference.

—Samuel Lawrence of Huntsville, Ala., a well known colored man, has a most important exhibit at the Louisville Exposition. Among the articles on exhibition are spinners raised upon his plantation of Sea Island cotton and Sea Island silk.

—Mr. S. E. Taylor, formerly of this city, and nephew of Mr. Corben Taylor, of south Fourth street, was elected clerk and treasurer of Beaufort, S. C., last February, to fill an unexpired term. He was re-elected on the 25th of August. The Sea Island News says: "Mr. Taylor has filled many offices with credit to himself and to the full satisfaction of the public. As clerk and treasurer of the school board he is also ably and has succeeded in keeping to the high standard which has made it a prominent feature in affairs of the town."

—Judge Allison W. Tourgee is a familiar figure on the streets of Chautauqua. His summer residence is at Mayville, at the head of the lake, about four miles from Chautauqua. The house is a charming little cottage, surrounded with trees, shrubs and flowers, and commands a fine view of the lake. "This Growlery," as the Judge's study is called, is a one-story, unadorned structure, perched on a knoll in a corner of the yard, several rods from the house. The occupants of Judge Tourgee's home, besides himself and wife, are his wife's two sisters, the Misses Kilburn.

—In a memorial address on the late Judge Black, the Rev. Dr. Power, of Washington, D. C., said that when Judge Black and President Garfield helped, spoke of the marvelous friendship that existed between the two men. "I have often," he said, "seen Garfield slap Black on the back and put his arm about his neck and say: 'Judge, you are the best man in the world. I accept your politics.' The course of this friendship, which for years had been unruffled, was disturbed during the Presidential campaign, but I was with Judge Black as he lived in his last extremity. General Garfield's sickness was found him greatly disturbed and scanning eagerly the telegrams from the President's sick chamber, and General Garfield asked often: 'Is Black dying?' 'Is he suffering,' Has Judge Black rallied yet?' and when told, at last, that he had been to the White House to inquire after him, he was deeply gratified."

Church News.

REV. E. Ford (Gonzale Co., Texas): "We have on this work 61 full members of the church; in all we have 78 members, probationers and all."

REV. I. T. Gobee (Long Swamp Mission, Fla.): "I have just closed down a protracted effort with 17 added to the church, and with 6 converts unte God."

REV. R. Seabrook (Bronson, Fla.): "We have just closed a glorious revival at Archer, and are now at Bronson engaged in the good work. On Sunday evening last, ten joined the church, and we pray that the Lord will forward the good work."

REV. R. W. Chadwick (Midway and New Hope Mission, Fla): "The Lord has blessed us spiritually, intellectually and otherwise. We have just closed a protracted meeting which resulted in 24 converts; we are now preparing to send our church."

REV. D. R. Knight (Midville circuit, Macon Conference): "We have just closed a protracted meeting which has lasted for nearly one month on the entire circuit; 92 were received on probation, and 23 converts; and as I have not as yet received the reports from the Secretary, cannot give you the amount raised, but will say it was a grand success."

REV. Arthur Jones, (Darlington, Md.): "At the dedication of our new church, which has been talked of for the past two years, Rev. Bishop A. W. Wayman was present and preached the dedication sermon. We had one of the largest congregations ever experienced by our church in this county; the Bishop said it surpassed many of the city churches. The collection amounted to $720.40."

REV. H. C. Bruce, (Lento, Miss.): "I am happy to say that the work is in a very good working condition. We have added to the church 25 or 30 since May. I am now completing a new church on Sardis Hill, and will have same it ready by the first Sunday in September. There was no Sabbath school here when I came but now we have a three good Sabbath schools, 150 members in all, and a splendid corps of teachers."

REV. S. C. Goosely (Newark, N. J.): "The A. M. E. Church at Paterson is doing a good work. I gathered in about three of its members, hired a hall and established the work. The Rev. J. Rodgers bartered the church away and, as he thought, united the A. M. E. with Shiloh Hall and wrote the deed transferring over to others. The loyal A. M. E.'s would not join the union and waited until Bethel's set time. Our work goes on at Paterson hopeful and prosperous."

Joseph Darts, (Rocky Point, S. C.): "Rocky Point circuit is a little surprising race more. Sir, this circuit has two hundred and fifty members in full connection and St. James, of which the Rev. Mr. Bradley is pastor, where I started his weeks meetings at Mt. Moriah on the 11th of Aug. and run up until the 26th; also at Bolling Rock, where I never known since the A. M. E. Church has been organized to be so crowded to God, and 40 have joined the A. M. E. Church, and the fire is still burning."

Miss Louie Covington (Wichita, Kan.): "We have not far in population of colored people and have been endeavoring to establish an A. M. E. Church here which is now in its infancy, but as yet the work has commenced in real earnest, but we are able and willing to pay our way. I found pastor, the Rev. M. Wooton. By the ministry zeal and never failing energy, we have succeeded in getting a copy of the narrative written by some anonymous Canon of the primitive Christian during the period of Christian rule in the eleventh century. According to the narrator, two brother Canons, named Eudes and Arnoul, accidentally discovered the sepulchre of Joseph of Arimathea, the patriarch in the mouth of June, in the twenty-first year of the reign of the Franks, probably in 1119 A. D. Having obtained permission from the owner of the ground to excavate on the spot, they proceeded to make excavations after some days' digging they reached an underground passage, about six and twenty feet long, which led into a circular chamber large enough to hold forty persons. In the wall of this chamber a stone was detected which might be moved. This admitted to a cave, having a floor not of rock, but of earth. At this point one of the explorers turned back; but the other, after much searching, found some human bones which he identified (!) as those of Jacob. Still another chamber was then discovered, containing the bones of Abraham and Isaac, and also some inscriptions on the rock, which could not be deciphered. The cave was then closed up and filled in, and afterwards apparently restored to their original resting places. The Bible ends with a description of the cenotaphs as they exist to this day in the Mosque of Hebron."

Health Hints.

When you rise in the morning, at once remove every covering from the mattress and bedding, and hang them up separately over a chair, out of the window to the sun or by the fire. Let all the clothing, sheets, blankets and comfortables remain exposed thus for at least four hours before you make the bed. Many housekeepers pride themselves on making their beds before they leave their rooms. They do this because they consider it neat, when if the laws of health were better understood, they would know it to be a filthy habit. From the body, in the night, an insensible perspiration is thrown off—that is, matter amounting to a considerable or more. This is absorbed by the bedding and bedclothes, and the skimming smell. The air of every bedroom in the house ought to be as pure as other apartments not so used. The atmosphere of the room should have abundance of light, air and sunlight. A piece of grass grown without the light for a few days covered with a plank, loses its healthy green and becomes white. The color has not gone, but fade or the new paper be spotted than have the children's cheeks pale. Remember that through the night the lungs throw off the body of carbonic acid, and passing on, at 4 o'clock we reached Cincinnati, Ohio, and at 12 (midnight) we reached Indianapolis, Indiana. We had a big breakfast with any one, we asked for bread. If your windows are shut at night you must breathe this over and over, and you will not willingly drink water from a sewer pipe, but you breathe air that is not much better? Whenever a painter is at work in a room and windows are open for health's sake, as well as quicker drying. The Lucas tinted gloss brands do not contain lead poisons, and the painter does not follow their use, nor the usual escapades, which make painting a penance. Lime is a great purifier, use it freely this season on fences, walls, rooms, outbuildings and in cellars. Sunlight is healthy. Take just as little medicine as you can, and only remember, one dose without the constant use of pills and purgatives. They hurt the stomach and getting in the habit, destroy it. Have a good deal like smoking. Regulate your health, if possible, by your food.

MY WESTERN TOUR.

THE OUTLOOK OF THE A. M. E. CHURCH IN THE WEST—THE GREAT ADVANCE SENT OF OUR PEOPLE GENERALLY.

BY THE MANAGER.

MR. EDITOR.—I left Philadelphia on the evening of the 22d of August, after attending the Quarterly Meeting of Bethel Park avenue and tendering my congratulations to the gentleman and lady of that church on the 50th anniversary of their wedding. Quite a good time we had. Many housekeepers pride themselves on making their beds before they leave their rooms. They do this because they consider it neat, when if the laws of health were better understood, they would know it to be a filthy habit. From the body, in the night, an insensible perspiration is thrown off—that is, matter amounting to a considerable or more. This is absorbed by the bedding and bedclothes, and the skimming smell. The air of every bedroom in the house ought to be as pure as other apartments not so used. The atmosphere of the room should have abundance of light, air and sunlight. A piece of grass grown without the light for a few days covered with a plank, loses its healthy green and becomes white. The color has not gone, but fade or the new paper be spotted than have the children's cheeks pale. Remember that through the night the lungs throw off the body of carbonic acid, and passing on, at 4 o'clock we reached Cincinnati, Ohio, and at 12 (midnight) we reached Indianapolis, Indiana. We had a big breakfast with any one, we asked for bread. If your windows are shut at night you must breathe this over and over, and you will willingly drink water from a sewer pipe, but you breathe air that is not much better? Our Exchanges.

The court at Jefferson has held the session and the Jackson county murderers walk the earth as free as the birds of the air. It appears that the grand jury failed to find a true bill, and thus one of the most wilful murders that has ever been perpetrated in the borders of the state goes unpunished.—Athen's, Ga., Record.

According to the latest calculations, the next Legislature of Kentucky will consist of thirty-three Democrats and five Republican Senators. There will be eighty-six Democrats, eleven Republicans, two Independents in the House. There is also one tie in Bancock county to be decided.—The Bulletin Louisville.

No man will advance a sawbuck at any thing; no man will respect a spendthrift. We have a good many young men in banks and wholesale houses, employed in menial service, and unless they study their business, master the common branches of knowledge, education and show worthiness in other respects, they will not be advanced to anything.—The Globe.

The preacher, the colored newspaper and the school-house are the factors of our civilization. But the preacher has a higher mission. He not only refines the mind but wears for the salvation of the soul. God has said to him, "Go, work in my vineyard," and his life is one of constant work and sacrifice for the salvation of men. And spiritual religion is necessary.—Indianapolis Colored World.

There are of course some white and some colored cranks engaged in the occasional work. The white crank occasionally gets into power, and, being drivel about the inferiority of colored, and the superiority of white people, the freeze turned out because they are white. These are simply abnormal developments of the slave system, which has the noxious lamb of a fruit tree. We have no fear that the mass of the colored people will pay any attention to the silliest clamor of a few negroes. We have always declared that Mr. Tanner of the RECORDER, is a proud and able advocate of the movement so unreasonable and so unjust at various with every interest of the race and every sense of gratitude.—Indianapolis Leader.

Fraternally,
PAYNE.

Note well.—Send the sum raised by Post Office Order.

THE COOKING SCHOOL.

The average girl at marriage is well instructed in nothing. To take her place in the household she has to master the knowledge of this useful household art, would be to disgrace her mother and herself in the eyes of all those acquaintances. The average young bride has to learn at home or her own with a few practical ideas on a matter which will serve to come before her thrice a day. And one is ashamed to own the ignorance and all prosperity of herself and others most essentially female. Thus, if ever her acquires even a passable skill in cooking it will probably be through much wasting and worrying and manifold expense. Meantime Grogspuds, or other evil angel, is lurking in the shadow of her table. To the young wife and housekeeper so circumstanced half the terrors of the kitchen are at once removed by the introduction of the year ready, always reliable, Royal Baking Powder. With its proper use there can never be failure in bread, biscuit or cake, while the perfect healthfulness of the food produced is likewise so well known that all who understand it can hardly snap their fingers in the face of Old Dyspepsia. For a brief period the history over inexperience and bad luck of other things is speedily won. The Royal Baking Powder Cookbook is the superior powers as a leavening agent, the great healthfulness of the food produced

SHE PRESERVED HER OWN FRUIT.

She had a face for peaches in the old "pound for pound" way, just as her mother used to do them. And she used her mother's old fashioned preserving kettle. The bottle spent and rent for rubbing ointments over the unhappy lady's feet, as she stood before the kitchen fire. They put her to bed and treated the would-be parts with PERRY DAVIS'S PAIN KILLER, the sovereign remedy for burns, scalds and blisters. In two or three days she was well.

"Has the cooking book any pictures?" asked a young lady of a bookseller. "Not one," replied the dealer in books. "Why?" exclaimed the witty wife, "what is the use of telling us how to make a dinner if you give us no plates."

In regions where Liver Complaint and Bilious diseases prevail there has long been felt the need of a medicine that would act specifically on the Liver, be safe from after effects, and yet as simple that it might be used by any one. Dr. Pierce's Pellet Liver Pills supply this want. They are prescribed by the most eminent physicians.

"What is that you are wearing?" asked farmer John of his fair city beard. "Why, that is my rat Jersey." "All right," was the reply, "the don't wear my brown Jersey over in that field, unless you are scared at climbing trees."

GIVEN UP BY DOCTORS.

"It is possible that Mr. Godfrey is up and at work and cured by so simple a remedy?"

"I assure you it is true that he is entirely cured, and with nothing but Hop Bitters; and only ten days ago the doctors gave him up and said he must die."

Well-a-day! That's remarkable! I will go this day and get some of the same for poor George—I know hops are good."

After a year's examination, the foolproists at Navada, which were originally prescribed for three days' sickness, are now stated to have been made by Hood of Marlboro, this vindicates the Chicago girls who once pleaded in that vicinity.

Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" cures every kind of humor, from the common pimple to the worst scrofula.

Four to six bottles cure salt-rheum or tetter.

One to five bottles cure the worst kind of pimples on the face.

Two to four bottles clear the system of boils, carbuncles, and sores.

Five to eight bottles cure corrupt or running ulcers and the worst scrofula. It dissipates, and is half-drive and dozen lots at great discount.

The scarcity of gentlemen at a neighboring summer resort was so apparent that a Boston lady telegraphed her husband: "George, bring down a lot of beans for the hop this evening." Thanks to the telegraph company, George arrived with a "pot of beans."

Our Western people are liable to be laid low, by malarial fever, when breaking up new lands. The folks in the East are also complaining of fevers, chills and aches, arising from decaying vegetable matter and imperfect drainage, for either East or West the best remedy is AYER'S Ague Cure.

Mr. Trifle—the barber after shaving a lady—"Shall you have your hair shaved or cut, madam?" "Why, I declare, you've made a mistake. Isn't a shave twenty cents?" Trifle—(disappointingly). "Really, I cannot think of charging you for that, sir."

The effect of a $415 cream for $19.75, which is given in another column, is a perfect illustration, and can be compared with the liberal manner in which D. P. Beatty, of Washington, N. J., has always dealt with his patrons. He sells nothing but what he knows to be the best that can be made in this factory, you save all the economy profits usually made by middle men.—Ade.

"I say, Paddy, that is the worst looking horse that I ever seen to harness. Why don't you get a better one?" "Faith, I'm only using it." Pale, the poor beast can scarcely raise the little mate that's on him now," replied Paddy.

Weak lungs, spitting of blood, consumption, and kindred effections, cured without physician. Address for treatment with certificates, World's DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

A young man who went to the late war began his first letter to his sweetheart after this fashion: "My dear girl—when I get to the end of my letter, I think of you, and I say: 'Get thee behind me, Satan!'"

A startling fact. Heart Disease is was either in fatality to consumption; do not suffer from it but use Dr. Graves' Heart Regulator. It has cured thousands, why not you? 25 cts. 50 cts. $1.

A telegrapher who is locked up in the Kansas penitentiary has signified that he is anxiously waiting for the signal "Key."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound strengthens the stomach and kidneys and relieves dyspepsia. Either sex use with benefit.

Mrs. Parvenue sent her boy out the other day to look in the trees for birds' nests, for she wanted to have a bird's nest pudding for dinner.

Scrofula, eruptions, discolored and tainted blood is Hooven's Sarsaparilla's Skin Cure. A great success.

At the White Mountains the girls all comb their hair back from the forehead. That is why it is called a bang-up place.

Wasson's chief beauty is her skin. Somerdan Nervine restores that charm to all its patrons.

Isaac Jewel, Covington, Ky., says: "Somerdan Nervine cured me of Asthma and sciatica."

A young lady calls he beau "Honey-suckle," because he is always hanging over his front railings.

"Dr. Benson's Celery and Chamomile Pills, a cure for neuralgia." Mrs. H. W. Gross, Rupert, Iowa.

Singular Epitaph: "Grieved Tom Thumb is dead. Peace to his ash."

Tetter, Erysipelas, Blotches, all cutaneous eruptions cured by Swayne's Ointment. Try it.

Beats owl—the shoe machine.

The Light of Asia—Japanese Lantern.

A musical crack—the handle of a head-organ.

Countess: "I told you expressly to paint the chamber blue-bonny, and you have made it blue." Painter: "I beg your pardon. I thought the gracious countess had blue blood."

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

RESOLUTIONS.

WHEREAS, Thousands of dollars are due to the Publishing House of the A. M. E. Church, from its many patrons, and

WHEREAS, many of the accounts (aggregating these thousands of dollars) have been standing for more than one year, notwithstanding the parties have been notified again and again. This is doubtless wrong, and tends to embarrass and cripple the Department, and if allowed to continue would break it down, and

WHEREAS, Many of the debtors among our ministers have been transferred and their addresses thus changed and so out of our stations among the laity likewise changing their places of residence, making this debt difficult for the Manager to reach them direct; therefore

Resolved, That the Manager be hereby directed to prepare a complete list of the names of all accounts for each Episcopal District and present the list so made out to the several Bishops in such way and manner as he may see most respectfully ask that they exert their influence in co-operating in collecting those bills to their several districts to the end that the efforts being put forth to pay off the debts of the Concern may prove effectual.

Resolved, That the Manager be and is hereby instructed to make one more special effort to secure a settlement upon the part of the debtors of the Concern, to which end he is instructed to forward the current letter prepared by the Board to each debtor, that a statement may be had. And should said debtors fail or refuse to make settlement with the Concern, the following method or means shall be employed.

Done by authority of the Trustee Board of the Publication Department in their regular monthly meeting, June 12th, 1883.

REV. M. F. SUDDY, President.
W. T. SIMPSON, Secretary.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

THE PREACHER'S QUIET HABITS.

Sedentary and studious men sometimes become prostrated before they know it. Those who spend much time in close mental work and neglect to take enough exercise often find their stomachs unable to do the work of digestion. The liver becomes torpid. The bowels not irregularly. The brain refuses to serve as it once did. Their preaching becomes a failure, and there is a state of general misery. So many ministers have been restored to health by the use of Brown's Iron Bitters that the clergy generally are speaking to their friends of this medicine as the very best tonic and invigorator they know of. It restores this and watery blood to its proper condition by toning it up with the purest and most invigorating preparation of iron that science has ever made. It is pleasant to take, and acts immediately with the happiest results, not only on the persons, but on other folks as well.

THE PHILOSOPHY OF HEADACHE.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN Hair Renewer.

Seldom does a popular remedy win such a strong hold upon the public confidence as has HALL'S HAIR RENEWER. The cause to which it has accomplished a complete restoration of color to the hair, and vigorous health to the scalp, are too numerous.

Old people like it for its wonderful power to restore to their whitening locks their original color and beauty. Middle-aged people like it because it prevents and cures them getting bald, keeps dandruff away, and makes the hair grow thick and strong. Young ladies like it as a dressing because it is clean, healthful, and makes their hair soft, pliable, and glossy. It is therefore the favorite of all, and it has become so simply because it is unequalled as one.

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE FOR THE WHISKERS.

Has become one of the most popular patent hair toilet articles for gentlemen's use. When used as gray or naturally of an undesirable shade, Buckingham's Dye is the remedy.

THE STATE COLLEGE.

We had occasion last year to notice the fine exhibit made by the students of the Penn State College, located at State College, Centre Co., Pa. This year, always, we received their report, and the thought to which we gave utterance in the mention referred to above, recurred, to wit, have they any colored students in the institution reported by the last census? To settle the matter we addressed a letter of inquiry to the President, Dr. Atherton, from whom we received the following reply:

STATE COLLEGE, CENTRE CO., PA.,
September 19, 1883.

DEAR SIR:—We have no general rule against students in the institution. We shall admit students without regard to color, race, religion or politics, and the standing and character would depend wholly upon the student and scholarship.

Very respectfully,
JAMES A. ATHERTON.

Any one having a doubt as to the liberality of the Penn State College, located at State College, Centre Co., Pa., can settle the matter by addressing the President, Dr. Atherton, from whom we received the following reply:

STATE COLLEGE, CENTRE CO., PA.,
September 19, 1883.

DEAR SIR:—We have no general rule against students in the institution. We shall admit students without regard to color, race, religion or politics, and the standing and character would depend wholly upon the student and scholarship.

Very respectfully,
JAMES A. ATHERTON.

And now let some of our young men speak. We are given to holding back and then blaming other people for what we must get up, or in the words of the prophet: "Arise, shine, for thy light is come." Our light has truly arisen. No more hanging back in the shade, and expecting other people to come and pull us into sunlight. We must go ourselves. Other people may remain in the stumbling block of caste churches, for which the Negro himself is responsible.

Measurably the negroes are and measurably they are not. Purely as a matter of fact they are not half so responsible for black churches as they are for the churches they have to meet. They must have reputations. They must support their common manhood with the race. All which, however, they must win by their own prowess.

Is it asked, How? How best they may beat down and clinch down the obstacles which prejudice places in the way of their progress? Answer, by integrity, INTEGRITY, INTEGRITY. This is the word. This the all-conquer, big element in the human character, which we must possess. Let a colored man possess it, and he is more certain of a successful career by life than if he possessed mountains of gold. We say plainly to our young men, liberty and the franchise will both count for nothing if they have not character sufficient to make them good citizens. Nor is there any country in the world where character is more valuable. Nor is there any country in the world where character is more valuable than in this country. Character is the one thing which we must have. Character is the one thing which we must have. Character is the one thing which we must have

"RESCUE THE PERISHING!"

It was a pestilential body. The pale, puny child lay almost lifeless on the pillow, the victim of malaria and summer complaint. The old nurse who dropped in to give the dying child her last blessing happened to ask, "Have you tried PERRY DAVIS'S PAIN KILLER?" They had not thought of it, but got some at once. Next day baby was better. Before the week was out he was well. PAIN KILLER saved him.

While Sulphur Springs is the only watering place we have heard of where there is a surplus of man. There were five beaux to one belle at this famous resort and, notwithstanding the preponderance of brimstone, it is not a great place for match-making.

No lady of refinement likes to resort to superficial means to supply a becoming semblance of her former beauty. It is health alone that bestows the fire that lights the countenance and brings back the fresh tints of the waxy blossoms to the faded cheek. If anything on earth will do this it is Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which has already brought health to multitudes with whom all other means had failed.

"You told me, Arthur, that your doctor advised you to drink whiskey. Has it done you any good?" "Well, I should say I got a barrel of it; two weeks ago and I could hardly lift it; and now I can carry it about the room."

GIVEN UP BY DOCTORS.

"It is possible that Mr. Godfrey is up and at work, and cured by so simple a remedy?"

"I assure you it is true that he is entirely cured, and with nothing but Hop Bitters, and only ten days ago his doctor gave him up and said he must die."

"Well-a-day! That's remarkable! I will go this day and get some for poor old poor George—I know hops are good."

"Will there be a hop to-night?" asked a summer sojourner of another who had the pride of the parlor. "Certainly but not well." "Don't know about the hop; but there will be a skip if I can get my trunk out," was the reply.

It is a well ascertained physiological fact that the glands of most of the ills that afflict humanity is a deranged condition of the alimentary canal. The bowels become constipated and sluggish, and these arise a train of painful and distressing maladies. As a preventive and cure, there is no remedy so safe and sure as Dr. Tutt's Liver Pills.

Some ingenious observer has discovered that there is a remarkable resemblance between a baby and wheat, since it is first carefully planted, and then finally becomes the flower of the family.

is a bad thing, but Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" deserves its name. It is a favorite remedy for those painful maladies and weaknesses which embitter the lives of so many women. Of druggists.

An intemperate citizen of Rochester calls his stomach "Hades," because it is the place of departed spirits. A lady one in Cincinnati calls his "The Tomb" because it's where the liar goes.

RESOLUTIONS.

WHEREAS, Thousands of dollars are due to the Publishing Department of the A. M. E. Church, from its many patrons, and

WHEREAS, many of the accounts (aggregating itbese thousands of dollars) have been standing for more than one year, notwithstanding the parties have been notified again and again. This is unbusinesslike, and does not encourage nor cripple the Department, and if allowed to continue will break it down, and

WHEREAS, many of the debtors among our ministers have been transferred and their addresses thus changed and many of our members among the laity likewise changing their places of residence, making this difficult for the Manager to collect accounts, therefore

Resolved, That the Manager be hereby directed to prepare a complete list of the debtors and amounts for each Episcopal District, and present the list so made out to the several Bishops in their annual meetings, and we most respectfully ask that they exert their influence and co-operation in collecting these bills in their several districts to the end that the efforts being put forth to pay off the debts of the Church may prove effectual.

Resolved further, That the Manager be and is hereby instructed to make one more special effort to secure a settlement upon the part of the debtors of the Concern, to which end he is instructed to prepare a circular letter prepared by the Board to each debtor, that a statement may be had. And should said debtors fail or refuse to make settlement with the Concern then other and necessary means shall be employed.

REV. M. F. SIDBY, President.
W. T. SIMPSON, Secretary.

ULCEROUS "All the age of two years one of my children had a bad sore on its leg, which continued with obstinate running sores on the limb for three years. Ayer's Sarsaparilla was recommended to me, and after using a few bottles of it, the sores healed and disappeared entirely." Hollis, Tex., Sept. 26, 1882.

SORE EYES Hyperthetical ophthalmia, or inflammation of the eyes, is a very painful disease to be completely cured. They should be recommended by Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which, by purifying the blood, is especially beneficial to the eyes. Mr. Wm. Hall, of Lowell, Mass., has been afflicted with sore eyes for many years, and has received great benefit from the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Other members of his family have also been relieved of sore eyes by the use of this medicine.

Sold by Druggists. $1; six bottles for $5.

A LITERARY MAN WENT WEST. The blue-stone water of Ohio disordered his bowels and laid him on a bed of sickness with horrible cramps. For three days and nights he was wretched. Then he said "why didn't I think of PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER?" He sent for it, and experienced such prompt and thorough relief that he said he was a fool for not getting it at first.

A German has invented a safe that, on its lock being tampered with, throws open its doors, seizes and drags and locks in its burglar and handcuffs and holds him in readiness to be conducted to the police court in the morning. The Yankee is experimenting with a set of books for the use of country editors, which, as soon as a fraudulent entry is made in them, will, by means of a clever electric contrivance, sound an alarm in the counting-house bell.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

"THE COLORED RACE WEIGHED IN THE BALANCE."

Dr. Marshall's speech for the colored race is unpopular to Dr. Tucker's. Only 25 cts. On sale at 631 Pine street, Philadelphia Pa.

THE LOUISVILLE CONVENTION

At no time since the issuance of the call for a national convention of colored men by the managers of Washington have we felt inclined to occupy the attention of our readers with it; and for the reason that while the colored people have scores of hundreds of papers devoted to politics, supplemented by illreading they give the daily press of their locality—enough, we would think, to satisfy every shrewd, busy man—we have only a half dozen papers devoted to morality and religion, of which number is the RECORDER. Upon the question whether or the convention should or should not be held, we can scarcely be said to have had an opinion. If it were held, well; if not held, well.

According to our mind the convention most needed to be held is a convention of the colored ministry of the country; but such as we suppose it to be.

Our political brethren doubtless think otherwise, but even these must give us credit when we say the convention that shall select the white elephant of the country—affect them for good we mean—is the one that ought to be held. Upon the back of this animal, the trouble lies with the white-hordes. They have to be put right and the country will follow. As in the days of slavery, so is it now the finish is on the wrong side. The power that can pull it over to the other side, the side of right and truth, is the power needed. Our opinion is that a convention of ministers only, that we plan was found for them; and the stone that became the image became a great mountain of, and filled the whole earth.

Of the prophecy two things may be safely affirmed. The first is that the Church of the Lord Jesus is indented. The second, that it has not yet filled the whole earth; and must needs there-fore exist until the whole earth shall be filled—until Asiatic error and African superstition shall be thrown to the moles and the bats."

That the Church is to exist in the future is to be believed, secondly, not only on account of what prophets like Daniel have said, but likewise from what the Master himself affirmed and on more than one occasion. To Peter he said, and that, 'ye' is 'thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my Church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it."

Should the Church be built upon Christ—veiled with each other, and even with the "Bride" herself, in making the occasion the most memorable. Beginning on Sunday, September 2d, the pastor, to his robes as he managed the service, appeared every luch a priest. The preaching by Bishop Wayman is declared by those who heard him, and whose opinion is worth something, to have been masterly. "How is it that Bishop Wayman preaches better in New York than anywhere else?" was the query of one who has heard him in all the great churches of the connection. Bishop Cain preached in the evening to a house that was literally jammed. It is scarcely necessary for us to state that as an orator Bishop Cain has few equals.

The exercises of the week were begun by Dr. Jenifer, who has wrought wonders in Boston, reading a paper, "Why am I an African Methodist?" which commanded the rapt attention of a congregation that doubtless would have been larger had it not been for the rain.

Tuesday evening was the grand concert, in which the vocal and instrumental talent of the race appeared to advantage. The artists, one and all, acquitted themselves handsomely.

Wednesday evening, Lieut. Howard L. Smith, of Boston, read his "Unwritten History." As one sat and listened, he could but admire the industry of Mr. Smith in collecting so many scraps of unwritten history.

The paper read on Thursday evening is the one given in another column: The Future Church. The evening was clear and beautiful; hundreds of children with their teachers were present, for it was the evening devoted to them; and other hundreds of old folks. Taking it all in all, we seldom saw a more beautiful or interesting assembly.

It was our misfortune to be called away on Friday, and therefore had not the pleasure of listening to Prof. Saunders. We have heard, however, in speaking of the work of the Fathers, he did honor both to them and to himself. The Old Folks' Concert, which was to follow, was beyond description.

During the entire week, the presence of Bishop Cain rendered edifitional exist to the celebration.

Space will not allow us to write more. We therefore say to our readers what Bishop Cain said to us: "What could not the Church do, had she a hundred such ministers as Brother Derrickson."

THE FUTURE CHURCH.

In discussing this question it is in order first to ask: Will the Church have future? Not every organization existing to-day among men, whether it be political or spiritual, is certain to exist hereafter. Judging the future by the past, we are sure that many such organizations will not exist. Where are such unpopulous political organizations as the monarchies once existing in all the States of the Eastern Continents, even so with those that have most surely existed in both continents of the west, North America and South America. Where are such really have existed, he alone can doubt who has failed to post himself in the archæology of these continents, especially that of Mexico and of Yucatan, of Chili and of Peru. But like the great political organizations of the past, they have all passed away. And as with great political organizations, so with organizations spiritual, equally great. Go into your pastor's study and look over the accounts which may there be found of hundreds of these organizations, both in ancient and in modern times. Where are they? Where are the Novatians? the Pelagians, the Sabellians, or the Arians? And lastly where are the Donatists, a church organization at one time sufficiently able to call a council at which were assembled no less than 300 Bishops, and that, too, despite the fact that each in the day of its power bid fair, at least to human eyes, to stand forever. But they are gone, and gone forever, as the Eastern Continents, even so with those that have most surely existed in both continents of the west, North America and South America. But such really have existed, he alone can doubt who has failed to post himself in the archæology of these continents, especially that of Mexico and of Yucatan, of Chili and of Peru. But like the great political organizations of the past, they have all passed away. And as with great political organizations, so with organizations spiritual, equally great. Go into your pastor's study and look over the accounts which may there be found of hundreds of church organizations, both in ancient and in modern times. Where are they? Where are the Novatians? the Pelagians, the Sabellians, or the Arians? And lastly,

AUBURNDALE, MASS., Jan. 14, 1880.

I have been very sick ever since I was here. They all gave me up as past cure. I tried the most skillful physicians, but they did not reach the worst part. The lungs and heart would fill up every night and distress me, and my throat was very bad. I told my children I never should die in peace until I had tried Hop Bitters. I have taken two bottles. They have helped me very much indeed. I am now well. There was a lot of sick folks here who have seen how they helped me, and they used them and are cured, and feel so thankful as I do that there is so valuable a medicine made.

MRS JULIA G. CUSHING.

Fenderson has gone into the conundrum business. He wants to know why an useless pair is more deadly than an ominous apple. As colored everything seems to chase the sunset, Fenderson says this eyes beaming with joy at his own ingenuity) "Tear is green."

If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have sallow color of skin, or yellowish-brown spots on face or body, frequent headache or dizziness, bad taste in mouth, internal heat or chills alternating with hot flushes, low spirits and gloomy forebodings, irregular appetite, and tongue coated, you are suffering from "torpid liver," or "biliousness." In many cases of "liver complaint" only part of these symptoms will be experienced. As a remedy for all such cases, Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" has no equal, as it effects the most obstinate and radical cures. At all drug stores.

Romeo and Juliet are promenading on a beautiful summer evening. Romeo, raising his eyes to the moon, remarks: "What an admirable specimen of Leo is at those thousand stars that sparkle in the Virgin's lap!" Juliet, pettishly remind you of the lantern on the car, Harry."

Sufferers from the effects of quinine, used as a remedy for chills and fever, will appreciate Ayer's Ague Cure, a powerful tonic, containing small quantity of vegetable substances, without a particle of any noxious drug. Its action is peculiar, prompt and powerful, breaking up the chill, curing the fever, and expelling the poison from the system, yet leaving no harmful or unpleasant effect upon the patient.

Passenger (faintly): "Check fares—for an ice-cream! I thought we—" Waiter: "Beg pa'don, sir; but our rooms is, in fact, rather small, and we're careful to collect fares; 'cause there's a little o' everything, and it's knowing how soon we may all go to the bottom!"

All ladies who may be troubled with nervous prostration, who suffer from the organic daslacement; who have a sense of weakness and a feeling of lassitude; who are alarmed at fainting; in whom the appetite for food is capricious and who at all proper times unnecessarily should have recourse to Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Your daughter? Is it possible. Why you told me you had no sisters." "No! I assure you, she is my only daughter," replied the pleased mother. And the polite and prominent specialist all by remarking, "Well, she certainly looks old enough to be your sister."

Bad temper often proceeds from those painful disorders to which women are subject. In female complaints Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" is a certain cure. By all druggists.

"Pray, my good man," said a judge to an Irishman who was a witness on a trial, "what did pass between you and the prisoner?" "Oh, then, plase your lordship, my honor, I was ready to stop the wall (paddy)" says he. "What?" says I. "Hist!" says he. "Where?" says I. "Whist!" says he. "Where?" I. And that's all, plase your lordship."

Much distress and sickness attributed to dyspepsia and chronic diarrhœa is occasioned by humor in the stomach. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the remedy.

An Irish lawyer lasting addressed the Court as "gentlemen," instead of "your honours." After he had concluded a brother of the bar reminded him of his error. He immediately rose and apologized to the Court, in the course of which the learned debater called yer honors magnificent mistake, not a mistake, yer honors." The speaker then sat down.

"I really carried out of the system," it means when misused by Samaritan Nervine.

John Pierce, Esq., of Woodburn, Ill., writes: "Samaritan Nervine cured my sons of fits."

"Napoleon," said the President of the Republic, "it was the tragic accident to the horse for closing had just been introduced and whose house he has never visited, that will not fail" "Sooner will this do on dle close cause if by do would-n pipe."

I have taken one bottle of Dr. Graves' Heart Regulator for Heart Disease and find it all I could desire.—Mrs. A. Hubbard, Worcester, Mass.

A young man writes us to get a pamphlet on the subject, as he says he has fallen in love with a sweet girl to whom he has just been introduced and whose home he has never visited, and he wants to tell him how to open the camphor. Well we should first endeavor to gain the respect and esteem of the dog, if the girl's father keeps one.

For soreness, weariness, coated tongue, dull eyes, dry cough, use Swayne's Pills.

A young merchant wants to know how long a surety is good on a note. Well, generally as long as the note or surety lasts. We don't like to say much about the length, but we can tell you about the time a surety is good on a note. Once. Just once. Don't be fooled. You can't catch him a second time, young man.—Hartford.

Itchings or disorders arise on any part of body, removed by Dr. Benson's Skin Cure. $1. Druggists.

A child, while walking through an art gallery with her mother, is attracted by the statue of Minerva. "Is that you that?" said she. "My child, that is Minerva, the goddess of wisdom." "Why didn't they make her sense, too?" "Because she had none, my child" "That was because she was wise, wasn't it, mamma?" was the artless reply.

"Dr. Benson's Celery and Chamomile Pills invaluable in nervous diseases." Dr. Hammond, of N. Y.

THE DOCTOR'S MISTAKE.

One of the old mistakes of the professions was to think that there were no other ways of curing disease except those which had been handed down from former times.

It is not to be denied that the Doctors have done great things for the world. But when it comes right down to the real curing of disease, it must be admitted that Brown's Iron Bitters has done enough to earn the generous gratitude of this whole present generation, including the medical profession. There are no mysteries or secrets about the compounding of Brown's Iron Bitters. This preparation of iron is the only preparation which will not injure teeth or stomach. In this it is beyond comparison better than the other preparations, which are mischievous and injurious.

You need not fear a mistake in trying Brown's Iron Bitters. Your druggist has it. It gives vigor to the feeble, and new life to the dyspeptic. Children take it, not only with safety, but with great advantage.

Better than Gold.

So easily is a cold taken that not infrequently one is at a loss to tell when or how it has originated, and is prone to exclaim with Hamlet, "I am lightly as it is with GOLD, for often of slow effect." But when you really, if helped a little; but every cold that comes to it adds to its power, and happens just at a time when, from any cause, the system is in a run down condition, resistance in the system has been lowered, a mild indisposition or delay may end in something dangerous. BETTER heed the first notice kindly given, and use that which is kindly likely to do. That such is the case is attested by the hundreds of testimonials sent out every year. Such testimonials are not to be had for money, but are voluntarily and gratefully rendered, where the use of Many ladies who had scarcely enjoyed the luxury of feeling well for years have been so renovated by using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that they have triumphed over the ills dash is said to be hair to, and life has been crowned with the added charm of a fresher beauty.

The new attendant at the watering-place book-store stood behind the counter with his head a little on one side and a white handkerchief around his neck, when a dainty Gemmer and Posey stepped in, and dazing her blue orbit upon him, asked "Have you a Newport A-qua-relle?" To which, with a thankful smile, he replied: "No, marm; I don't think it's nothin' but a common bile."

Functional derangement of the female system is quickly cured by the use of Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription." It removes pain and restores health and strength. By all druggists.

"Well, how do you like this weather?" enquired old man Barnstable of Mrs. McBaker, who always looks on the dark side of things. "Don't like it at all!" snapped that amiable virago. "Ah! don't, eh?" mildly replied old Barnstable. "S—so—how do you think you would like it if it rotted you?"

Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" are sugar-coated and inclosed in glass bottles, their virtues being therefore preserved unimpaired for any length of time, in any climate, so that they are always fresh and reliable. No cheap woodden or pasteboard boxes. By druggists.

"I understand that you referred to me as a pig, sir," remarked a pompous elderly gentleman in a young man who had spoken disparagingly of him to a third person. "You misunderstood me, sir," replied the young man; "I hope that I never have cause to refer to a person of your appearance as a pig."

A peculiar virtue in Ayer's Sarsaparilla is found while it cleanses and purifies the blood from all corruptions and impurities, and thereby pools out disease, it builds up and invigorates the whole system, and makes one young again.

A Chicago girl, who had ordered a pair of shoes sent to her home, returned a pair of shoes with a note saying that "they were a mile too big." The dealer replied that she had ordered them loosely fitting, and he didn't suppose that a mile would be very much out of the way.

ANSWER TOO.—Is there a person living who suffers with a case of dyspepsia, biliousness, nervousness or neuralgia, or any disorder of the stomach, liver or kidneys that Hop Bitters will not cure?

Maid (knocking at the door of Master Neddy, who has retarded for an unusual hour in bed): "Come, Master Neddy, Time is up." Master Neddy (drowsily): "Well, if Time's up, I should think you might be satisfied with that, and stop ringing me."

Pure blood helps to make a clear complexion. Ayer's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood. Enough said. Send to the bottle.

How many races are there?" was asked by Tommy the other day. "Two, a sprang a shock-headed youngster, with a yard-of-sunsh on his face, when he explained: "Throw—the Spring Meeting; Midsummer speeding and Fall fairs."

"Paralysed persons permanently cured." Guaranteed by the proprietors of Samaritan Nervine.

"What do you think of Fielding?" she asked young Mr. Tawse, after she had read a account of the funeral of the hat. "Oh, it's important, of course; but it won't avail anything without good hatting."

"Samaritan Nervine cured our children." The doctor's bills." Henry Keen, Vermillion, Texas.

A good straw bed was found in a front door yard at Zumbro, Minn., the morning after the Barnstable ball. It had been carried by the blast through the air. Straws showed which way the wind blew.

Dr. Graves' Heart Regulator cures all forms of Heart Disease, nervousness and sleeplessness.

"Greek? do I understand Greek?" said a jolly German. "Vell, I schoost vas smile." We, too, smile when we find it always sum in dot greek lusbtendi of dot riff.r."

Skin diseases vanish by use Swayne's Ointment. Cures Eczema in the worst form. Nothing better.

"If I punish you," said a mother to her little girl, "you don't suppose I do it for my pleasure, do you?" "Then, whose pleasure is it for, mamma?"

Dr. Benson's Celery and Chamomile Pills cured my neuralgia." Mrs. D. C. Hoopes, Caley Bank, Va.

German Friend: "De bitturn you hif bainted is mere pritle; dere vas no sdrength in de vorld in de English language vich de scribe it, and I tal vorselfen it."

Sunburns, rough or dry skin, or similar blemishes, removed by Benson's Skin Cure

A novel idea—The plot of the story.

All that it is cracked up to be—flour.

When was venison the cheapest? When the man paid two deer for a whistle.

The Duke of Mecklenburg Schwerin? What can have provoked him to proximity?

The boy who bit into a green apple remarked, with a wry face, "Twas over then in childhood—sour."

When a death occurs in a Boston family the surviving members eat black beans for a month, as a mark of respect for the dead.

A baby will cry no harder if a pin is stuck into him than he will if the cat won't let him pull her tail. It is cheaper, therefore, to pin him.

The hatter turned and twisted in the seat for nearly an hour, wisely trying to make an impression on the young lady who sat behind him. At last he asked: "Does this train stop at Cicero?" "I don't know, sir," she quickly replied, adding: "I hope so, if you think of getting off there."

Gov. Butler of Massachusetts, is not an angel, but the attempt of the Republicans of that State to undersrate his war record must prove a boomerang. That, as a General, Governor Butler was loyal to his country and rendered invaluable service in a most trying crisis is matter of honorable history. To declare that his "services were those of a sutler and act of a strategist" is carrying vituperation and slander into the province of head farce —N. Y. Globe.

THE ELECTION OF JUDGE HOADLY.

And so the democrats have really carried Ohio, and Judge Hoadly, of Cincinnati, governor elect. We suppose this is satisfactory to such prints as the Afro-American and the New York Globe, if the latter only had the courage of its convictions to speak out; as well, also, satisfactory to the colored Independents(?) generally. To the vast majority of the colored voters, however, we are well assured this is not at all satisfactory. As voters, we are solidly Republican, and save in individual cases cannot be induced to desert our colors. What is there either in the letter or spirit of democracy that would command our toleration, much less our respect and allegiance? From our standing to end, it is the party of immorality. It favors rum in the North; it favors Ku Klux in the South. And both in the North and in the South it favors, in open an revolutionary methods, it stands ready to adopt them at the first opportune moment. That any colored man who pretends to be a leader in the colored people should not be able to see this, only shows that his fit place is in the rear. But as might be expected, only such are found at the North, where this monster daze not show his teeth to the South, however, where his bite is as the bite of death to hundreds and even thousands of our people annually, the twaddle of satisfaction which a few colored men of the North are heard to whimper, is not so much as the work of a day. These far-seeing men of the South do not, indeed, speak out for the Republican party; for they well know this would only be hopeless. But silly ing themselves, as in Virginia, to the fodependents, they wage the only war possible for them to wage against that hereditary foe of the race, the Irish-American Catholic—Free Whiskey and No Free School Democratic party.

But says the Tribune, New York:

It may be that the result in Ohio, which it took more than twenty-four to ascertain, will be a blessing in disguise to the Republican party by dispelling the political spells from which it has been suffering.

Also:

The Republican defeat in Maine, in September, 1880, saved the Presidential election by startling the party into a sense of its danger. Perhaps the Western election will do similar service now. The Republican party needs only to be aroused to carry the contest by at any time.

We trust so. In the meantime let the colored men of the nation girds their loins, and be prepared to save the nation next year from falling into the hands of a party who in addition to stealing our money, stands ready to steal our rights.

LETTER FROM THE MISSIONARY SECRETARY.

DEAR DR. TANNER.—Quite a number of our ministers and several of our annual conferences agree with me that we should hold a connectional missionary day throughout the Church. We therefore suggest Thanksgiving Day, and ask that each pastor lay the cause of missions before his congregation, and take up a special collection for our African mission. We are making arrangements to turn our united strength upon Africa in the section.

Yours for the cause,

R. H. TOWNSEND.

Little by little is the A. M. E. Church gathering itself together, preparatory to the work given it to do. Is it to be questioned whether if ever before the general outlook was so promising as now. And this is especially true of our missionary work. Never before in all has the Church, in all its length and breadth, been so stirred up as it has been under the Secretaryship of Dr. Townsend. He is the North and in the South, in the East and in the West, has his eloquent voice been heard, and the Church is better prepared to-day in regard to its duty to the heathen than it has been at any other time. The work he has long done by the Secretary is pre-eminently the work of the time. It is not all in vain that spasmodic efforts be made; it is all in vain that here and there, or even everywhere, societies be organized. It was really needed is not such effort or even such societies, but a general education of the people, both ministry and laity, in regard to the Church's duty toward those in pagation and in error. Unconsciously we are almost led to believe the Secretary has been doing this, for his enthusiasm he fain would have done more, but more was impossible. Fruit-gathering cannot be done before harvest. What can be done is to break the ground, sow the seed, attend it, and in its time harvest will be here. It is precisely so in regard to the harvest of active and successful missionary work. It is of the nature of a harvest, and is to be preceded, as is the harvest of the field, by the breaking of the ground, by the sowing of the seed, and by the most solicitous care. These precedental steps Secretary Townsend for the last six years has been taking. The last has been breaking ground. He has been sowing seed. He has been giving the most solicitous care. In the very nature of things, harvest cannot be.

Now, then, is the time for the Church to be up and doing. Now is the time for the Church to be up and doing. Now is the time for the Church to be up and doing. Now

ADVICE TO CONSUMPTIVES.

Do the appearance of the first symptoms, as general debility, loss of appetite, pallor, chilly sensations, followed by night sweats and cough, prompt measures of relief should be taken. Consumption is scrofulous disease of the lungs; therefore use the great scrofula remedy, Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." Superior to cod liver oil as a nutritive, and unsurpassed as a pectoral. For weak lungs, spitting of blood, and kindred affections, it has no equal. Sold by druggists. For Dr. Pierce's treatise on Consumption send two stamps. WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y

"The last link is broken," the fellow said when he kissed his girl good-bye for over at her request, because her parents wished a dissolution. A few days later, he received a note saying "Dear George: There are a few more links come and break them."

"SIGN NO MORE, LADIES!"

for Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" is a prompt and certain remedy for the painful disorders peculiar to your sex. By all druggists.

Editor to city merchant: "Colonel, I'd like very much for to advertise with you. Suppose you put in a notice for me for mouthin' 'Shoot'em ten much." "If I don't know it would help me." "That's not the question. I want it to help me."

Why go about with that aching head? Try Ayer's Pills. They will quicken the stomach, restore the digestive organs to healthy action, remove the obstructions that depress nervous and mental energy, and thus cure your headache permanently.

A scandal, or quarrel, or murder, is often a blessing in the form of the day, "there is a woman at the bottom of it"—as the man said when he fell down into the well. There is generally a woman at the bottom of everything: but the Capitol at Washington is a notable exception. There is a woman at the top of that.—Norristown Herald.

In the Iron Plaster are united Fresh Hops, Gums and Balsams, and the power is wonderful in curing Back Ache, Sprains, Bruises, Neuralgia, Pain in the Side or Soreness anywhere. Thousands testify to this.

"There's nothing like leather." Perhaps not; but Coney Island clam-bake is an imitation that is well calculated to deceive.

Far more valuable than those golden apples of Hesperides are a healthy life, health and beauty of womanhood. Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restores and preserves all these.

The young man in Pennsylvania who was sweet on an oil kettle's daughter, has thought perotrelyum-rem was very nice.

Herrd, yes, it is, that we must suffer from disease, but from Heart Disease, nervousness and sleeplessness, Dr. Graves' Heart Regulator will in one to five minutes relief; thousands say so. $1 per bottle at druggists.

Time is money and money is time; for, when you give twenty-five cents to a couple of tramps, it is a quarter to two.

Bolls, Carbuncles and scalds are eliminated by using Samaritan Nervine. Mrs. F. Forbes, of Pinedale, N. Y., writes: "Samaritan Nervine cured my son of spinal weakness."

Somebody has been bright enough to say: "Langtry and Gebhardt—the ills of the valley and the valet of the ills."

If you would have appetite, flesh, color, strength, and vigor, take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which will confer them upon you in rapid succession.

Our contemp rattles are now making the time honored raying: "What is a man as a day in June." There is something far more rare, and that is an advertiser who does not want his notice at the top of the column and next to pure reading matter.

For stiffed feeling, irregular pulse, irritability, bad colored stools, use Swayne's Pills.

The other day a Paris lady abruptly severed her kitchen, and she saw the cook throw away the soup with a silver spoon. "She said in her, the famous, as for mee mouthe" shouted ten much." "If don't know it would help me." "That's not the question. I want it to help me."

AGENTS WANTED.

Will our pastors who are not supplying the RECORDER to their people, please do so by sending for a package to be sent weekly? It will be too much trouble to you, encourage some young man or boy, or, what is quite as good, some lady to whom you could recommend. Many of those who are now selling as agents are ladies. HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., Oct. 15, 1883.

REV. AND DEAR BROTHER:—The meeting of the Board of Managers of the Sunday School Union is postponed because we lack one to constitute a quorum for transaction of business. Therefore, the Executive Committee is hereby summoned to meet on the 8th of November next, being the second Thursday said month. To be held in Baltimore, Md., in Bethel, at 10.30 A. M. Fraternally,

PAYNE.

BISHOP PAYNE IN PHILADELPHIA.

The presence of the Senior Bishop of the Church in the city last week was highly appreciated by the members of the church and as many without. In a sense the Bishop is an old Philadelphian, having years ago taught school here, and years ago officiated as one of the local elders in the mother church. His address in behalf of the Haytian mission at the annual session of the Allen Society on Thursday was a most happy effort, abounding in facts the reception of which should up the heart of the whole connection in reference to that field. Undoubtedly it is the field at all, in connection with the other islands of the West Indies, that should command the attention of the connection. Beyond all question the colored peoples of the western hemisphere, both continental and insular, are from family, if for high destiny is the one and the same, just as is the destiny of the whites of the same hemisphere. Only it is more true of us than of them, for it seems to be the sole purpose of Americans of European origin to drive together Americans of African origin. This is not our choice, as we have had occasion often to say, but we are not to be understood as shrinking back from it. It is, therefore, that we set special stress to all we can in the addresses as that of the Bishop, showing the Church her duty to bear this Haytian Macedonian cry. And what is true of Hayti is equally true of the other West Indies islands. It was because of these that we bows ever been favorable to a union with the British M. E. Church, which has already one conference in Demarara, and one in the island of St. Thomas, and one in British Guiana.

We simply say to colored men and the negroes of the New World get ready to join hands—join hands to the Church today and in the State to-morrow.

THE RECENT DECISION.

It would seem that the Texas Judge of the United States Circuit Court, who recently decided the Civil Rights Bill of 1875 to be unconstitutional, was right in his interpretation of law—right, we mean, if the Supreme Court of the United States is right in its decision of last Monday. What that opinion really is, we have no especial care to know, other than that it nullifies the Civil Rights Bill, which is generally supposed to be the only protection we had in the enjoyment of our civil rights. Are we asked our opinion? It is in place first to say that of distasteful things, that of disobeying whether we shall be permitted to enjoy rights common to the commonest, is the most of all. Especially when we find our possible assailants among the rabble. There is a humiliating in the extreme. That we, with four generations of American blood flowing in our veins, shall hold our rights at the sufferance of men who have not one generation of such blood bathed them, is simply maddening. And yet this is precisely what the recent decision of the Supreme Court makes possible. The rights of colored men whose fathers fought through the battles of the Revolution that made the Republic possible, placed at the sufferance of white men whose fathers fought on the opposite side! We say nothing of the war of 1812 and the greater war of 1860. We say of more over a parallel for such base ingratitude? And yet this is no time to be grieved and fearful. On the contrary is to be strong and definitely defiant. To the white people of the country insist on widening the breach between the two races, let them widen it. We have no little to lose as they, even less. A disturbed country affects only its capital, which the whites have taken pains to keep from us; save only and thanks to them for it, the capital of strong arms, and broad feet—feet prepared to stand even the flow of an Alpine brook. We are seven millions strong to-day. How rapidly we are increasing the last census tell us. Ignorance is treated in this Course discovers its practical value, not only to the young and girls for which it was the source family.

The magazine proper is very attractive this month, containing poems by Mrs. M. B. Pratt and C. P. Cranch, a brief Story by Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney, a short story by Joaquin Miller, an illustrated article about the Kindergarten, and the Polish Institution for the Blind, a paper from Edward Everett Hale, and a three-page song by Julia Eichberg, with violin accompaniment, together with the usual Chronicles, the regular Serials, and scores of beautiful engravings.

REV. CHAS. A. ALLEN wisely differs from the Rev. Washington Gladden, he of Christian League fame, who in a recent published tract takes the ground that if a man have come to love the Bible, and love to pray, and love to talk to Christians about it, he is to himself down as converted. Says Mr. Allen, and we heartily agree with him:

The great need, from which religion has suffered in every age of the Christian era, to regard customs and ceremonies rather than "doing justly, loving mercy," as the proper tests of religion. It is to much to expect that a man can be a minister to profess religion and talk about it, and be sincere in his life and conversation with a good deal of genuine interest and pleasure in the things of God, and yet be so far from common relations of life, to love our neighbor as himself, and do to others as we would be done by, that the reverence is wanting and the practical duty often neglected. In consequence, the ministry is lauded on, as if it were like that churly deities who are forgotten.

The Christians of our country stand in need of nothing so much as to ponder the words of this unitarian Christian.

REFERRING to a cholera specific one of our exchanges says:

A single dose usually gives relief, and every family living in the country should keep a vial of it in the house, particularly in the early part of the season, as it will always banish pain and worry in many cases, where promptly taken, save life.

That reference to its "fruit season" makes it opportune to say that by far the better thing to advise the people is that they do not make glutions of themselves. In nine cases out of ten the sickness that comes upon us is brought on by our own intemperance as it relates to eating or drinking. Let a man be careful of himself and the probabilities are he will avoid not a few of the ills of life.

BISHOP TURNER writes that about one o'clock on the morning of the 10th of this month he was at the house of Rev. J. L. Grigsby, Oakland, California, he was terribly frightened by an earthquake. He says the house appeared to leap up and swing from side to side, the lamp upon the table rocked, dishes rattled, the dogs sprang to their feet and raised a howling bark, and others say they heard a dreadful roaring sound. And, what was singular, it was just fifteen years to the very day since the big earthquake there, which shook down houses and opened the ground in many places. The Bishop is said to have left for the East the next morning.

WE CALL attention to the article from our brother, Rev. Matthew Anderson, pastor of the Berean Presbyterian Church, in relation to the exhibition of Color-Line at the dedication of the John F. Wesley, now the Bainbridge Street Methodist Episcopal Church. Present nonreives, the inference we received was that the reservation spoken of was for specially invited guests. It would, however, seem that Brother Anderson kept his eye upon the working of the affair, and we think shows up admirably the spirit that was manifested. Color-line is a colored church is the most objectionable of all its kind.

BISHOP SHORTER'S in the city, to the very great delight of his many friends. His sermons at Bethel in the morning and at Allen Chapel in the afternoon are spoken of as marvels of simple gospel preaching, reaching the heart and giving direction to the affections. At the Preachers' Meeting on Monday, where were gathered no less than twenty-two of the preachers of our Church, he made a most fatherly address, exhorting the brethren to all their preaching to preach Jesus and him crucified. The Bishop is now his way to Pittsburgh, where he intends spending the coming Sunday.

REV. T. O. AYRES, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Smyrne, wrote the article elsewhere found:—"Negro Bishops" for the Times, of his city. We republish it at the request of Rev. J. C. Brock. Mr. Ayres' position is exactly the one for a man presiding in a congregation that will not tolerate the presence of a colored man, to hold. It is not generally known that colored men are not allowed to cross the threshold of the white M. E. Churches in Delaware. It was so, at least, a few years ago, and we have reason to believe that it is so now.

THE RECORDER gives a hearty Amen to the following, clipped from the New York Christian Advocate:

"The only preachers of Methodist Episcopal Church but from hasty not owne legislation is the character of the men who sends to the General Conference. Their sound, practical judgment, their devotion and loyalty to the Church are to be sought. The objections that have been golog on, and will go on are of importance to every Methodist. Not all the able and good men can be sent, but all that are sent should be good and able.

SECRETARY TOWNSEND'S Missionary Annual for the current year ought to be the possession of every minister, and every intelligent member of every layman. It is a work of the Church. We trust the Secretary will take occasion to send a copy of it to the great workhies of New York, that the world may know not only what we are doing, but what we are striving to do.

IN A PRIVATE communication from Bishop Campbell, he says:

We have just closed a great and glorious session of the Kentucky Conference at Nicholasville. We have said grand and glorious because it was made so by the power of the Lord, in an unusually powerful manner. There did not occur any angry debate from the beginning to the ending of our session. Generally peace and harmony reigned throughout our deliberations.

THE BUDGET for 1883 is before us. Compiled by the Rev. B.W. Arnett, D.D., and published by the Financial Board, it reflects credit upon all concerned. Brim full of information, it ought to be on everybody's shelf. What to the Secretary see to it that it is sent to the press generally of the country?

WE HAVE received the first number of a new monthly, the Literary Enterprise, New York. Devoted as the Enterprise is to literature and music, it is to be looked upon as a valuable aid. To represent Pompey as an Ethiopian, however, does not look well for all concerned.

ON THE afternoon of Thursday, Nov. 8th, Rev. Dr. J. H. A. Johnson is to deliver his well known lecture, "Building Up of Character," in the Mt. Pisgah Church, West Philadelphia. Dr. Johnson is one of the best known lecturers of the Church and it will pay to hear him.

A MINUTE of the first session of the Macon (Ga.) Annual Conference has come to hand. The secretary was our old friend and confrere, William C. Johnson. To regret that a table of totals does not accompany it. The membership, however, is 12,163.

FROM the minutes of the second session of the Grenada District conference, held at Harrison Station, Miss., sent by Rev. J. W. Kershaw, we learn that the number of Sunday schools is 27; scholars, 1288; superintendents, 27; teachers, 72; moneys raised, $84.80.

REV. C. S. JACOBS sends us the minutes of the first session of the Iowa Conference, which was held in the Centenary street bride begins housekeeping with a membership of 2019; churches, 32; parsonages, 2; local preachers, 45; exhorters, 10.

THE DEFEAT of the Hon. John P. Green in the recent Ohio election is a downright calamity to his immediate constituents and to the State at large. We tender Ohio, not Mr. Green, our sincerest condolence.

WE INVITE the attention of our readers to the following:

WANTED—A COLORED LADY. GRADUate of an Ohio Normal College, or of some High School [illegible] Address, Box 1, Post Office, Pittsburg, Pa.

Personal.

—Rev. Wm. W. Sinclair, editor of the Nashville Sentinel, passed through our city on Wednesday of last week.

—The Cleveland Gazette recently gave a fine rut of Hon. J. P. Green, defeated candidate Ohio Legislature at the recent election.

—Bishop D. A. Payne, the Senior of the Church, was present at the Missionary Meeting and made a most excellent plea for Hayti.

—Rev. Samuel W. Lee, of the Virginia Conference, has been in the city for the last few days. He reports his work as moving on nicely.

—Prof. Scarborough took quite a hand in the recent Ohio campaign. One of the most effective speeches made was that delivered by the Professor at James town.

—Hon. Fred. Douglass, Mrs. Fred. Sprague, his daughter, and Bishop J. P. Campbell, under escort of Wm. H. Steward, recently visited the Louisville public schools. They were much pleased, we are told, with the fine appearance, the interesting exercises provided at each building.

—Mrs. Nellie Brown-Mitchell is to be congratulated upon her recent appointment as one of the Lecturers of the Bromfield Street Church Committee Boston. For four years Mrs. Mitchell filled the position of soprano in the quartette of that church, and this tribute to her musical talent follows as a substantial recognition of her past services.

—Bishop Wayman, of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, preached at the court house, last night, to a large congregation, many of whom were white people of our town. He is a man advanced in years, has mild and pleasant countenance—a prepossessing one, and is a natural orator of good ability.—Scottsboro (Ala.) Herald.

—The election of Rev. John Turner by the Kansas Conference as one of the delegates to the General Conference in Baltimore next year is a deserving compliment. If a spotless Christian character, coupled with clerical ability and twenty-five years of combined success in the ministry were suitably rewarded, Elder Turner would have been to-day a bishop in the Church. It is hoped that this worthy servant of Christ will soon receive that merited honor.—Kansas (Mo.) Enterprise.

—"A new, lifesetive portrait of President Arthur, painted by Andrews, has" says the Boston Advertiser, "hurly hung in the corridor of the White House. It is a remarkable likeness, and the expression is very fine, though some people pronounce it a little too lenel to be in good taste. Every line in it is modelled with perfect grace, but the figure seems posed for effect. The subject is represented as stepping from the threshold, and has passed with one fool still lingering upon the last step, where lies a red rosebud that has fallen from his buttonhole. Portrait of the President dents creept Buchanan now occupy places upon the walls of the White House. Even Washington's face, in the first occupant of the White House, and Van Buren, which has been consigned to the dust and oblivion of the garret ever since their respective administrations. Lincoln alone has been spared of rubbish, and by decree of Mr. Arthur his place for the admiration of this little folks. It has more than four hundred engravings, beside a liberal number of colored plates, all by eminent artists, and all of that special character, in subject and treatment, which captivates the fancy of children. The most interesting features of child-life, and of animal life, strange scenery, thrilling adventure, the curious things in nature, and in the wonderful achievements in science and art, are all portrayed by masterly hands, and each picture instructs while it pleases. The same may be said of the text, which has been furnished by many American and English authors, all more or less noted as writers for children. The design of the chromo cover is especially neat and attractive, and the coloring and printing are without a blemish. Within and without, the book will be a wholly pleasing to children, and will meet the demands of the most critical parent.

WITH THE October Wide Awake (Lothrop, Boston,) begins the Third Annual Reading Course of the C. Y. F. Union, the Chautauqua Young Folks' Reading Union. A glance at the topics treated in this Course discovers its practical value, not only to the young and girls for which it was the source family.

THE DATE OF THE PENTATEUCH.—The date of the Hebrew documents in general has been fixed by the older school, and assigned to them by the older school, at 1000 B.C., coincident with the rise of Egyptian evidence. German and Dutch critics have labored with extraordinary acuteness and skill upon the Mosaic documents since, with such illustrations as they could obtain from the monuments, and have reached the conclusion that the Pentateuch was not written by Moses, but by the later classical scholars out of Genesis and Exodus, by various sons and inscriptions, but as independent sources, but as mere illustrations. THE COLOR LINE IN JOHN WESLEY CHURCH, PHILADELPHIA.

BY REV. MATTHEW ANDERSON.

We would naturally suppose, if there was a place in which there was no visible discrimination shown on account of color, that place would be the church of God, especially in solemn worship. But to this we are mistaken. In we our privilege on last Sabbath afternoon to attend, by an invitation, the dedicatory service of the John Wesley Church, on Bainbridge street, above Seventh, Philadelphia. It was a very important service in our church to do so, but willing to make the sacrifice in order to an appreciation of a small struggling organization which has been successful in opening such an elegant and attractive house of worship. That was the object of our visit, and enough to find that the most prominent seats across the front of the church were reserved for white people. Not a colored person was allowed to enter these seats, either old or young, black or white, unless it to be ushers. Such a line of distinction is simply a growth of the lowest form of fungi commonly termed bed-bugs, whose power of reproduction, under favorable conditions, is so great that a single germ will increase to fifteen million in twenty-four hours' time, and unchecked in that time would cover the earth to the depth of eight inches, in three days' time, if space and food be furnished. There is no society which is so far in advance of this obscene, unless it be from fire or air which will not destroy it in a few years' time. A single drop of water will cause a germ to grow and multiply, filtered and then freed from the germ, will grow anew in a day or two from the element of the germ still remaining. When it is considered that it requires from fifteen to fifty millions of the germs to make a single grain of sand, some remote idea can be had of the capacity of germ reproduction. Professor John Tyndall, of England, elaborately treats of the influence of germs in the production of disease and charges upon this cause, the loss of many millions of lives, and the suffering of countless millions more. The ailments of a leprous nature Professor Pasteur, an eminent French scientist, has traced to the germs, and by beautiful experiments so far, and from which Dr. Bastian, of London, has successfully demonstrated the number of cases of anthrax among sheep and cattle, which annually destroy millions of dollars worth of property. Dr. Koch, of Berlin, has discovered the germs that are carried into the system through the lungs, in the act of breathing, and by the nerve centers, distributing the poison to the blood, and thence to the organs, and producing a general impairment of the vital processes. Dr. Koch has also found the germs of consumption, Bright's disease of the kidneys, pneumonia, typhoid fever, liver disease, diphtheria and many other ailments. Lately Professor Koch—a pupil of the former physicians has proved that consumption of the lungs is due to this germ. Professor Koch says a person can be exposed to the germs of consumption and not have the disease, but if he is in a condition of low vitality, the germs

GENTS—Whoever you are, I don't know; but I thank the Lord and feel grateful to you to know that in the world of adulterated medicines there is one compound that proves and does all it advertises to do, and more. Four years ago I had a slight shock of palsy, which answered me to such an extent that the least excitement would make me shake like the ague. Last May I was induced to try Hop Bitters. I used one bottle, but did not see any change; another did so change my nerves that they are now as steady as they ever were. It used to take both hands to write, but now my good hand writes this. Now, if you conclusion to manufacture as honest an good as article as you do, you will accumulate an honest fortune, and confer the greatest blessing on your fellowmen that was ever conferred on mankind.

An Austin preacher overheard one of the larger boys in the class whispering to the boy below that he could whip a donkey. The teacher did not get an explanation. He did not see the boy by the collar and drew him over the desk where he could get at him conveniently. All the teacher did was to inquire, placidly: "Harry, I shall mark you deficient in natural history, because you cannot distinguish me from a donkey."

Though numerous causes may operate to turn the hair gray, all that is needed to restore it to its natural color is Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer. For more than twenty years its sales have been constantly increasing. We have yet to learn of its first failure.

"If you will let me take your stick of candy I'll show you how I can swallow it and make it come out of my ear." The candy was delivered. The young man took the stick and did it. Then for the space of two minutes he busied himself into violent contortions. The candy finally appeared, he said to the expectant spectator, with an air of great disappointment: "I believe I've forgotten the rest of it."

"You have a wide view from these mountains," said an Englishman to a backwoods farmer in the mountain district in the highlands of Aberdeen. "That's true," said the shepherd. "You can see as far's said the travelers (there were two), "America from here." "Muckle farther than that," he replied. "Ah, but what that be?" "When the mist drives off, ye'll see the moon."

The guard of an English railway carriage recently refused to allow a saturnine lady to carry a live bulldog with him. The traveler, lodgment, pulled a turtle from his wallet and said: "Take this, then, if you please, sir." The guard replied, good-naturedly: "No, no, sir. He can't bite; he can't carry; and dogs is dogs, cats is dogs, and fellers dogs is dogs, but turtles is blamed."

How can you remain a sufferer from dyspepsia when worse cases than yours are being cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Try it.

"I meant to have told you of that hole," said a gentleman to his friend, who, walking in the garden stumbled into a pit of water. "No matter," said the friend, "I have found it."

"So mortified about my freckles." Use Dr. Benson's Skin Cure. $1., at druggists. Unrivalled.

Up in Cheniuqua County one day last week a politician was watching a severe storm from a log. Presently when a farmer acquaintance turned in hastily from the road and drove under a shed. "Walk in the latter, Bill," asked the politician. "Well," said the farmer, "I believe there's one of them sycones coming."

A Watch Bill young lady wishes to know what is a proper fancy dress ball costume for a girl still under age—not in fact, red—but, and is this advised by the Christian Register? "Wear a green dress and put seeds in your hair and get as a watermellon."

A lightning-rod contractor's brooch which was itself unprotected, was struck by lightning on Saturday last, and the only child of the contractor was killed. A clear case of "spoiling the rod and spoiling the child."

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once, it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other cause. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

THE WEAK AND THE IMPURE.

The merry little mountain brook, as it lightly dances over the rocks and sparkles in the sunshine on its way down to the river, is pure and clean. It is active; therefore, it is healthy. It is vigorous; therefore, it resists impurity.

But the sluggish pool, where the current is not strong enough to keep the water in motion, is stagnant and foul. Dirt and rubbish are thrown into it, and stay there. Impurities and vile odors make it a breeder of disease and an object to be avoided.

When the blood is strong and rich and red, and vigorously courses its accustomed rounds through arteries and veins, the system is hearty and healthy.

When the blood is thin and poor and weak, impurities and defilement creep into it, and it has no strength to cast them out. Then the system runs down. Brown's Iron Bitters contains the only preparation of iron which can enrich the blood, and make it pure, vigorous, and healthy. A dollar a bottle, at the nearest druggists.

MEETING ON THE CIVIL RIGHTS DECISION.

The Presiding Bishop of the A. M. E. Church of this city have resolved to hold a meeting in regard to the recent decision of the Supreme Court. It will take place on next Monday evening, 5th November, in Bethel Church. Let every body hold themselves in readiness to attend.

AN OPEN LETTER.

To the Rev. Wm. J. Decoster, D. D., Senior Bishop of the A. M. E. Church; Rev. J. J. Moore, D.D., Senior Bishop of the A. M. E. Zion Church; Rev. B. L. Perry, Editor of the A. M. E. Church Review; Rev. J. B. Reeves, D.D., pastor of Lombard street Presbyterian Church; Rev. H. L. Phillips, Rector of Christiana, P. E. Church.

DEAR BRETHREN.—Quite four years ago, we suggested the propriety of the colored clergymen of this city holding a meeting together in convention—at least a representative number of them. The suggestion at the time was hastily considered and we were not ready to put a few to issue such a call. From this, however, we drew back, and practically laid the matter aside.

The thing to be done is the right indoctrination of our people with the history and nature of our Church government.

To accomplish this, we have prepared a little book, entitled: "An Outline of the History of Methodism, and a Manual of Ecclesiastical Forms. For Young African Methodist Churchmen."

All going well we hope to have it in the hands of the printer within a month. As the title indicates, it is a little book that should not only be read but studied. Indeed we have prepared it with the idea of having it go into the hands of all our young people, especially Sunday school teachers and those who in any way fill responsible positions. We are sure that it meets a want long felt in Our Father's Church. Let it be studied for one generation, and we are sure we shall have a Church that will put an end to the church broils that threaten to prove our death.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

From Sandy Point, Miss:

Has the minister in charge of a station, circuit, etc., the right to admit those who are members of no church, to enjoy the privileges of class meetings or love-feast?

In section XV. of Part II., Chapter II. of Discipline will be found the law regulating the privilege to be granted persons who are members of no church—SERIOUS persons, remember.

The answer to the question is, substantially, that such persons may be admitted. It is in place to note here that the punctuation of the present section to the query: How often shall we print &c., is most misleading. The semicolon after the word "class," should be displaced by a comma; and so we can answer read: "At every other meeting of the class, in every place, let no person be admitted." That is, stranger's are not to be admitted to the class at each of its meetings, but every other meeting shall be for the members alone; and this rule is to be observed in all parts of the Church.

Also the following:

? Is it proper for those when a local preacher or deacon and their wives part, and will not go back to each other, and the station members become dissatisfied with them and do not want to hear them preach?

Much depends upon the occasion of the separation. If it be for the offence recognised by Scriptures—adultery—if the offender be the man, of course he is not fit to preach, and should be dealt with according to law—if the woman then the man cannot be expected to live with her and so is blameless. If, however, the parting is about some trivial matter, it should be looked into, and the one refusing to show a Christian spirit should be dealt with. Should it prove to be the man, the people are not to blame for not wishing to hear him preach.

From Pelham, Ga., comes the following:

If a member of our church whose occupation is fraudulent, should make an application to the pastor and church of which I am a member, to be received into full membership, would it be in accordance with the law and usage of our Church for the pastor to receive him? 1879 I had the misfortune to be driven from my country, and a full description given of me on this occasion.—Daily Evening Times, Jeffersonville, Ind.

Church News.

Rev. D. W. Wiley (Enterprise, Fla.): "We have had a glorious time since our annual conference. Up to date the accessions to the work have been 41; converts 19."

Rev. G. G. Baker (Neosho, Mo): "I have just one month's report to make of my work. I have raised $55 trustees' money, repaired the church. Pray for us, for God is working here."

Rev. H. E. Primus (Mexia, Texas): "We have just closed our protracted meetings around this circuit, which were a grand success. The result of the meetings, 47 converts, already in the fold. Some very interesting correspondence has been received, the latest being under date of Philadelphia, 1883. In this letter Mr. O'Flaherty speaks of the remarkable manifestation of a desire among the women for instruction in Christianity. "Oh," he exclaims, "that we had 10 or three tons women here!" He adds that the work of the mission was just encouraging. Some of the Roman Catholic women could also afford great relief to their husbands by learning the secret of the petty details of cooking, washing, mending, etc. All the letters were, of course, written before the death of the King. An earlier letter than the one referred to, written in October, 1882, states that the Arabs used the name of the war in Egypt to inflame the minds of Mirza against the missionaries, but without avail. It seems that Mirza and his chiefs had been sitting reading books; third he brought a new subscriber, and fourth he reports Greenwich to be an Ireland, where the sun never sets.

—Rev. P. F. Matthews, pastor of the A. M. E. Church at Martinsville, Va., has been appointed by the Board of Education of the public schools of Henry County, Va., a Professional Certificate, it being the first time we ever heard of one as a colored man in that county. Mr. Matthews will be one of the examiners of the public school there, and will take charge in a few days.

—Bishop W. F. Dickerson, of the A. M. E. Church, preached two highly edifying sermons in Ninety-Six last week, the occasion being the laying of the corner stone of the new A. M. E. Church at this place. Quite a number of white citizens went to hear the distinguished colored divine, and all were highly delighted with the subject-matter and manner. His discourse was logical, his doctrine orthodox and Christian, and his language chaste, abounding in classical, historical and poetical allusions. Such a man is a benediction to his race, an ornament to the cause in which he labors and a living epistle to the calumniators to degree education.—Ninety-Six (S. C.) Press and Banner.

—Rev. Dr. D. P. Seaton, Right Worthy National Grand Chief of the Independent Order of Good Samaritans and Daughters of Samaria, will deliver a lecture to these orders next Friday evening at Monarch Hall. The lecture will be on his travels in the old world, visited Jerusalem and the Holy Land and a drank water from several rivers in the Holy Land and has a lifelike painting of all the historical places and many of the noted characters of that country, which he will exhibit in the lecture, and no doubt is his lecture. Dr. Seaton is an able extemporaneous speaker, a scholar with nothing but lots of determination and pluck, he has made the tour of the world and is now trying to add his name to his people, giving them the benefit of years of toil and study. His lectures are very entertaining and highly spoken of by the press all over the country, and a full house ought to greet him on this occasion.—Daily Evening Times, Jeffersonville, Ind.

—Rev. Walter Griffith, of the London Society's Mission, on Lake Tanganyika, Central Africa, gives an account of the battle in the eastern section of the province of the country of Urua, president Order of Good Samaritans and Daughters of Samaria, will deliver a lecture to these orders next Friday evening at Monarch Hall. Personal.

—Rev. J. S. Cowles, of Washington, D. C., called.

—The presence of Rev. Frisby Cooper, of Providence, R. I., in our city is highly appreciated.

—By telegram the sad news is received of the death of Prof. W. S. Scarborough's father, at Macon, Ga. Venerable and honored, his place will be hard to fill.

—Our sanctum was pleasantly invaded by the venerable Father Hollon, who, by reason of his years, is a man that stands deservedly high among the brethren. Pen full of copy, we must put an excuse deep interest in the work of his life.

—Rev. T. R. Gedda, of Greenwich, Conn., in our city last week, did a number of good things. First he called; second he made a purchase of some books; third he brought a new subscriber, and fourth he reports Greenwich to be an Ireland, where the sun never sets.

—Rev. P. F. Matthews, pastor of the A. M. E. Church at Martinsville, Va., has been appointed by the Board of Education of the public schools of Henry County, Va., a Professional Certificate, it being the first time we ever heard of one as a colored man in that county. Missionary Items.

The Rev. Walter Griffith, of the London Society's Mission, on Lake Tanganyika, Central Africa, gives an account of the battle in the eastern section of the province of the country of Urua, Sometimes offerings of beads and clothes are given in addition to the regular collections. Some of the results of my examination may be surprising to those whose attention has not been specially directed to the subject. Only 60.71 per cent had been vaccinated. I found eighty-two cases of myopia out of the 700 children in the fifth to the ages of the water, which is let to on the bodies.

The South Pacific Missionary Society's chain of stations from the east coast of Africa to the Victoria, includes, as you leave the coast, Mamboia, Mpwapwa, Uyui and Kazel, which is at the south end of the lake. Uyui, in Urua, is a collection of villages, near Unyanyembe, which is a central trade for that part of Africa. The chief of Uyui pays a tribute to which means "Hundred Spades." The station is occupied permanently. In 1877, by Mr. Copplestone, who had been in Africa seven years, and died at Zanzibar, on the south end of the Lake. Notes on Education.

The Albuquerque Indian school established by the United States Government, is a flourishing condition. It has much crowded, and needs more accommodations. When the new school buildings are completed, there will probably be 300 pupils enrolled in the school. They are gathered mainly from the Pueblos of New Mexico, a semi-civilized race. There are also in the tribe about 2,500 children of school age, who live within easy access of the school. The people are not unwilling that their children should attend, but they do not manifest any special desire among those Indians to have their children educated.

E. H. Lloell, M.D., of Norwich, Conn., recently read a paper before the Connecticut Homœopathic Society, in which he spoke of the many dangers to the eyesight which school children constantly encounter. In the course of the paper the following significant passage occurs: "In 1879 I had the opportunity of examining 700 school children between the ages of five and fifteen years. Some of the results of my examination may be surprising to those whose attention has not been specially directed to the subject. Only 60.71 per cent had been vaccinated. I found eighty-two cases of myopia out of the 700 children in the fifth to the ages of the water, which is let to on the bodies.

Literature.

The November Number, concluding the twenty-seventh volume of Lippincott's Magazine, is very rich in illustrations, and contains a variety of interesting reading. The frontispiece, illustrating Aubrey de Vere's poem, "At Last," is from a drawing by Mrs. Percy Herbert. Tuttle contributes an article, entitled "A Visit to Cetinje," which is beautifully illustrated with views of Green Mountain scenery. "Some Glimpses of Artificial London" is given in an article by Joseph Hatton, illustrated by fine pictures by Fred. Lucas, Fildes, Miles, Boughton, Alma-Tadema, Pettie, and Herkomer, and views of London streets. Development Scheffer contributes timely and capital paper on the new Agricultural Movement in the South, illustrated. Henry P. Johnson contributes a valuable paper on "Our Centennial Anniversary of the Evacuation of New York by the British, with illustrations. Edward Eggleston has a very biographical sketch of Sir Moses Montefiore, with portraits, especially timely as it declares the Civil Rights Bill to be unconstitutional, will leave them without any law to protect their civil rights in hotels, cars, theatres, etc. In my opinion, it will be found in the minds of the colored people. In the absence of the Civil Rights Bill, and the loss of legislation only held a whip over respectable citizens, which made them more considerate against a remedy that would be. The Civil Rights bill was not a corrective of evil, therefore, and the existing act. Our courts have ample jurisdiction to punish any and all violations of citizens' rights without class legislation. Too much written law retards its application in practice, and the South should be all the more alert to see that no such bill be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law, the Magna Charta of American citizenship, was only practically secured to the colored people by the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Constitutional Amendments, therefore, as the organic law raises any race of people to the dignity of American citizenship they should be careful to clamor for class legislation or a repeal of any law that places them within the general body politic. The United States Constitution and laws of every State must apply to all citizens alike. "Lex nec ore cognos alicuptur." The colored people of the South should except mere statutory law that is available for the protection of their rights and liberties. The Supreme Court has, therefore, paid a compliment to the colored people in setting aside the Civil Rights statute, which virtually recorded that the colored man is the inferior of all other citizens.

But it may be asked, in the event of an act of exclusion for the refusal to admit a colored person into a hotel, car or theatre, what remedy have they that law would now govern it? The same law that would govern a refusal to any other citizen, namely, legal redress. Common carriers, inn-keepers, etc., are required under the law to furnish equal accommodations regardless of color. Any such case a civil suit in the common law court for damages, and, if the cause of exclusion be due to the action of the law, a criminal action, as above indicated; and, moreover, the colored man would be entitled then in office, and for what? Why, the Hon. Chester A. Arthur. Mr. Arthur are playing a desperate game, which will cut with, as the sequel will show. Therefore, beware, lest in your zeal for a small stake they lose a large one. Let the colored people of United States be worth to them if they fail to cash for a stake in the large estates of the North? And yet, as things are shaping themselves, the result is not altogether unlikely. Let us see then how everywhere awake! The enemy is at the door, and who will be ready for our own bonebuild! What next? May God help us!

THE CIVIL RIGHTS DECISION.

CONSERVATIVE VIEWS OF A COLORED LAWYER OF THIS CITY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS.

SIR—Many of the colored people appear to be disheartened over the action of the newspapers that the effect of the late decision of the Supreme Court, which declares the Civil Rights Bill to be unconstitutional, will leave them without any law to protect their civil rights in hotels, cars, theatres, etc. In my opinion, it will be found in the minds of the colored people. In the absence of the Civil Rights Bill, and the loss of legislation only held a whip over respectable citizens, which made them more considerate against a remedy that would be. The Civil Rights bill was not a corrective of evil, therefore, and the existing act. Our courts have ample jurisdiction to punish any and all violations of citizens' rights without class legislation. Too much written law retards its application in practice, and the South should be all the more alert to see that no such as a thought of their liberty or property without due process of law, the Magna Charta of American citizenship, was only practically secured to the colored people by the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Constitutional Amendments, therefore, as the organic law raises any race of people to the dignity of American citizenship they should be careful to clamor for class legislation or a repeal of any law that places them within the general body politic. The United States Constitution and laws of every State must apply to all citizens alike. "Lex nec ore cognos alicuptur." The colored people of the South should except mere statutory law that is available for the protection of their rights and liberties. The Supreme Court has, therefore, paid a compliment to the colored people in setting aside the Civil Rights statute, which virtually recorded that the colored man is the inferior of all other citizens.

"I don't know." was the reply, "Grandma Stowe, I s'pose."

NOTICE.

To the Brethren of the Indiana Conference. Dear Brethren, I was obliged to leave your conference before its adjournment, and arranged with Elder D. J Roberts, the Secretary, to send a list of the appointments to our office so we could promptly change your addresses. Such list has not been received as yet. I wrote home to my clerk telling him that Brother D J Roberts would send the addresses. He has been written to and yet we cannot get any answer, so brothren please forward your own address or any one that you know in the conference who has been changed and do not get their paper. Why my dear Brother Roberts has not sent the appointments as he promised, perhaps he can explain. MANAGER.

AYER'S PILLS,

The Best Cathartic Known to Medical Science,

Not only promptly, thoroughly, and easily relieve the bowels, but restore tone to the stomach, free the kidneys, and reinvigorate the liver. They perfectly and permanently cure Indigestion and Constipation, and all the diseases proceeding from those causes. They are the only Cathartic medicine that has not a tendency to induce a costive reaction, and, consequently, to require increasing doses for continuance of effect. One or two AYER'S PILLS taken daily after dinner, will be a safeguard against all intestinal irregularities and biliousness, and will stimulate the digestive functions better than any other medicine.

Physicians Prescribe and Patients Praise Them.

THE JEW THE MASTER OF EUROPE

How comes it that today the Jew is the literary and financial master of Europe? We use the term master in no offensive sense, meaning simply that the man is master who is the recognized leader in the spheres mentioned. How comes it, we say, that the Jew, hated and proscribed, persecuted and often killed, to-day is a very leader in the literary and financial circles of all the great European capitols? One has only to scan his past history to see. From out of old he has been the wonder of the led man of the globe. Beginning with the persecution of his father Abraham down in Egypt by Abimelech he has not ceased to wear the badge of persecution among men. Nor is there scarcely an exception to this in the Davidic age, the age of Israelitish glory; for even then the surrounding nations conspired with those of the east, eyed them with contempt. And what the men of the Roman Empire thought of them, one has only to read Tacitus. But if they were proscribed before the Christian era by the heathen, their persecution since, by the Christian, has been both unique and unrelenting. Since they uttered the cry, "Let their blood be upon us and upon our children," it would seem that the very anger of God have fought against them; and until recently in all lands and among all people. And yet the Jew has supremacy until he has become, as we have said, both the literary and financial master of Europe. How comes it? Is it because he, in some peculiar sense, is yet the chosen of the Lord? Not if our Christian view of the matter be true; for these represent him as the branch that has been cut off. How then account for his prosperity? How account for the leadership he exercises among the nations? Manifestly it is the result of a great social law. It should never be forgotten that law is law, whomsoever it comes, or by whomsoever obeyed. The people who have law on their side, physical or economic, being the freest will surpass. Our reference is only to economic law. The Jew had this on his side, and because he had it, he comes out head and shoulders above the peoples among whom he dwelle. What is the economic law to which we refer? It is that law which is the end, sees justice done between peoples. The Jew for ages has been at a disadvantage; and to an extent that made questionable even the justice of God as it relates to the triumph of right, as between man and man. But the questionableness of the divine justice is now seen to be past. The Jew that for ages has been down now comes to the front, and it cannot upon the reception of the first, this be otherwise than to stay. But how not our God right, and was prefer to steer come it? Let us see. We have said clear.
the Jew was down. True. His estimation was complete. The hand both of the rich and of the poor was against him. The former would not associate with him; the latter would not work with him. As a natural result, he was thrown upon his own resources. With him the vulgar maxim, "root hog or die," was most true. But the Jew took to rooting, to the shape of traffic and books, and now at the end of centuries he finds himself master of the situation.

Who can fail to see in his career as exact similie to our own? The fate of the one is the reflex of the other. Nor is it less closely the fate of the black in the New World. No man cared, or even cares for him. The rich desire him; the poor hate him, and both contend with him. Like the Jew he is thrown back upon himself. With him the vulgar maxim is also true: "root hog or die." But we are persuaded that, like the Jew, he prefers to root. Already is he taking to traffic; also is he taking to books. And step by step is advance made a little. With these are we to conquer even as we conquered the Jew. The very prejudice of the stupid laborer in refusing to work by side is driving us to a level shore line; is compelling us to seek employment and in less than a century of time. We are already occupying points that to a few years will prove to be strategic in the common battle of life. The Monday day we are already making is fast proving to be a "scientific" one. There remains, therefore, but one thing for us to do. Like the Jew, keep on rooting. We do not admire this figure of speech, but it presented itself to our pen and it stays on the point. We could not turn away. Strength is often as great a consideration in writing as beauty. In this instance it is more; and again we say to the reader, keep on rooting. Nor is the time far distant when the names of Bradley and Tanny will be joined in an infamy both indissoluble and indiscernible.

Personal.

—Prof. G. W. Cook, of Howard University, was in the city the first of the week and called. Among the younger and hard-working of our men, we have no doubt the future will bear more of him.

—Rev. A. H. Newton, of Trenton dropped in. He reports his work, all things considered, as capital. Our would think so, when it is remembered that only last week he raised $600 in cash at one effort.

—The Right Rev. Dr. Paulk, who has just resigned the Episcopal Missionary Bishopric of Cape Palmas, Africa, has been called to the rectorship of St. Andrew's Church, Louisville, Ky., and will enter upon his duties as soon as he returns from Africa.

—Rev. A. H. Newton, pastor of the Mt. Zion A. M. E. Church, assisted by Revs. Israel Derrick, J. W. Cooper and J. H. Accoe, has succeeded in raising for the year 1883, the sum of $1100 to pay off the floating debt of the church. He thanks just given and is anxious to meet others generously inclined.

—The wedding ring given by Martin Luther to his bride is still in existence, and has been lately placed on exhibition in Frankfort-on-the-Main. It bears a representation of Christ upon the cross and the instruments of the Passion, and it is for a small ruby. The inscription is: "Dr. Martin Luther, Catharine Bora, June 13, 1525."

—"The old bugle may be rusty, and not give forth that ear-filling sound as the silver trumpet bedecked with diamonds," said Rev. Dr. Tyng, in a recent sermon in a speech delivered last night by the Rev. Dr. Bartol, of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, at the Academy of Music. Over one thousand persons of this good man have been exclusively for ties in England besides. Sir Moses is in good health, physically and mentally, and is as clear as a bell on the affairs of the world are making great preparations for his coming next year, feeling assured of his continuance of life.

Church News.

Rev. F. I. Logan (Darlington, La.): "I have just closed my protracted meeting, which lasted three weeks, and the good Lord was with us. I joined the church, and since April I have received $90 on probation. Our work has happily converted to God and 31 have been read into full membership. We have had a new church built, but we still do all we can for the Dollar Money. We have been praying for enough lumber to build a parsonage."

Rev. J. C. Brock (Smyrna, Del.): "Our church is struggling after a long, tedious struggle, is at last free from debt. We held our last rally yesterday and realized $262.59. The enthusiasm of the people was raised to the highest pitch. Rev. A. A. Robinson preached for us two soul-inspiring sermons. So glad did the members and friends become that it was the quality that could be persuaded to leave the church. The banner of African Methodism floats in the breeze in Smyrna."

Rev. F. F. Matthews (Martinsville, Va.): "We have just closed our protracted meeting, and I am glad to say the Lord was with us and that to bless our souls. A year ago we had only 40 members that it has been three years since there have been any converts to the church, but in the meeting just closed the Lord blessed us with ten converts. Last Sunday we raised $45 for building. We are now at work on the parsonage and having the church underpinned at a cost of $250. Pray for us that the good work may go on. Martinsville intends to do more this year than it has ever done before."

Rev. W. A. Hollon (Green Pond, Calhoun Co., S. C): "The people down here are trying to do a good work for God. On October 21 Mt. Olive Labor conference-station. The services were attended by a vast number of friends and members, and were conducted by our presiding elder, Rev. H. F. Porter, Jr., and others. Our church frame is up and commenced weather-boarding, and expect to consecrate it by the middle of December. We have in our circuit 350 members and have raised for building purposes this conference year $673.10, and if God is our helper we will not be in the rear with our Dollar Money and Conference dues."

Health Hints.

Cosetry people probably even more than city ones need to be told not to shut out light and sunshine from their dwellings. In the city light is so cut off from many buildings by high opposite walls that we would say more than elsewhere in the country, who have plenty of space and air on every side. Particular housekeepers have such a horror of dust, dirt and mosquitoes, of faded carpets and discolored walls of paper, and of all these dreaded bugbears, the fresh pure air, that they keep the sun out of every room not only in the day time but in the night. In the intense heat of the summer closed shutters make the house cooler, but whenever the sun goes down they should be opened. A dry, airy situation should be chosen for a home. Some time ago I stayed some weeks in two different country houses, the one was in a low site, so that in several weeks of delightful fall weather I never saw the sun yard quite dry. The house was scrupulously neat; a dy speck could be seen upon the floor, and all the cupboards were painted would have satisfied the fastidious eye, but they allowed light through the shades of Venetian shutters and lowered and raised shades only at will. The house was always pale and often chilly, riding to the city now and then to consult a doctor about heart disease. The other house was up the road and on a hill, not a high one. A flight of raised steps and I had been cold and ill in the first house. When in my own home I like to think it was later in the season and colder when I moved from a dwelling on the hill, but it was for warmer, healthier and the free access of air and sunlight made it dryer.

It is good for one's health and beauty to go away occasionally. However we may differ from them, it is not well to put ourselves out of from our fellow-beings, even by intercourse with them we gain new ideas, charity, criticism and improvement. In one of our city alleys a poor colored woman earned her living by washing in washing. Constant exposure to the steam, with the draught of an open door like a fan in a small room brought poor Hetty to her grave. Another washerwoman moved into the humble dwelling, and was one day told by a neighbor of the cause of Hetty's death. After long, faithful service. "Well," said the new comer, "I guess she didn't know any better. I take our Church paper, and in the RECORDER I read of the water cure. They brought her the water must be perfectly cold, and that would be very good for her. I'll get a warm water does just as well with Dan and Pricie, and I have no steam washboys. My clothes are white as snow." She pays to take a family weekly paper. Not all of us have time to read everything in it, but your children need to be taught interest to church matters. The church paper, coming weekly, reminds them that this world is not all; it identifies them with things well and manfully done. It is a great help all, help the Republican party. A decision of the Supreme Court aroused the indignation of the entire north, and I hope that the next decision will have a like effect.

From The National Republican.

CRUEL AS SLAVERY'S LASH.

COL. INGERSOLL'S VIEW OF THE CIVIL RIGHTS DECISION AND THE COLOR LINE—WE NEED ANOTHER CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT OR A NEW COURT—THE DECISION TO BE TAKEN AS A DRUM—THE OLD VETERANS WILL FALL INTO LINE—THE NEXT GREAT ISSUE—THE GOVERNMENT SHOULD PROTECT ALL ITS CITIZENS STAY-WIRRE.

"What do you think of the recent opinion of the Supreme Court concerning the rights of the colored man?" inquired a Republican reporter of Col. Ingersoll last evening.

"I think it is all wrong. The intelligence of the country will be shocked by virtue of which the law was passed, was that no distinction should be made in inns, in hotels, cars, nor in theatres; in short, in public places on account of color, race, or previous condition. The object of the men who framed that amendment was to prevent there ever being specifically clear, perfectly well known, perfectly understood. They intended to secure, by a constitutional law, what was meant law, what had been fought for by hundreds of thousands of men, and sealed by the blood of hundreds of thousands. They knew that the institution of slavery had cost rebellion; they also knew that the institution of slavery had cost another form. They intended to kill that spirit. They intended to take the lash from the sun, should shine upon all, and that no man keeping a hotel, no corporation running cars, or any person managing a theatre should make any distinction on account of color. The object of the amendment is above all praise. It is the result of a moral exaltation such as the world never before had seen. There were years during the war, and after, when the American people were simply sublime; when their generosity was boundless; when their sense of justice was as a star. They were willing to endure any hardship to make the nation absolutely free—absolutely free. We have extended the ample protection of the Constitution for fifteen years or more to these unmy millions of our fellow-men, and now we take it all back. What was the purpose of this work by the Supreme Court? Was it to establish the law that had been declared by the Republican party to get rid of the negro vote in the South and annex the white vote? Was it to take his vote away from him by a trick, then we can divide the white vote?

"I say this because I personally informed about the very amendment which is under discussion. Amendments to the Constitution are not to be most immediately after its adoption, as the amendment to the constitution was thought that the document might be restrictive of the future liberties of the people. But when an amendment is nearly 11, are in the line of more liberty and more light, and it is sought to take away from it its legislation has been done under sentiment. So far from the Court not being a sentimental body, its noblest should be. Law does not make itself. The influence of noble sentiment, and of course, it has its spells of mean sentiment, too. Law is the result of sentiment. is the Mahonn movement in Virginia, which has always thrown the vote and tendency to adhere to the Republican organization, partly because they understand the organization, and partly because unfaithful to learn the Republican party, but because they understand that respect they are upright citizens, more faithful to their political obligations than almost any class of white men. Considering that the Republican party gave them the privilege of freedom, of the ballot and of equal rights, they are extremely careful about being led away by Malone or other advocates of that class. They look upon the desertion of their political party as a gross apostacy, and have not learned the white man's tricks and turnings. Consequently, Mahone and his followers are desirous to split the negro up, and not have it said of them that they are carrying the negro in an equality with the white man. That feeling has contributed to convince the negro in the District of Columbia, right into the District, has got into the republican party, and has got him fully and thoroughly imbued to the Supreme Bench. That feeling, and public sentiment, has perfectly tranquil tone, as coolly takes away the votes of these blacks as if they were so many sticks of cord wood."

Said I: "Do you really think that our colonels in this decision was to recover the Southern States to the Republican party?"

"Yes. The Republicans believe that in the South they can get that portion of the white vote which is without caste, if they will let the negro slide. They argue that the negro will not fight for his ballot, and that when he finds a rogue out in the Republican party he will vote against him. The negro is a rogue, who are numerous in that party in the South, say: 'We can do much better with a solid north and south, with different elements of thin white race in the south, than we can with the negro opposed by both elements of the whites.'"

"How many colored people are there in the United States?"

"By the census of 1870 there were nearly 4,000,000. I have no doubt that the colored population had risen to 6,500,000. We probably have as many blacks in the United States as there are people in Brazil. The population of Brazil is about 12,000,000. Now, but the latest travelers intimate that it can hardly be over 7,000,000, to 8,000,000 of whites. That is a good thing to take from these men their status of public citizens, and to subordinate the jurisdictions of old communities where servility is almost ingrained. It was not so intended by the men who stood to the honor of Judge Harlan, of the South boppe that all of the above who can will be present.

WHY THE "ROYAL" IS THE BEST.

The ink proved method by which it has been made the standard writing fluid for years, has had an important bearing upon the manufacture of the pens used in connection with it. The writing surface generally employed, it has been found impossible to make a pen that will write smoothly and practically the texture of linen, which remained to seek a remedy in the baking process, which has given to the pens a degree of hardness and elasticity of tartar, and to ink there accordingly with the writing surface. Only the baking powders into which it enters; in the best process of manufacture, are the only ones which are entirely free from alum. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder, as the chemists all certify, of the Royal Baking Powder, which is "absolutely pure" and wholesome, and with an average consumption of 1,000 pens per day, it is found necessary to make 1,000 pens per day, it is found necessary to make 1,000 pens per day, it is found necessary to make

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. A Safeguard.

The fatal rapidity with which slight Colds and Coughs frequently develop into the gravest maladies of the throat and lungs, is a consideration which should impel every prudent person to keep at hand, as a household remedy, a bottle of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

Nothing else gives such immediate relief and works as sure a cure in all affections of this class. That eminent physician, Prof. F. Sweyer, of the Maine Medical School, Brunswick, Me., says:—

"Medical science has produced no other analgesic expectorant so good as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is invaluable for diseases of the throat and lungs."

The same opinion is expressed by the late Lewis D. Fr. J. Addison, of Chicago, Ill., who says:—

"I have used, found, in thirty-five years of continuous study and practice of medicine, any expectorant of so great value as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. For treatment of diseases of the throat and lungs, it is not only found to relieve and cure severe coughs, but in more effective cases, to prevent pneumonia, and the many serious consequences that proceed from neglected colds."

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral

Is not a new claimant for popular confidence, but a medicine which has long proved the virtues of its triple powers, and to have come into lasting favor in the estimation of the people.

There is not a household in which this remedy is known, that has once been introduced, which does not continue to be abundantly used, and there is not a person who has ever tried it, who does not rely upon for any throat or lung disease susceptible to relief by medicine, that he or she will be ill.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has, in numberless instances, cured sleepless, despairing victims of Consumption, when and even some Pneumonitis, and has saved many patients in the last stages of Pulmonary Consumption. It is a medicine that can be relied on in the most dangerous, in pleasant to the taste, and is loved by every household where they are children, as there is nothing so good as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL for the treatment of Croup and Whooping Cough.

In all the ills of fears, which run by terrible by anybody, and should be remembered by everybody.

To the English Episcopal District:

Believing in your fidelity to the work of our beloved Zion,

I am yours fraternally,
H. M. TURNER.

Notice to the Ministers of the A. M. E. Church.

BRETHREN.—Please forward to my address at once the Money you may have on hand so I could it now. We must have more money. Pay up your dues and send it to me so that I can give some bread to those who are dependent on this department. Send to me the money. Do send it, we want it. Who will send first?

PALE, POOR, PUNY, AND PALLID.

Considering all the ills that attack little children, it is a wonder that any of the poor little youngsters live to grow up.

There are children who are truly objects of pity. They seem almost bloodless. Their cheeks are thin and pinched; their eyes are hollow; and their skin is tightly drawn over their foreheads. There is nothing hearty about them. They do not enjoy their lives. They are suffering from the debility that leads to marasmus. Poor things!

Do a good deed for the pale, poor, puny, pallid child. Hand in mother's bottle of Brown's Iron Bitters. Here is life even for the most delicate, the most debilitated; for the child almost given up for dead. Iron in the blood is what the child needs to bring it up. The little digestive apparatus will recover. The pale cheeks will fill out. The weary groan of the child will be exchanged for the merry prattle of infantile gladness. Your mother will tell you what wonders Brown's Iron Bitters has done for very sick children.

STILL'S UNDERGROUND RAILROAD RECORD.

In the revised edition of this invaluable book, which the author has just given the public, the most valuable portion of it, the portion of all which we would most heartily commend to our readers, is the biography of the author. By common consent, the college put biography at the head of instructive books. Read other books, they substantially say, but fail not to read biography, for there is nothing stronger than its universal decision; for what is biography but in a sense a chart of life, than which nothing can be more valuable. Such a will down some mighty Mississippi. Biography shows where the channel is. It is a voyage across some tempestuous Atlantic. Biography points out the Banks and their accompanying fogs. It tells where the chilling icebergs are most likely to be met. Of one thing we may be assured, that of all the publications, the one given to reading the lives of its first men will get through life with the least damage. I do not before that the revised edition of this stalwart work may be even sold to be still more stalwart from the fact that quite a bull biography of the emancipator. It is to give a biography that we could wish were placed in the hands of all our young. But few of the boys of this generation if indeed there be one, will begin life with as uncertain a future as did William Still. Yet through it all he has labored like his way, until to-day he is recognized as one of the most businesse men of our city. Living, if not in affluence, certainly in comfort, commanding the respect of all, its worth while for our boys to know how all this was accomplished. And this the writer of that biography tells us in an exceedingly happy way. Of the merits of the portion of the book, it is only necessary to say that it has lost not a whit of the interest it had when first given the public.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

Our readers will elsewhere find President Arthur's Proclamation for a National Thanksgiving. Despite the hundred and one difficulties we as a people have met during the past year, despite the spirit of caste culminating in the wanton decision of the Supreme Court that the Civil Rights law was an unconstitutional enactment, and that henceforth the rabbit must look to the rubber for redress—despite all this we feel instantly free to say, but morally bound to say, that no people of the fifty millions have greater occasion to assemble to thee houses of worship on the day appointed, and in a special festival of praise give thanks to the Giver of all good. What phase of blessings is it that the country has enjoyed that we have not shared? The President refers to health and to harvest, to peace and to order, to fraternal feeling and to the spread of intelligence; he refers to liberty, civil and religious. Which of these is it that has failed to come to us? say what we will, or let our eyes fall upon whatsoever section they will, the fact that we have marvellously shared in them all is not to be doubted. We are not to be understood as saying that we might not have shared more largely and more equitably in them. This we admit. But we fancy the wiser way to look at such things, is not from the standpoint of what they might be or really ought to be, but from the standpoint of what they were. "John Jones" has by no means the health and strength of "John Smith." But shall "Mr. Jones" make himself miserable on account of it? Especially when he remembers that the health he enjoys to-day is fifty per cent better than the health he enjoyed this time last year. Would it not by far be more rational in him to give thanks for the improved and improving condition of his health. It is precisely thus with us. Supposing ourselves to be as Mr. Jones, and not having the civil and political health of our neighbor, Mr. Smith, is it any reason at all that we should be snappish and morose, especially when we remember that our present condition is such a vast improvement on the past? Foreigners and silence once, at least so accounted, we to-day are reckoned of the nation in the sense that relates to it. Only let us look well to our calling, and all will be well; especially let us see to it that upon the coming 29th of November, our songs of praise be lost in the songs of praise which the whole nation will sing.

THE RECENT ELECTIONS

In the November elections just passed the whole country has cause to be satisfied with the result. Nor do we except the South. Far better is it for the men of this section, that the Republican party continue in power. Supposing the South once to have been able to rule the nation more wisely than the North, beyond all question that time has passed; and the question of our reconstruction is less prepared than ever. During the away of the old time South there could be found a class of men quite worthy of holding the reins of power, of seventy-five cents more, we will put the name on the regular list and send the paper the balance of six months, or $1.75 for the balance of the year. No name will be entered on the regular list until some thing is paid.

REV. T. M. D. WARD.

Missionary Bishop in Japan. Among the most interested spectators of the ceremony at Lambeth were a number of young Japanese gentlemen who are studying in England.

—A daily paper of Troy, N. Y., nominates Mr. Garret Douglass Ballsmore to be City Engineer of Troy. Mr. Ballsmore is a graduate of the famous Polytechnic Institute of Troy, and has already held responsible and lucrative courses as a civil engineer. We have no doubt he would serve the city of Troy with satisfaction and credit, and heartily second his nomination.—The N. Y. Globe.

—Mr. Spurgeon, the famous London Baptist preacher, is described as a brown-skinned, hawk-nosed, big-chested, negro-framed man, stout, of medium height, with long gray hair, short, bristling and unpatted, beard and mustache closely trimmed, wearing a "Prince Albert" coat and black tweed, with nothing clerical in his appearance, but looking for all the world like a village blacksmith with his "Sunday-go-to-meeting" clothes on.

—Attorney-General Brewster had probably the most tastefully arranged office in Washington. It is on the second floor of the Freedman's Bank building, looking out upon Pennsylvania ave., and 15th st., N. W., the White House grounds. In the centre of the room is an elaborately carved, silk topped mahogany desk, at which the Attorney General sits, and upon his desk stands a quill pen. Mr. Brewster usually wears a velvet jacket in his office.

—It is related of Thaddeus Stevens that shortly after the removal to Lancaster in 1842 he heard of the sad prostration of an old friend in York, a lawyer, who, pressed hard by necessity, had advanced to his own use $500 due to a certain widow client, hoping soon to repay his financial footing and repay her. But "unmerciful disaster followed fast, and followed faster," until the poor fellow's mental distress was actually killing him. Mr. Stevens was then a client, paid her from his own pocket the $500, obtained the receipt, and by a Democratic Council as Sanitary Physician of New Orleans.

—We slip the above from the Cleveland Gazette, a paper so straight as regards its politics, that it leans over a little backward in favor of the Democracy. While the Gazette thus pulls that Democratic Mayor into the foreground, does it know that the present Republican administration has given employment to 620 colored men in Washington?

THE REMOVAL of the Continent from Philadelphia to New York must touch the local pride of denizens of the Quaker City. By the time New York captures a few more of its artists with whom remaining publications of rank—and indeed it never had any save the Continent—the world will begin to understand the true relation of the two cities.

THE BISHOPS of the Methodist Episcopal, Church South, "have no cause for indifference and the opposition" of their people toward Paine Institute, the school designed for the education of colored preachers for that land and E. Carey, find it necessary to issue an appeal in its behalf.

THE NEW colored Catholic Church at Bleeker and Downing streets, New York City, has been christened "The New Catholic Church of St. Benedict the Moor." The edifice will be dedicated on the third Sunday in November. A Sunday school is to be attached.

PORTUGAL is inclined to have her say in the affairs of the Lower Congo. One would think that after making such a botch of things in western Africa, she would be willing to stand aside and let nations of more vitality attempt the regeneration of that region.

THINGS DO NOT yet move emoothly between the Vatican and Prussia. The recent ripple has been the demand of the latter for the resignation of Cardinal Ledochowski and Archbishop Melchers.

CHURCH JUSTICE, the little monthly published by Rev. John C. Brock, Judge, and Rev. Jos. Flint, Secretary, has a lever of real strength in getting things to move forward.

VICK'S ILLUSTRATED MONTHLY is exceedingly taking, both as to matter and illustrations. The Salpiglosis the Chrysanthemine frontispiece, is quite worthy of a frame.

BOSTON AND NEW England generally cannot do a better thing than strengthen "The Hub's" sinews of war. It is doing excellent service in the common cause.

Personal.

—Gov. Pinchback has been confined to his bed by illness. The country general will be glad to know he is now convalescent.

—Rev. J. H. Thomas, of Smithfield, Va., in our city on Sunday, preached in Bethel church. He reports the work moving on smoothly.

—Rev. Henderson Davis, Jr., of Cazenovia Seminary, N. Y., was in our city last week. He reports his work as moving on splendidly.

—Rev. Elder Goins, of the Texas Conference, has recently received the appointment of Presiding elder, awarded by a Texas College.

—Mr. Blaine says he never was in better health than now. He is seldom out of bed at 10.30 P. M., or in bed at 8 A. M., and he has grown many years physically. He is accumulating flesh at the biggest fool I ever heard of! Look here, old man! What's this?" So saying he showed the receipt by his astonished friend, who thereupon recovered his spirits, and laughed his business for-tunes also. Afterward he repaid Mr. Blaine, and the latter never was able to find out how his generosity had been detected.

Church News.

REV. R. J. M. Loog (West Chester, Pa.); "We are moving on nicely. Our grand rally at Thornburg last Thursday evening collected $114.95. We call it a success."

REV. F. Carolina (Vicksburgh, Miss.): "The annual Conventional Institute of the classes in District A. M. E. Church, Vicksburg, at their grand rally on September 1st, was $254.20."

Bristol, Pa., Rev. W. H. Davis, pastor, is moving on nicely. The Sabbath-school picnic on Saturday, 6th, was attended with a light rain. Sunday, 4th. The Lord's Supper was administered. Collection $10, which was considered a good deed. Elder Davis appears to be the right man in the right place.

Burlington, N. J., Rev. J. H. Pearce, pastor, enjoyed a treat on Sabbath, 4th inst. Rev. J. H. Dean, of Bridgeton, was present and preached two able sermons. "Contend for the faith once delivered to the saints." T. Gould, one of the ex-pastors, now Business Manager, preached in the afternoon and Elder Dean at night. It was a feast of fat things for Burlington. Every one seemed happy and the collection for the stewards was something over $30.

Rev. L. H. Jones: "It having been my privilege quite recently to visit Asbury A. M. E. Church, situated in Troy, Pa., it was a source of gratification to me to see the great interest manifested on the part of the congregation, a very successful mission being carried on under the supervision of Rev. W. T. Hubbard, whose earnest labors are being crowned with success multifold and especially, the membership rallying to his support, giving bright evidence of the continued blessings of God. May his earnest zeal and energy for the cause of the Master receive the rich reward it merits."

Notes on Education.

What is called "newspaper geography" is said to have been introduced in some of the schools of New Haven, Conn. The pupils are required to find out on the map the places referred to in the columns of the morning newspaper. They appear to take much interest in this new method of studying geography. It might prove useful if supplemented with interesting information from the teacher.

A correspondent of The Springfield Republican says that in the matter of education many improvements have been made in Mexico within the last few years. Attendance upon the public schools is compulsory, and the "free royal" road to learning is entirely free. Facilities are also given to young men who show and aptitude for higher education in the colleges civil or State colleges of Monterey, where they are graduated in the various professions. The college is domiciled in a fine edifice fronting the Cinco de Mayo Plaza. Degrees are there conferred in law, medicine, pharmacy, civil engineering and commercial studies.

The modern prejudice against corporeal punishment does not seem to have penetrated to India. A magistrate of the earnestness of Secundrabad recently received the following petition from a parent: "I most humbly and respectfully beg to bring to your Honor's kind notice that my son, aged about fifteen years, instead of going to the school join bad company, go to tank to catch fish, and loose his time and go idle wandering here and there. The schoolmaster warned him and flogged him several times in the presence of me, but he does not mend his conduct. Therefore I request your Honor to permit me to have a chain for one of his legs, with a log of wood attached to the same, in order that he may feel ashamed, and leave the bad actions." The next act of grace he shall ever pray."

An English teacher relates an incident which goes to show how much practice and knowledge are not always identical. "I was examining the head class," he says, "in one of our ancient public schools, and put to a youth of seventeen the simple question, 'Why in England is it colder in winter than in summer?' 'Because the sun never appears above the horizon,' was the answer; and, on being passed, the boy stuck to the statement that in winter you cannot see the sun. The boy was by no means a dunce or preternaturally stupid, but all his knowledge was book knowledge, and he had never been taught to look at things or observe for himself. I used hardly add that he was a Cockney born and bred. This is a nation, not only on our public school education, but on 'the fifty which now owns sunlight or lives shy'!"

Superintendent Parker, of the Chicago schools, has done much to improve the Normal School of that city. There are now 297 pupils in the normal school proper, 264 pupils in the primary department, and 54 pupils in the kindergarten, and 24 students in the manual training institute. The total increase, as compared with the same time last year, is over 100 pupils in the normal departments. He is hard at work getting his industrial department in full working order. Some changes are needed, especially the membership rallying to his support, giving bright evidence of the continued blessings of God. May his earnest zeal and energy for the cause of the Master receive the rich reward it merits."

Literature.

In illustrations, important articles, and American fiction, the November Century stands pre-eminent. The portrait of Longfellow engraved from the last picture ever taken, is a beautiful and touching memorial. Among the important articles are women, who sometimes serve engravings. The testimonial to Dr. Holmes has hardly equalled the full-page engraving of Wendell Holmes's portrait. The frontispiece, a reproduction of Mr. Sargent's engraving of Madame Gautreau, the beautiful Louisiana lady who married Mr. Pierre Gautreau, of Paris, is a study of artistic handling. "Open Questions" and "Open Letters" are the "Open Letters" of Chandler Harris, "The Old Faith Digging" are all of unusual excellence. "Recent Fiction" by Mr. Howells is an "Open Letter" of Mr. Howells,

WHY SO?

A lady missionary of the American ... do enjoy our work, and it was never more encouraging than now, and yet sometimes it grows almost unbearable, to be so utterly alone."

We are not told in the November A. M. the locality of this lady's operations; but it does seem strange that she should be so utterly alone. Were there no persons with whom she could associate among the colored people? Though the whites of the neighborhood had socially ostracised her? It does seem strange that among all the colored people, not one could be found sufficiently cultivated as to command her respect. Or was it simply because of their color that she found it utterly impossible to recognize them as valid equals? We confess to a weariness at this kind of talk from those who profess such friendship for us. Are we really so vile? One would think so to hear this class of people talk; for if there be any sense at all in what they say, it is that a natural antipathy exists between the two races, an antipathy so real that not even Christianity can abate it. If we believed this, we are free to say that we would at once make choice of some one of the other religions that has shown itself equal to the task of making its believers socially equal. If Christianity cannot do this, then it is not so potent a faith as Mohammedanism.

We could wish, therefore, that this lady teacher step down from the stilts she is unwittingly using, and learn once for all that color is no impediment to the freest and fullest social contact.

EDITORIAL JAUNT.

Leaving the City of Brotherly Love on Friday morning, November 9th, a few minutes before twelve, we found many minutes after till we found ourselves in the City of Monuments, having in the meantime traveled almost a hundred miles. The rapidity of travel in these days is really marvellous. Breakfasting in New York, it is both possible and practicable to next breakfast in Baltimore my great grandson, San Francisco alone excepted.

Once in Baltimore, we very naturally found our feet leading us toward Ustler street, where, meeting the goodly mother of the excellent pastor of Bethel, Rev. L. J. Coppin, (having passed the salutations common to meeting, she informed me that "they" had gone to dine with my old friend Jerre and, Rev. James A. Handy. Starting in pursuit of the "they" we found ourselves regarding in the hospitable parlors of the above named gentleman, the senior, Bishop Payne, the Rev. Beckett, of Wilmington, Pittburgh and Howard and Dr. Johnson, of Baltimore, the host, of course, and Mr. Robert Smith, of Washington, D. C., and the Rev. G. S. Smith, the acting Corresponding Secretary of the newly projected branch of the Church, the Sunday School Union. In such company and at such a board as was presented, the nature that could not be at home must be made up of unaccountably strange elements.

Of the things discussed at that board, it would require a whole ream of paper to tell. Of course, it was the standing subject—the negro. As we now remember it, we feel like saying: Poor fellow; if they would only let him alone! And yet that can be no easy subject that commands the attention of a whole nation for three generations. In this, therefore, if in nothing else, let the colored American take heart. He is thought worthy to be talked about in the public and on the platform, in the council and to the manse.

Having fared sumptuously, in company with Rev. C. Wesley Fitzhugh we started for Ebenezer Church, at least for the parsonage, where we were to spend the night. We were soon followed by the few members of the Executive Committee of the Sunday School Union, present, to wit: Bishop Payne, Rev. J. W. Beckett and Robt J. Smith, Esq., who repaired to one of the class rooms of the church to hold a secret session. What took place there is not supposed to be known upon the housetop, and we therefore cannot be supposed to know what was done.

Tenover and the company all repaired to the church. The occasion was a meeting consequent upon the presence of the Executive Committee referred to, though only one or two rose to an address. The chairman of the evening was the Rev. C. S. Smith, who has the happy faculty of making a meeting lively and keeping it so. The order of exercises over, the first address was by Bishop Payne, on the fruitful theme: "The Best Way to Study the Bible." The Bishop proved that we are not using or studying the Bible by topics, to either the more common ways of reading so many chapters a day until the Bible is gone through with, or the way equally common of reading a chapter and then pondering upon it, until it is supposed to be understood.

After another cheerfully rendered song, the editor of the CHRISTIAN RECORDER, who had been invited to read a paper, "The Future (A. M. E.) Church," read the one found in another column.

At this stage of the meeting, by request, Elder Beckett sang as he only knows how to sing: "A Little Talk with Jesus," after which the Rev. L. J. Coppin spoke upon "Music in the Sunday school." It was impossible not to see that he had been given no collection time both to speak and to sing the "piece" he was so happily giving the people, and which they were just as happily receiving. Then he was run down by the inevitable bell which the chairman took care to keep close by, and another song and prayer, after which the chairman himself, concluded the exercises of the evening and the goodly crowd which had assembled despite the rain. Tenover, having exercises dispersed, seemingly pleased with what they had seen and heard.

Saturday morning early we bade our good brother Fitzhugh, who had so accompanied us to the station of the old B. & O. railroad, adieu, and in a brief space of time we found ourselves in the city of Washington, Washington, the city teeming in the elegant parlors of Register Bruce, whose name is needed to make the greenback go. We may be pardoned for saying that the atmosphere of Ohio seems to have done the sedan good, for she is now the very picture of health, and—shall we say it in a whisper—beauty.

Saturday afternoon we visited Bishop Brown and found him decidedly better than we had reason to think. From the conversation the Bishop will soon be able to use a military phrase, again to the saddle.

Union Bethel Sunday school can challenge the country to produce an equal number of really great men, and what is the beauty of it, young men at that. In connection with it, Wednesday the morning was a rainy one, yet were there present John Wesley Crummell, editor of the People's Advocate, L. H. Douglass—we have to say that much he is the son of the great Frederick Douglass—lawyer R. H. Smith, who teaches a Bible class and who received

Ayer's Sarsaparilla thoroughly cleanses the blood, stimulates the vital functions, and restores the health and strength. No one whose blood is impure can feel well. There is a weary, languid feeling, and often a sense of discouragement and despondency. Persons having this feeling should take Ayer's Sarsaparilla to purify and vitalize the blood.

To cure felons, mix one ounce of Venice turpentine with one ounce of water, stir with a rough stick until thick; then wrap a good coating of it around the finger with a cloth. Another method is to wrap the part affected with a linen cloth dipped in a tincture of lobelia.

We take pleasure in recommending Hall's Hair Renewer to our readers. It restores gray hair to its youthful color; prevents baldness, makes the hair soft and glossy, does not stain the skin, and is altogether the best known remedy for all hair and scalp diseases.

Ten grains of oxalic acid in half a pint of water, will remove all ink and fruit stains. Wet the article in hot water, and apply it to the top of the bottle, so that the liquid will reach it, then rinse it well.

Hardly a newspaper printed but speaks of a sudden death by heart disease. Dr. Greene's Nervura Regulator would have cured it, strong assertion: but always we said they were taken from the grave by it. $1. per bottle at druggists.

If a door does not shut without a "slam," rub a little oil around the catch—or on the hinges, if it cracks. Soap will do, but not as well.

I had severe attacks of gravel and kidney trouble; was unable to get a medicine or doctor to cure me until I used Hop Bitters, and they cured me in a short time.—A DISTRICT ATTORNEY'S DAUGHTER OF WAYNE CO., N. Y.

An infusion of hay will keep the natural color in buff linens, and an infusion of bran will do the same for brown linens.

Leading Physicians, Eminent Divines—everyone who tries it, endorses Samaritan Nervine.

Dr. A. M. Wheeler, of Bloomington, Ind., writes: 'Samaritan Nervine cures me."

Washing soda should never be used with colored clothes, since it not only fades, but often changes the color.

"My skin disease," wrote C. B. McDonald, Pinkneyville, Ill., "yielded to Dr. Benson's Skin Cure."

If brooms are wetted in hot suds once a week they will last much longer, and always sweep like a new broom.

School children have nervous headaches. Dr. Benson's Celery and Chamomile Pills are a sure remedy.

To clean steel, rub the article with a piece of wash-leather dipped in kerosene oil.

Druggists say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best remedy for female complaints they ever heard of.

When tins are much blackened by the fire they should be scoured with soap, water and fine sand.

The universal verdict, "The Hop Plaster is the best porous plaster ever made." Only 25 cts.

Common lye of wood ashes will soften hard putty in a few minutes.

CATARRH.

The remarkable results in a disease so universal and with such a variety of characteristics as Catarrh, prove conclusively Hood's Sarsaparilla acting through the blood, reaches every part of the human system. No wonder, then, that anything else, can be fairly judged only by its results. We point with pride to the glorious record Hood's Sarsaparilla can control upon the hearts of thousands of people it has cured of catarrh.

The fumes of a brimstone match will remove berry stains from a book, or paper, or engraving.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to take. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

If you want a new shoe to fit as easily as an old one, pat on two pair of stockings before your measure is taken.

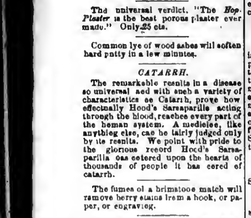
Dry paint is removed by dipping a swab with a handle in a strong solution of oxalic acid. It softens it at once.

A little saltpetre or carbonate of soda mixed with the water in which flowers are placed will keep them fresh for two weeks.

The lustre of morocco is restored by varnishing it with the white of an egg. Apply with a sponge.

Kid shoes can be kept soft and free from cracks by rubbing them once a week with pure glycerine or castor oil.

To remove egg stains from silver spoons take a little common salt between the thumb and finger and rub the stain briskly. Then wash in hot soda.



This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitudes of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER Co., NEW YORK.

KING'S EVIL

Was the name formerly given to Scrofula because of a superstition that it could be cured by a king's touch. The world is wiser now, and knows that can only be cured by a thorough purification of the blood. If this is neglected, the disease perpetuates its taint through generation after generation. Among its earlier symptoms are Pimples, Blotches, Eruptions, Cutaneous Eruptions, Tumors, Boils, Carbuncles, Erysipelas, Purulent Ulcers, Nervous and Physical Collapse, etc. If allowed to continue, Rheumatism, Scrofulous Diseases, Kidney and Liver Diseases, Tubercular Consumption, and various other destructive or fatal maladies are produced by it.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

is the only powerful and always reliable blood-purifying medicine. It has effected no advertise that it eradicates from the system Hereditary Scrofula, and the blackest poisons of contagious diseases and mercury. At the same time it restricts and vitalizes the blood, restoring healthful action to the vital organs and replenishing the nervous system. Try it.

Regenerative Medicine

Is composed of the genuine Honduras Sarsaparilla, with Yellow Dock, Stillingia, the Iodides of Potassium and Iron, and other ingredients of great power, carefully and scientifically compounded. Its formula is generally known to the medical profession, and the best physicians contantly prescribe AYER'S SARSAPARILLA as such.

Absolute Cure

For all diseases caused by vitiation of the blood. It is concentrated to the highest possible degree, far beyond any other preparation for which like effects are claimed, and is therefore the cheapest in the market. It is the best blood purifying medicine in the world.

A COMING DANGER.

Says one of our exchanges: "There were one thousand three hundred and one colored voters registered in Danville, and only thirty-one voted at the last election."

What is the conclusion a Northern reader will come to when he peruses such a statement?

In answering very briefly this question we say there are but two conclusions possible. The first is the conclusion that the white men of the South must be made to know that the North will not submit to such a reign of terror. This in fact has been the conclusion all along. But somehow the thing goes on all the same.

The second is the conclusion that a class of people who will have salaries are not worthy of exercising the franchise. The North has never come to such conclusion as this. But how long it will be before it does so, God only knows. Is it not time that the Church can boast of none more fit, especially on the score of scholarship. As announced in the Dean's article, the President is living (Langhell), one of the broadest read men of the connection. The Vice-President is Bishop Payne. Dr. Arnett is General Manager, and Dr. Lee is Secretary. It is not to be taken for granted that the Association has even completed its work of organization. Broadly designed, it is to be pre-eminently representative of the whole Church, and not of any class, or conference, or section of the whole Church, it is to be managed by the whole churches, with officers and workers drawn from every quarter of the same. Our thought, we must be done until harvest of the whole Church: Long may Tawawa live.

JUDGE ALBION W. TOURGEE, who has long urged the importance of national education in the South, has recently taken up this subject with vigor in the columns of his weekly magazine, The Continent. Some of his most striking points are given here: In discussing this subject we prefer to use the term "National Education," or the phrase "national action in regard to education" rather than the expression "national aid to education" which has come into vogue through the use in the platform adopted by the Republican Convention of 1880, not only because it is insensible, but also because the phrase itself is stamped with the hoof-mark of cowardly evasion. In discussing this question, it becomes necessary to consider:

1. The reason why national action upon this subject is desirable or necessary.

2. The character, extent and method of such action.

These two subjects it is proposed to consider in a series of articles, embracing the author's views upon the subjects in all its relations. The writer desires at the outset to say that as affects the nation—viewed from the standpoint of national right, authority or interest, that is—the subject of education has no philanthropic phase. Unless the safety and prosperity of the whole nation demands such action, the federal government has no right to appropriate a dollar in furtherance of the education of any race or class in any or all of the states of the union. He desires still further to premise that such action ought in all probability to be temporary. A peculiar emergency renders it, in his view, absolutely necessary, and with the removal of the present conditions, such action will now unforeseen arise to demand its continuance, such action should terminate.

WE READ the news of the murders and suicides which seem to be more numerous than ever, and at once conclude the world is going to the bad. Undoubtedly the world is bad enough. That it is any worse than formerly we very much doubt. One thing is at least to be remembered, that while people generally hear of more wickedness than they did formerly, a thousand fold more are taken to make them aware of it than there were in the forehead. And that is the reason we should like to see him throw a few boulders at caste, quite as dangerous, we think, to the future peace of the country as Rome.

WITHIN THE last fortnight Premier Ferry, of France, has written a letter to the Deputy for the French West Indies stating that the French Charge d'Affaires has been instructed to insist that the Government of Indemnity by the Hayden Government to Frenchmen who may have suffered loss during the late revolt, and to take steps to secure the payment to which property has been damaged. The French cruiser Minerve will visit Port-au-Prince and Cape Haytien, and the French Government will do its utmost to protect Frenchmen in Hayti.

THE ARTICLE "Solar Theories," found in another colume, is from the editorial page of the New York Tribune. How finely does it show up the uncertainties of infallible science! Scientists, you know, must be true; only theologians may make blunders and mistakes! But here is a gentleman who really may be said to be one of them who shows that the question of the solar elements, hitherto looked upon as "conquered standpoints," has to be reconsidered ab initio.

PRECISELY SO, and this is the way we wish our friends to do. The Lord May or of Londos would not allow Dr. Stocker, Chapiain to the Court of Germany though he be, to lecture in the Mansion House test it would offend the sensibilities of the London Jews, the Dr. being a very leader in the anti-Semitic raids. Possibly they will, when we, like the Jews, become rich. We say to our people once for all, not until we get money can we hope to accomplish much.

THE BEAUTY and ability of some of our colored exchanges puts to shame the RECORDER, the only organ of the great African Methodist Episcopal Church. One for all it should be known that no first class Church paper is possible without better quality of paper, a class of correspondents picked and paid, with increased room. Two pages for a whole Church is simply ridiculous and yet the editor is berated if he do not publish everything sent.

IN THE Catholic Church of St. Benedict, the Moor, intended for the colored people of New York, when white people attend, they are required to sit in the gallery. So speaks Brooklyn Catholic Examiner. The colored man that would worship in a church like that, ought to be—well, what? Why, tied to the white mass, if said worship in a church in which colored people have to sit in the gallery. We prophesy that the plan won't work.

TO THE Rev. L. R. Nichols, Emancipation Church, Charleston, S. C., we are indebted for a printed copy of the annual report of the Stewards and Trustees. The receipts of the Stewards for the quarter were $641.39; of the Trustees, $223.36; total, $1064.87. This is the largest church in the connection, having a membership, including probationers, of 3,500. More than the entire New England or New Jersey Conference.

IT GIVES us pleasure to read the article Prof. Bennett, of Fisk University, writes the Independent on the question of the higher education of the negro. Exactly why the Independent, among such articles as Edward Kirke has been writing, is a query to not a few. It may reply that it wishes to give both sides. It will pardon us for failing to see any two sides to the question: Ought American citizens to be educated?

AND SO we are to have—we, the American people, we mean—are to have a Nuncio from the Pope, appointed, it is said, in accordance with the wishes of the American Catholic Bishops. We have no doubt that things will move much in the same way after he has come and gone, as they did before. Before, however, the project is carried out, we beg to suggest that he consult Mon. Carpet as to the situation.

THE APPEARANCE of the grand face of Frederick Douglass in Harper's Weekly is worth a dozen Bradley decisions, Bradley, as he does, is a most hopeful condition of the public pulse. Exactly how the white readers of the Weekly in the South will accept this action of the publishers, it is difficult to say. But the majority of them, we judge, will not go into hysterics over it.

Hundreds of colored children are roaming about the streets of Savannah, unable to be accommodated at the public schools on account of insufficient school room.

If this be the case, Bro. Echo, why do not some of the energetic colored citizens take the matter in hand, and devote their clear money and possibly their beer money, to educate their children? Why not? Will not the Echo test the matter?

THE NOVEMBER issue of Dio Lewis's Monthly, New York, is much increased in size, and superior to say previous numbers. It is edited as a whole by Frances E. Willard, and in detail. "Inebriety among Women," by Dr. Lucy M. Hall, Physician at the great Woman's Prison at Sherborn, Mass., is a thoughtful discussion of the causes and results of intemperance among women.

IN WRITING "God helps them who help themselves," found elsewhere, the editor of the New York Tribune betrays ignorance of the fact, first, that we have among us as many George Francis Trains as have the white people, and second, that the disposition to make artists our Civil Rights bill, is fast ripening, and will manifest itself quite time enough.

UNION CHURCH, under the leadership of Rev. Dr. Seward, is to be inaugurated on a really forward step. The purchase of that $25,000 church on 16th street, a few steps from Fairmount avenue, with an exceedingly handsome parsonage, ought to command the attention and the help of all our city churches.

DESPITE the presence of the English troops in Egypt, with the possibility of their remaining there for some time to come, the Sultan will not agree to the right of Egypt to make treaties. His conduct has much the appearance of a creditor who attaches the money of a bankrupt debtor.

WE SAY to our young people, especially those who have a taste for the fine arts, do not fail to subscribe for the Magazine of Art, (Cassell & Co., New York). The subscription price is but $3.50 per year, and when bound, you have a volume of exquisite beauty.

WE WISH to express our thanks to F. S. Delany for a copy of the Charleston News, containing an account of the cotton picking Machine lately invented. Is display type a specimen of the "Promised Independence of Negro Labor in the South?"

THE LETTER of Bishop Turner, which we publish in the present issue, got snowed up, as it were, on the way to the printer. But the Bishop has the faculty of putting spice sufficient to anything he writes, as to make it keep any length of time.

THE NOVANOX number of the Pansy, Boston, Mass., proves afresh that a periodical in which so much space is devoted to Sunday reading, may be edited and filled with as much brightness and talent as the secular magazines.

BISHOP DENNY, of the British M. E. Church, is now in England. The Bishop is a good sailor, judging from the many times he visits England and his Episcopal work in Bermuda and Demerara.

REV. H. M. Rose and his dear Madam have reason to be attached to Big Wesley and its generous people, for the bountiful entertainment they gave in their honor on last Wednesday.

THE NOVEMBER Wide Awake, Boston Mass., might fitly be called a boys number, since almost every one of its stories, outside the serials, has a boy for the "leading character."

THE STUPENDOUS of Bishop Hood seems to be giving him some trouble in the South, judging from a card he found it necessary to publish in the Montgomery Advocate.

Church News.

F. J. Hunter, (Beardstown, Perry Co., Tenn.) writes that the Church there in charge of J. R. Roberts, procured two and a half acres of land. We have three respectable churches which are the elements to the mission, and on which we look with favor. Also that he has been blessed with several conversions. Both the white and colored people are pleased with Mr. Roberts' preaching.

Rev. R. H. W. Leak, of Morganton, (N.C.) P. E. District, concludes a lengthy letter as follows: "I want to raise one hundred dollars Dollar Money is my district, one hundred dollars missionary money, report two thousand Sunday school scholars, fifty-two Sunday schools, one hundred and fifty dollars Preacher's Child's Recorder, one hundred and seventy to one hundred and seventy-two subscribers to the CHRISTIAN RECORDER, and if a hundred conversions will do to report at the Annual Conference. Sunday schools, missionary societies, and church building. Yours truly."

Rev. W. F. Crawford, (Clarksdale, Miss.): "Since I have been here, I have received 19 persons into the Church, seven of whom professed religion during my revival. Ever since that time my work has been alive. I saw in the minutes of the North Mississippi Conference that there were but fifty-four and twenty members reported on this circuit; but they cannot be found. I can only find seventy-five. I find many, but the persons cannot be found. Please send the preachers more subscribers to the child's Sabbath school cards, while Washington City carries off the first literary honor.

THAT "BLOODY SHIRT."

Only once in four years is it worth while to talk. Let us thank God for that; and especially let us thank Him that this is the year, at least the year just at the door, is the year devoted to this goodly purpose. Three years out of four, by and by, we shall have, southern Ku-Klux can make the night hideous by their raiding —privileged—it might be said, to whip, to shoot and to hang indiscriminately. And the man who calls attention to it, even in the North, is given to understand that the peace of the country must not be further disturbed on account of the negro.

As we have said, however, once year in four, the North unites, and once in four the North breezes in the flag made red by the blood of fifty thousand slain blacks—fifty thousand and more, since Lee surrendered; and the cry is all one hand. For a full twelvemonth and more the rascals of the South are to be made a spectacle for the world to gape upon. And what a spectacle they will be! In a recent issue of the Chicago Tribune, the following figures have been given:

In 1882, out of seventy-nine persons hanged fifty-six were negroes; out of fifty-three persons killed while resisting arrest, in 1883, sixty four have been hanged, of whom forty-seven were negroes; out of nine have been lynched, of whom forty-six were negroes. A much larger number, probably, have been killed by mobs, but no statistics has been taken of the cases. It is stated that in all these 500 cases the charge was that of murdering whites, but in 117 cases there was no legal evidence that so many existed.

And the same paper challenges anyone to find in the south "a name a week in those two years, or in the past eighteen years, where a white man has been lynched, hanged, or in any way killed, for murdering a negro."

Hearing upon the same subject, the New York Tribune says:

Take all similar periods of time. The Republican Committee of Richmond County, Mo., has issued a pamphlet of 24 pages, containing statistics of voters, showing in a striking way the overthrow of negro rule in Missouri. The appointment in 1862 fixed a population of 154,325 as the unit of representation in the House of Representatives. The population counted for the states of the North and five of the slave states, Missouri being one, was each Congressional district in 1862. The average vote of the born districts was 28,206 of the Georgia districts, 14,666, of the Wilmington district, 24,261, of the Alabama districts, 15,571; in New Jersey, 49,731, in South Carolina, 16,062; in Maryland, 27,179, in Mississippi, 11,097; in Missouri, 29,125, in Louisiana, 13,956. The average vote in these Southern States is just one-half the average vote in the Northern States counted —13,562 against 26,746. In other words, one vote in the South counts for as much as two in the North, sometimes by means of fraud, sometimes of intimidation. And there is no telling to what amount fraud has swelled even these small votes reported from the South.

We have little respect, we are free to admit, for the man or the party that can make no better use of these tales of blood than use them to the furthverance of its political ambition; but as this is better than nothing, we feel to accept it. We could wish that the white men of the North would call the white men of the South before the bar of public opinion for murders committed, on principle, lest if it be impossible for them to rise to this dignified height, then let them act from selfishness. In so far as the proscribed class is concerned, the result will be much the same. Thank God for Presidential elections, when thought is that that continental race is to spring from the various continental people lure food. And third and lastly, our thought is that that continental race will be as much of a unit as are Europeans a unit, or Asiatics, or Africans. To suppose a continent capable of producing two races, essentially different in the color of their skin and in the texture of their hair, contradicts that first-side teaching of both science and philosophy which says that like causes produce like results. How long physical causes have been at work unifying the races of the other continents we are not able to tell, but that it has exceeded is beyond question. So will it be here.

THE CATHOLIC EXAMINER, of Brooklyn, N. Y., referring to the article which one Edmund Kirke has been contributing to the Independent, and which that journal, to the mystification of not a few friends, has been publishing, in an article referring to the higher education of the negro, says:

"There are those who think that Mr. Kirke does not take a correct view of the matter, but we find that those who think in this way are engaged in the work of imparting the higher education, and who, as a matter of course, believe it to be a means of elevating the negro up to the level they consider he should occupy. Those, however, who have carefully studied the situation and requirements of the negro, from a disinterested standpoint, will be apt to agree with Mr. Kirke in his conclusions.

"The negro needs education really, but does it at all need to be versed in Latin or Greek, and to supply him with the kind of knowledge that is most valuable in furnishing a starving man with sweet cakes and magnificent palaces? Let the race be set by preparing to turn out scholars and statesmen, but rather by the training which will best enable to furnish it with unobjectionable citizens and workmen. There is a difference that considerable is yet to be done in the way of fundamental education before the superstructure can be reared."

The idea of an Irish Roman Catholic journal prating about unobjectionable citizens! What have colored Catholics ever to say to this? What have they of the lately opened St. Benedict the Moor to say of it?

ON THE evening of Dec. 27th, '83, the Amphion Singing Society will again meet the public at Musical Fund Hall. The occasion is to be a second public rehearsal. Those who were present at the first, remember, with pleasure, what an artistic and thoroughly pleasing entertainment was successfully carried out; and how carefully every detail of arrangement was attended to, that promised to contribute to the enjoyment of their assembled friends.

The society has, without doubt, made a move in the right direction. Those who have attended its rehearsals, and its work have long felt the necessity for improvement and reform in the field in which it is surely and steadily forging its way in the front.

The encouragements one of the purest character, and are not only valuable to "society," as healthy and eeeded; but they are giving aid to one of the most If we mean that the white people of America are to dominate as Caucasians, then we differ with him. Our thought is that a continental race is to spring up, that shall be as fully identified with the continent as is the European with Europe, the Asiatic with Asia, and the African with Africa. And further, our thought is that that continental race is to spring from the various continental people lure food. And third and lastly, our thought is that that continental race will be as much of a unit as are Europeans a unit, or Asiatics, or Africans. THE OFFICIAL GAZETTE of Spain has published a decree, from King Alfonso, ordering that all doubts concerning the application of any part of the law of gradual abolition of slavery shall always be resolved in a sense of the widest latitude for the liberty of the slave, just as though this king had heard of the unreviewed of our own Supreme Court, in the matter, not of our personal liberty, to be sure, but in the matter of our civil rights. The king argues that the law clearly orders that under no condition shall the families of slaves be separated, and that if parents were obliged, when they themselves became freed, to pay for the freedom of their children, other sections of the law providing for abolition would be violated.

THE CONCERT given by the Central Presbyterian Church, at Musical Fund Hall, in the interest of the Organ Fund of the Church was in many respects a success. It certainly was as it relates to attendance, for we never saw the hall so full. The Quartette from Westminster Choir sang acceptably. With any other pianist on the stage than Miss Causey, the piano solo of Miss Washington would have been received even more rapturously than it was. Prof. C. Samuel Adger is deserving of unstinted praise for his management of the choruses. Selections were dull or have a hundred voices more than they have.

N. B.—Will you not send whatever is raised to my address, 1026 15th street, N. W., Washington City, on the following day, and thus remember that the King's business requires haste?

MY SOUTHERN TOUR.

BY THE MANAGER.

MR. BISTOU—After arranging the business at the office on November 15th, I took leave of my family and started on the train at 12:30 o'clock for Durham, N. C., the seat of the North Carolina Conference, to be entered. In this I found it very much crowded, but as luck would have it, about every one of the 150 ladies occupying seats one behind the other. They were both very large women, one colored and the other white. I said to myself, is what way may the largest amount of comfort and enjoyment to the largest number be attained, by standing up all night or sitting down and attending to the wants of one side of one of those ladies? However, I soon made up my mind I would choose the latter. As I stood and looked down at the seats and then at the ladies, I said to myself, I'll take the white lady's seat, she may think I am colored, and refuse, and if I do by her seat she may be very much surprised by her politeness in offering her seat to a colored person, and would perhaps put in a miserable effort to thank me, and then I would say, no, no, no

"Jim the Scout," as he is familiarly called in Denver, is now over seventy, but his form is still as stout as an arrow, his eye as bright as a child's and his step as elastic. The fatal rapidity with which slight Colds and Coughs frequently develop into the gravest maladies of the throat and lungs, is a consideration which should impel every prudent person to keep at hand, as a household remedy, a bottle of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

Nothing else gives such immediate relief and works so sure a cure in all affections of this class. That eminent physician, Prof. F. Sweetser, of the Maine Medical School, Brunswick, Me., says:—

"Medical science has produced no other anodyne expectorant so sure as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is particularly for diseases of the throat and lungs."

The same opinion is expressed by the Chemistry Dr. L. J. Addison, of Chicago, Ill., who says:—

"I have never found, in thirty-five years of continuous study and practice of medicine, any preparation of so great value as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL for treatment of diseases of the throat and lungs. In mid-ocean, on shore, and across mercantile counter, I have observed the marvelous relief and cures which it has effected, and have become a thorough believer in its curative powers."

AYER'S
Cherry Pectoral

As not a new claimant for popular confidence, but a meritorious which is today the favorite of the land, and of those who have come into being since it was first offered to the public.

There is not a household in which the vegetable sarsaparilla should not be kept. Multitudes suffer from it who never even suspect the cause of their illness. Many a man who has a pimple on his face, a itch on his arm, or a sore on his body, or a blotch on his forehead, is ignorant that he has the seeds of scrofula in his blood, which will be developed in future years.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has, in numberless instances, cured obstinate cases of scrofula through the blood, stomach, and even some Pneumonia, and has proved many patients in the use of the worst of Pulmonary Consumption. It is a medicine that only requires to be taken in small doses, is pleasant to the taste, and is needed by every human being, young and old, children, as there is nothing so good as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL for colds, the most of Croup and Whooping Cough.

These are facts which can be fully verified by anybody, and should be remembered by everybody.

WHAT WILL IT DO?
Brown's Iron Bitters! Good for what? Well, see what it has done. To begin with dyspepsia. It has cured some of the worst cases.
Then chills and fever. Who wants to shake with cold and burn with heat, when a bottle or two of Brown's Iron Bitters will drive the source of the mischief away?
How about rheumatism? It cured Mr. Bradley, of Baltimore, and hundreds of others.
Those dreadful nervous troubles! Mr. Berlin, of Washington, the well-known Patent attorney, was entirely relieved by Brown's Iron Bitters.
The ailments of the kidneys.—Brown's Iron Bitters cured Mr. Montague, of Christiansburg, Va., and an army of other sufferers.
Debility and languor. The Rev. J. Marshall West, Elliott City, Md., is one of the many clergymen restored by Brown's Iron Bitters.
And so on—with colds, malaria, liver complaint, and headache, Brown's Iron Bitters is the great family medicine.

AMERICAN INDUSTRY: CIVIL RIGHTS.

The one comforting word given us by that class of our friends who accept the recent decision of the Supreme Court (the Bradley decision we mean) who are wishing to rob the old gentleman of his dearly bought nobority, is that it simply leaves us where the white men of the country are left; neither better nor worse. We, of course, object to this on the ground that as yet things are not even. We are not as educated as white men; we are not as rich; we are not as strong in character; we are not as numerous; and altogether we are not as well prepared to protect ourselves. Therefore we object to being put on a level with them.

We wonder if it has ever occurred to these friends of ours that this new principle is precisely the plea which American industry makes when it is proposed to take away its Civil Right bill, in the shape of Tariff, for what is there but a protection to a class who confess themselves not to be as strong as another class?

As we see, then, the cases, if not precisely, are largely similar. In their competition with white men, colored men, by reason of their inferiority, ask Congress to throw around them the arms of protection in the shape of a Civil Rights law, which it does. But the Supreme Court says Congress shall not do it; and the class of friends alluded to above say, "Amen," supplementing it with the statement, "you are just where white men are; don't fret, or ask for more." In their competition with for, eign industries, American industry, just like the colored man, by reason of immaturity, asks Congress to throw around it the arm of its protection in the shape of strong Tariff laws, which is done; and the supreme Court says, "Nay, for it is all right." And our friends say, "Amen," too.

We colored people are of the opinion that it is satisfied for us to be where the same platform with the white man, no better and no worse. American industry ought to be satisfied if it be on the same platform with the industry of the world. We cannot well see how the same plea should fail in the case of one and succeed in the case of the other. Our only objection to the Bradley decision is that it leaves the weak at the mercy of the strong. And is not that the objection which the industry of our country makes when you talk to it of Free Trade? One and the same principle is involved, and it is impossible with any show of equity to grant the wishes of one and deny the wishes of the other. If the nation must protect its weak industries it surely ought to protect its weak citizens. The principle that upholds Civil Rights will bring a Free Trade.

"CHRISTIAN EDUCATORS IN COUNCIL."

Not many of our readers are ignorant of the fact that during the month of August last, there was held at Ocean Grove, New Jersey, a council of distinguished men, who may be parioned for the use of this adjective being ourselves one of them, who met to consider the question of national education. But let none suppose that the education considered was purely and only that of the schools. The term received possibly the broadest stretching that was ever known, at least in our day and country, and embraced not only the duty of feeling the minds of the children of the nation from the darkness of ignorance, but alike the duty of freeing the minds and even the hearts of the adult portion of the nation from the greater darkness of caste. Of those present at that council, it might be in place in name a few. Of our, white fellow citizens there were Hon. John Eaton, United States Commissioner of Education, Rev. Dr. Herrick Johnson, of Chicago, Hon. B. Peters, editor Brooklyn Daily Times, Bob't R. Doherty, of the Christian Advocate, New York, Hon. Albion W. Tourgee, Dr. R. S. Rust, Dr. J. C. Hartzell, the projector and manager of the Council, and literally hosts of others equally well known and equally able, as our readers may well believe when we mention the names of Dr. Ward, of the New York Independent, Rev. J. W. Hamilton, People's Church, Boston, epon whom the broad and goodly spirit of the late Gilbert Haven seems verily to have fallen, and others and others. Of colored gentlemen present, there were Bishop Campbell and Dickerson, of our Church, President Price, of Zion Wesley Institute, Salisbury, N. C., and the writer. We are free to confess that it never was our privilege to attend such a council. Indeed we doubt if there ever was in the land held before—a council so able, so broad in the morality it advocated and scriptural in the Christianity it taught. Words cannot fully express the feeling of the council. To use it was as the voice of John the Baptist, so inspiring as to make us quite unmindful of the shameful fact that the colored delegates were not permitted to eat nor allowed the privileges or the comforts of the hotels, and that with the Civil Rights bill yet in force and all the decisions of the courts of the land to the contrary notwithstanding. Such is the Christianity of the day! But we look up our pen not to write of the Council, but to give the information that the book containing all the addresses and the leading remarks made upon the inspiration of the moment; together with tables of the illiterate and educational; Statue of the Union (1880) is now ready. We are right sure that no word of ours can properly estimate the value of this work of epoch in its way, for it is more than golden, proclaiming as it does the new svangel that as within the bounds of the Republic there cannot be in law other than one government, so there must not ultimately be more than one people. Speaking of the Council, the New England Journal of Education says:

It was the most remarkable gathering ever held in our country in matters connected with the education of the people. The volume of addresses is the most interesting, instructive and inspiring volume in relation to education ever given to our people, and should be in the hands of every Senator, Governor, Legislator, and intelligent citizen in the land."

The absence of the Manager does not allow us to say that the book may be ordered from our establishment, whereby we doubt not will be the case when he comes. In the meantime we undertake personally to see that all who order the book from the Conference shall receive it. The price is $1.25, stiff paper, $1.75 cloth. The sixty addresses are arranged topically, as follows:

1. Education and Man's Improvement; 2. Illiteracy in the United States; 3. National Aid to Common Schools; 4. The Negro in America; 5. Illiteracy, Wealth, Pauperism and Crime; 6. The American Indian Problem; 7. The American Mormon Problem; 8. Education in the South since the War. 9. Christ in American Education; 10. Tabulation of Illiteracy and Educational Facts from Census of 1880 —ten tables.

It is a book for all who want information on any of these great practical questions. The addresses are carefully prepared and revised by the authors, and are filled with information and incidents.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

The President's Message to Congress is characterised by that cool, businesslike manner of doing things, which seems to be the order. And fearful he would not "flourish of trumpets," but a call to business. Exceedingly comprehensive, too, by reason of their immensity, call to Congress to throw around them the arms of protection in the shape of a Civil Rights law, which it does. But the Supreme Court says Congress shall not do it; and the class of friends alluded to above say, "Amen," supplementing it with the statement, "you are just where white men are; don't fret, or ask for more." In their competition with for, eign industries, American industry, just like the colored man, by reason of immaturity, ask Congress to throw around it the arm of its protection in the shape of strong Tariff laws, which is done; and the supreme Court says, "Nay, for it is all right." And our friends say, "Amen," too.

We colored people are of the opinion that it is satisfied for us to be where the same platform with the white man, no better and no worse. American industry ought to be satisfied if it be on the same platform with the industry of the world. We cannot well see how the same plea should fail in the case of one and succeed in the case of the other. GENTLEMEN:—Having been a sufferer for a long time from nervous prostration and general debility, I was advised to try Hop Bitters. I have taken one bottle, and I have been rapidly gaining better entrance, and I think it the best medicine I ever used. I am now gaining strength and appetite, which was all gone, and I was so despair until I tried your Bitters. I am now well, able to go about and do my own work. Before taking it, I was completely prostrated. MRS. MARY STUART.

One of the natural curiosities of Hernando County, Florida, is an immense live oak, situated near Brooksville, which, seven feet from the ground, measures thirty-five and one-half feet in circumference; from this height to the top it has but two large limbs, the limbs spreading, out, and at the top measure eighty yards across. On one side of this singular work of nature is a small orifice from which issues a continual stream of cold air, showing some subterranean connection that is beneficial by what is going on above the surface of the ground

It is not necessary to seize into perplexities in referring to the complicated organic and functional difficulties to which the more delicate organs of American women are subject; but we take pleasure in saying that Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham's Great Remedy for all those troubles has an unbounded popularity.

There is a lively contest now going on between the citizens of the little town of Mary Ann, Ark. A number of the residents have applied to have the town re-incorporated and called "Miranda," while the rest object to the project and say, in their paper, that "if the dudes don't feel satisfied with Mary Ann they can get up and git."

In the Hop Farmers Plaster the virtues of Fresh Hops are combined with strengthening and stimulating balsams, and the arome of Wood Naptha. Pain in the Side, Rheumatism, and Neuralgia or Pain in the Chest are simply marvellous, it being more speedy, effective and thorough than any liniment or liquid remedies. You'll say so after using.

Statehood manufacture is growing in Ohio to enormous proportions. Several large concerns have been built the past season. It is made from wheat straw, and, therefore, factories require to be located in wheat-growing regions.

Forty years' experience, in every clime on earth, has proved Ayer's Cherry Pectoral to be the most reliable remedy for colds, coughs, and all lung diseases. Neglected colds often lead to some incurable ailments. Deal with them in time and prevent their becoming deep-seated in the system.

A writer in the Providence Journal, referring to the efficacy of the balsamic odor of pine for weak lungs, makes this suggestion: Very probably the day will come when pine and spruce pillows will be as freely used in hospital appurtenance in our bleak climate as the gummy bottle has long been in the Southern and Western states.

Boils, Carbuncles and scalds are eliminated by using Samaritan Nervine. All druggists.

Mr. E. Forbes, of Poindam, N. Y., writes: "Samaritan Nervine cured my son of epilepsy."

Blankets took their name from Sir Thomas Blanket, of Bristol, England, who made them during the fourteenth century; while worsted is so called because it was first manufactured in the town of Worsted.

Tone up the system by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It will make you feel like a new person. Thousands have found health and relief from suffering by the use of this great blood purifier when all other means failed.

It is estimated that the "fonny" papers publish over 250,000 witty paragraphs every year. "Use a small amount of humor," says the Chicago Sun, "should keep one's readers between a grin and a laugh most of the time."

Why use a gritty, muddy, disagreeable article when Hood's Sarsaparilla, so pure, so elegant, so delightful, can be obtained. 100 doses $1.00.

Experiments are in progress in Ohio for turning palmetto leaves into paper for sewn print. It was the material used for bank of England notes with such secrecy for years.

Soldiers who have lost their discharge should procure a Duplicate. Write John C. Dodge, St. Joseph, Mo. See this advertisement in this paper.

A flock of blackbirds estimated at a mile in length flew Southward over Fargo, Dakota, one morning last week.

"We know Dr. Grace's Heart Regulator will cure Heart Disease. 50 years use and many persons of prominence testifying prove it.—Scientific Press." $1. per bottle at druggists.

Of Mexico's debt of $117,000,000 Englishmen hold about $85,000,000. The rest is held in New York.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once, it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., New York.

WORTHY Of Confidence.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla is a medicine that, during nearly 40 years, in all parts of the world, has proved its efficacy as the best blood alterative known to medical science.

SARSAPARILLA (extracted from the roots of Sarsaparilla, the genuine flowering Sarsaparilla) is Hance, and its powers are enhanced by the extracts of Yellow Dock and Stillingia, the leaders of Poke-root and Iron, and other potent ingredients.

IS your blood vitiated by scrofulous disease, by mercurial poisoning, by the taint of hereditary or developed syphilis, by the poison of Mercury or lurking in the bones?

THE cases, also know the composition of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, say that nothing else so good for the purification of the blood is within the range of physicians.

ONLY if the use of this remedy is it possible for a person who has corrupted blood to attain sound health and prevent transmission of the virus to the latest generation.

THOROUGHLY effective prescription of the old time variety, most blended not only the removal of corruption from the blood, but the restitution and the strengthening of the vital organs.

RELIABLE witnesses, all over the civilized world, testify that this work is better accomplished by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA than by any other remedy.

BLOOD that is corrupted through disease can be made pure, and blood impoverished through destruction of the red corpuscles is made strong, by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA.

PURIFYING the blood and building up the tissues are the two principle time in scrofula cases, but benefit will be derived from the use of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA under almost all conditions of the system.

MEDICINE for which like effects are claimed (plenty such there are) should in the market, under many names, but the only reliable one, and the best of these, and proved worthy of the confidence of mankind, is

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA.

THE NATIONAL REFORM ASSOCIATION.

This is a society organized to maintain existing Christian features in the American government, and to secure a suitable religious Amendment to the Constitution of the United States. Among the features of the government which this Association aims to conserve are our Sabbath Laws, the use of the Bible in our public schools, prayer in the National and State Legislatures, and the Christian law of Marriage in opposition to the lax divorce legislation now so common. Some suitable amendment of the Constitution of the United States is deemed by this Society to be indispensably necessary, since that instrument, in its present form, is extremely reticent as to any recognition of a secular theory of government, and is confessed as an argument against all that is believed in the moral and religious sentiment of our government. During the past year this Society has greatly extended its operations. Four district secretaries pay their whole time to this work, holding conventions, addressing churches and public meetings, circulating petitions and extending the membership of the organization.

Eighteen conventions and nearly three hundred public meetings were held. The members enrolled during the past year, contributing to its funds were nearly three thousand, representing all denominations, and its list of friends includes many prominent men of influential rank. The Hon. Felix R. Brunot, of Pittsburg, is President.

During the coming year this Society will still further enlarge its work. At least eight district Secretaries will be employed, some throughout the year, and others during the most favorable seasons. Two conventions were held in Vermont in June, two in Minnesota during July, and nine thus far, during September and October. The annual meeting of the National Association was held in Cleveland, Ohio, 11th and 12th of December.

For the publications of this Society and for any information, address the Corresponding Secretary, Rev. T. P. Stevenson, 1520 Chestnut street, Phila., Pa.

HOW TO SUCCEED.

Beyond all question the foremost magazine—shall we say of the world—is the St. Nicholas. Would our readers have an idea how this has been brought about they have only to ponder the words of the publishers. They say, "Mrs. Dodge was told * * to take her own time * * * to seek out the best writers and artists on two continents—to imagine a periodical that shall be the sweetest, best, and most beautiful ever printed,—and then to realize her high-ideal conception of a magazine for young folk." With backing like this, the lady editor went to work and the result we see to-day in a magazine confessedly the best of the kind the world ever saw. We wish that we could impress those for whom we specially write that in no other way can anything like a first class paper or magazine be produced. The editor must not only be given some ex pense room, but some hard cash should be placed at his disposal, by means of which he could be able to command the first talent among those for whom his publication is intended. But it is said that we cannot afford it. The real truth is, we cannot afford to do anything else. The Church certainly cannot afford to go on in the way it is now. We have been trying it for quite forty years and the Concern is as far from being self-supporting as when it began. Wherefore? Wrong methods have been pursued. Instead of having a subscription of some where between two and three thousand, it should be ten thousand or even twenty. But how can this be done, when one-half the paper is devoted to advertising? People are not going to pay to read advertisements. They read the paper because it contains reading matter not only the news wisely culled and arranged, but they want to hear great questions discussed, questions relating to the religious, the educational, the political and even the financial condition of the country and the world. But the men who can do all such discussing, and to the profit of those who read, are not forward to be heard. That which Bro. Handy, with many others, has said and has unloaded the mind asked of " hope of reward " be held out to them, they will do precisely as they are doing, " keep quiet." But let it be known that these editors are prepared to pay for well-written articles, and the scramble for the fruit by the great mass, the majority of whom have really nothing to say that will be interesting or profitable to read, instead thereof will be seen the orderly presentation of really able articles. We say that such a course as this will pay, and it is the only course that will pay.

As at present, not until doomsday will this epoch be reached. We have an instance of this in the St. Nicholas, that now sends forth a full hundred thousand copies monthly. And why? The plain reason is the people want it, and whatever the people want they will have. Let the people be made to want the RECORDER, and our pastors will no more be called upon to huckster it abroad, or on the Sabbath. The way to make them want it is the way we have pointed out. Instead of two pages, give them four, and let them be filled with good reading matter; and the time will not be distant when both Manager and editor can be thrown upon it for support. Surely the old method has been tried long enough. We plead now that a new method be adopted, a method that is not original with us, for its acted upon by every successful publication of the land, without a single exception. Give your future editor, pen room—and he'll be understood we make no personal exceptions—give him room to express reasonable sum at his disposal. Unless some such course is adopted, the RECORDER, which has long occupied the position of a leader, will gradually be relegated to the rear.

OUR FORTHCOMING MAGAZINE.

Nothing gives us more pleasure than to announce that during the coming month the long-talked of magazine will appear. A number of papers for its pages have already arrived; others will put in their appearance in due time We are not prepared, however, to give particulars as to size and price. But this we feel free to say, that it will be such a publication as will give all concerned entire satisfaction.

And now we beg to speak particularly of this new publication of the Church. To this end let us answer three questions we have been asked in view, The next dividing our Church together, we intend (D. V.) to shrink this present volume, and put it forth in smaller form, into one much smaller, for the children of the Church.

No intelligent reader can fail to be interested in the contents of the North American Review for December. The question of the hour—secession or silence of honor in the number, Gardiner G. Hubbard pointing out the great advantages that would result from the proposed Nicaragua Canal; Control of the Telegraph," and showing from the experience of several European countries the benefits to be derived from the incorporation of the telegraphic system in the postal service. Prof. J. Laurence Laughlin, of Harvard University, shows the "Evils of the Silver Treasury System," in its absorbing and withholding from circulation the specie that is constantly needed to insure stability in the world of coins. "The Right of Judgment," by Gail Hamilton, is a caustic review of the less amiable moral traits of Thomas Carlyle. Henry George writes of "Overproduction," an idea which he declares to be preposterous, unless more wealth is produced than is wanted. Gen. W. H. S. Franklin sets forth the views of naval and military experts as to what is needed in the way of organization, forts, ships and war material, to insure the National Defense." An article on "Railroad and Public Time," by Prof. Leonard Waldo, of the Yale College Observatory, explains the system of uniform time standards now being introduced into the railroad service of the United States. Finally, there is a discussion of the question of "Moral-ity without Religion," by F. A. Rider and Prof. A. A. Hodge, of Princeton College. Published at 30 Lafayette Place, New York, and for sale by booksellers generally.

We are the recipient of Dr. T. G. Steward's new book, "Death, Hades and the Resurrection." Without waiting to peruse these pages which are presented in a really tempting way, nothing is hazarded in the statement that the writer is peculiarly adapted to discuss such themes as the volume presents. Of a metaphysical cast of mind, and not given to the thoughtless acceptance of any statement whatever, he may be relied upon as one to lead off in the discussion of matters largely inscrutable. Among the literature of our people, we know of no eighty-five pages more likely to contain greater depths of thought. Its price is 35 cents. And so as a race we push forward and upward. Leading to what is intended to be the regular Class Books of the Junior Service, while it should be read by all, especially should it come under the eyes of those who purpose taking up that course. Mongoudan, the great Hindoo Reformer, recently in our country was "interviewed" by the business men, clergymen and literateurs of San Francisco, and the result was a book of 300 octavo cuts. When asked, What effect has the British rule had upon the poorer class in India? he answered:

"That have not been benefited as the middling classes have, but their condition is rather worse than before. We have really no pauper class there. There are those who beg, but it is a profession with them, and they are not unworthy. The poor people in India, the scholars, teachers, etc., do nothing—they are supported by the free will offerings of others, who consider they are honored by being allowed to contribute to their support.

As it relates to the last portion of this answer, how strange that Christian America inverts this practice; for really the poorest paid class in this country is that composed of scholars and teachers. This is especially the case with us as a church and as a class. Anything like scholarship is poorly paid.

From one of our exchanges we clip the following well-said words in regard to a practice that is not as often alluded to and condemned in our pulpits as it should be:

Many young people are passionately fond of dancing. Some in Methodist families complain that all the leading religious bodies of the land have pronounced in set terms against the amusement; and that several of the Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal and Roman Catholic Churches have said as strong words against the practice as have been uttered by any Bishop of John Wesley. The fact is that there is a felt incongruity between the light practice of dancing and the profession of piety. It is a fascinating and absorbing pastime that is inconsistent with serious thought and with the sacred purpose that belongs to a Christian life. Some who were pleading a year ago for the "innocent" square dances have found them leadresses for their growing taste, and now enjoy the unseemly contact and unhealthy excitement of the round dances they once condemned. It is far better to leave them all alone and seek such recreations as are not doubtful to the body and elevating to the mind. The giddy mazes of the dance are not of that character.

We have delayed giving our Christmas number until the issue of next week. At best we cannot promise much, but our readers may rest assured that we will do everything that we can. Aside from an interesting illustration, will be found the most excellent paper on Fred. Douglass recently contributed to Harper's Weekly, and the able and timely article in the December edition of that most advanced paper. By the way, we are creditably informed that the article surprised and pained in the country at the magnificent illustration of Douglass which the Harpers gave, together with a most complimentary paper from the pen of George William Curtis, was Mr. Douglass himself, who was in blissful ignorance of what was going on.

The December number of the American Agriculturist contains about one hundred engravings, which is twenty-five per cent more than that in any other illustrated periodical in this or any other country. Many of these engravings are engraved expressly for the paper by leading artists, covering a wide variety of rural subjects as well as farm investigations and conirvances. These engravings alone in any single issue of the paper are worth far more to every farmer and housekeeper than the subscription price for five years. Notwithstanding the American Agriculturist is fully worth four dollars a year, the subscription price will continue at $1.50 during 1884.

In the article, "Word from the North-East Texas Conference," will be found notice of the suspension of Rev. W. R. Carson. It is but just that we also publish what he says. We ask no occasion to further say that in both articles we have thought best to withhold all details as well as suppress all adjectives, of which last both articles abound. To Bishop Cain himself we are indebted for a copy of the Waco Examiner, containing Rev. W. R. Carson's reply to the Council. We be put in possession of $600, money voted to Waco College. As we read these and troubles we can only with Scripture say, "Offense must need come but to him by whom it cometh."

To The International News Company, Beekman street, New York, are we indebted for the Christmas numbers of two great Englishpapers, The Graphic and the Illustrated London News. Marvels both of intellectual excellence and of mechanical art. We have nothing at home to equal them. Sold for a shilling in England, it is to be supposed that an advance is made upon them in New York. Be this as it may, of one shilling we may be assured, that they will be the cheapest gift, save the reader of the RECORDER can present. Address the company named above.

The Century Bound Volume XXVI, is beyond question as handsome a book of the kind as American typography has produced during the year. And quite as much can be said of the illustrations it contains. The biographical papers of the volume are: Cardinal Manning, Martin Luther, Anthony Trollope and Alphonso Daudet.

The colored people of Birmingham, Alabama, under the leadership of our friend and brother, the Rev. I. H. Webb, recently waited on the Governor and the Railroad Commissioner in regard to abuses experienced while traveling. The right step. Let it be followed up.

"The blacks fought with great bravery," is the word from Egypt as it used to be the word from the South when the great Rebellion raged. To hear the average white talk, it would be supposed that all the fight was taken out of the blacks of our country.

"Is there a God?" a four page essay, printed from the pen of Rev. Jas. D. Barksdale, has been received. We find in it evidences of a train of thought which if properly developed may result in something of greater volume.

As we expected, the rule of the authorities of the colored Roman Catholic Church (N. Y.) requiring all white worshippers to go to the gallery, has been changed. At least the Progressive American says so.

Churches proposing the celebration of the coming Christmas is a way both novel and profitable cannot do better than send for the Concert Quarterly, as published by C. E. Brinkworth, Buffalo, N. Y.

As the years of time fly by, how few keep before them the fact that the year of eternity approaches. The passing of one is the approach of the other. And soon the end will be here.

Rev. T. G. Steward read a paper on "Probation," at the last meeting of the Preachers' Union. The discussion which followed was exceedingly interesting. It is to be continued.

We left our readers in the parsonage of Bethel, Atlanta, Ga. We spent Sabbath with Dr. Gaines and his dear people. The church is a model. The people be; in fact, it rained all day; but we had a full house. Dr. Gaines has surrounded his church and beautified it, and by drilling his people to the music of the Dollar system, Rev. Notes on Education.

Bryn Mawr College, the legacy of Dr. J. W. Taylor, of Burlington, N. J., has been opened to receive students. The tuum of 1885. It will offer to women a good college education.

The public schools of Texas are said to be now in excellent condition. All over the State the towns are building handsome and commodious school houses; and in the country the school houses are numerous and well attended. Many of the best school houses; and in Denison there is a fine building devoted to high grade classes in German and Latin in the public schools.

The Rev. Edward Everett Hale asserted at the Citizens' meeting in Boston, the other evening, that the Boston schools are not so well administered as they were a year ago, that they were not then as well administered as they were the year before, and that they have been running down.

The first trade school for Jewish boys will soon be opened in New York with its support guaranteed for the first years. The number of students will be limited to fifty lads, whose general and special instruction will continue for that same time. The plan is an excellent one and does honor to the citizens who contrived it.

A suitable building is to be erected at Northfield, Mass., in memory of Miss Lyon, to receive the astronomical instruments offered to the college by Dr. S. A. Sci. John. The gift comprises a six-inch refracting telescope, mounted equatorially and provided with a driving clock and a transit of three-inch aperture, together with the piers on which they are mounted. The observatory will also contain an astronomical clock. Work has been begun, and the building will probably be in readiness for use before the close of the term.

The public schools of South Carolina instructed last year 74,157 white and 98, 838 colored pupils. This is an increase of 27,131 over the large enrolment for the preceding year. From a comparison of this enrolment with the data furnished by the census of 1880 it appears that over 72 per cent of the white children and nearly 70 per cent of the colored children of the State between the ages of six and sixteen are under the attendance on the public schools. The average length of the school session was four months. The whole number of teachers employed was 3,494, of which 2,163 were white and 1,331 were colored, an increase since the last report of 91. The number of schools in operation was 3,269, and increase of 86.

OUR SPECIAL LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 19, 1883.

The most striking feature of the new Congress is the predominance of young men's faces, and the struggle among new members to assume the leadership. Mr. Randall has already manifold the strongest hand.

Senator Edmunds is said to have a bill ready for presentation to Congress providing for a national telegraph system connecting the Signal Service stations with all the state capitals. He does not like government control of general telegraphic system.

The National Grange in secret session has been considering the financial question in Washington this winter to influence Congress. A very influential member of the Grange has expressed a desire to see the purchase for the next month to recuperate.

Mr. Manager Gould has arrived home, showing in his improved appearance the benefit of travel. It is pleasant to hear conclude that the only way to attain that end is for the Government to give a clean bill of health and to call for its support. The lobby representing the German proposes to demand the votes of members to a bill favoring this project, and they will be made to understand that if they want the Germans votes, they must favor their interests in the Senate. Bismarck, are tired of broken promises.

Mrs. Frances E. Willard, president of the World's Christian Temperance Union, says that a petition of a million names will be presented to Congress at its next session, demanding a "prohibition" plank in their platforms. If so, Lodge's bill will be sure to be encountered opposition.

The Judiciary committee of the Senate have ready for early consideration a bill to enlarge the powers of the Supreme Court. This measure is substantially the same as that recommended by Attorney-General Brewster in his annual report. The hopelessness of the docket of the Supreme Court is generally admitted, and that some remedy must be applied is evident. Senator Edmunds has hope that his bill will be passed at the present session.

Another bill of equal general importance is a National Bankruptcy act. Several members have new measures to introduce in this direction.

Jeff Davis is deeply interested in a law case which is expected to come up in the Supreme Court very soon. Jefferson Davis' claim for the sale of Confederates the bulk of her large fortune. Mr. Ingalls is employed to defend the will without success thus far, and now appeal to the final court.

From the Southwestern Advocate.

DR. BUCKLEY ON THE SOUTH.

Our dear Brother Buckley (adjective and title of endearment slightly inadmissible) returned to Duluth, where we complimented lately with the wish that our Yankee brethren would make him a bishop, in order that he might continue to be editor of the New York Advocate. This same Dr. Buckley has gone back on us. So it seems to this editor. We thought he was one of the few Southerners who had no prejudice against the Southern people, but we ought to be, and that he would have false visions upon his return about the following from his recent address to the Missionary Board, read across the Northern and Southern world by the press of Northern work? Hear him:

"I will have more with the statement that the Church South is like ours. They have no record on temperance to which we can refer leading men in Dallas when I was there, owned a railroad, and run excursion trains on the Sabbath, encouraging drunkenness and immorality. They have abolished probation in their Church, and take in every sort that comes. Their revival meetings are no better than the wildest camp meeting efforts of Mrs. Vee Cott. When I was in South Carolina, I found that their societies that have no class-meetings. It is a great mistake, therefore, to say that the Methodist Church South is not a child of old-fashioned Methodism. It has no appreciable inference on the moral of the people down there."

Now, this is telling the truth, it is not the whole truth and nothing but the truth. Speaking of a church enterprise of Galveston, the Dr. proceeds:

"There is need for a church that does not believe in, nor encourage, Sunday trains, drunkenness and dancing."

We will but one more extract from this speech:

There are people there, of course, who are beautiful Christians, and I love them dearly, like our beloved Dr. Haygood, but they are ostracized for their opinions.

We simply ask, is Dr. Haygood ostracized for his opinions? Was he not elected a Bishop in his Church after he wrote his Brother in Black? Was he not elected a Bishop, and is he honored President has a larger patronage than any bishop.

Perhaps the Dr. is a candidate for the Episcopacy—sure enough.

DID SHE DIE?

"No; she lingered and suffered along, "going away" from home, hoping against the doctors doing her no good, and she "at last was cured by the Hop Bitters that "her husband got for her, and she "decided" how thankful she would be "for that medicine."

Connecticut boasts that it has built more houses this year than in recent years, but the total is only thirteen yearly, with an aggregate increase of about 10,000, and all but one of these are designed for the coasting trade.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To the Pastors and Sunday School Superintendents of the M. E. Church, South.—According to instructions received from Bishops Payne and Dickerson, I have prepared a special Christmas service for use in the congregations and Sunday schools of the A. M. E. Church, which will occur Dec. 30th, 1883. The Jubilee Gem, containing such, is now ready for distribution. We thought it best to have Sunday schools that constituted to the Missionary Union on last Thanksgiving Day. Other churches and schools will be supplied at the rate of one dollar per hundred. It is our desire to elevate and dignify this great Church festival among our people. The last General Conference wisely authorized the Bishops to provide a uniform service for Christmas and Easter. Let the whole Church arise and give praise to Christ on the last Sunday of the year. In establishing uniformity we do much toward strengthening our connectional ties.

"GET THE BEST"

FOR THE PRESIDENTIAL YEAR.

THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE.

THE LEADING PAPER.

Heartily Republican in Politics.

The Tribune this year is cheaper than ever, and is presented in better form. It has not reduced character with prices. It has not changed its principles, pandering to the tastes of the vicious or the prejudices of the ignorant. It remains, as formerly recognized as the best citizens—and it means to keep and increase this circulation by continuing to deserve it.

The Tribune is the leading New York daily—complete in news, strong and sound in comment, pure in tone, large and bright in print—spending money lavishly for news and in all ways for brains to handle it. It gives, with absolute fairness and all possible accuracy, the news of the whole world; and the attention of intelligent men and women; and is recognized as the authority in politics, commerce, bank, railroad and financial history, commercial, industrial, social, religious and literature.

The Tribune is heartily Republican; and believes that the success of the Democratic party in power, after twenty-four years of trial, would be a disaster and a revolution. Every important material interest in the country would suffer. Therefore the Tribune confidently believes it can be prevented, and to that end will labor.

The Tribune is always on the side of honesty, and reform, and in the present it warmly sympathizes with every practical effort to secure it. Its position on living issues. It always loves the cause of honest labor, and is the friend of the workingman—supports a Protective Tariff. It has no sympathy with the communistic labor party, taking the just and fair course, best for all the people and for every interest. It is the organ of no person or faction, it under no control save that of Right, Justice, and keeps no obligation save that to the public.

The Weekly Tribune for a third of a century has been the favorite of our substantial rural constituency in the great Northern population. Larger and better than ever before, it is now regularly issued from the office of a daily in the metropolis, with the latest telegraphic intelligence of all kinds, and sometimes vastly extensively large pages; and is everywhere believed to be the best published, full markets and many features of interest to the family circle.

The Semi-Weekly Tribune is issued every Monday and Thursday, and contains all the matter of the Daily; all the matter of the latter of more than transient interest, and a special feature of the Daily, sent to Subscribers to twenty pages.

The Tribune Almanac for 1884 is now ready for delivery, about 2 cents a copy on all editions. The most in quantity and value in the best form ever issued, of any paper in the country.

DAILY—By mail, 1 cents a month; $1.75 for 3 months; $7 a year; with Sunday edition, $9.80.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 15th, 1880.

GENTLEMEN—Having been a sufferer for a long time from nervous prostration and general debility, I was advised to try Hop Bitters. I have taken one bottle, and I have been rapidly getting better ever since, and I think it the best medicine I ever used. I am now gaining strength and appetite, which was all gone, and I was in despair until I tried your Bitters. I am now well, able to go about and do my own work. Before using it, I was a confirmed invalid prostrated. MRS. MARY STUART.

Mr. Lawson Melloe, of Dawson, Ga., has a mirror in the side of one of his stables, and he has a horse which goes every day several times and looks at himself with a peculiar air of personal pride as if he were a young dandy. He steps before the glass, takes a look at his face, then he turns and scrutinizes himself from side to side with critical keenness of his form and symmetry, and when he is satisfied with his masculine beauty and the graceful flow of his mane and tail he goes away.

Lydia E. Pinkham, whose benevolent face is shadowed in almost every paper we pick up, appears to have discovered what Addison calls "The grand secret, to support the spirits of human nature." It is quite evident that she has the patent and has secured the contract for making over and improving the invalid corps of American Womanhood.—Globe.

Post-office officials object to reduction of drop-letter postage to one cent. There were in the United States during the past fiscal year 154 free delivery offices. Of this number only fourteen paid expenses, and only one—New York—shows a surplus. Should a reduction be made, therefore, "drop" letters would have to be carried at a loss.

A clear head is indicative of good health and regular habits. When the body feels heavy and languid, and the mind seems sluggish, Ayer's Cathartic Pills will wonderfully assist to a recovery of physical buoyancy and mental vigor. The countryhead should use them.

The first bag of flour ever made of California wheat, and established the noble fair, was the one made by John M. Horner, of Horner's Mills, at Union City, about the year 1850, and shown at the fair in Music Hall, in that year. That bag of flour is now on exhibition in the rooms of the California Farmer.

No other medicine has won for itself such universal approbation in its own city, state, and country, and among all people, as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It is the best combination of vegetable blood purifiers, with the Iodide of Potassium and Iron, ever offered to the public.

The extraordinary ear of corn is grown in Liberty, Mo., this year. It is seven inches long, contains 900 grains, and is matured by five smaller ears growing out of the main ear at its base, and containing 1,500 grains.

Wilsonia Magnetic Insoles maintain an active circulation, promote a comfortable warmth in the feet and prevent Chilblains and Colds. Made all sizes. Ladies insoles a new invention. Sold by druggists and shoe dealers. Price 50 cents.

The first great work is that yourself may to redeem.—Bailey.

Soldiers who have lost their discharges should procure a Duplicate. Write John C. Bendar, St. Joseph, Mo. See this advertisement in this paper.

A man in Kingston, Ont., who feared that the body of his wife would be stolen, erected a tent over her grave on the day of her burial, six weeks ago, and has slept there nightly ever since.

Diphtheria poisons the blood. Consumptives should take Hood's Sarsaparilla to neutralize and eradicate the poison so much.

The light is most powerful when shines brightest when all other lights are gone out.

No molasses and water mixture, but a concentrated extract of the active medicinal properties of roots, barks, &c., is Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Where no wood is the fire goeth out, so where there is no tale-bearer, strife ceaseth.

Kings' Evil is a twin brother to Scrofula. Somaritan Nervine cures both of them.

Mr. W.C. Browning, Lawyer, Judsonia, Ark., says: "Somarian Nervina cured me of epilepsy."

Write down the advice of who you love best, though you like it not at present.

Ladies should wear a Hop Plaster over the small of the back, as it cures all pains and aches. 50 cts. at all drug stores. All ready to apply.

He who can suppress a moment's anger may prevent a day of sorrow.

Dr. Graves' Heart Regulator cures all forms of Heart Disease, nervousness and sleeplessness.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub has a bright little face when it wakes. It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

A Safeguard.

The fatal rapidity with which slight Colds and Coughs frequently develop into the gravest maladies of the throat and lungs, is a consideration which should insist every prudent person, the world over, as a household remedy, a bottle of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

Nothing else at so early immediately relief and works so sure a cure in all affections of this class. That eminent physician, Prof. P. Lavering, of the Maine Medical School, Brunswick, Me., says:—

"Without a doubt we produced no other cough expectorant so good as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. I prescribe it habitually for diseases of the throat and lungs."

The same opinion is expressed by the well-known Dr. L. J. Addison, of Chicago, Ill., who says:—

"I have never found, in thirty-five years of continuous study and practice of medicine, any preparation of so great value as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. In my own family, and among my friends, it is our only cough remedy, and never severe enough, but in more effective than anything else in relieving even the most serious bronchial and pulmonary affections."

By WILLIAM STILL,

With a Life of the Author.

In type, handsomely printed, highly illustrated, and bound in cloth, gilt and black. UNDERGROUND RAILROAD, will preserve the only records of the fugitives and the labors of their friends, that can ever be obtained to them freedom.

This volume was faithfully taken from the lips of fugitives. Their making and preservation of these records, at the time they were made, was perilous. Many of the fugitives whose histories have been lost but for the risk he took, and the pains he was at to preserve them. Those who know how it crowds out and completes the history of the Underground Railroad, pronounce it to be almost full to their minds from 1787 to the present time. Every family should have a copy.

This new Edition contains 100 more pages than the old one, and is the only complete edition of the author, written and published at the request of many friends. It is a work of rare merit and will prove to be one of rare worth and utility."—Rev. J. S. Inskip.

CHRISTMAS BELLS.

The bells—the bells—the Christmas bells,
How merrily they ring!
As if they felt the joy they feel
To every living thing.
The silvery tones, the tones so full,
Are swelling soft and clear,
As were no wave the tide of sound
Fills far beyond the atmosphere.

The bells—the merry Christmas bells.
They're ringing in the morn!
They ring, and ring in the earth and sky
The golden light is born;
They ring, as sunshine on the hills,
And gilds the village spire—
When, through the city, the sovereign sun
Rolls his full orb of fire.

The Christmas bells—the Christmas bells,
How merrily they ring!
To weary hearts a psalm of joy,
A kindlier life they bring.
The poor can do his cottage of stowe,
The rich on bowy bed,
Hail the glad sounds, as voices sweet
Of angels overhead.

The bells—the silvery Christmas bells,
Our souls with music fill,
And hark! the voice of worshipers
Is heard in every hill.
Anthems of noblest praise there'll be
To all glorious to-day,
To Deacon and Glorias
Come, to the church—away.

A NECESSITY.

THE PRESENT NEED FOR A CONFERENCE SCHOOL, UNDER THE AUSPICES OF THE A. M. E. CHURCH, IN THE STATE OF FLORIDA.

BY REV. R. B. BROOKINS.

MR. EDITOR:—Once more do I lift my pen in the interest of the human readers of the RECORDER know that though we are in the midst of the depression to come into the light. I do not like to be considered forward, but I am determined to be heard in the question of education in this part of our Church work. The Church is awake and fully awake to the fact, that we must have an institution of learning in Florida, for the benefit of our people religiously, morally and educationally. I am aware that controversy, that salves we put forth successful efforts to educate the thousands of young ministers that have been and are now coming into our Church; will they have to go to some of the white institutions that are offering better opportunities for education, and in less time than we can possibly afford. Our Church can only be found in history a shipwreck; a monument of an age passed away. Every religious denomination in America and Europe is establishing institutions for their full and their religious votaries, that they can teach them higher duties of Christian life, and to qualify them for the work of good citizens, as well as to indoctrinate them in the principles of the faith. The age of learning and great achievements, both in church and State, and those who do not keep pace with the times, will have to stand aside, or be crushed by the iron wheels of progress. The Conference of the East Florida Conference, let us go to work like men, and permit no one to throw obstacles in our way that we mean to advance with the age in which we live. I am ashamed to say it, but the religion as practiced by the masses of our people in the South, will have to be by and by, and admirably adapted to the purposes of the A. M. E. Church.—Arkansas Methodist.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

BY A. W. WAYMAN, D.D., BISHOP OF THE SEVENTH EPISCOPAL DISTRICT, A. M. E. CHURCH.

MR. EDITOR:—Monday is sometimes called "blue Monday," as many ministers and others feel blue on that day. I am a moving man, I have no time to spend on blue Monday. To-day Dec. 3 Sat. I am on the cars en route to the country, fifteen miles, to dedicate for him as a church. I am ready and he was off. Presiding Elder Bigson, Revs. Minor, Taylor and Brown, followed. We had a full house and the church looked more like a camp-meeting than a dedication. The dedication sermon by the church is a neat frame building, and it is a great credit to Brother Steel and his people. It is well located and from my point on that work and found a grand congregation. Dec. 4 Sun. I was assigned to Eufaula, and rested one day and then left with the presiding elder for a town called Ozark, Ala. The first place we called at was Lawrenceville, where there was a fine congregation out. Rev. Mr. Wilson is the pastor, and he has a good station. Dec. 5. Left Ozark for Tallahassee, Fla., and found it in good condition, and the church very much improved. Today Dec. 6th, the Florida Conference met at Pensacola, Fla. The reports are good.

ITEMS FROM SOUTH ST. LOUIS, MO.

BY REV. JAS. MADISON.

MR. EDITOR.—It has been some time since you and the many readers of the RECORDER have heard from me, so I hope it is not out of place to drop a few thoughts by the way. Well, what the Lord has done for us out in this part of the vineyard. This is my second year in charge of St. Paul. I was reappointed here by our venerable Bishop J. M. Ward, D.D., of the Fourth Episcopal District, on the 11th of last September, and on my arrival I was met by a hearty welcome, and we had a pleasant all over since. On the evening of the 15th of October, I was not a little surprised by a storm party over a hundred strong, who came to my house and filled it to its utmost capacity, and left behind them a valuable donation of groceries and family by staging, that old familiar song,

"O Jordan's stormy banks I stand,
And cast a wishful eye."

On opening the door the party came marching in, loaded with a considerable sum of money and many good things for the family, until I laughed at them for their generosity and the burden. Rev. Strother made the presentation speech in a few appropriate remarks, which was replied to by your humble servant with many thanks and prayers for their welfare. Shortly after the party organized a M. E. Church society of which I was elected one of the trustees, and more to follow. We also organized a Sunday school of twenty-five members, with myself as superintendent, and the work goes gloriously. There are a number of the colored people living in Yonkton. Several of them own property houses, and are doing nicely for a start, and are well to do. Allow me to say to many of our brethren and sisters in the South, who are living from hand to mouth, go to Missouri, come to Yonkton and now offered at sheriff's sale. It not only two rooms down stairs, and three in a room upstairs, and can be had for a mere song. Why will you not leave your present surroundings and come where you can get a home? Why will you not leave your present surroundings and come where you can get a home? Why will you not leave your present surroundings and come where you can get a home?

THE DAY HAS SWAY.

BY B. T. TANNER.

Angel herald, haste away,
Shouting, to thy comrades say:
The Day
Has sway.
In the regions of the North,
Where the hoary bears come forth,
In the Southland regions, too—
Regions ever green and new,
The Day

II.

Angel herald, haste, proclaim,
That with men 'tis all the same.
The Day
Has sway.
With the white man pale and proud,
With the man draped in a cloud,
And the man of yellow-hued—
With them all it may be said:
The Day
Has sway.

III.

Ride on, 'tis Christmas Day!
And let thy signal sound
Perpetual be in every land and tongue
Ride on, 'tis Christmas Day!
And let thy clear voice—
The glory of the ever more to come
20 Dec., 1883.

COMPLIMENTS OF THE SEASON.

For the moment let us drop the clouds that hang over our domestic sky, namely, as it were personally, to each one of our dear readers. How do? Merry Christmas? Happy New Year? Rejoice.

Right cordially we say that none has cause to complain, while all have downright cause to rejoice. And this is the compliment we tender. We shall not be surprised if some should take exception to this and imagine that they indeed have real occasion to be sad and gloomy. This, however, cannot be, unless we are willing to surrender our Holiday to universal complaint, which, of course, cannot be allowed. But how shall we answer the man whom we have told to be joyful—how answer him when he shows us the table of his neighbor groaning beneath the sweetmeats common to the day, while upon his own can be seen only the dry crust? How answer him? The reply is by showing him a thousand tables without even a crust upon them, and whose owners would rejoice if they only had what he has.

And again, how shall we answer the one who leads us off the giddy street, into the sick-room of a wife, with the midnight oil well nigh gone—how answer him when he says: It has been thus with me for the last dozen weeks, and yet you say rejoice? Despite it all we insist and say rejoice, rejoice. And should he not rejoice when he calls to mind that while he has sickness, a thousand others have death itself?

If the world would but remember that however poor and distressed it may be, there are other hundreds and thousands still poorer, and still more distressed, it would never reach a condition in which it would be impossible to rejoice. Let the poor man, the man afflicted and the man among the rocks, rejoice.

THE FREDERICK DOUGLASS PAPER.

Were we asked our opinion of Frederick Douglass's paper, which recently appeared in Harper's Weekly and which we elsewhere give—were we asked to designate its strongest feature, without a moment's hesitation we should reply: Its more than golden common sense view of the situation. As the New York Tribune said in its reference to it:—"The old man is far from being discouraged." It, however, forgot to say that the old man is equally far from being elated. It is too much to expect the men of the whole race—and the women, too, for all that—to have strength sufficient to play the part of a Frederick Douglass; at least in so far as that part relates to gauging the times; but it is not too much to expect that they shall be willing to read his paper and drink in, as it were, its spirit. It is not optimistic by any means, nor yet pessimistic; but, on the contrary, such a common sense view of the situation that while the good is recognized, the existence of the evil is not denied. He is neither shouting with joy nor weeping with despondency. The view he takes we could wish all our people would take; nor these only, but even the people of the whole nation. But as it more nearly concerns us, our wish is that it may the more earnestly be taken by us. As a class we are too greatly given to feelings purely spasmodic. To-day we are as light-hearted as children; to-morrow as fearful and as sombre as the most complaining octogenarian as he imagined. We have need to be more rational. Nor are we unmindful of the truth that what we are saying is very much as though we expected old heads on young shoulders. What is true of us, we know, is true of all peoples not more fully developed than we; and yet it really does seem that, living in a day and a country like like this, we would be able to show an unwonted precocity. Be this as it may, what we say to our readers on our own side the line is, if you cannot show a Douglass precocity, show as much of it as you can. Do not claim to be the angels of the land, but just as sternly disclaim being the devils. Do not insist that you have done everything, but as strenuously deny that you have not done anything. Do not believe that the future is all sunshine, but disbelieve that it is all midnight. In short, acquit yourselves simply as men, with men's possibilities of culture and virtue, as well as with men's possibilities of ignorance and sin. Act just as though your lives were of your own keeping. Look not to this section nor to that, to this party nor to that, only as these may show themselves ready and willing to help, and then only look to them as helps. Look first and last to yourselves. Take no stock in the supernatural. Believe that if you do not wash your face it is certain to go dirty. And so of any thing else. If you do not learn, you will be ignorant. If you do not work and save your money you will be poor. If you do not take care of your health you will be sick. If you do not be good you will be bad. Believe that you yourselves are the ruling factors in your own lives. As you will it shall be. If you sow to the wind you will reap the whirlwind. In short, believe that whatever a man soweth that shall he reap. Cut on superstitions of all kind, whether they be religious, social or political—superstitions which lead men to think they can gather where they have not sown. And what better time to commence such a new departure as this than at the beginning of the New Year?

The greater part of the slaves were so ignorant that they were perfectly satisfied with their condition. It was only a few intelligent negroes, generally such as had learned to read, who were dissatisfied, and who were willing, like Frederick Douglass, to encounter the dangers and hardships of a journey by night to the north to gain their freedom. The civil war demonstrated that the slaves were voluntary slaves: for not one of them attempted to raise an insurrection in the South against their old masters, when these masters were in the military camps.

The above is from the pen of our good Brother Edwards, of the Northwestern, who, by the way, will be better when he fulfills that promise to communicate a few thoughts to our pages. But we took not up our pen to give this gentle reminder; only to say that never was he more mistaken than when he wrote the above sentences. What he says contradicts the plainest facts in the case—so plain, indeed, that he who runs may read, much less he who sits in a cozy room and turns himself upon an editorial chair. As to rebelling while their masters were in the camp, the most ignorant of them had too much sense to think of it, and yet when liberty came in the only way his good sense made him know it could come (when thieves fall out honest men get their dues), how really anxious he was to receive it, the whole world knows. We have no objection to the writer "making a point," but not our expense.

SUNDAY, 16th December, we spent with the energetic pastor of Sullivan street, New York. It was "good to be there," to quote Peter. Fully one thousand dollars in cash were laid upon the table as an offering of the people toward the remaining debt. As we gazed upon the zeal they manifested, we thought within ourselves, Surely it cannot be long, with such as these, until the remaining load of $12,000 will be swept away, especially when marshaled as they are at present. Is it asked, How was this money raised? We reply: By a happy device of the pastor. The peoples and congregation were requested to act with the "Governors" of their State or Colony—for it should be remembered that in New York and in Sullivan street, may be found people from almost every State in the Union. These, as we have said, were requested to act with their "Governors;" and the result was an exhibition of State pride that greatly rebounded to the success of the collection. Strangely enough, little Rhode Island carried off the prize under the leadership of "Governor" Watson. The amount it contributed was $275, and on Thursday evening the successful "Governor" is to be inaugurated "President."

WE HAD hoped to find among the remaining illustrations which we brought from England as a gift to our Concern, one, at least, that would be apropos the season. In this, however, we are mistaken; unless, indeed, we would re-present one we have already given. This we prefer not to do. Thankful that the illustrations composing this gift have held out so long, for it is to be said that not since our return, now more that two years, has the Church been called upon to spend a single penny for engravings for the Child's Recorder—thankful, we say, that they have held out so long, we ought not to be greatly disappointed at our present failure to beautify this number of our paper. But so it is. We feel very much like the boy who sees his comrades in beautiful new suits while he is doomed to don the old one, new quite threadbare. But we repeat, so it is.

It was the famed Hutchinsons who once thrilled the hearts of those who were as salt to the nation, by singing:

"There's a good time coming, boys,
Wait a little longer."

NOTHING gives us more pleasure than the reception of the following postal:

REV. B. T. TANNER, D.D.:

DEAR BROTHER.—There is nothing like perseverance in a good cause. After many years of unsuccessful though somewhat effort, I am permitted to say that my music book will be issued in about six weeks. It is called the "Crown of Rejoicing," and is adapted to the use of congregations, choirs, prayer meetings, Sabbath schools, and in fact I have anticipated all the various occasions of the Church. I have canvassed extensively and now have 10,000 subscribers. Even the white churches, Baptist and Methodist, are among the number. I am determined to succeed.

Yours,
J. W. HANDLEY,
Galveston, Texas.

Most earnestly do we wish that every Sunday school in the connection will be found ready and anxious to sing the music of "Crowns of Rejoicing." Address the author as above.

IN A PRIVATE note from Bishop Turner, he says, "All my conferences have been doubled and one trebled since I have been here. Don't you think that good?" We certainly do, Bishop, and should the same prove to be true all round, the forthcoming General Conference will have occasion to still further devise liberal things for these multiplied thousands.

ONE WOULD think that our South Carolina brethren with the "Azor" experiment still before them, would look with suspicion upon all schemes of African emigration. It would seem not, if we are to judge from circulars sent to our office. As in the case of the "Azor," we say now: The project is doomed to failure and every man who invests a dollar in it will lose.

TO THE Secretary, we suppose, of the Kentucky Conference, we are indebted for a copy of the minutes of West Kentucky Conference. Statistics: Members, 2602; probationers, 107; local preachers, 23; exhorters, 14; increase of membership, 135. Of the two thousand members, according to this minute, only eleven take the CHRISTIAN RECORDER.

DR. HANDY'S APPEAL to his brethren is creating a stir; and what is better, is doing some good. At least the Dr. says so; and he is the one who ought to know. A widow lady of our city, who has no wish to let her name be known, sent him five dollars. Only keep up the sending, brethren, and something respectable will be accomplished.

AS BEAUTIFUL an Almanac for the approaching new year as has come under our notice is that of The Independent. It is quite worth subscribing to this incomparable journal—"the best in the world," we recently heard Bishop Payne say, for the sake of getting this Almanac.

REV. B. F. WATSON, the elected Commissioner of Education, sends us a copy of the minutes of Kansas Conference. Thanks. Statistics: Members, 1869; probationers, 113; exhorters, 9; local preachers, 33. There are in this conference 47 subscribers to the CHRISTIAN RECORDER.

A NOTED Texan is suing the National Government for the value of the slaves it set free; and judging from the excerpt giving the facts, elsewhere printed, it is among the things possible that he may make something out of it. How true is it that chickens come home to roost.

"THE AMERICAN BUGLE" is the title of the monthly commenced by Rev. Israel Derrick, of Newark, N. J. Well got up and exceedingly readable, it is to be hoped that his parishioners and Newarkers in general will give it a liberal support.

REGISTER B. K. BRUCE has our thanks for a copy of his Annual Report. Few people have any idea how much of the nation's business has to come under the notice of this national bookkeeper.

WE HAVE received the first number of the Richmond Planet. May it help on the good work.

Personal.

—Rev. W. B. Derrick has become a member of Thaddeus Stevens Post.

—Frank F. Barnes, born in Georgia, now in New York City, is a colored artist of much ability.

—Fred. D. Anderson has been appointed to a clerkship by Cincinnati's Republican Comptroller, Mr. E. O. Eshelby.

—Bishop Dickerson presided over the recent conference of the A. M. E. Church at Forsythe, Ga. We hear that the assemblage was one of the most intelligent that has been held in Georgia for years.—Augusta People's Defense.

—Fourteen colored men are elected to the Mississippi House of Representatives. Adams furnishes one, Warren one, Madison two, Hinds three, Panola one, Coahoma one, Bolivar one, Sharkey one, Issaquena one, and Washington two. G. W. Gayles, of Bolivar, will be the only colored man in the Senate.

—The owner of the farm at Lindenville, O., upon which John Brown established an arsenal preparatory to his raid at Harper's Ferry, is still living. His name is E. O. Forbes, and he is a man of superior intelligence, highly esteemed by his neighbors. He retains a vivid recollection of Old Ossawatomie and of the circumstances under which the ammunition and arms were stored.

—Monsignor Savarese, doctor of civil and canon law, and until recently the Pope's domestic prelate, has left the Roman Catholic Church. December 9th he was received into the communion of the Episcopal Church by Dr. Nevin, in St. Paul's American Church, on his confession of the Nicene Creed and his abjuration of the dogmas of the Immaculate conception and Papal infallibility. He asks for the guidance and protection of the Anglican episcopate against the usurpations of the Bishop of Rome.

—Anna Dickinson said to a Chicago Herald reporter last week: "I think I was born to live in a warm climate, read novels, and only talk when I feel like it—I mean to make some speeches before long. But this is to be no personal controversy with Monsignor Capel. He, a foreigner, comes to this country, and, after laying a platform of declarations, asks certain questions. I think I would like to try to answer them. Of necessity I cross the track Monsignor Capel has laid down. But there will not be any Capel-Dickinson controversy, for I am going to make a good-natured speech—if I can. . . . Since slavery no subject has stirred me as does this."

—The Rev. George Washington Nolley, who died last week at Ashland, Va., age eighty years, had performed fifty-eight years' active service in the Methodist ministry. He it was who led a charge of the Confederate troops in the battle at Brook Church, near Richmond. In the midst of the fight, as the story is told in "Soldier Life in the Army of Northern Virginia," a voice was heard, shouting "Where's my boy? I'm looking for my boy!" Soon the owner of the voice appeared—tall, slim, aged, with silver-gray hair, dressed in a full suit of broadcloth. A tall silk hat and a clerical collar and cravat completed his attire. His voice, familiar to the people of Virginia, was deep and powerful. As he continued to shout the men replied, "Go back, old gentleman; you'll get hurt here; go back, go back!" "No, no," said he; "I can go anywhere my boy has to go, and the Lord is here. I want to see my boy, and I will see him!" Then the order "Forward!" was given, and the men made once more for the enemy. The old gentleman, his beaver in one hand, a big stick in the other, his long hair flying, shouting, "Come on, boys!" disappeared in the depths of the woods, well in front.

Notes on Education.

That women appreciate the advantages of the higher education is proved by the fashion in which they flock to Smith College. Therefore many more students than can be accommodated in the cottages.

There is much good sense in the declaration of the Baltimore Day, that it is not simply necessary to fit boys and girls for some vocation that will give them a living, but that the real object of education is to teach them how they will be able to find enjoyment and contentment in life; and if this is rightly done, if the virtues of industry, of honesty and of fidelity are thoroughly enforced and inculcated, there will be no need of either special or technical education—the practical education which all need and which gives strength and ability to a people will have been attended to. Separate schools exclusively technical are what is needed, not the mingling in one of the industrial and academical elements. The public school course is already so crowded that nothing is taught properly.

"The great defect in city schools," said Dr. Billings in a recent lecture at Baltimore, "is in ventilation. Each student should have thirty cubic feet of air per minute, which, with proper airing of the room during intermissions, will keep the air pure. To introduce this amount of air steadily into a room containing forty or fifty children, and so distribute it that each child shall get his share without unpleasant draughts, requires special arrangements and careful supervision. It is evident that we must allow the same amount of air to escape, and as this carries off heat, it will require much more fuel to warm a well ventilated room than one where the least possible amount of cold air is admitted; and as school boards usually judge of the merits of a heating and ventilating apparatus and of the janitor by the amount of fuel used, it can be seen that in many cases the better ventilation the less they are likely to be pleased."

The standard for admission at Princeton has been raised by the addition of a chapter in Hart's Rhetoric, four books of the Anabasis, instead of three, the second book of Euclid, and Quadralles of Two Unknown Quantities to the requirements for admission to the academic course. After the present year the tuition in the academic course will be $100, instead of $75, as heretofore. The course in psychology has been changed by the addition of physiological psychology, under Drs. Osborn and Scott, the former confining himself to the anatomy of the nervous system, and the latter to the functions of the brain and spinal cord. The historical course is to be greatly strengthened by Professor Sloane. In the sophomore year one exercise a week will be taken up with the Outlines of Universal History; "Freeman's General Sketch of History" being used as a text book, and lectures, narratives and discussions being introduced as occasion requires. In the junior year there will be two exercises a week, occupied with lectures and recitations on the "Transitional Epochs of History," with special reference to the science of politics and progress of civilization. For the seniors there will be one exercise a week, consisting of lectures and recitations on (1) "The Rise and Growth of European Colonies in North America and the Causes of the War of Independence." (2) "Comparative Politics from the Standpoint of American Institutions." It has been proposed at Princeton to make a course in the gymnasium compulsory.

Biblical Research.

The November 6th meeting of the Society of Biblical Archæology was rich in discussions of matters relating to the objects of the Society. Mr. Budge, one of the young Assyrian scholars, who has been lately taking a very careful course of study in Syriac and other Shemitic languages, read a paper on "The Fourth Tablet of the Creation Series," relating to the fight between Marduk Tiamat. The text is partly found in fragments of a tablet belonging to the library of King Assurbanipal, translated in George Smith's "Chaldean Genesis," and partly in a large and very important piece of a tablet brought to England by Mr. Rassam somewhat over a year ago. It originally contained 146 lines, being the fourth chapter of the Creation Legends, and was written, as the colophon states, by a pious Babylonian, named Nabû-Marduk, as a votive gift to the god Nebo, in gratitude for saving his life and that of his father. The subject was the fight between Tiamat and the god Marduk. Tiamat, the personification of darkness, chaos, disorder, and so of the powers of evil, was described by Mr. Budge as the prototype of the serpent of Genesis. Marduk, chosen by the gods for the conflict, and armed with sword and bow, engages in fierce fight with Tiamat, and eventually dashes out the brains of the dragon, a particular which at once calls to recollection "the bruising of the serpent's head," as described in Genesis. There is, however, this noteworthy difference between the Babylonian and the Scriptural accounts. Tiamat is a sea-monster, the sea being regarded apparently as a great hostile power, and so associated with darkness and evil. Tiamat is, moreover, a dragon, a composite creature, not a serpent. The conflict, however, both in the cuneiform text and as depicted on Babylonian seals, always takes place on the land. And it may be observed that this same conflict, portrayed on a large seals, may be seen on a projecting part of the wall in the Assyrian Gallery of the Museum. Here the dragon Tiamat is seen retreating, but still threatening, with claws and her widely-opened mouth. Tiamat has a pair of wings and a scale-covered body. Marduk is advancing to the attack. He has two pairs of wings, and is armed with clubs, and is brandishing a pair of double tridents, which possibly represents lightning. On the seals he is represented either equipped and ready for the conflict, or attacking the dragon with bow and clubs. On one seal, however, the dragon is represented as a serpent, as in the biblical story, and pursued by Merduk. Another paper, by Mr. Pinches, of the British Museum, the accomplished decipherer of cuneiform inscriptions, described some of Mr. Rassam's other discoveries at Sepharvaim (Abu-habba). The most important was an egg-shaped object of beautifully veined marble, pierced lengthwise, and with the inscription, "I, Sargon, the king, have dedicated this to Samas [the sun-god], in Sippara." This is the oldest object in the British Museum, the supposed date of Sargon I, as given definitely in a cylinder of Nabonidus, being 3800 B. C. A cylinder belonging to Bin-sarru, a scribe of Sargon I, is in a French collection. It represents Izdubar (Nimrod) kneeling on one knee, and pouring water out of a vase into the mouth of a bull, which holds its head up to receive the water.

The Shapira swindle is not the only literary fraud that has excited the learned world of Europe of late. The discussion started in 1865 among the Hebrew scholars of the Old World on the age of the tombstone inscriptions found by the Karaite A. Firkowitsch in the old Jewish cemetery at Tschufutkale, in the Crimea, has been carried on with unabated vigor, and is not yet ready to be laid aside. It will be remembered that in this year Professor Chwolson, of St. Petersburg, published eighteen Hebrew inscriptions found by Firkowitsch, and for which the remarkably high date of the first Christian century was claimed, the oldest being dated 30 A. D. If all this claim been true, the paleographical and historical benefits to be drawn from these inscriptions would have been very great. These claims provoked investigation and reply, in which Professor Strack (then in Russia,) and Harkavy, of St. Petersburg, took a prominent part. These scholars proved beyond a rational doubt that Firkowitsch was a fraud of the first class, and that by slight changes in the Hebrew letters used to mark dates he had systematically antedated all those inscriptions, and that the oldest inscriptions were of the year 5009 of the creation, (1249 A. D.) The discussion falling in the time of the Shapira pottery fraud in Berlin by Shapira, it assumed a rancorous character scarcely in consonance with scientific debate. Especially did Harkavy overleap the bounds of propriety and indulge in personal abuse. For a while the matter rested, but has of late been revived again by the publication by Chwolson of a book, "Corpus Inscriptionum Hebraicarum," in which he renders a full account of his further investigations into this matter, and also of his two trips, made in 1878 and 1881, into the Crimea for this purpose. He is now fully convinced that Firkowitsch is a spiritual brother of the worthy Shapira and fully his equal in fraud, but claims that he has discovered a number of tombstones whose inscriptions really do antedate the thirteenth century, and read up as high as the seventh or even the third. The matter is now again sub judice; and, under the impetus given by the pseudo-Deuteronomy MS., will doubtless call forth a lively debate. So far the critics seem to be making haste slowly in accepting the new conclusion, and at most admit the possibility, but nothing more, that they may have a foundation in truth.

MY SOUTHERN TOUR.

BY THE MANAGER.

After taking leave of a number of brethren at Macon, we boarded the cars for the purpose of continuing our journey to Greenwood, S. C., the seat of the Columbia Conference. We were put in an old baggage car—I call it the dog car. There was no ventilation except you hoisted your window; the seats were hard and uncomfortable. In this box were crowded the educated Christian gentlemen, Bishop Dickerson, D.D., Dr. Arnett, Financial Secretary, the Business Manager, Rev. W. C. Bratton, and several other ministers holding first-class tickets. All night we were obliged to put up with that kind of fare, except about two hours, where we laid over to change cars at midnight, when we got out of the cars in the dark, away out in the country somewhere, and made our way the best we could to a place called the depot. On entering we found a fire, and around it sat four or five rough looking white men. I never saw a ku-klux, but if I had been looking for them I should have said to my companions, these are the fellows. They looked, too, as if they had been on a raid or were prepared for one. The meanest looking set of fellows I ever saw. Well, I don't know; they may have escaped from prison or——I will not say where, but this I will say: they were selfish and unkind. While they sat toasting their shins until they almost roasted, they never offered to let one of us come near. We had to sit back in the cold and do the best we could. To my mind, all they wanted was what they would call a pretext. If we had contended for our rights I believe those men were ready to do anything the devil wanted them to do. It was a relief to us when the train came, an outer another dog-car, not much better than the one we left. The white people of the North cannot form any conception of how colored people are treated in the South unless they were to paint themselves and crimp their hair and travel as black men and women, and then, I tell you they will learn something.

We arrived at Augusta at about 7 o'clock next morning. We could not get any supper at Macon; got nothing all night, could get no breakfast at Augusta and it was 1 o'clock when we got to Greenwood; and before we could get anything to eat it was 2 o'clock. On our way from Augusta to Greenwood there was but one car, and that was divided—one-half for luggage, the other for passengers. The balance of the train was freight; and don't you know, a mean, contemptible white man, with his whiskey and the devil, wanted the conductor to put us out of that, because white folks had to ride in it. I said to Bishop Dickerson, "This kind of treatment is not helping my religion one bit. Hungry and bedeviled all night, now want to make us get out of the only car on the train. I suppose he wanted the conductor to put us in with the freight." These are some of the things our Bishops and General Officers and ministers have to encounter in this almost God-forsaken country. But there will be a change; it cannot last. If our people will steadfastly look to getting homes, educating their children, deal honestly, dress becoming, tidy and clean, conduct themselves properly, throw away their tobacco and snuff, do not touch whiskey and beer, love the Lord and serve him with a pure heart, and he who is the God of the oppressed will redress the untold wrongs of a poor, despised and outraged people.

The conference opened Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, Bishop W. F. Dickerson presiding. After the usual religious exercises the roll was called and about 140 brethren answered the call; and, strange to say, thirty-three or four stood waiting to have their names enrolled as applicants for membership—Dr. Arnett said, a conference knocking at the door of a conference; and let me say, the most of these men were young and vigorous bright and intelligent, giving promise of being strong men in the future if they will be faithful to God and themselves. The hopeful sign of all our Southern work is that intelligent, thoughtful young men are coming into the ministry. A stream cannot flow above the fountain. Like priest like people. In proportion as intelligent, God-fearing young men come in and lead on the host and keep ahead of the coming church morally, intellectually and religiously—that is to say, be able to teach by example and precept—the Church will grow and become a power for good. I believe more depends upon the A. M. E. Church to-day than any other organization of colored people for weal or woe as it respects the future of the race in this country. May divine wisdom guide the old ship that Allen launched.

PROF. B. K. SAMPSON.

IN REPLY TO BISHOP H. M. TURNER'S SCATHING LETTER ON THE DECISION OF THE SUPREME COURT TOUCHING THE CIVIL RIGHTS BILL.

Bishop H. M. Turner, D.D., LL.D.:

Right Rev. Sir—An open letter to me touching my speech upon the recent decision of the Supreme Court of this nation appeared a short time ago in the Memphis Appeal.

That I advised my fellow citizens to deal coolly and deliberately with the grave question before them I do not deny, but my speech, which was delivered from manuscript, utterly refutes the charge of "insipid acquiescence" to that decision.

As a Bishop, representing one of the largest religious bodies in America, your right to be heard in the cause of a people whose manhood claims you would vindicate, is at once acknowledged. I commend the courage of brave conviction, and I examine the motive which impels to manly utterance. But the cause which you have so nobly and so long espoused in the interest of liberty and humanity is none the less mine—mine from the highest sense of honor and duty, a duty which I owe to myself, my fellows and my God.

I am no apologist for a court which has without scruple, without a blush or regret, interposed against the rights of the poor and despised colored man.

I offer no compromise with injustice and treachery, I surrender not one jot or tittle of the great principles of human justice and manhood equality; I yield to none in arduous, consistent and unflinching devotion to the cause of my race. And to those who know me best and know of my earnest labors in the anti-slavery movement of this country, I submit my record as an evidence of that sincerity, that fidelity and devotion to freedom's cause.

I charged with the responsibility, alike with yourself, of guarding the sacred rights of my people, I am anxious at all times to say and do what I believe to be absolutely right, and to inspire hopeful views and sentiments in a race still struggling for a nobler and a higher life. I would impress these sentiments in the mind of the youth, I would teach them to the weak and waverleg and bid the oppressed in every land take courage, continue the fight, assured that never was there a principle worth contending for that did not have its trials, its opposition and its fears; that all we have endured and shall yet suffer is the price paid for the restoration and establishment of the righteousness of human equality.

We may recount the trials and hardships of the human race; we may excite the sympathy and rage of our purest philanthropists; we may recite the story of man's inhumanity to man and shroud it in a mantle of black despair, but aleft, upon the eternal throne of right, hope beckons us onward to a high and lasting destiny. Animated by that hope, I avowed my faith in God, my trust in the great American people. Under a sworn oath the Judges of the Supreme Court have presumed to define the powers and limitations of our national Constitution. They deny their right to exercise jurisdiction over a matter which they regard as belonging to the States. Confronted by such a verdict I am not disposed to overload the Court with anathema. I regard that decision as tending greatly to repress the hopes and aspirations of the colored people. I regard it as an act of extreme injustice, a conspiracy, malignant plotting, conceived in the spirit of a merciless prejudice which cowardly plunders its victim of goods once restored. It has stifled the new-born spirit of the nation and fettered the hand of justice. It has tampered with a divine right, a right which no human power can invade with impunity. That right has been emphasized in the sublime command of the Immaculate Saviour, "Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you do ye even so unto them;" and upon this principle the fathers established this government and adopted the Constitution. The amendments were mere provisions for probable contingencies. When that immortal Declaration was announced to the world, it contemplated, in the providence of the Almighty, liberty to all men. It intended the fullest immunity to every subject, an obligation assured in the memorable pledge that "all men are created free and equal." The American people know this. The judges know this, even though accusing conscience whips their souls in very shame. That is a loathsome spirit which demands protection for itself and dares not accord it to its fellows. I detest the heart which insults God and discriminates against his image. In the midst of such a crisis duty becomes paramount. By judicious management we may eliminate the dangers which seem to await us.

The tendency of American institutions is onward, and we are to adopt such a course as shall bring to us those rights outlined in the act. The decision of the court is not a decision of the American people. Far from it. The elemental principles of the common law afford a hopeful prospect of an equal rule in all that concerns the existence of our national government. The principles and designs which have thus far contributed to the greatness and success of the republic are the same to which America owes her present progress. We ourselves have a hand in shaping the affairs of this nation. Let us, then, battle on and labor to utilize every means to the cause of a perfect liberty. This government cannot too long afford to encroach upon the rights of a single citizen. Charlemange, in France, and Alfred, in England, never so signally failed as when they attempted to harmonize their system of government upon unequal laws. The spirit of the English people strove against royal tyranny to maintain the maxims of liberty, and, undaunted in the struggle, it became mightier than the throne.

The American people are not formed of an eternal adamant, subject to no vicissitudes of change. Liberty is too strong, its march is too well begun and we as a nation cannot escape the constructive agency of Omnipotence.

Exasperated and cast down as we are by this hapless stroke, this overshadowing calamity, and one which dooms us to a living grave, let it be remembered that the public mind is softening while it ripens, and everywhere a moral change is being wrought even by ourselves. Now, as in the past, we are to meet every issue dispassionately and sue for our own. By agitation, by litigation and appeal I would call the nation to a halt, and I would induce a sentiment of righteousness and fair play. If it has forgotten so soon the memorable deeds of the negro during the past hundred years, forgotten his timely services amid the uncertain issues of war, again I would remind this nation of the first sacrificial offering, when Caldwell, Attucks, Gray and Marwick fell. I would ask this nation to remember the behaviour of our colored soldiers at New Orleans, to consider their heroic devotion, their suffering and death around Port Hudson, Fort Wagner, Fort Pillow, Honey Hill, Olustee, Petersburgh, Richmond and Appomattox, and I would tell it everywhere that whenever a nation forgets the great principles of human justice, ignores the sacred law of right and spurns benignant Providence, retribution, remotely if not speedily, must follow as sure as the effect follows the cause. What man, then, of undefiled heart will impiously despise the inherent rights of the negro? What soul, unless steeled against the tenderest emotions of the heart, would betray such heartless ingratitude to this race?

I tell you, most reverend sir, that decision is not a finality. The rights of every American must and will be placed beyond all cavil, beyond all political strife, beyond the prejudice and machinations of man. In the darkest hour of our country we have been loyal. We can afford to be loyal still. Time will heal every wound. I believe in God, I believe in the patriotism and wisdom of the people, I believe in the ultimate triumph of right over wrong and I believe that the masses, becoming imbued with the spirit of true philanthropy, shall yet mutualize their efforts to make every man's rights as sacred as their own. We are helpers for ourselves, and Christianity and civilization are our allies.

I am yours with very high regards,
B. K. SAMPSON.

AN APPEAL TO MY BROTHER PASTORS.

TO MY BROTHER PASTORS—I scarcely need tell you that our connection is building a Metropolitan or connectional church in Washington City. Understand me, my dear brother pastors, it is the connection itself, by the sanction and order of its General Conference, that undertakes this glorious work; in conjunction, of course, with the goodly Union Bethel congregation. In the judgment of the Bishop of the conference, I was sent to manage the work as best I could, just as any of you might have been sent had you been in the Baltimore Conference. But, Jonah-like, the lot fell upon me; but, unlike Jonah, I have no wish to flee from a hard and unpleasant task. I prefer to stand at the post of duty, as I am persuaded the majority of you would prefer to stand; for African Methodist preachers are not given to looking nor running. Rather would they prefer to die at Nineveh than live at Tarshish. But, my dear brother pastors, I am here and I wish to succeed. As your brother, I appeal to you for help. I am too well acquainted with the ups and downs of the Methodist ministry not to know that in some stage of your career you have wished for help. Just where you were I am; only with a load ten times as great as the greatest possibly you ever carried. But I would not have it lighter. Anything less than we are doing would not become the connection of which we all are so proud, and justly so. I only would wish it were possible for you all to see the building we are putting up. But believe me when I say that it is a structure that will reflect credit upon the Church, the race, and even the nation. There is nothing like it within our borders. But will you not feel for me, a brother pastor, and help me carry this load? If only if he to the extent of one pound. I know that our churches are all poor; and many of them in debt. But the condition of even the worst is good compared to this one. And yet I would not have you allow this appeal to interfere with anything you and your dear people may be doing. From my heart I say, God bless them and God bless you. But will you not upon some Sunday during this present month, after you shall have done everything you proposed doing, will you not, just before you pronounce benediction, ask your people to stay for a ten minutes longer—long enough to read this appeal and take the few pennies or dimes that I know some will be willing to give. You know how good our people are, and I know how ready they are to share with the Church. Therefore I say, I know some will be willing to give. I make this appeal to the dear brethren of all the districts, of all the conferences, and of all the churches. O, my dear brethren, remember what is said of Zebulun and Naphtali, "they were a people that jeoparded their lives" in coming up to the help of the Lord; while the people of Meroz came not up. Come to my help, my dear brethren, this time, and believe me to be your brother in bonds,

JAS. A. HANDY.

NOTICE.

To the Brethren of the Texas Conferences.

Previous to the setting of your conferences I solicited Rev. W. B. Carson to act as agent for the Department and he accepted in accordance therewith. I forwarded books for sale and bills for collection, with rates and so forth, to each one of the Texas Conferences. Since, I have learned that some little difficulty has arisen which I hope will not prevent him from disposing of the stock on hand and also collecting bills and subscriptions.

"In strange what trifles friendships cool
Where bond affections seemed entwined,
Death and sorry were sanctioned.
Oh! bear can friends as sterling land
An ear to what death heart-action send,
No highly spread is daily fact,
And wound the loving, faithful heart.
A leaf for human love, as frail,
It cannot weather wintry gale
A word, a look, a guileless smile
Will oft the doubting heart beguile;
In passion's heart a shadow may
Forever darken life's brief day
Of joy and trust in human kind.
Who doth not on observance find
That whom to-day with kisses meet,
May on the morrow simply greet
With coldness and averted glance
Our beauty and of sinners advance?
One says, "That lading out of friends,
Renewal is of love;" and lends
A lesson false to lips weary
Attests wandering in the fatal way.
But ah! if it so frail a thing,
This love of which the poets sing;
'Tis like a glittering crystal globe
Wa tightly touch, nor dare to probe
Its soundness by the slightest jar
Than might its subject beauty mar;
For, once 'tis crushed we cannot mend
The shattered fabric! we may bend
To search the scattered bits and tend
Our wife sight not to make them fit
In vain. So friendship ne'er can be rakuit into a thing as nothing's new
Once hain unkindness rent the soul.
Forgiveness cannot truly hide
The specter gloing one by side,
Of grim mistrust, which treachery
Implants: the germ of misery.
Ah, me! how priceless is the gem,
Brightest and purest in diadem,
Falter than earthly jewels rare,
Which worldly gifts beyond compare,
That rarest unalloyed love
Instilled within us from above!
That friendship which no change of tide
In fortune e'er can alter:
Which worldly storms can ne'er divide,
Nor bitterest trials falter,
Which brightest in misfortune proves,
The spirit's loneliness removes.
When fortune smiles, then "friends" abound,
But, ah! how hollow is the sound
Of flattery that falls from lips,
That visit the golden public's sips
Our "health and happiness"—
All mockery and emptiness.
Let adversity come in sight,
Those parasite friends will swift their flight,
What bitter pain, then, in the thought
That they whose hearts were meeting fraught
With friendship simple, true and pure,
Were but by dazzling lures bought,
Not for the season to endure
In worldly wise fidelity
While brightly shone prosperity.
Oh! what could heal the deadly wound
Or soothe the deep'ning sorrow issued
By such a sad reflection
On human imperfection?
Ah! what the aching void can fill
In passion's wild emotions still?
What luxury in throbbing veins,
The ocean of despair that lures
The soul in time agony?
'Tis knowledge of a tender care
Divine that doth our sorrows share,
A love that never can deceive,
That doth live, always living believe,
And points us to our deepest sorrow
To a distant, yet and bright to-morrow.
'Tis this our school workers, heavenly love
Of things which we cling to here below;
It raises our hearts from the darkness of sin,
And makes us better and purer within.
A holy love so grand and sure,
It stamps the rebel's heart to meet;
A Father's love so high and pure
That ever is faithful and ever sure.
And though we oft grieve Him and wander away,

Yet, ever returning we hear Him say,
"My poor and my blessing I'm ever to do
Cease, sorrowing sinner, come unto me."
Then let us cling to this friend of our
In love which endeth our every fear.
That love hath power to bind our hearts
Shall be the sweet theme of our joyous songs
And though all earthly friends may fail,
We will not look up to the Father of
But will ever look up to the Father of
Who hath promised the faithful their battles to fight,
And will time our glad hearts to the joyful refrain
It will all be made well when life cometh again.

GENERAL CONFERENCE.

MAJOR NOTES—MINOR NOTES—FIERY BUT COOL HEADED MEN—SOUND JUDGMENT—AND NUMEROUS "SO FORTHS."

BY REV. C. W. FORTE.

The time is drawing nigh when the men who are to shape the destiny of, possibly, six millions souls, will be assembled in general council. There are agitations many, and issues important; every one who has served four years as a regular itinerant minister feels as though he must be present as a delegate. Some men, no doubt, have been forming great plans, and have organized leaders for the last year's or six to secure influence at the coming election. Others are not willing to be driven or some important issue, but will be moved by the spirit of logic and pathos. Others, to many, political purposes, hence a grist. Some are going to kill and cripple; some to illustrate that they may see their names in high places; others to do the Church good and to honor the Lord. Two often pass sick into the hospital, and die, fatigued by losing sight their work. Oh, can we [illegible] the fervent prayer of a [illegible] Lord, that we may be [illegible] men to promulgate none [illegible] men to [illegible] and [illegible] the master plan of an [illegible] port.

Our Discipline is revised every four years; many laws and changes cannot obtain between the [illegible] of [illegible] churches in one and adverse interests in the other. Many of the [illegible] needs [illegible] attended meetings. In some rooms the one is seeking, and other the fact. In another [illegible] organ, written sermons and resolutions reading, some of the [illegible] opposition, [illegible] of fraternizing in a national sense; while the other, [illegible] sentiment of the [illegible] sectional temper of the old sound [illegible] a funeral dirge, or plantation banjo melody of old. One cries out for much book learning, and the other not enough, and so the matter goes; it is fast becoming all around. But standing up [illegible] among women, while the deep voiced thunder rolls out a solo that causes creation to tremble—the lightning painting fold charge, lies on the south and horizon, behold we see that the 6th of the new need more of the law of God in their hearts especially when we are required to have but one God; to keep the Sabbath day holy, to honor thy father and mother, and to refrain from bearing false witness against neighbors. We stand on Calvary, by the side of the cross, look on Jesus, look down on the people and behold in the old and new a fearful absence of the blood of Christ applied—"For his blood cleanseth from all sins." In old and new much sin remains, especially the sin of hatred and malice. Jesus said, "By this shall all men know ye are my disciples, that ye love one another." In many portions of the Church, love is very conspicuous by reason of its absence. The thrusts, charges and counter-charges, recriminations, blisters, backbitings, and divers isotherps from the frigid zone of an unconverted state, have swept down upon the bench in the Church, to wither, and stand, for holy writ declares "That the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." When will become of our insensible bodies, slim drywood, otherwise fire [illegible] when will we [illegible] bear, who will not further, cannot be called to order? Let them talk on the matter. However interested one man be, that one man is not the Church; what any one man may want done, body else want? Will it do the Church good? Will it advance the Redeemer's kingdom? There can be no good or successful legislation unless the sole purpose is to advance His kingdom.

Men of sober judgment are wanted, men who really know something of the needs of the Church. Many men are writing on the presiding elder system and salary; it is a matter that can not be regulated to suit all men; one man would hardly understand the plan before they would be out of office or another General Conference would be upon us. Some presiding elders are sure to get their salaries, they are popular, they attend strictly to their work and treat their pastors as men and brethren; they do not assume too much dictatorial power over men; others could not actually draw their salaries from the Financial Secretary if it was the law. They are remarkable for incompetency and it is a very doubtful case of quien sabe how they obtained the office. Some men complain because presiding elders happen to get a fine pair of boots and a few dollars, would never let it be known that they thought any man was getting more than myself. No presiding elder ever raised more money on his work than he himself or any other cause. Let a man work and he will succeed. Pastors are men of more importance to the Church than being a few man's salaries, and by all means let the most important come first. Let the sober men speak and if a man cannot keep with ministerial help alleged.

Among the numerous "so forths" in the legislative hall of publicly slandering men and ministers; the most furious onslaughts and most unprovoked ever witnessed in all my life has been between ministers of the gospel. The most unjust assaults in the battle of Nashville, were but slight skirmishes in comparison to some of the ministerial orderly charges I have witnessed in life, or read in the columns of some paper. Surely it is time to call a halt. Let January 1st to May 1st should be a season of prayer for the forthcoming General Conference. The union of colored Methodists would be a grand movement; it should be talked about and prayed for that such results might follow. Let them settle their differences, their numbers, their piety, their power and white Americans would be more ready to hear us. Our separations and attending weakness, our bickerings and heart-burnings prevent us from being heard from a poor house to a poor farm full. Seven millions negroes in America, and not one chartered, institution owned and controlled by them [illegible] twenty street begging. There are all on the lift. Well, must stop the more to write the darker becomes the ball; till a blaster broken Civil Rights decision deploys its demon-like [illegible] in the negro's face, ready to snatch the ballot from his hands. No longer can we afford to fight each other for the sake of little, petty sectional party prejudices. It is "Unite or die."

SABBATH SCHOOL CONVENTION LOUISIANA CONFERENCE A. M. E. CHURCH.

BY A. L. HENDERSON.

The body convened to the call of the Board of Managers, convened at Bates House, La., on Saturday, November 24th, 1883, Brother A. L. Henderson, Rev. Johnson Reed, presiding elder, in the chair. Prof. A. H. Colwell, of Baton Rouge, acted as secretary.

It was made apparent on the calling of the roll that the convention was to be a truly representative body of the educational position of our church in the State. Every district was represented consecutive sited with the other in contributing to the success of the convention and the accomplishment of the objects for which it had assembled.

The following audience visitors committees were appointed and among the subjects discussed by them, it was thought may be stated that of temperance, literature and the duties of the Sabbath school superintendent. In as much as the committee reported and the convention proceeded to discuss the several reports of the committees, it is deemed needless to enter into a detailed account of the discussions which followed. Suffice it to say that the reports were accepted and adopted as read, and the several committees were discharged.

On the subject of temperance, many resolutions were submitted to show that the convention was opposed to the use of intoxicating liquors, and that it would be conducive to health and happiness if total abstinence was the motto by and thereby enjoy that respect from all classes that its non-observance would not entail upon us. The convention subsequently adopted the report and each resolution contained therein as being as sound on the temperance question, and the Rev. Johnson Reed pitched the tune during the year have used the choicest hymns and tune compositions obtainable, in the Church's Hymnal, Bliss' Carols of Joy and International Lessons have been brought into service.

Under the head of "The Home of the Sabbath School" it is to be regretted that, owing to the unsettled state of the progress of our Sabbath schools has been and is being seriously retarded. A large majority of the ministers of our Church in this State were notably from this intervention, and that without an excuse or a reason for such absence. Now, Mr. Editor, you will at once see that these men are either uneducated and ignorant of the great importance of the Sabbath school and the responsibility resting on them, or are guilty of wilful neglect of the duties of their high calling.

If the former is the case, they should at once be disciplined and made to improve in knowledge; or if the latter holds good they should be notified that their services are no longer required and to step down and out. While this may seemingly be pretty hard, it is truly a sure remedy and will prove of inestimable benefit to those whose interest is at stake.

There were several prizes awarded to the sabbath schools presenting the largest amount in proportion in numerical strength. Baton Rouge was awarded the first—a beautiful banner valued at $50. Bayou Goula the second and Bayou Sara the Third. Financially the convention was a success. Throughout the deliberations Rev. Johnson Reed, presiding elder and chairman, presided in his usual dignified and scholarly manner, showing what clearness and ability which has given him an enviable reputation as a parliamentarian and a thorough Christian gentleman.

Resolutions complimentary to his labors worth and sterling character were unanimously passed. Since his connection with the Louisiana A. M. E. Conference, Elder Reed has done good or an inestimable value in the vineyard of the Lord. There could be many more such men, we as a people would be better off.

The hospitalities shown to the members of the convention were immense and highly characteristic of the generous citizens of Baton Rouge.

Elder Adam Jacobs, pastor in charge of Bethel church, certainly acted in the capacity of host as only few men can act. The convention, by rising vote expressed its gratitude.

Talbotsare was selected as the place for the meeting of the next convention Bayou Sara, La.

NOTE AND ESSAY.

The grand sociable and supper given by Queen Esther Court, No. 146, I. O. U. at the residence of Rev. C. Evans, a Christian gentleman, was the grandest and first of its kind ever given in this city. The hall was prepared the time in fine index with everything of the best. The committee of the various departments of the first table the audience listened attentively to the reading of an essay entitled "The Home of Woman," by Mrs. O. C. Jordan, the M. E. Church. She was escorted before the audience by the following officers: Mrs. J. Lambright, W. Dep, bearing the scepter; Mrs. J. Lee, P. C. with the Holy Bible in hand; Mrs. R. Connor, carrying the [illegible].

THE ENERGY OF WOMEN.

Gentlemen and Ladies at the Grand Sociable:

Happy are we to meet with you in this grand sociable, the first of the kind ever held in this city. Bearing the grand and excellent, the grand Sociable of the Court of Queen Esther, No. 146, I. O. U. Which is blending such smiling upon which angels look with peculiar pleasure and God smiles of approbation. The salvation of our race demands our constant, earnest and prayerful consideration. In every step in the march of civilization, woman has taken a prominent part. In many instances she has been in train leading to those in the rear to come on; she has been the friend of the forty-trodden in every age of the world. Her words of entreaty to the present generation to abolish and overthrow the intoxicating drinks from off the face of the earth have been in the church, and on the platform pleading that something be done to liberate our land from the threefold influences—and it is strictly consequences; she is and always has been a strong advocate for education. A woman's influence in the past has been wonderful. It would have been well for the world if it had always

THE NEW YEAR '83.

The year '83 has gone, or will have by the time this reaches the eyes of our readers. The year '84 is at hand. With one and the same breath we say: Good Bye! How do? And are these salutations suggestive? Good Bye, with its period. How do? with its interrogation. And what is a period but the most substantial way of recognizing the fact that we have reached an end. And what an interrogation, but an equally substantial way of recognizing the fact that we have reached a beginning. An end and a beginning, indicative alike of our changeful state; for in the eternity to which we go, there is neither end nor beginning. The lesson briefly stated is: Live in a way that when you reach ending or beginning, it will be seen that we have lived to a purpose.

THE BRITISH AND THE BOERS.

Referring once again to the peoples named above we are led to remark that the weak have little to depend upon. Were this not so, England would be for ever lording it over, and more degrading constraint, her pledge to the people of Zululand; especially as these are menaced by those rascally Boers. But what can be expected of a race like they have been known to brow-beat even the English and, to use unlanguage, "get away with it" as to them, they have any respect for the barbarous Zulus is too much. But Providence in the way of making the strong do right by the weak, as we saw in the days of our Rebellion. Had not Providence so complicated affairs, the slaves would never have received their freedom, much less have been incorporated into the nation. It is some such complication as this that Providence has thrown around the English colonies in their South African affairs: and so effective is it that they will be literally compelled to come to the rescue of the natives. We come to this conclusion from what a recent edition of the Tribune says: "England's responsibility must," says the American Thunderer, "arises from the fact that the Boers, if once they are given the complete independence they demand, will be certain to find abundant excuses for further and yet further annexation, and that since it is impossible to hold the native tribes with an absolutely tight rein, there is no means of preventing them from successfully playing into the hands of an aggressive and determined community like that of the Transvaal. She cannot abandon these tribes altogether, or if she does she might as well prepare to withdraw from South Africa. She therefore can hardly afford to make the concessions required of her by the Boers, and if she does not the Boers are quite capable of renouncing her suzerainty, and proceeding with their policy of annexation in spite of her. It is a difficult situation, for of course Mr. Gladstone does not want even to seem to interfere vexatiously with the Boers, and yet he may be compelled to choose between a policy of coercion and one of abandonment, and it is not likely that English public opinion will sanction the latter."

THE BALM IN GILEAD.

Scarcely a day passes but what one is brought face to face with the story of some ghastly suicide. Its ends and its appalled. He reads and asks: Is not the world really growing worse? Undoubtedly, if the number of suicides reported be taken as the judge. Whether there is any truth in the argument that the reason why the number appears so great is that the eagle-eyed men of the Associated press allow nothing to pass unnoticed, we prefer not to discuss. Our thing we know, that the cause of self destructive are awfully prevalent, and among men of all classes and all conditions. The question is, is there any remedy, coy Balm in Gilead? We verily believe there is, and for the worst affliction a Balm sufficient to deter even the most determined suicide. Furthermore, a Balm that serves not by hearsay, but by making the malady impossible, and that, too, without a single additional pang. The following telegraphed over the country from far-off Colorado:

Much ignorance is caused by the use of the words of John Emerson, a miner, whose body was found partially covered with dirt, having the throat cut and gashed in a terrible manner. Emerson had worked a time card by himself, and the theory has hitherto evidently cased. Some heavy rocks fell on his feet and breaking the right ankle. He had doubtless taken out his knife and endeavored to cut himself loose, as his feet was still up and down; but he could not accomplish his feat. After long and laborious waiting, and vain endeavors to get out of the cut, he evidently cut his throat, preferring not to die by inches in his helpless entanglement.

Imagine the misery of that man and then ask: What is the remedy that should have made the thought of suicide a thousand fold more hateful than death? Was it not his hopelessly to the earth; nay that would have prevented such a tragedy. He is nothing less than a fool, the balance of the year. No name will be entered on the regular list until something is paid.

THE FOLLOWING is what United States Minister Lowell has alerted said previous to prosecuting sentence upon the recently convicted Georgia Ku Klux:

The offence for which you have been convicted is one of the very gravest character. The freedom of election is a necessity for the good of the State, and of the greatest importance to the welfare of people. It is of all in all in the form of a Republic, the machinery and the motive and electious, if the voter may not exist. The question before you What is the right of suffrage worth if it can be exercised under the fear that unless it be exercised so as to suit the desires of the people the voter will be waked up at night by a lawless band, and there shamefully and cruelly beaten. The acts of which you have been found guilty are not therefore mere acts of violence against the bodies and personal vitals of the Republic, and if permitted to continue would make the right of a vote a sham and a snare. The circumstances under this case is particularly aggravated one. The violence was in the dead of night, in the presence of the terrified and frenzied children of those who treated, and the beating was most cruel and bloody. Indeed, one could hardly suppose it possible that without some special personal animosity the heart of man could be so entirely capable of such deliberate, bitter and heartless cruelty as the evidence in this case exhibits. That the victims were negroes—formerly slaves of your fellow-citizens, and ignorant, as it seems to me, aggravates the offence. Their condition of life, their poverty, their ignorance ought to excite the sympathy of the good citizen instead of awakening in him the worst and most degrading purposes of their nature. In view of the circumstances, I feel it my duty especially in view of the effect which the overthrow of such acts if permitted would have upon the freedom of elections, and that those who do them may know that they will receive the risk of no light penalty, I have not felt myself at liberty to treat the offence as one of assault and battery, but to consider it an offence against liberty itself and to punish it accordingly.

Referring to it, a New York secular paper says: "This is a sermon upon holidays which ought to be read from the pulpit of every Southern church until the "best citizens" everywhere are ashamed of such acts."

What is the significance of this reference to the churches by this secular paper? Is it not that the Ku Klux criminis in these Ku-Klux? Precisely. Alas for any people when the light that is within it is darkness. And this is the condition of the South to-day, and the condition of the North, too, to a degree that many are slow to admit. What is the cause of the Ku-Klux but the spirit of the color line? And that the color-line exists at the North cannot be denied; and exists without the excuse that the poor ignorance of the South is there. In condemning the South, the men of the North have reason to fear that some Nathan will say: Thou art the man.

IT IS VERY questionable whether any company of slogers among us could abandon these tribes altogether, or if she does she might as well prepare to withdraw from South Africa. She therefore can hardly afford to make the concessions required of her by the Boers, and if she does not the Boers are quite capable of renouncing her suzerainty, and proceeding with their policy of annexation in spite of her. THE PARTY that is to sweep the country two years hence must be the whole strongest plank will be Prohibitory. It is to this that the Republican party must come if it hope to occupy the seat of power another quarter of a century. Drunkenness, like slavery, must be driven out the land. The party that will do it is the party that will live.

TO THE President of Allen University, the Rev. Dr. J. C. Waters, we are under obligations for "Brief Rules for Hymn Study and Hints on Preaching." The rules are admirably wrought out by experience, we doubt not they can be followed with advantage.

KOSSUTH'S "Martin Luther, the Reformer," (Cassell & Co., N. Y.) is a book that should be in the hands of all young men, especially those of the class. showing, as it does, the lofty service it is possible for one person to render mankind.

WE INVITE the attention of all our readers to an article from the pen of Rev. J. H. Morgan, who is engaged in writing the history of the New Jersey Conference.

"HIP, HIP, hurrah for the negro's first magazine!" is the salutation a cultured West Indian gives to our proposed publication.

Church News.

SUNDAY, December 23rd, we spent with the Rev. Israel Derrick, pastor in charge of Newark station. Not since the Rev. B. J. M. Long's administration had we been permitted to visit this interesting portion of our work. Our readers of this section of the country need not be told that it was a cold day, it was simply stinging. That it affected the service we dissent. And well it might, for the church was freezing cold; and to expect people to worship and listen at one and the same time, is a little too much. Oh, for a generation of good sextons! And yet a goodly number turned out, and while the collection was not what it might, it was a good collection of the pastor, all things considered, it was very good. To the afternoon we listened to a "converted Catholic priest," who succeeded admirably in tearing the papal banner into shreds. At night was a temperance meeting. A fair audience was out and a number of really good temperance speeches were made; especially the one by the pastor. It is always a pleasure to hear and see Brother Derrick. Would that all gave the same certain sound. Altogether we had a profitable time under pastor Derrick's administration in the Newark station. But when we remember that full one-half of a minister's success depends upon the church, we can be excused by the assertion. There is only one thing we have failed to do, for which I am sorry. That is the people have not and say they will not, pay the presiding elder! I have used my influence in his behalf but because I have not succeeded in raising his salary he has taken this much of misrepresenting me and my church to the public. If any one doubts this publication please come down and see us. We will accommodate you free of charge."

—Quite a surprise was tendered to Rev. Dr. C. O. H. Thomas, on last Sabbath night, by the members of his church, by the presentation of an elegant gold-headed cane and a purse of gold. Dr. Thomas replied in a feeling manner, thanking the people for their kindness and faithfulness in the the discharge of the duties of his pastorate. The presentation speech was made by Mr. F. O'Connell, who in a terse manner reviewed the labors of his pastor, and the success that had attended his efforts. The Rev. Mr. Thomas, as replied in a feeling manner, with the head of the cane the following engraving appears: "Presented by the Rev. D. H. Thomas, Pastor, Zion Chapel, M. E. Church, Natchez, Miss., Jan. 2, 1883," then follows the donor's name engraved on the crook.—Natchez Democrat.

—Prof. D. E. Sampson, we were told, had charge of the Korner Grammar and High School, and took in about three Sunday schools and seventy-five scholars. Now we have six churches, thirteen members, five Sunday schools and seven hundred scholars. The pastor that was speciated to West Point two years ago ought to make the journey to their work made it hard for us, therefore had to do his work of a pastor in a hurry. Bro. Wells is home in West Point Church $20.45 in debt, but with pride herself in having Prof. Sampson.—Arkansas Herald.

—Mr. H. H. Reynolds, of Chicago, a colored man and old railroad porter, has invented and patented a car window ventilator which is proving a grand success.

—A Cleveland Leader correspondent quotes a Register's estimate in Congress, saying of Senator Brown, of Georgia: "Did you ever see him carry an umbrella when there was the faintest sign of rain? He holds it in front of him. Well, he does that because he has to look under the umbrella on the ground, for fear he will wear out the heels."

—Of Mr. O'Hara, the colored Representative in Congress from North Carolina, The Rochester Democrat relates that not long ago, in North Carolina, he had introduced to him a couple of lately landed Hibernians who were to be baptized by Canon O'Hara. Having in him a vein of humor, and good powers of mimicry, he indulged in some fun at their expense. "What we do say is they are impracticable." said he, "and they are impracticable." So acted: "O'Hara, is it? Pat O'Hara or Shamus O'Hara?" "The same," replied they, in smarmest "and who the devil are you?" "Why, yer kinsman, begorra," said he; "as we are the same kind of clothes as this country has been bad for us complexion too, as ye may notice——" The two sons of the sod have not been seen in North Carolina since.

Notes on Education.

The Connecticut State Normal School has had 162 pupils during the past year. The new building recently occupied by the school is one of the best in the country. It is probable that another year will soon be added to the course.

The Paterson (N. J.) Press argues for the abolition of evening schools in that State. It says that since the passage of a compulsory educational law all children may enjoy a common school education in the day schools. To this the Newark Advertiser replies that all the children affected by the compulsory law were to be taken away from the evening schools, there would still be enough left to justify their maintenance. Moreover the studies, it says, are more effectual as a rule than those of the day schools. The pupils are more in earnest, and work with better will and more directness of purpose. The law is not enforced

Both Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier are prepared at 233 and 235 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass. Price of either, $1, five bottles for $5. Gentleman to search of pleiture-sque wives should go to Lorelei, in Italy. The women are dark and lovely. They wear a jaunty costume, consisting of sixteen petticoats on week days and eighteen on Sundays and holidays. These petticoats are all starched and some are very richly trimed with lace and embroidery. A colored shirt is then looped up over these balloon skirts and a slap-bodice confines the waist to its smallest dimensions, over a spotless white chemisette.

Health is impossible when the blood is impure, thick and sluggish, or when it is thin and impoverished. Under such conditions, boils, pimples, headaches, neuralgia, rheumatism, and one disease after another is developed. Take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and it will make the blood pure, rich, warm and vitalizing.

Spectators at a menagerie in Liverpool recently witnessed a thrilling spectacle. A twice tenner endured the cage of a young Arabian lion for the purpose of taming him, although he had been told not to do so. He had no more than entered when the beast sprang and seized him by the head. With great difficulty the tamer was rescued by his keepers, but he had been severely wounded on the head, arm and side.

Fitted out for the season. Dresses, cloaks, coats, stockings and all garments can be colored successfully with the Diamond Dyes. Fashionable colors. Only 10c. at druggists. Wells, Richardson & Co., Burlington, Vt.

An example may be gained from the system of tewerage in Pullman, Ill. The town has no cess pools. Sewers are built to empty into a sunken lake, from which the sewage is pumped through a twenty-inch main to a farm two miles away. The system cost $80 000: the farm yields a profit of $8500 a year.

Ladies are peculiarly subject to Cold Feet. They can find relief in the use of Wilcoxie Magnetic Insoles which are made very thin, suitable for wearing in large shoe. Sold by druggists and shoe dealers. Made to fit all sizes. Price 50 cents.

Professor Burt G. Wilder, of Cornell University, says that a student should never sleep less than eight hours nor study directly after meals.

The only known nerve sedative is Dr. Richmond's Samaritan Nervine, it is without a rival.

"Samaritan Nervine saved our daughter's life," says Alfred Gowell, of Little River, California.

A Chicago commercial traveler stopped in a small village in Northern Michigan he found a notice pinned on the door of a store which read: "Come to bury my wife; will be back in thirty minutes."

Why do you suffer with Back Ache, Pain in the Chest, Rheumatism, Lameness anywhere when a Hop Plaster will surely give you relief. Druggists sell them, 25 cts.

Smoking is permitted in the Laredo, Texas, Opera House during performances. It took those people to invent a great human right, but it is now rock erected to the cause of the age.

My wife used Dr. Graves' Heart Regulator with great relief, it is the only relief from Heart Disease, it cheerfully recommended it.—E. Dunbar, 1st Ave., Mulberry Grove, Ill. $1. per bottle.

The cotomatic signals have contributed largely to defeat the objects of the striking switchmen at St. Louis, and enabled the removal of freight trains with almost as great facility as before.

Much distress and sickness attributed to derangeds and disorders in diarrhœa occasioned by humor in the stomach. Hoodo Sarsaparilla is the remedy.

The new postal notes are coming more and more into use, and the Post Office authorities believe that nearly 4,000,000 of them will be issued. The exchange of perhaps $10,000,000, will be used.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is made of roots, herbs, and barks. It gives tone to the stomach and makes the weak strong. Sold by Druggists.

A boy to Worcester, Mass., advertises that the lady who gave him a $2.50 gold piece—mistaking it for a penny—for holding her horse can get $40 by applying at the Sun office.

Soldiers who have lost their discharge should procure a duplicate by letter to John C. Breder, St. Joseph, Mo. See the advertisement in this paper.

Money in Tourjee is made of lead. A lady writes through the town-ship is coolie, who carries her purse and parcels.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces quiet sleep by quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

The fatal rapidity with which slight Colds and Coughs frequently develop into the gravest maladies of the throat and lungs, is a consideration which should impel every careless person to keep at hand, in a household remedy, a bottle of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

Nothing else gives such immediate relief and wards so sure a cure in all affections of the chest. That eminent physician, Prof. F. Sweteer, of the Maine Medical School, Brunswick, Me., says:—

"Medical science has produced no other remedy so prompt and reliable as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is the best antidote for the diseases of the throat and lungs."

The same opinion is expressed by the Rev. Edward H. J. Addison, of Chicago, Ill., who says:—

"I have used, and, in thirty-five years of ministerial duty, have recommended to others, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, for coughs, colds, hoarseness, bronchitis, and all throat and lung troubles. In not only breaks up colds and cures severe coughs, but is more effective than anything else in relieving even the most serious bronchial and pulmonary affections."

THE "VOTE AT ALL HAZARDS" ARTICLE.

Referring to the article we published some time since under the above caption, the Rev. B. F. Lee, D. C. Bishop, of Cincinnati, Texas, in a letter to the Globe, New York, says;

Now, Mr. Editor, we affirm that there is not a well-informed white or colored editor in the Northern States who would not say that the Southern State and talk in that sort of nonsense.

Let us see. We suppose, of course, the editors already in the South to be as well informed as any at present in the North. Says the editor of the Richmond, Va., Planet;

But mark you, "the mills of the gods grind slowly." This kind of business can't last always; the time is in sight, when, if the negro is mobbed some one else will be mobbed; when the negro is slaughtered, some one else will be slaughtered. It is a law of God fights for those who fight for themselves.

Says the editor of the Petersburg Planet:

If, thoe, the Courts refuse to administer justice to us, if popular sentiment, in the face of our good citizenship, wax more against us, if Congress, through its midnight assasins and cold-blooded murderers persist in intimidating orderly and law-abiding citizens by their heinous and most damnable methods, if the murder of our men and the women are assaulted by mean, sleeking curs of the lowest type, if persuasion will not avail, the last remedy must be resorted to. An eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth.

Says the Louisville Courier, Kentucky Leader, referring to the Yazoo retalliation:

Verily, the "sue do move," and the prediction made by the friends of the negro before his emasciipation and enfranchisement, to wit: that he is a race endued with all the attributes and characteristics of the Irish, is demonstrated at 2:30 P. M. to-day.

Says the People's Advocate, Washington City, referring to the same:

We do not hesitate to say that we heard the above with a feeling akin to grim satisfaction. In view of the numerous bloody tragedies at the South and the daily victims are exclusively colored and the aggressors white, there is some consolation in the fact that occasionally the case is reversed.

But enough. We could multiply them to any extent.

The Southern white man has another grievance, and that is the negro vote. The writer says:

The RECORDER is very pious, and hence cannot say "fight," of course, but it says "vote at all hazards!"

As to the piety of the RECORDER, we have nothing to say. Instead, let us refer to the article in question. We ask, what is the philosophy, or not to use such an ominous word, what is the ominous sense of that "Vote at all Hazards," editorial, for it is perfectly clear that the "vote" has a meaning, and an unapprehended it. The RECORDER recognizes the fact that the community is yet to be discovered among whose people are not to be found various classes, such as the rough and the smooth, the orderly and the disorderly, the good and the bad. These come, in a way, of that own bidding; and as we have said, universally exist; and that, too, despite all class of race or of civilization, or of religion. They are found in white countries and in black countries, in countries enlightened and in countries barbarous, countries Christian and countries unchristian. As a matter of course, these, they are found in our country. Here in Christian America, or to speak more to the point, here in the United States, we have these several classes, and among his varied people; we have white roughs and black roughs, we have white smooths and black smooths; and so of the orderlies and so the disorderlies. Men of these classes are to be found in the ranks of both the races. The burden of our "Vote at all Hazards" article is that the time has fully come when the black rough must meet the white rough; the black disorderly meet the white disorderly. It will not do for our roughs and disorderlies to be like lambs while the white roughs and disorderlies are the wolves. In the country, wolf must meet wolf. Our black pedestrians must be of the Frank Hart kind; our black pugilists like Black Diamond. To suppose otherwise is to suppose the American negro capable of descending to the depths of the rough, without the rough's redeeming quality, even courage. But our roughs are of the right stamp, as the South will learn if it do not stop its crusade of blood.

The RECORDER is pious, we trust, despite the sneer of this brother of TEXAS. But no piety can stop between cases and affect. They who sow to the wind, ply men and share in all that shown man to prefer "freedom rather than light." American humanity, taking it all in all, is quite as pious as the average American Negro in any other land or country. That it has good as English humanity as this show in itself in its treatment of the Irish in India, is absolutely certain, as any one who reads the following will see:

A majority of the native British India disapprove the concordat that has been arranged between the Indian Government and the Anglo-Indian Association, whereby the latter's nominee, a district judge, shall exercise criminal jurisdiction over European British subjects, who shall be entitled to be tried by a majority of European jurors. The concordat also confers the right to convict magistrates, thereby securing the privilege that the rights of Europeans shall be safely guarded by a verdict of men of their own race. The opposition of the natives to the concordat is based upon the ground that it will place them at the mercy of the Europeans rights which British subjects never possessed before, and which similar rights are not to be given to the natives.

We could wish that the scores of young colored men in our city, the majority of whom are fairly educated, could be induced to go South where the fields are ripe for the harvest. Here, some of them bet could get a position as teacher, and so care for themselves and others. We are sure that the few these lines from reading the account of the Freedmen's Convention recently held in Atlanta, Georgia. Our young friend, G. W. Harris, Secretary, Governor of the Territory of Utah. Senator John I. Mitchell writes of the "Tribulations of a Governor," recounting the strenuous efforts of the people of the United States to extinguish the national debt, and contending that it is our imperative duty to help them to accomplish the question, whether we shall have dollars of unequal commercial value in circulation, or be an active partner with "Theological Re-adjustments," the Rev. Dr. J. H. Rylance insists upon the necessity of eliminating from the foregoing theories of belief and from the current teachings of the churches, whether in the pulpit or in the Sunday school, all doctrines and all statements of supposed facts which have been discredited by the advance of exegetical scholarship, and the discoveries of natural science. Senator Henry W. Blair, talking for his theme, "Alcohol in Politics," declares that every line of party politics is corrupted and debased by the liquor traffic, and advocates the submission to the people of an amendment to the United States Constitution prohibiting the manufacture, sale and importation of intoxicating liquors. No one who read in the December Review of Reviews the brief but "Day Gone," Gail Hamilton's incisive review of the domestic life of Thomas Carlyle, will forego the pleasure of perusing the latter from the current number, entitled "Evils Incident to Immigration," by Edward Self, is a forcible statement of the difficulties wrought by the immigration into our social and political life of an enormous annual contingent from Europe. Finally, the subject of "Bribery by Railway Passes" is discussed by Charles Aldrich and Judge N. M. Hubbard. Published at 30 Lafayette Place, New York, and for sale by booksellers generally.

CINCINNATI had her say in regard to the Danville massacre. Among the speakers at the meeting was the son of Rev. T. A. Thompson, pastor of Allen Temple station. We clip from the Commercial an account of the meeting as given in the Colored Patriot:

He emphasized that the interests of the colored people of the country were of more consequence than their sympathized. The people of Danville had been assailed to a certain extent, and what would prevent the assassins and the other amendments? Is the Democratic party to get into power? The American Government at present appears to be ruled by the weak dog, the dog concerning whom there was doubt whether the tail wagged the dog or whether the tail wagged the dog! The tail was the Democratic party. It seems as though in reality the tail wagged the dog! In the days of trial and affliction the American nation had been religious, and in effect declared that the rights of Europeans were secured by a verdict of men of their own race. The opposition of the natives to the concordat is based upon the ground that it will place them at the mercy of the Europeans rights which British subjects never possessed before, and which similar rights are not to be given to the natives.

THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW for January presents a table of contents remarkable to the highest degree the character of contemporary human interest. First, the opposite sides of the question of "Ecclesiastical Control in Utah" are set forth by two representative men, whose competence for the performance of the task undertaken by them respectively admits of no doubt, viz: President John Taylor, the official head of the Mormon Church, and the Hon. Ex. Jill H. Murray, Governor of the Territory of Utah. Senator John I. He is accordingly competent for his task and has performed it with great conscientiousness and accuracy. The work will be a great help to Hebrew students. Mishna text. Professor Schorer, one of the highest authorities in Europe on such matters, speaks of this work in strong words of commendation.

The Rev. Wm. C. Winslow, of Boston, gives, in The Boston Transcript, an account of the work of Egypt Exploration planned by the Egyptian Exploration Fund. Then are: "The absolute identification of the place where Joseph's 'store city' built for Pharaoh under the Oppression, and probably the actual camping place of the Israelites as they went up out of the land of Egypt; and proof that Pithom is the existing name, and Succoth the civil name of the Pithom of Scripture. It was under the founder of Pithom was Rameses II, and that Pithom was his favorite residence, accepted by recent Egyptologists, was the great oppressor of the Hebrews that the Greek and Roman names of the place were derived from the Egyptian appellation for 'storehouse,' and that it was the capital of the 'house' or province of Goshen. The expected discovery that the temple of Rameses II, rebuilt by the Ptolemies, and the Roman Emperors, and finally destroyed by Diocletian, and in the Roman age became a fortified camp. Among the objects and fragments was found what has been called the Rosetta Stone of the Establishment of the same class as the Rosetta Stone, but with only a hieroglyphic text, recording the founding of the city of Ararisse, and giving details of work performed by the canal leading from the Nile to the Red Sea. Among other glorious results of the Egyptian Exploration Fund, for the first time, the original Egyptian name of a locality called Pikehereb, which is identified with the Pi-hahiroth of the Israelites crossed the Red Sea.' The Greek translators are misled by the word, and other constructions yet discovered in Egypt, and the Egyptian name is given in full, some with and some without straw. The prospectus states that "more than 50,000 cubic yards of the sand soil were removed, and goes on to say: 'Before the end of January we hope to have completed the work, and at a comparatively small cost.' We find the fate for the first time secured the exhaustive publication of an Egyptian mound by a scholar thoroughly competent for the task.' The society now purposes to excavate San el Hagar, the Tanis of Scripture and Greeks. It is where the traditional Moses lived, and was reared by Rameses the Great. Mariette Bey, Maspero, the Pharaoh of the Exodus, and both in the same locality. Grant is where to look for documents bearing on the history of the Hebrews during their long sojourn in Egypt, and where monuments of the Israelites' departure may be found. Scarborough had no idea of being thus buried in the last history of the shepherd kings—they are probably of about five hundred years—and where Mariette Bey discovered the remarkable monuments now in the Boulak Museum, which bear the names and the peculiar style of those foreign rulers, portrayed their peculiar type of dress, and given us a better idea of the Hyksos than we have ever had before.

Personal.

—Rev. A. A. Burleigh, pastor of Bethel Church, Detroit, is very ill with typhoid fever. He has been confined more than two weeks. The prayers of the brethren are requested.

—If the A. M. E. Church punish Dr. Steward as he deserves for his smartness in having Bishop Hinden and the Resurrection, he will soon be taken out of the pulpit and seated in a theological chair at Wilberforce University.—Exchange.

—R. C. O. Benjamin, Esq., was on last Friday morning admitted to practice in the Police Courts, the motion for admission having been made by Hon. Edward Allen. Mr. Benjamin, we understand, prove himself a valuable addition to the Philadelphia bar, and a valuable member of which, we are sorry to say, is only two.—Richmond, (Va.) Star.

—On Sunday last, Rev. Jos. Simon a man died at Quesenville, Ind., named Rev. M. M. Smith. He was aged about ninety years, and was a native of Virginia and a Catholic. About thirty-five years ago he had fifteen negroes in the country for his wife. He owned two eighty acre farms and was a man of character and intelligence.—Indianapolis (Ind.) World.

—Zion Chapel has been built up, and the congregation is a large one, its Sunday school numbering largely of the children of the neighborhood. Its members are evidences of prosperity and increased interest in the gospel which is being preached. Its resident pastor is the Rev. D. D. Thomas, who has been instrumental having all the boys they can handle. Rev. John Brooks slaughters every Sunday.

—"The Exodus and other Poems," is the title of a small 12mo. pp. 100. They are emanations from the pen of Rev. T. C. Reade, and published by Walden & Stowe, Cincinnati. In presenting this little volume to the public, we do not understand the writer as claiming any great poetic genius. On the contrary, supposing him to be of the mind that "poetry is born and not made," he is filled with the rapture of admiration, at least with subdued pleasure, we readily agree with him. His greatest failing is the want of harmony or unity in illustration. Canto III, especially, may be referred to. The seventh stanza of Canto IV is a remarkable murder.

—The scholars of the Mount Moriah Day school were treated to presents New Year's day by the teachers and Christmas tree indeed with all sorts of gifts. Nose of the scholars were forgotten. The little ones particularly enjoyed the occasion. The presents were gotten up by the teachers and Rev. J. D. Cargill, the pastor. The Herald acknowledges thanks to Rev. Cargill for the kindly mention given it, and also to the teachers and others for the invitation. Mount Moriah Church has in addition to the day school, under the management of Rev. J. M. Cargill.—The Annapolis Herald.

—Rev. W. J. Gaines, of Atlanta, made a good speech. He said he was glad to see the State of Georgia had done much in the cause of education. He was thankful for that and prayerful for more. He said while the colored people were talking education they should help the cause by going down in their pockets and assisting the old State. To help themselves, for the gods help those who help themselves. He advised a friendly feeling toward the white people. It was the worse class of the whites and not the better class who opposed the education of the negro. He urged the colored men to have more self-respect. If they must steal to steal like a white man—enough to get out—and not to get laughed at by a chicken or a shoto and have to go off on preliminary in handcuffs.—Exchange.

Missionary Items.

The Roman Catholic Missionaries in China need to buy up Chinese babies with postage stamps, and put them in the Sunday School, or nurture them after they trained in the faith. It appears that they are receiving a far more obedient class of converts than the Protestants. Of course, that female infants should be saved and educated to grow up to be Christian women, is a thing to be considered to death by that Union Bethel ship, which, in the wise judgment of the Bishop of the conference, "ought to manage the work as best I could, just as any of the Methodist preachers would do on any circuit in the Baltimore Conference. But, unluckily, the lot fell upon me; but, thank God, I am not afraid of the work, for I have had a hard and unpleasant task. I prefer the work to that of duty. I have persuaded the majority of your brethren to be satisfied with the social and moral wrongs, and for the protection of those wrongs the way is fixed, whereby we are taken to labor for bring them to a knowledge of the truth. We are not surprised that we feel deeply interested in the welfare and safety of the Rescue Mission, and that we have the objects of so much successful missionary labor at heart. Please accept as a proof of our respect for you and our love to you, that we collect your aid on their behalf. We feel sure that your good office may be in your power may be put forth successfully to help the Christian work among them may not be hindered by lawless men."

BRETHREN.—Please forward to my address whatever of Dollar Money you may have collected for me, and if you have not, you have some money! Take up your money and send it to me that I can give some one need to those who are dependent on this Conference fund, send us the money. We need it; we want it. Who will send first

Our thanks are due Rev. W. B. Carter for a 224 subscription to the CHRISTIAN RECORDER for the North East Texas Conference, and to Rev. Jno. Amos & Williams for $19 98, collected from the two Arkansas Conferences as bills sent from our office to those Conferences for collection. We sent bills amounting to about $40 to each Conference. Nineteen dollars and ninety-eight cents is all we have received in cash, but the bills have been returned to us with no reason assigned why they were not paid. We send our monthly statements to the brethren month after month and from numbers receive not a money or complaint of bills not being correct, and then we send them to the conference with the hope that the conference will do its duty and appoint a committee to examine into the affairs of the D partment and report on the same. If we send bills that are not correct write us them and inform us of the same, and if they are correct the brethren ought to see that we are paid. We pay their bills. I hope Brother Williams will tell us why the bills were not paid. If our bills are not correct we want them corrected, and if we are correct them. If correct we think they ought to be paid. The sooner we come down to business the better. If things are to go on in this state, the sooner we close up the better. If we operate I shall state some plain facts to the General Conference if I don't have before.

THE MORAL OF IT.

We may moralize as much as we please about pain; but the fact is, that we don't like it while it lasts, and that we want to get rid of it as soon as we can. Whether caused by rheumatism, gout, disordered liver, weak nerves, irregular kidneys, bad blood, or anything else that is just the reverse of what it should be, the sooner it is out of the system the happier we shall be. Whether pain is the result of imprudence or of accident, or is sent as a punishment for our sins, we want it to go. Whether pain is a disease or a symptom; but people who are suffering want first to be rid of the pain, and they are fond of saying that what most may argue the matter to their heart's content.

Above all theory, argument, and philosophy, comes the delightful fact that BROWN'S IRON BITTERS drives pain away. Sufferers run no risk in trying this medicine, the only compound containing iron which carries no mischief with it. Those who use it are well and will tell you so; and you can try for yourself by buying a bottle of the nearest druggist.

PRESS ON

Press on! there's no stuck word so full,
Press on! there's no goal in near—
Absorbed to the immortal throat the gale!
Look upward, onward—never fear!
Why should we doubt Him? Heaven smiles above,
Through storm and vapor luminous;
That sun shines on, though cloudy seems
Seriously o'er life's shadowed scene.

Press on! surmount the rocky steep,
Climb boldly! there is no eternity;
He fails alone who feebly creeps!
He who who cleres the steep attains,
He climbs a hero! let thy might Ramp on eternal crowns its way,
And through the clean walls of night
Hew a passage into day!

Press on! if once or twice thy feet
Slip back and stumble, harder try!
From high to higher still repeat
Danger and death, they're sure to fly.
To onward ranks the battle speeds;
While on their breasts the victor's meed,
Gleams, guerdon of eldnight deeds,
Bright coronals of fame!

Press on! if fortune play thee false
To-day, to-morrow she'll be true;
Whom noon of life sees sad, eve calls
Taking old gifts and granting new.
The wisdom of experience
Makes up for follies past and gone.

Press on! and reach the goal,
And gain the prize! Thou shalt, thou must!
Faint not! for to the steadfast soul
Come wealth and honor and renown,
To thine own self be true, and keep
The noble in it manly as thou hast from soul
Press on! and thou shalt surely reap
A heavenly harvest for thy toil.

INDUSTRIAL TRAINING FOR THE NEGRO.

BY R. H. HAMILTON, Esq.

Special training to create skilled labor is just as much a need of our people. Skilled labor is at the foundation of the prosperity of all races. The negro needs not to be told that he needs labor; he does need to be taught to think as to the value of labor, and to love to labor.

As a producer of raw material the country owes as much to him as to any other class. He needs to know how to make the most of this opportunity. At times rest, when he was not required to think, but to perform an unskilled and mechanical like, little thought was necessary. The skilled laborer when he must think as well as act; must have a knowledge of the principles of labor, and exercise accuracy.

One who spends from four to eight years in school wishes to occupy himself in the business for which he is prepared. Educate a man for a physician, and you cannot expect him to go to the brickyards to teach school. If he has the will to go he would in all probability make a failure. Educate a man for a minister and you have a man who is destitute of sympathy, with the lowest people he is trying to teach, he fails to gain their confidence, hence he has lost his greatest element of success. It is the same for a lawyer, a doctor, a teacher.

The author presents the doctrine of Christian holiness in so clear a manner, that it commends itself to every candid person who reads this book to misunderstand.—Bishop Charlotte.

"I have read, with great satisfaction, FERGUSON'S Key to Holiness. It is sound, sensible, in my judgment, it will do good wherever read."—Bishop Foss.

"It breathes a scholarly spirit, and must commend itself to intelligence upon the church and the world. I have read it, and I esteem it."—Rev. T. Davies.

"This is a treatise on Christian perfection that I am conversant with. I cheerfully recommend it."—Rev. T. B. Ackerman.

"This work is one of the very best I have ever seen. The readers answers given to almost every conceivable question that can be asked on the subject of holiness. In ordinary minds as this will be a work of rare merit."—Rev. J. Wallace.

"I have read and re read this book (PERFECT LOVE) with increasing satisfaction, and commend it to the reader."—Rev. A. Holmes.

"The author's devotion glows on every page, while it casts triumphantly each of the objections that have been urged against the doctrine. It is sufficiently a book for the times."—Rev. D. W. Carhart.

"This is the best exposition of the doctrine of holiness that I have ever seen. It is a book for the people, and should be read by them."—Rev. G. J. Hubbard.

TIME IS MONEY.

Time and money will be saved by keeping Kidney-Wort in the house. It is an invincible remedy for all disorders of the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, and for all diseases arising from obstructions of these organs. It has cured many obstinate cases after hundreds of dollars had been paid to physicians without obtaining relief. It cures Constipation, Piles, Hemorrhoids and all kindred disorders. Keep it by you.

Because a man desires to treat another with respect, is no reason why he should be treated with disdain. The disposition manifested, though it may not be regarded as wisely directed, should at least conciliate favor, and receive respectful recognition.

Burdock's Diseases of the Kidneys, Diabetes and other Diseases of the Kidneys and Liver, which you are being so frightened about, Hop Bitters is the only thing that will surely and permanently prevent and cure. All other pretended cures are only prizes for a time and thee make you many times worse.

There is nothing more to be esteemed than a manly firmness and decision of character. I like a person who knows his own mind and sticks to it; who sees at once what is to be done in given circumstances and does it.

Ayer's Hair Vigor improves the beauty of its hair and promotes its growth, and imparts an attractive appearance, a delightful and lasting perfume. While it stimulates the roots, cleanses the scalp, and adds elegance to luxuriance, its effects are enduring; and it is proven itself to be the best and cheapest article for toilet use.

Life is made up not of great sacrifices and duties, but of little things, in which smiles and kindness, and small obligations, given habitually, are what is and preserve the heart and secure confidence.

My mother began gaining from first dose she took of Dr. Graves' Heart Regulator. A red rose has returned to her cheeks, her heart now, the relief is permanent, other remedies only helped for a few minutes.—Miss Clara Bradt, Lawton, Mich. $1. per bottle at druggists.

Who hath a greater conflict than he that laboreth to overcome himself? This ought to be our endeavor, to conquer ourselves and daily grow stronger and to make a further growth in holiness.

Serious disorders often follow when one constantly has cold feet. Wear the Wilcoxen Magnetic Insoles and keep the feet warm. They prevent Chills, Colds and Sore Throats. Price 50 cents Sold by druggists and the dealers.

A man's own conscience is his sole tribunal; and he should care no more for that phantom "opinion" than he should fear a ghost, a ghost, if he cross the churchyard at dark.

I HAVE SUFFERED FOR YEARS from chronic catarrh. I tried Ely's Cream Balm. Got the first application. Since then I have already resorted to an almost entire cure.—S. M. Greene, book-keeper, Oatskill, N. Y.

Not so much brilliant sermons, but the telling of the story of what great things Christ has done for us, is what is needed.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the most potent blood purifier, and a fountain of health and strength, to their patients. All bowel infections are promptly removed by this unequalled alterative.

The living Christian—pure of heart and ensigned by the world's Redeemer—preacher of the Gospel in these days.

Are you Bilious? Try the remedy that cured Mrs. Clement of Pracklin, N. H.—Sold by Sarsaparilla, made in Lowell, Mass.

We are oftentimes happier in giving up our will to others, than we would be in having our own way.

Soldiers who have lost their discharge should procure a duplicate. Write John C. Hedley, St. Louis, Mo. See the advertisement in this paper.

The strength of the church lies not in the oratory of the pulpit, but in the oratory of the closet.

Hoodi's Sarsaparilla is an extract of the best remedies of the vegetable kingdom known as Alteratives, and Blood Purifiers.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by the relief the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty five cents a bottle.

BRETHREN.—Please forward to my address your Conference Minutes as soon as you have on hand, as I need them to have my history complete. Take up your money and send it to me at once. Do not be afraid to those who are dependent on the Church. Send me what you have collected. We need it, we want it. Who will send them? J. W. ANNETT, Financial Sec.

Our thanks are due Rev. W. H. Carson for $24 subscription to the CHRISTIAN RECORDER for the North East Texas Conference. Also to Rev. Amos A. Williams for $19 98, collected from the two Arkansas Conferences on bills sent from our office to those conferences for collection. We sent bills amounting to about three hundred dollars. Nineteen dollars and ninety-eight cents is all we have received in cash, but the bills have been returned to us with no reason assigned why they were not paid. We send out our monthly statements to the brethren month after month and from a number receive no money or complaint of bills not being correct, and then we send them to the conference with the hope that the conference will do the duty and appoint a committee to examine into the affairs of the Department and report on the same. If we send bills that are not correct write on them and inform us what is incorrect; if they are correct the conference ought to see that brethren pay their bills. I hope Brother Williams will tell us why the bills were not paid. If our bills are not correct we are anxious to know it so we may correct them. If correct we think they ought to be paid. The sooner we come down to business the better. If things are to go on in this state, the sooner we close up the better. If my life is spared I shall state some plain facts to the General Conference I don't honor be-lous.

IS YOUR LIVER WORTH A DOLLAR?

Perhaps that seems a high price for it, considering how poor your blood is, and how your whole system is prostrated, debilitated, and enfeebled. People have been heard to say, under such circumstances, that they would not give the toss of a copper for the choice between life and death. But when it comes to actually drawing near the grave, a man naturally draws back, and says he does not want to die. Life is very precious, and even to a broken-down man it is worth saving.

One dollar will buy a bottle of Hackwell's Iron Bitters. That one dollar may start you on the road from misery to recovery. A man must take a very hazy view of himself who is not willing to invest that much in making one serious effort to rescue himself from drowning and with the help it gives to the enjoyment of solid health. Hackwell's Iron Bitters vitalizes the blood, tones the nerves, and rebuilds the system. Its work is well known. Invest that dollar in a bottle.

The New & Revised Edition OF THE

Underground Railroad,

By WILLIAM STILL,

With a Life of the Author.

A large, handsomely printed book, richly illustrated, containing the thrilling facts which attended the operation of The Underground Railroad, during the struggle for Freedom, together with the hairbreadth escapes and heroic incidents connected therewith, in the trials of fugitives from Slavery, whether publicly known or hitherto concealed from history.

These records were gathered mainly from the lips of the fugitives themselves, by the Chairman of the Philadelphia Vigilance Committee, and many of them were taken down from their statements by him, at the very moment of their reception, and are therefore entitled to the fullest confidence as to their truthfulness. Many of the actors in these scenes, whose wonderful adventures are here recorded, are still living, and can vouch for the truth of what is here published. Others have been dead for years, and cannot therefore be injured by the narration of facts in which they were the principal actors. Many of the incidents were related by the fugitives themselves, in their own homes, while escaping from their pursuers, and were committed to writing at the time, and thus preserved from the treacherous memory. Others were written out from the statements of fugitives, who, after reaching Canada, were induced to write their own narratives, and in many instances sent them back to the Committee for revision and correction. Thus, in almost every case, the original record has been preserved, and the narrative is given in the very words of the fugitive himself.

These records were carefully taken from the Minute Books of the Committee, and from the original manuscripts of fugitives themselves, now deceased. They are therefore entitled to the fullest confidence as to their truthfulness. The whole constitutes a work of thrilling interest, whose wonderful adventures, startling incidents, and heroic struggles for Freedom, will be read with avidity by every one who can get hold of it. Its pages contain many a tale of heroism and suffering, which will stir the blood of the reader like a trumpet call, and make him thank God that he lives in a land where Slavery is no more.

HARD TO BELIEVE.

It is hard to believe that a man was cured of K dney disease after he had was swollen as big as a barrel and he had been given up as incurable and left at death's door. Yet such a case was accomplished by Kidney-Wort in the person of M M. Dyerenr of Ionia Mich , who says: "After thirteen of the best doctors in Detroit had given me up, I was cured by Kidney Wort. I want every one to know what a boon it is."

A loving heart and a pleasant countenance are commodities which a man should never fail to take home with him.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE, DIABETES.

Beware of the stuff that pretends to cure these diseases or other serious Kidney, Urinary or Liver Diseases, unless only relieve for a time and make you ten times worse afterwards, but rely solely on Hop Bitters, the only remedy that will surely and permanently cure you. It destroys and removes the cause of disease so effectually that it never returns.

Before a man can be manly, the gifts that make him so must be collected by life's labor, unconsciously, as are his bones, his flesh and his blood.

Ayer's Pills cure constipation, improve the appetite, promote digestion, cure headache, and regulate and regenerate every function. They are pleasant to take, gentle in their operation, yet thorough, searching, and powerful in subduing disease.

It has been shrewdly said that when man sins, he should consort ourselves, and when they praise a sea, respect them.

In addition to being a positive discomfort, Catarrh predisposes to Coughs and Colds. Keep the feet warm with Wells's Magnetic Insoles. Sold by druggists and shoe dealers. Price 50 cents. Made to fit all sizes. Insoles for ladies are very little.

Good manners is the art of making those people easy with whom we converse. Whoever makes the fewest persons uneasy is in the best treed in the company.

Sprains, Bruises, Pains and Stiffness, Weak Back or Diseases of the spine will be immediately relieved on application of St Jacobs Oil, and a permanent cure be effected. It's prompt, safe and sure. It is wonderful. Warranted to do the first made.

The superiority of soma men is merely local. They are great because their associates are of a little.

Lydia E. Pinkham's great Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., is turning out millions of packages of her celebrated Compound, which are being sold to do for windows and actually find their way to all lands under the sun and to the remotest confines of modern civilization.

When we bow our hearts before God's throne, let us remember that there is a something whose name is the heavier than ones, whose grave is fuller, whose hopes are weaker, whose disappointments are greater.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla, being highly concentrated r quires a smaller dose, and is more effectual, than any other blood purifier. It is the cheapest, because the best. Quality and quantity should be considered.

Doctores are of use only as they are practiced; men may go to perdition with their heels full of truth.

Good health is the greatest of fortunes; no remedy or other restored this prize to the suffering, as Hoo.'s Sarsaparilla.

How much better it 's that he should speak ill of me to all the world, than all the world speak ill of me to him!

How can we remain a sufferer from dyspepsia when we are becoming impatient on that they cannot perform the natural healthy functions. Our constitutional treatment is developed to assist nature in restoring all the digestive energies, from the mouth to the peristaltic, and counteract its baneful effects on the vital organs and on the blood.

Do Not Trifle With Disease.

We have the only known certain and reliable method for the cure of Nasal Catarrh, Throat and Lung disease; it is regarded by the best of judges as being the most complete treatment ever devised. Indeed, there does not appear to be anything lacking in its perfect adaptation to these diseases in all their loathsome, painful and dangerous developments. Such cases it controls and cures, both certainly and the whole treatment compounded to meet the wants of each individual case. To this fact alone many of our success due, and we think no case is treated when our questions are properly answered. Fifteen years of constant practice with thousands of patients all over the country have enabled us to bring the application of our Remedies to the highest point of perfection. Do not trifle then with some cheap or so called "sure cure," when at best can afford but temporary relief, (while the roots of the vile disease are left in the deeper and deeper) but go to it earnest and be thorough or do nothing! You have been years developing the disease; you cannot be rid of it a day, or with one application of any medicine.

The Experience of Others

The record is a guarantee that Child's' Treatment for Catarrh and all diseases of the Head, Throat and Lungs is not a new and untried, but a positive and certain remedy. We, above all things, desire to establish confidence in our treatment, so that every sufferer from Catarrh, Bronchitis and their effects on the Lungs and other Vital Organs, may feel certain of success in its use.

Only Fair have the opportunity to ascertain whether we are able to accomplish all that we claim, and for this purpose we add a few of the many thousands of unsolicited certificates which have been received from a grateful patient —almost any of whom will cheerfully respond to any inquiry by letter, if accompanied by a stamp for reply. Having facts and figures to back them, they will be willing to let the afflicted know where they can find certain relief. We have the hundreds of these certificates from all diseases—physicians, clergymen, lawyers, judges, merchants, bankers, business men, farmers, young women and old, children and grandparents.

Do you take cold easily? Have you a cold in the head that does not get better? Have you a hacking cough? Is your throat affected? Are you troubled with hoarseness? Soreness of the throat? Difficulty in breathing? Have you pain in the head between and above the eyes? A sense of fullness in the head? Are the passages of the nose stopped up? Is your breath foul? Have you lost all sense of smell? Are you troubled by hawking? Spitting? Weak, inflamed eyes? Dizziness or dullness of the head? Dryness of the nose? Is your voice hoarse or rough? Have you any difficulty in talking? Have you an excessive secretion of mucus or nasality in the nasal passages, which must either be blown from the nose, or drop back into the throat, or be hawked or sniffed backward to the throat? Ringing or roaring or other noises in the ears, more or less impairment of hearing?

If so, you have Catarrh.

Some have all these symptoms, others only a part. Some of these symptoms indicate Catarrh, the disease has passed from the head and has attacked the throat and bronchial tubes, and is affecting the lungs and other vital organs of the body, and unless the disease is stopped, its ravages will affect and endanger the life. In most cases Catarrh is only a local disease, and requires only local treatment. But in old or neglected cases the whole system becomes poisoned by the disease and then constitutional treatment is necessary to assist in expelling it from the organization.

Some Bad Symptoms.

The long continued corruption of the air that is breathed passing over the foul matter in the nasal passages, poisons the blood as it circulates through the lungs. The morbid matter that is swallowed during sleep, passes into the stomach, engenders dyspepsia, causing nausea, sometimes the severest vomiting. Constipation of the bowels, with its long train of horrors, is the very foundation of disease. The patient becomes feverish occasionally, there is less buoyancy of spirits, the appetite often fickle, the head has a dull, heavy pain, and last clear, it is difficult to keep the eyes open to the old stands of, and often without knowing it what is conscious that he is not as well all the time as he used to be. These symptoms indicate that the system is becoming impaired on that they cannot perform their natural healthy functions. Our constitutional treatment is developed to assist nature in restoring all the digestive energies, from the mouth to the peristaltic, and counteract its baneful effects on the vital organs and on the blood.

Are You Sure It Is Consumption?

Many thousands fully believe they or their friends are being hurried toward the grave by that terrible disease Consumption, and are being treated for Consumption, when they have only CATARRH in some of its many types; the symptoms in many forms of both diseases are quite similar and can easily be mistaken. Catarrh, unalarming in its character, and so apt to begin, neglected, develops serious and, in time, poisons the vitai organs, until it finally is no longer "ONLY CATARRH," but some disease that gives but little hope of health or life. We do not claim to cure Consumption, but are fully convinced from the results of our daily practice that we can save and restore to health many who now feel their case to be hopeless.

Danger · Signals.

The symptoms of Catarrh are numerous, but the following are the most frequent: Dullness, Headache, Obstruction of the Nasal Passages, Discharges falling from the Head into the Throat, Sometimes Profuse, Sometimes Scanty, Offensive or Not, Scabs Forming in the Nasal Passages, Voice Changed and Nasal, Eyes Weak and Watery, Ringing Noises in the Ears, Deafness, Partial Loss of Hearing, Breath Offensive, Smell Impaired, Taste Impaired, Mucus Collecting in the Throat, Expectoration Frequently Bloody, Pain in the Forehead, Dizziness, Mental Depression, Loss of Memory, Sore Throat, Hawking and Spitting to Clear the Throat, Scabs Appearing on the Outside of the Nostrils, Hacking Cough, Indigestion, Pain in the Chest, Shortness of Breath, Wasting of Flesh, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Chilliness, Fever, Consumption.

AYER'S PILLS,

The Best Cathartic Known to Medical Science,

Not only promptly, thoroughly, and easily relieve the bowels, but restore tone to the stomach, free the kidneys, and reinvigorate the liver. They perfectly and permanently cure Indigestion and Constipation, and all the diseases proceeding from those causes. One or two AYER'S PILLS taken daily after dinner, will be a safeguard against all intestinal irregularities and biliousness, and will stimulate the digestive functions better than any other medicine.

Physicians Prescribe and Patients Praise Them.

The New & Revised Edition
OF THE
Underground Railroad,
By WILLIAM STILL,
With a Life of the Author.

A large, handsomely printed volume, containing the narrative of fugitives, with engravings of the most remarkable incidents connected with the escape of many of the passengers, and the perils of the conductors of the line.

These records were faithfully taken from the lips of the fugitives themselves, and generally penned down at the moment the thrilling incidents were related. Many of the statements were made by those who were entire strangers to the author, and who had escaped from bondage by their own unaided efforts, and who had come to Philadelphia, the nearest station to the North, on the underground line. Hence, the reader may rely upon the truthfulness of the narratives as being strictly true to the letter.

The work is now published in a large octavo volume of 800 pages, with numerous engravings, and is for sale at the following reduced prices:

SYMPATHY WITH THE CROSS.

The prejudices of the human heart against Christ are nowhere so plainly seen as refusing to sympathies with Him in His terrible sufferings and sufferings to which he was unjustly subjected. We read of the unjust sufferings of others and we can pity and even to tears. And this notwithstanding we may know many of them to be purely imaginary. And how our sympathy goes out for the unfortunate, whether by land or sea. Within the past week the heart of the whole nation has been touched by the loss of the "City of Columbus," as she was threading her way out to sea amidst the rocks of the Massachusetts coast. And so it is generally, we can and do sympathize with all sufferers, save only Him who was the greatest sufferer of all, even this man of the Cross. Toward Him we look with eyes unsoftened and with hearts untouched. And this, too, despite the fact that it was without the shadow of excuse. For the murderer the law itself set forth no even sympathize. But for Jesus, who died the just and for the unjust, we can not. Why this coldness? What can it be? Manifestly the only rational explanation to be given is found in the fact of man's depraved state; his direct and positive hatred to God; his preference of darkness to light. With this in view we are enabled to account for him having no sympathy for Christ in His

If you do not want the paper, send on your arrears, and order it stopped. You can not pay before you can compel the Manager to stop or throw the responsibility on him. If this is true in a local paper, then, of course, church members and officers could be churched for not paying their subscription to the CHRISTIAN RECORDER as for cases of debt as any other fund. To save the Publisher any such trouble will not the hundreds of members and officers and ex members who are in arrears please go to the Post-office and get a postal card. It will only cost you three cents to send your subscription to us, even if you do owe for two years as you do with a number. I am preparing a list of those who are indebted to the Department, whether for subscription, books or merchandise, to present to the coming General Conference. If they are not paid before, I hope the General Conference will pass a law authorizing the Committee out of all accounts contracted previous to 1884, and appointing a collector who legal and secular, pastoral power, and compel those who refuse or delay by his church papers as they would not think of doing to any other paper in the country, that is, not pay for it, and many seem to act as if they do not intend to pay. We have never had the RECORDER going in spite of all the hindrances thrown in our way, which was many. Only three months now, and my report will close for the quadrennial and then we will see why the CHRISTIAN RECORDER does not bring success.
